At Mark street Methodist Church in the evening Rev. C. A. Meyers, B. A., Secretary of the Sunday Schools of the Presbyterian Church in Canada preached an eloquent sermon dealing with the subject of reconstruction. In his address he emphasized the fact that the essential feature of this is to be religion. Industrial reconstruction political reform of even a godly moral programme is not sufficient. From a standpoint of materialism it is possible to drift into a Prussianism. Religion, is the chief point in reconstruction and the work of Christ is the key to the situation.

SPECIAL MEETINGS AT S. A. TEMPLE

The first of the series of special holiness services commenced yesterday morning when Mrs. Adjutant Buntin took for her subject "Stones." The speaker said that there are three things by which stones are noted: their beauty, value and durability. She then showed how the Christian life may also have these qualities. In an opposite way stones may be a great hindrance, as when the farmer has to remove them from his ground before he can cultivate it. So, in a Christian's life there may be stones that are an hindrance.

In the afternoon Adjutant Buntin spoke on "Coal." In his talk, also, the Adjutant brought out the qualities and uses of coal, and likened them to different phases of the Christian career.

At night a very forcible address was given on "My vision and the Outcome." The meetings altogether were very useful in bringing to Christian and sinner alike their duty to God and their fellow man.

Mining Company Has Head Office In Peterborough

Mine in Hastings County is to Be Developed

Cowain Fluorite Mining Company with head offices in the Royal Bank building Peterborough, has received letters of incorporation from the Provincial Secretary. The capital stock is $100,000 in one thousand shares of $100 each.

The incorporators of the company are Mr. E. J. Cowain of Tweed, a mining engineer; Mr. R. J. Munro of the Munro House, this city; Miss Margaret J. Heffernan of Peterborough, Mr. E. A. Peck and Mr. V. J. McElderry, of the legal firm of Peck, Kerr and McElderry.

The mining rights are situated in Huntingdon Township, Hastings County. This property will be developed immediately by installing an up-to-date plant and sinking a shaft six feet by ten feet.

While proceeding with this development work the output will be about one car per week, and when development is completed, six to eight cars per week.

The cost of plant and development work has been estimated at from $18,000 to $20,000.

The latest quotations on fluorspar show good prices and zinc is worth six to eight cents a pound. Already a superior grade of zinc has been uncovered.

The present directors are:

W. R. Cowain, President, Peterborough, Ont.

R. J. Munro, Vice-President, Peterborough, Ont.

W. F. MacDonald, Secretary-Treasurer, Peterborough, Ont.

E. J. Cowain, Manager-Director, Crookston, Ont.

Jas. Murphy, Assistant Secretary, Tweed, Ont.

W. R. Morris, Auditor, Peterborough, Ont.

ONTARIO COUNTY AND SCENIC HIGHWAY

Whitby Chronicle:—Reeve Stonehouse, seconded by Mr. Pascoe, of East Whitby, introduced a resolution dealing with the project of a great scenic route from Toronto via Whitby and Port Perry through the Kawartha Lakes, Muskoka and Algonquin Park, returning by the west shore of Lake Simcoe. It has been proposed by the Lindsay municipal authorities who were the initiators of the scheme in an appeal for assistance to the councils of the communities interested that the Ontario Government be requested to designate it as part of the system of provincial highways. Mr. Stonehouse, in order that he might find out fully what was proposed, motored to Lindsay and conferred with the Council there. They informed him that it was Sir Sam Hughes who was behind the project. He has a half million dollar ranch, and a hundred thousand dollar summer home in the region to be traversed by this scenic road. They approved the scheme, but rather favored a provincial county road through the country from Whitby northerly to the Muskoka lakes where the higher class road might be justified. The motion of Mr. Stonehouse set out the addition of the road from Oshawa-on-the-lake north through Oshawa, Columbus and Raglan to a juncture with the road from Whitby, thus constituting the Oshawa end as a second leg to the body. The whole would be classed as a provincial county road. The motion was referred to the Advisory committee.

A Deputation From Lakefield

Want a New Concrete Dam in the Northern Village

The following letter from Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., is addressed to Mayor Duncan and the City Council:

House of Commons,
Ottawa, March 1st, 1919.

The Mayor and Council of Peterborough, Peterborough, Ont.:

Gentlemen—

Re Lakefield Dam,

Yesterday a deputation from Lakefield visited the Minister, accompanied by Mr. Dickson Davidson, asking the Minister to hurry up and build the new concrete dam at Lakefield.

It developed during the day from conversations with the Minister, that this new concrete dam would add tremendously to the value of the present holdings of water privileges at the dam.

If Peterborough or Lakefield bestirs itself, it can have Hydro expropriate at their present value these water privileges, which would mean that when the new dam is built, which will be soon, the public will have acquired for nothing probably a hundred thousand dollars' worth of improvements to the power privileges, which will go to private owners if the municipalities do not bestir themselves.

I wired you on Saturday and wired this Hydro and also Lakefield to the same effect in the hope that this splendid opportunity to acquire water privileges at a cheap rate, before their speculative value is immensely added to at the public expense may be taken advantage of.

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

TWO CHIMNEY FIRES OVER WEEK-END.

Two chimney fires called out the fire brigade on Saturday. At seven minutes to two o'clock at noon the brigade was called to extinguish a blaze at the home of Mr. W. Hudgins, 39 Lansdowne Avenue.

Another chimney fire at the home of Mr. E. Wise, 106 Ware Street, was extinguished at 12.23 p.m. The damage in both cases was small.

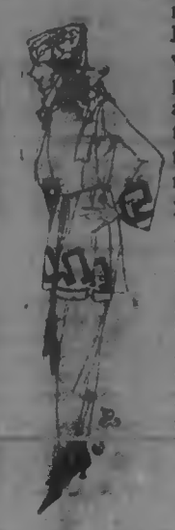
OF WHICH FASHION APPROVES.

They exploit the Picturesque Bloused Coat, the Jaunty Little Box Coat, and the Tailored and rather Mannish Coat. All being accompanied, however, by a narrow and longer skirt.



There's a chic and a freshness to the new suits which are well nigh irresistible. It may be only in a vest, in a slightly raised waist-line, in a high collar, very obvious pockets, a long fringed sash, or it may be in a waisted cut-away coat, that you will find their particular charm. Suffice to say, it is there with such appealing lines, this year, more than it has been for many years, and you just can't get away from it.

—A very attractive example is a suit of navy blue serge. Its box coat is emphasized by rows of wide black silk braid around bottom of coat. It is slit at the sides and has a smart little vest of rajah silk. A plain tailored skirt completes this good-looking model. The prite..... $60.00

—With waist-line slightly raised and of a tailored, mannish style, is a suit of black and white check, in a small pattern. It is bound at edges with narrow black silk braid and the plainness is relieved with a trim of small black buttons. Price, moderately, at..... $45.00

—Navy serge very smartly fashions another suit of a limited model. Made with paneled back trimmed with buttons, tight sleeves, narrow shaped collar and a separate vest of an elegant pattern of foulard silk. The skirt is quite plain, long and narrow. The price $55.00

CAPT. BURNHAM TALKS ABOUT MINIMUM WAGE

Member for West Peterborough Discusses His Resolution in Debate on Speech From the Throne —Gives His Views on Present Industrial Situation.

WHAT HE PROPOSES

In the debate in the House of Commons the other day, Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., discussed the minimum wage resolution of which he has given notice. Hansard reports his speech as follows:

I wish, with your permission, Mr. Speaker, to turn to something more important. The chief question now before this country, and, indeed, before the world, is reconstruction. I will, however, confine myself to one phase of that, namely, to the standard of living, to the living wage, to that wage which the lowest, simplest form of honest labour should receive in order that it may maintain the standard of life to which we all agree it is entitled. The wage earner has evolved from a long historic past. In the early days of England he was a member of the family, when the work performed by the family was done in the family. By and by he became a member of the clan, when the work was done by the clan by the blood relations. Afterwards this was extended to the guild, to those associations of men who united for the purpose of prosecuting industry. And so it advanced from time to time until the period of the plague in England in 1346-47, when nearly one-half of the people of England died of the plague, and this so upset the industrial conditions of England at that time that the labourer as he was known then, wandered in an unorganized and indefinite way over the country so much so that the Statute of Labourers was enacted which compelled him to root himself once more to one spot and to confine his exertions to that area and which also compelled him to accept a certain wage. As time went on, however, the consideration of the people for each other changed. What was regarded as strictly an economic question dawned upon the people as an ethical question. It was not so much a question of poverty as it was a question of life, and it has grown to be that more and more, so that we have today in England, in France, even in the United States, in Australia and in New Zealand, legislation of a character that has gone very far in elevating the condition of what is known as the common people. Canada unfortunately hitherto lagged far behind. The reason of that is no doubt that we are a young country with great natural resources and much prosperity due largely to our abundance. That has probably not yet caused a condition which would warrant the measures that have been made use of in the older countries; but if the seeds of poverty, if the seeds of disintegration are here, it only requires time to bring them into growth and it is well for us to provide against such a contingency by learning from the experience of other people. The most singular thing is that in a country like England, of such Conservative tendencies, there should have been such haste to remedy the errors of the past.

The British people are, of course, a kindly, well-intentioned people, and so soon as it was brought home to them that it was necessary for them to improve the condition of the people, and to show some interest in them, they hastened to do so. We had, first of all, the Notification of Births' Act in 1907, by which for the first time in England it was compulsory, in all cases of births, for notice to be sent to the district medical officer, in order that registration might duly occur and some notice be taken of the birth. This had the effect of enabling the medical official, and through him the Government, to know exactly the condition in which those children were born, and to render the children and the mothers some assistance. This worked a miracle in England. Thousands and tens of thousands of children who would have died at this period, through neglect and ignorance were for the first time taken care of by an intelligent Goverment.

To Education Act.

Then there was the Education Act, another far-reaching Act, under which the school children in the cities were provided for the first time with play grounds for breathing spaces. Then we had the system of national insurance, insuring people against unemployment, against under employment. I am citing these measures simply to show how very attentive the British people are at the present time to the elevation of the common people from the low standard of life at which they have lived for so long. It is recognized now for the first time that the common people—the unskilled labourer, the man who is compelled to take what he can get—are entitled to something better. The lowest form of honest labour, if it is to be recognized at all and it surely must be recognized, ought to receive some consideration on the ethical basis of a proper standard of life.

I have here a report of the American Federation of Labour which represents the most intelligent ideas of labour in America and, very largely, the ideas of labour the world over. Their ideas are summed up as follows:

"There is no such thing as good wages without the cost of living in decency and comfort equalling the wages received. There must be no reduction in wages; in many instances wages must be increased. The workers of the nation demand a living wage for all wage earners, skilled or unskilled, a wage which will enable the worker and his family to live in health and comfort, provide a competence for illness and old age, and afford to all the opportunity of cultivating the best that is in them."

It seems strange indeed that anybody should rise in this House and endeavour to call the attention of hon. members to the simple principle here enunciated. The principle, it is true, has been acknowledged in theory, has been made use of in disquisitions in the pulpit, but beyond that it has not been made use of at all. The principle of a living wage, of a decent standard of life for the lowest form of honest labour, has never yet been recognized in this country as necessary recompense of all forms of labour, but when that day comes it will mean something new for labour. It will mean hope. There is nothing unreasonable in the contention of labour, because once this zero mark has been ascertained, they are quite willing that labour above and beyond that mark shall be allowed to take care of itself. Above that mark wages will be paid according to the skill and competence of the labourer That proposition seems to me entirely reasonable. Those who are below that mark are either weak or wicked, and have to be taken care of. They come under the denomination of the unemployed, the under-employed, the criminal or the wastrel. What is to be done with them is another matter; that is a question of reform in connection with detention farms and kindred schemes for their improvement. But that is not the question I am considering to-night, since it involves the consideration of the weakness of the people, and that does not come under a business arrangement. If it is once practically recognized by the people of this country that the lowest form of honest labour is entitled to such a wage as will maitain it in efficieney and in decency, then the point is gained, and the greatest stroke of reconstruction that could be accomplished with regard to labour will have been accomplished. Permit me to repeat that it is such a self-evident proposition that it seems singular anybody should wish to call attention to it, but, practically, the principle has not yet been admitted. But when that time comes, in that one simple fact as set out by the American Federation of Labour, and as set out by all the recent authorities on political economy which I have been able to consult, will be found the solution of the problem. Trades unionism up to a few years ago was a criminal offence; but that the people should have the right to combine for the consideration of their own affairs and for their own protection was so self-evident that at last it was allowed. Then the time came when, to the wonderment of our people here, there was introduced in the old country by no less a man than Lloyd George himself the revolutionary measure of imposing a tax upon the site value, the unearned increment of idle land being appropriated by a super-tax to the use of the state, in order that the fundamental principle of the worthiness of work should be finally recognized.

One thing more is necessary. I have here a Bill passed by the Imperial Parliament prescribing a minimum rate of wages during a limited period and repealing certain provisions of the Act relating to workers on war munitions. A Bill of that description fixing a minimum wage would be considered in this country such a tremendous step in advance that it would cause a great deal of trepidation. The minimum wage, however, has been discovered not to be the solution of the difficulty, for if a man receives ten dollars a day that is of no consequence if it does not provide him and his family of three children which is usually taken as the unit, with a proper standard of living. On the other hand, if he receives only one dollar a day and that provides him with the proper means of existence, it is enough; so that a minimum wage has really nothing to do with the case. The sole and only contention is that the lowest form of labour, since we must begin from some definite point shall be considered entitled to a proper standard of living. That proposition is not only economically sound, but surely all decent and Christian people will agree to it; and when it has been incorporated in legislation, as it undoubtedly will be in course of time, labour will have achieved what it has been striving for. It is trades unionism that is the hope of this world against Bolshevism. The trades unions are an organization of sensible labour men doing their level best. It was the trades unions that furnished more than half the men who fought the battles of this war. The Bolshevik would upset all organized labour of any kind. Therefore, it is time for the Government to pay due and proper attention to the contentions of the trades unions and endeavour to place them as nearly supposable upon a thoroughly sound and economic basis. But that basis must have in it the pure ethical spirit, for if it is going to be simply an economic system, if it is going to have simply the principle of taking what you can get—the old system of plunder—it is simply the curse of modern and industrial conditions known as profit. It seems to be a very absurd thing that anybody should speak against profit as I have done so many times in this House, but profit is the taking of that for which no equivalent is given, and the man who takes that for which he does not give an equivalent is a Bolshevik. We are asked to eliminate from the world these conditions, and to do away with that spirit of plunder, and in our dealing to restore a fair equivalent in trade or exchange. The establishment of so simple a thing as a standard of decent living for all honest, sensible men—for all that have to be fairly considered units of humanity, units in the industrial world—and the doing away with the desire to take what we can lay our hands on without regard to the justice of the case, means the making of a new world.

Passes to Relatives to View Graves Ahe Not Yet Issued.

OTTAWA, March 3.—The Militia Department desires to inform all soldiers' relatives and others interested that the Imperial Government is not in a position to grant passes to visitors to soldiers' graves in France. In some instances there is no transportation whatever to the places where the graves are located. Where transportation exists it is indirectly taken up for military purposes. There is also little or no hotel or housing accommodation.

Cable advice has been received from overseas to the effect that a number of people not in possession of the above information have arrived in England with a view to visiting France to see the graves of relatives, but it is not possible to effect the object of such visits at the present time.

Soviet Adopts A Resolution

Constitution of Free State of Bavaria

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

MUNICH, March 3.—Soldiers' and Workmen's Congress has adopted by a large majority the following resolution:

"The assembly of Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils constitutes the provisional National Council of the free state of Bavaria. The executive committee will be charged with the direction of national business, and will consist of thirty-three members whose appointments are revokable by the National Council. The committee will chose from its members a central committee of seven, which will be responsible to it."

The further constitution of the free state of Bavaria will be prepared by the provisional government and executive committee acting together and will be submitted for decision to the people.

Music & Drama

"VANITY FAIR."

"Vanity Fair," the musical comedy which was the attraction at the Grand Opera House on Saturday afternoon and evening proved an agreeable surprise, in asmuch as the merit of the performance was unexpected in view of the somewhat ordinary lithographs that preceded the company's arrival. The production was a lively and amusing one with a caste of capable funmakers, a score of much tunefulness, a chorus that was not only young and pleasant to look at, but that was well drilled in addition, and an unusually sumptuous array of costumes. Jack Trainor, who was featured as Henry Cattermole, provided a wealth of amusement for the audience by his clever portrayal of the part of the cranky old millionaire. Miss Ada Carter showed histrionic and vocal ability as Anabelle Waller, her song numbers being a treat. Early Leslie, a hard-working young dancer, added much to the enjoyment of the performance, and J. C. Filippin made a distinct hit in a black-face part, while his specialty also scored. Miss Raymond contributed a xylophone solo that was heartily applauded and the Roger sisters, two clever young misses, were favourites from their first appearance. The scenic investiture was unusually lavish, the setting of the second act being worthy of special mention. Altogether "Vanity Fair" was a treat.

The next attraction at the Grand is the wonderful film, "With the Empire's Fighters," which opened a two days' engagement to-day.

CHURCH WOULD CALL THIS "THE PEACE OF JERUSALEM."

BALTIMORE, March 1. — The Protestant Episcopal Church of the State of Washington, went on record here without a dissenting voice as endorsing the proposed League of Nations and also the proclaiming from Jerusalem the peace to be arranged, and the calling of it "The Peace of Jerusalem."

The action followed an address by the Right Rev. Alexander Rodosopol, acting Archbishop of the Greek Church in America, who was presented by Bishop U. H. Darlington of Harrisburg.

A Republic In Luxemburg

Grand Duchess Charlotte Has Fled.

(United Press Service.)

PARIS, March 3.—An unconfirmed report was received here to-day that a republic had been proclaimed in Luxemburg and that the Grand Duchess Charlotte had fled.

An attempt at a revolution in Luxemburg several weeks ago failed, largely because of the presence of American troops. It resulted, however, in the abdication of Grand Duchess Marie Adelaide, who was declared to be pro-German. She was succeeded by her sister, Princess Charlotte.

Announcement

Mr. H. W. STOCK announces to his customers that the baking business heretofore carried on as WILLIAM STOCK & SONS, has been incorporated into a Joint Stock Company and MR. STOCK will be President of the Company, MR. JAMES DUTTON will continue his position as Superintendent, and MR. PERCY STOCK, who has been three years overseas, part of the time in the Royal Air Service, and who was wounded and discharged, will act as Assistant General Manager.

On account of the bread business of William Stock and Sons having increased to such large proportions it was found necessary to incorporate it into a Company, which will carry on the business with the same standard of service as given up to the present time. It is not the intention of the Company to carry on any other business except bread making, but to give every attention to increasing its output and the development of the business which has already had a most striking growth.

This Company is a purely Peterborough Company, and Wm. Stock and Sons have been known for the last quarter of a century as being at the front with up-to-date methods, sanitary appliances and large and well ventilated bakeries, in which the Company will continue to carry on bread manufacturing.

WEDDING BELLS

HENRY—HOLMES

On February 1st at St. Peter's Church, Dewsbury Road, Leeds, by the Rev. M. Beck, Vernon Albert, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Henry, Peterborough, Canada to Ivy Holmes, niece of Mr. and Mrs. E. Kelly, Mona Cottage, Ilkley, England.

FLOOD—GUIRY.

A pretty wedding took place at nine o'clock Wednesday morning, February 26th at St. Francis' church, Grace street, Toronto, when Miss Lyda Flood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Flood, 241 Montrose avenue, was united in marriage to Mr. Joseph Guiry, of Downeyville, by the Rev. Father Guiry, of Peterborough, brother of the groom.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a French toque silk suit trimmed with Hudson seal and beaded embroidery, with blue hat to match. She was attended by her sister, Marie, who wore a blue broadcloth suit trimmed with military braid and French hat. The groom was supported by his brother, Herbert.

After breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, Miss Edna Gracey, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Almas, delighted the guests with several vocal selections.

On their return from the honeymoon, which will be spent in Rochester and other American points, Mr and Mrs. Guiry will reside at Downeyville, Ont.

IN MEMORIAM.

BOND OF No. 2 STATION STRUCK BY MANZEK WHILE ENTERING STATION

TORONTO, March 3.—Inspector E. Bond, of No. 2 Police Station, was attacked by a Russian while the foreigners were holding a meeting in the National Theatre on Dundas Street. The meeting was an overflow one and was for the purpose of putting the case of the Allies before the public. As many people as were in the theatre packed the street outside, and there was much excitement. The police were on hand in large numbers, the reserves from the Court Street Station having been ordered out. Two arrests were made, one being that of a Russian.

Just what precipitated the assault on the inspector is not known. At the time he was struck he was about to enter the station with a soldier friend. The Russian, Pete Manzek, the police state, came up behind the inspector and struck him twice. Manzek was arrested, as well as another Russian, by P. C. Scott for being disorderly.

Peterboro' Boy Was A Prisoner In Germany

Pte. Albert Bartley Reached Home This Morning—Experienced the Horrors of German Prison Camp

Pte. Albert Bartley returned to the city this morning after spending two years and a half as a prisoner of war in Germany. He went overseas with the 8th C.M.R., and was taken prisoner on June 2nd, 1916, at the second battle of Ypres. Wounded severely he fell and was captured, given the field dressing and shipped into a German camp. For three days the wound from which he was suffering intense agony was not touched by the Germans and when medical assistance finally did arrive the Germans were treated before the British or French were touched.

Pte. Bartley's first stop in Germany was made at Achan, a little frontier town and from there he was later shipped into Cologne, where he spent eight months and 25 days. In all this time he was twice outside the camp, when at the time investigations as to the treatment of the prisoners of war the Germans for a short time let the British outside the camp under escort.

Treated Like Dogs.

"We were treated roughly," he said, "but the Russians in the camp were treated worse than dogs. Beaten and wicked, starved and frozen, they took all that was coming to them in a sullen silence. But they'll get back, and they lived on that hope alone.

Saw Two Murdered.

At Wittenburg camp, where Pte. Bartley was next sent, the conditions were worse than at Cologne. At one time he saw himself two Italians stabbed in cold blood. The Italians, about 1,300 strong, were placed in a separate compound. Here they were starved and suffered with the cold and exposure to such an extent that they died at the rate of about 12 a day. Later the prisoners were mixed with the British and one Italian in going back to secure his own cup, was brutally stabbed by the guard with a bayonet. An Italian doctor threatened revenge, saying that the first German he met in Italy he would kill. He was immediately sent into a camp where not a man spoke Italian. At another time Pte. Bartley saw an Italian creeping through the barbed wire to get into a separate compound stabbed by a guard. Bartley accused him of murder, but the Hun disclaimed any responsibility, and later Bartley saw him making his peace with the officer by telling him how much he had invested in war bonds.

Would Have Starved.

I can say without exaggeration that not one British prisoner of war would have come out alive but for the parcels and the best we got came from Canada. The food we got was simply unspeakable, and like everything in Germany at the present, everything was substitute, even the macaroni. For the last several months the country has been in such a condition that the guards stole the food from the camps to feed their families.

FEARS ICE FAMINE, DUE TO SMALL HARVEST

Mr. Odell Tells Senate City Can Obtain Only 400,000 Tons from Storage.

ALBANY, N.Y., March 3.— B. B. Odell, State Ice Controller, has reported to the Senate that New York city is menaced by an ice shortage which may develop into a famine this summer. Because of the mild winter there has been no ice harvest, he said.

Mr. Odell's report was made in reply to a resolution of Senator Loring M. Black, Jr., of New York, who had asked for a statement on the amount of natural ice in storage, the capacity of the ice manufacturing plants in New York city and the estimated consumption in any year in the metropolis.

The report stated that the 2,537,462 tons of natural ice harvested in the winter of 1917-1918 on the Hudson river and adjoining lakes there was still in storage on January 1, 607,467 tons, which should 'weigh out' in N. Y. city at about 400,000 tons. Little ice has been harvested this winter.

The ice shortage will be about 1,500,000 tons, Mr. Odell estimated. He said the daily capacity of ice plants in New York was 13,280 tons, the greater part being manufactured in Manhattan and Brooklyn.

Ice consumption last year in New York aggregated 3,063,855 tons, of which 1,817,800 tons was manufactured ice and 1,246,055 natural ice. Mr. Odell said the manufacturing plants alone are not able to supply the demand in summer and that there is not enough storage capacity for artificial ice in New York city.

Bringing Veterans Home First

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 3. — Secretary Baker explained that one reason why the return of United States troops had been slowed up, was because Great Britain had withdrew some of the troopships to carry home Canadian, New Zealand and Australian soldiers, who had been in service longer than the Americans. This he said, was a perfectly proper procedure. He reiterated that by April, three hundred thousand American troops would be returning monthly.

Unless it be a vegetable never serve the same dish twice a week.

American Officers Were Subject To Hostile Demonstration

(By Frank J. Taylor—United Press).

BERLIN, March 3. — American officers were the target for a hostile demonstration by German civilians to-day. During a reception to Gen. Von Lettow, the former German Commander in Africa, officers were quietly watching the parade from American headquarters in the Hotel Adlon. The crowd suddenly began to jeer, hiss and shout at them. The police experienced great difficulty in restoring order. During the height of the demonstration several civilians rushed at the automobile of General Harris, which was standing unoccupied at the curb, with the intention of demolishing it, but policemen interfered.

The Americans, as well as other Allied officers, were compelled to remain inside the hotel all afternoon. The mission ordered all Allied officers to keep off the streets until further instructed.

NEW INSURANCE AND REAL ESTATE FIRM

Robertsone and Quinlan is the name of the new insurance and real estate firm that has been opened up at No. 34 Water Street, opposite the Market Square. The local agency of the Northern Life Assurance Co. is now located at this office. Other companies are represented, including fire, life, accident and automobile insurance, well established companies. In real estate lines, properties are handled such as large and small farms, city and suburban real estate, both for sale and wanted to buy. Sales are negotiated on small margins. Their offerings in these lines are worth examining.

The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Protestant Home, where the deceased had been boarding for the past two years. Rev. R. Pogue will officiate. Interment will take place at Montreal.

Curling Becomes A Trial of Strength On Very Soft Ice

P. D. Fitzgerald defeated George Benor by 13-4 in the first game of the Waddell Trophy Competition at the Charlotte street rink this morning. C. H. Pennefather defaulted to Ray Best, and George Stevenson's rink defaulted to W. M. Lang. The other games proceeded at 1.30. The ice was wet and heavy and the curling resolved itself into a hurling contest. Some of the rinks were fairly satisfactory, but in the centre Walter Oke's game against W. T. Hall, who was skipping for W. H. Taylor, was little more than a trial of strength. This game was tied up on the eighth end when the only two stones to reach the rings were effectively bulwarked by those that fell short in front.

Hun Universities Plead For Pre-War Relations

PARIS, March 3.—The Universities of Leipsic and Heidelberg have transmitted a letter to all French universities, requesting that their pre-war relations be renewed. The German universities have been sent the following reply from the University of Bordeaux:

"Please make a short visit to the devastated regions of Northern France and then inform us upon your return how long it would be before you would renew relations with a people committing similar deeds in your country. The generation perpetrating such abominations has severed all connection with humanity. Perhaps we shall renew relations with the next generation."

Ottawa Orders That M.S.A. Fines Now Are Not To Be Less Than $250

The New Regulations Are Applicable to Offences Heretofore Committed and Pending as well as to Future Offences

OTTAWA, March 4.— Fines which may be imposed on defaulters under the Military Service Act are not to be less than $250 and not more than $5,000. An order-in-Council amending the military service regulations to this effect has received the approval of the Governor-General.

"If a fine be imposed," the order proceeds, "the sentence shall direct that in default of payment of the fine the person convicted shall be imprisoned, with or without hard labour as the case may be, until the fine is paid; provided that such imprisonment shall not be for any term in excess of that which might have been imposed for the offence, and that the person convicted shall not be liable or compelled to pay a fine and to suffer imprisonment."

The new regulations are applicable to offences heretofore committed and to pending as well as to future offences.

OWEN SOUND YOUTH SERIOUSLY WOUNDED

Comrade Accidentally Shoots Him While Examining Revolver.

OWEN SOUND, March 3.—Norman Robson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Robson, of this town, was seriously wounded by an accidental shot from a revolver in the hands of a comrade, Frank Corkran, and is now in the local hospital, with the chances for his recovery barely even.

The accident occurred in the Corkran home, where young Robson had gone after supper, and was another case of leaving a loaded gun lying around and forgetting that it was loaded. Frank Corkran had picked up the revolver, which was a 32-calibre, and while examining it accidentally pressed the trigger. Robson was standing just about a foot from the muzzle and the bullet entered just below the chest, going through the stomach and lodging in the muscles of the back. Medical aid was immediately summoned, and the injured lad was taken to the hospital. He is suffering a great deal from the pain and the shock, and it is doubtful yet whether he will recover. He is just sixteen years old. Frank Corkran is eighteen, and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Corkran of Owen Sound. Along with [illegible]

STOP HEADACHES BEFOREHAND

You never had a headache when you were well.

To keep well is to keep clean, inside.

To relieve headache, and to prevent it, keep the liver active and industrious and the bowels as regular as a clock.

Two generations of healthy, vigorous people have done this by taking one pill at bedtime, regularly—a larger dose when nature gives the warning.

-THE WIFE-

BY JANE PHELPS

In Helping Another, Ruth Herself Is Helped

CHAPTER CXXXIV.

Angry tears came into Ruth's eyes as she read. The idea that even in his sickness Brian should long for Mollie King, hurt her dreadfully. He might have said he longed for her, Ruth. Of course she wasn't a "good pal" like Mollie King, she said aloud, as she wiped her eyes, and she didn't wear a becoming nurse's uniform.

To think he would fret more because he could not have Mollie with him, than he did because he was hurt.

"I am glad he had a plain nurse. I hope she was down-right ugly!" Ruth said, but the tears again started when she re-read the part of his letter telling of his long walk with Mollie. What if they did talk of her and little Brian—they were together, while she was so far away and—alone.

Somehow, Ruth could not overcome the bitterness this letter engendered. She thought of it almost constantly for days. It was inconceivable that if Brian really loved her, he would not long for Mollie as he said he did. Again all the softness she had felt vanished, and she was tormented by the old jealously and the old distrust.

She wondered how long Brian would be convalescent, and if he and Mollie would spend that period taking long walks together. What did she care that they talked of her and the baby? It was their being together that she objected to. She realized that their intimacy would become even greater, perhaps, than ever. Women were like that; they were so sympathetic when a man they cared for was sick or injured. Ruth never doubted that Mollie was in love with Brian, whatever his feelings toward her were. At times—she now did—Ruth believed that Brian also was in love with Mollie although she never could explain why he had not married her—explain it to her own satisfaction. Of course Mollie would have been glad to marry Brian.

Ruth threw herself into her work with such energy after the receipt of this letter, that Mandel wondered what had caused her to act as if she wanted to work harder than even the exigencies of the business demanded. He tried to caution her, told her she would make herself ill, and finally he became so worried by her feverish actions that he sent her to Philadelphia for a day or two upon some business another might have attended to as well. He thought the change might be good for her.

Ruth dimly sensed his motive and, while grateful to him, she thought: "If he knew that work kept me from thinking, he wouldn't try to stop me."

But in spite of her uneasiness about Mollie and Brian, the change did her good. Then, when she came back, one of her "war babies" (as she called the children whose fathers had gone "over there" before they were born) was forever fatherless. The poor, young mother clung pitifully to Ruth, her constant moan being one of regret that her Tom never would see the boy he had longed for.

Someway, this woman's complaint that she wouldn't have grieved so if only Tom might have seen his boy softened Ruth's feelings toward Brian. He too might have died without seeing his little son. Ruth had not replied to his last letter, but when she left poor Annie Rafferty grieving for her Tom, she went home and wrote a long letter. She told him he must be careful not to get hurt again, for the baby's sake. She said nothing of Mollie, but told him to thank that nurse, Mary Giddings, who had written her when he was helpless because of his injured arm. Then she repeated bits of gossip she had heard from either Mrs. Curtis or Claire Roberts. Kenyon was doing splendidly in his profession, and doing a great amount of war work as well. She had written:

"He never ceases to regret his lameness because it has prevented him from fighting. But I think he does as much good here as he possibly could over there. He and Claire are an ideally happy couple. She is right beside him in his war-work, and they seem so contented. But then they are together—which means a lot."

Perhaps Ruth would not have written that paragraph about Kenyon Roberts had she realized that Brian often had compared her to Claire—not to disparage her; simply to wish she would make his home the same sort of a home that Claire, in her love for domesticity, made Kenyon's. That he had felt many times that, if she had, he also would have done well in his profession. But that she had taken from him the desire as well as the necessity for hard work because of her determination to earn money, and regulate the keeping of their home, to a servant.

To-morrow—Ruth Plans for Brian's Home Coming.

Start Tomorrow and Keep It Up Every Morning

Get in the habit of drinking a glass of hot water before breakfast.

We're not here long, so let's make our stay agreeable. Let us live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, and look well, what a glorious condition to attain, and yet, how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can; instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluiceways of the system each morning, and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentation, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of inside-bathing before breakfast.

A Tribute to the Hardest Worked Merchants in Our Country

HAVE you ever considered the important part played by the grocer in our daily life?

From early morn and often until late at night the grocer keeps open for our convenience.

Whether we want a 5-cent bar of soap, a package of tea or a sack of potatoes he is there to serve us—and with a cheerful "thank you".

You trade with him almost every day. You look upon him as a friend. He treats your children kindly when you send them to the store.

When sickness, accident or unemployment occurs, it is the big-hearted grocer who supplies the home with the necessities of life and often waits a long time for his money.

He has had many trials during the past four years. Government regulations have hampered his business. Goods have been difficult to procure. Help scarce. Profits small. He sells on a closer margin of profit than probably any other line of retail trade.

For nearly twenty-five years, the T. H. Estabrooks Company has been distributing millions of pounds of Red Rose Tea through the grocers of Canada. Our relations with them have been very intimate and very friendly. We therefore, know something of their difficulties and something of the services they are rendering, which we think deserve recognition and appreciation.

COUGHED, COUGHED ALL NIGHT LONG

Terribly wearing on the system is the cough that comes at night and prevents sleep. Sometimes it is a constant cough, cough that will not be quieted.

Sometimes it is a choked-up, stuffed-up feeling that makes breathing difficult, and sleep impossible.

Whatever kind of a cold or cough you have, Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the remedy you need to cure it, for the simple reason that this valuable preparation combines all the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree with which is combined wild cherry bark, and the soothing, healing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks.

Miss Margaret Lavelly, Bristol, P.E.I., writes: "I am writing to tell you the benefit I have received from Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Last fall I took a severe cough and cold on my head. I was unable to do anything. At night I could not sleep, but cough, cough, all night long. A friend advised me to use Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and before the second bottle was used, I was entirely well. I have found this the best cough medicine I can buy."

Do not accept any other "pine" preparations when you ask for "Dr. Wood's." This remedy has been on the market for a quarter of a century. Now put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

LESSON FROM SKIES.

Suggestions Growing Out of Recent Flareup In Aquila.

What of the new star which blazed out the other day in the constellation Aquila? The astronomers are yet far from clearing up the mystery of it, and the man in the street may be pardoned for having raised questions regarding the luminary which should not be asked. Was the "nova" a "sign in the heavens," some kind of a portent or warning? The nearest approach to such an interpretation came when British experts were asked whether the new sun was moving this way and if there was any likelihood of it getting into a head-on collision with the earth. These moments of alarm have now passed and the star, though diminished in brilliance from the first to fourth magnitude, is still shining—at a safe distance.

In the interim, and without any unriddling of the puzzle, we have come to realize that the celestial visitor is "new" only in a Pickwickian sense. It had been seen before at least thirty years ago. Harvard photographs of the constellation showed this particular star in nearly the same place which it occupies to-day. It was then a very faint object, even for the camera, and remained such in successive pictures until early in June last, when it took a turn for the brighter, and puzzling as an astronomical sensation. Whether the star "exploded," got a tremendous jolt from a "dark sun," or simply ploughed its way through a nebula, nobody knows. It is easy to trace a fire to spontaneous combustion when the flames arise in the next street; it is much more difficult to decide between rival theories when your conflagration is anywhere between 6,000,000,000,000 and 6,000,000,000,000,000 miles away.

The distance was deceptive, to say the least, and our happy-go-lucky method of thinking that everything we can observe is happening in the "now" led us to suppose that we were contemporaries of the "flare-up." Light does travel at inconceivable speed—at the rate of 186,000 miles a second—and we get news of events in the sun in about eight minutes. But many of the stars are so bewilderingly remote that this particular outburst must have taken place not a week or a month before it was seen, but hundreds, perhaps thousands of years ago. In studying the constellations that have become so familiar and dear to us we are studying not what is, but the things that once were—the vast antiquity which makes up so much of the bulk of our universe.

Tremendous changes, of which only our far-off successors can know anything, may even now be in progress in the skies. And if there be sentient beings far afield who scan our habitation with instruments immeasurably superior to ours, they also are antiquarians in regard to us. In one world, according to distance, the observer might be witnessing the battle of Waterloo, in another the founding of Rome, in a third the fall of Troy, in a fourth scenes from ancient Egypt and its dynasties, deeper still in space we imagine some celestial inquirer to whom has just come the vision of earliest man at last on his feet and disputing with the cave bear for a place in which to lay his head. It is an impressive thought that there are star systems so remote that even the swift messenger of light could not reach them with the story of our war until long after this planet had ceased from its torture of life and had been teased out into the cosmic dust from which new worlds incessantly come forth.

Birdmen's Patron Saint.

The cardinal archbishop of Westminster, who has initiated the Guild of St. Michael for Airmen, invites all Roman Catholic airmen "to place themselves under the protection of St. Michael by joining the guild." No one could desire a doughtier champion, remarks a London paper, but the choice of the Russian airmen, who in the early days of the war decided on Elijah as their patron saint, is perhaps even more plausible. It is, at all events, plain that these days have given an entirely new meaning to the phrase, "prince of the powers of the air."

Every Sensation.

The following is from a letter written by a member of the United States tank forces in France: "I ran the gamut of all sensations from fear to hatred, and the latter was what I carried away. Any nation that fills the bodies of the dead with bombs in order to kill the chaps that come out to bury them, has no consideration from me, and that is what the Germans do, among other things."

Fire Clay Substitute.

The great resistance to heat of ordinary coal ash has suggested the use of this material for fire bricks in place of fire clay. It is claimed that a suitable binder has been provided in a new process, and several thousand experimental bricks already made are being tested, both as a fireproof building material and as a furnace lining.

BE READY FOR EMERGENCIES.

The best way is to always keep a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house, ready for emergencies. Then when croup or colds come suddenly they can be promptly cured before they have time to reach an acute and dangerous stage. To meet this requirement we have put the syrup up in family size bottles which contain nearly three times as much as the 25-cent bottle and sell at 60 cents.

SUMETHING NEW IN WARFARE

Party of Highlanders Repelled German Attack, but at Terrible Cost; They Lost Their "Paritch."

A wounded officer describes the novel way in which a small party of surprised Highlanders met an unexpected enemy attack.

"The Germans got further into the trenches," he writes. "So far, indeed, that they surprised a party of Highlanders in the peaceful occupation of porridge making for a section due for night duty. The porridge makers had no time to seize weapons. Instead they seized their precious pot of porridge and flung it in the face of the advancing foe. There were yells of rage as the scalding porridge fell among the soldiers of the kaiser. One of the funniest sights of the whole war, I am told, was to see a German officer trying to look dignified before his men in a uniform covered with porridge. The method of repelling the attack was novel, but effective. It was more deadly than liquid fire, I fancy, for it put an end to the attack in the quarter.

"When we relieved the Highland porridge makers we found them in a terrible funk, they didn't mind facing the worst attack the enemy could make, but they were quaking at the prospect of explaining to hungry comrades what had happened to the porridge. I tried to console the man with whom this brainy idea originated by telling him he ought to have the V. C. He would have none of my consolation. 'That may be,' he answered, 'but what aboot Wee Jock ——'s paritch? He'll hammer h— out o' me when he comes back and finds it's a' wasted on they German deevils!'"

Dutch Courtship.

It is the usual thing with the Dutch to compress match-making in all its branches within the month of November. The four Sundays of the month mark the four stages of the courtship, and each is known by its individual name as "Review," "Decision," "Purchase" and "Possession" Sunday. On Review Sunday in a village the whole population lingers after church while the young people parade about, but shyly forbearing to speak. Decision Sunday is a long step forward. After the service each bachelor approaches the maiden of his choice with a ceremonious bow. He must be shrewd, for from her manner of responding he is to judge whether it is the part of wisdom or of danger to make further advances. If the test of Decision Sunday is safely passed, the suitor waits a week and on Purchase Sunday calls upon the parents of his beloved. With their approval he may appear on Possession Sunday as a prospective bridegroom. November is chosen as the fittest month of the year, because the hardest work of farming is over and the comfortable time of gathering the harvest is the merriest season of all.—Family Herald.

An Expedient.

A farmer having a horse to sell, sold it to an army contractor.

Meeting him in an inn some weeks later, the army buyer walked up to the farmer and said indignantly:

"The horse I bought of you was a thorough fraud. It was of no use for the army."

The farmer was nowise abashed, but replied:

"Well, try me for the navy!"

JOY IN THE ADRIATIC.

What Victory Must Mean to the Italians.

Oh, to be in Italy, now that peace is there, says a writer in the Manchester Guardian.

What days Italy must now be living through! To have taken a momentous decision and staked everything on it and to have succeeded beyond her dreams; to have succeeded, too, after a disaster that made faint hearts feel that all was lost. To know that by the end of the was in the East not only does she redeem her lost provinces, but gains what she had so long desired on the Eastern Adriatic coast—to be secure at last in Tripoli.

What must it mean to Venice! The red and blue lights giving direction and telling of air raid shelters—built up, sandbagged shelters, for Venice has no cellars—that gave so sinister a look to the dark canals and calles, a touch which Longhi, the Venetian master of the macabre, would like to have seen, will now disappear. The lights will go up in front of the Doges' Palace, and once again people will see it at night across the canal standing out against the soft night skies of Venice like a palace of coral in an Arabian tale. The gondoliers will be singing again after two years' silence. The mercers' shops will begin to open, and the factory girls will soon be able to have a choice of hairdressers to do justice again to their elaborate bronze tresses. The piazza will be a mass of soldiers and Venetians, and the three great flags in front of St. Mark's—the Italian flag, the flag of Venice and the Italian flag again—will be the centre of the cheers. After all, not very much harm was done to Venice, and she will be herself again. All she wants now, and all that Italy wants now, is fuel for the winter.

All down the Adriatic coast, through the walled, semi-monastic towns and scattered villages, the people will look out to sea and know that nothing will come over the sea or through the skies to harm them again. Ravenna had almost forgotten that she was one of the famous cities of the world, for no pilgrim had come to worship her for years. Her great churches were like muffled theatres waiting for the new play. Dante lies in his tomb so deeply overlaid with sandbags that no sign of war can penetrate, although he of all poets would have been most at home in it, for did he not give a pale foreboding of all its dolorous horrors in his "Inferno?" The furies in the sky did no harm to Ravenna, although there are bomb holes not far away. It looked more ancient than ever with no strangers about, and the crowd gathered on the Piazza to read the notices on the wall telling how this or that most amiable and respected citizen had died after sustaining with fortitude the ravages of this or that malady. Very soon the Sister Annes of Ravenna will be on the Campanile looking in the distance to see if the forestiers are coming. The armored trains, the admiration of all the people in the coast towns, have ended their watch of the 400 miles of coast without having had to fire a dozen shots in earnest. The fishing boats will be going out against and there will be more food in these very poor villages.

Shell Shock.

One of the curious facts brought to light in the war is that only unwounded men suffer from shell shock. Eminent surgeons say that a wound neutralizes the psychic sense.

MAMMA! DON'T YOU SEE YOUR CHILD IS SICK, CONSTIPATED

Look at tongue! Move poisons from liver and bowels at once.

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless delicious "fruit laxative," and never fails to effect a good "inside cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

WHEREIN HE QUALIFIED.

Candidate Lacked Many Virtues, but One He Had Counted.

"Is your candidate for this high office a man whose statesmanship has been proved by years of experience in positions of trust and responsibility?"

"I dunno."

"Possibly a reformer, some grand old Christian whose life has been tested in the crucible of affliction—his whole being on fire with the grandeur of moral ideas?"

"Mebbe, mebbe."

"A man of charming personality?"

"Not exactly."

"Graceful wit?"

"No."

"A lion in debate?"

"No, no!"

"Then to what influence"—

"That's it, pard; you've struck it at last—he's got influoence!"—Puck.

Answered.

Upon the occasion of his first visit to a parishioner a certain Boston divine tried hard to make friends with his host's eight-year-old.

"How old are you, my son?' asked the clergyman benignantly.

"Eight," was the laconic response.

"Ah, quite a little man," came patronizingly from the minister. "And what are you going to be?" he added, after a slight pause.

"I am going to be nine," said the child, with conviction.—New York Globe.

Good Manners.

She was gowned in a severely plain tailored costume and assumed other mannish freaks in her dress.

An old lady who was very near-sighted entered the street car. The mannish girl waited a moment, but as no man signified his willingness to give up his seat she rose and gave hers to the older woman.

"Thank you, sir," said the other in grateful acknowledgment. "You are the only gentleman in the car."—Detroit Free Press.

Said With a Bright Smile.

"Your work bears the closest kind of inspection," remarked the girl with the dimple. "What infinite pains you must take with it."

"Perhaps," replied the artist; "but, do you know, I enjoy the pains."

"Then," she rejoined, with a bright smile, "you, too, pursue art for art's sake."—Chicago Tribune.

NO COUNTRY FOR POOR MAN

Brazilians Are Compelled to Pay Extraordinarily High Prices for All the Necessaries of Life.

Rio de Janeiro, the most wonderfully reconstructed city in the world, was also, until recently, one of the most pleasure loving. Today the president is endeavoring to instill war economy into the nation before it feels the brunt of war—a by no means easy task. Economy is not easily preached in a country where state lotteries are of daily, and public holidays of all too frequent, occurrence. The most popular of the latter is the carnival, which occupies the four days preceding Ash Wednesday.

Brazilians who complain of the high cost of living will probably wish to see war economy continued in times of peace. It costs about $7.20 a day to live at all comfortably in Rio. Some manufactured articles are now difficult to obtain, and the cost of everything "owing to the war" and the colossal protective tariffs, is such as to make unaccustomed English folks feel faint with terror. A ready-made drill jacket, though cheaper in back streets, will be commonly priced at $10.80 in shops on the Avenida Rio Branco. A tailor-made man's suit will cost about $50.—From the United States Naval Institute Proceedings.

Almost Lost Precious Card.

One of those "absentee registrants" signed up at the city postoffice one day last week, and received his registration card for transmission to his local board in his home town.

This man must have been an absent-minded registrant as well, as the sequel will show. He calmly placed the registration card in an envelope, addressed the envelope to his local board, put on the stamp, and walked out into the street.

As he passed a trash box he dropped the letter into the opening and went his way with a clear conscience of having done his first duty under the man power law.

Luckily for him, a postman coming out of the building saw the mistake he made and rescued the letter from the trash. By this time the registrant had boarded a car, so the letter carrier dropped the letter containing the precious card into the letter box.—Washington Star.

HUGE POTATO YIELDS

Seed From Northern Ontario Outyields All Others.

How to Lower Mortality of Young Lambs—Best Methods of Caring For Both Ewe and Lamb Explained.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

PLANS are being carefully evolved by the Department of Agriculture to continue experiments, begun last year, which it is expected will have far-reaching results for the potato industry in Ontario. The investigations which officials of the Department are making are thorough and extensive, and consequently somewhat slow. But it is confidently believed that within a few years potato seed grown in Ontario will be in great demand not only by other parts of the Dominion, but by many districts of the United States. This, it is anticipated, will be a distinct boon to the farmers of the province.

The two-fold program which was inaugurated last year of certifying a high standard of potato seed and making a survey to detect diseases is to be carried on on a much wider scale this coming season. Reports from the various inspectors have now been compiled by the Department, and the statistics are of considerable interest to the progressive and up-to-date agriculturist. The two foundation varieties which the Department is showing—Irish Cobbler, the early seed, and the Green Mountain—have been the subject of widespread discussion. There has been much difference of opinion as to which is the better for general table use. The reports for last year clearly prove that the Green Mountain is the best variety for the general farmer. Seed of these two varieties from three different sources—Northern Ontario, New Brunswick and Old Ontario—has been experimented with and planted in clay and sand in nearby districts in different parts of the province. These show the following average yields per acre:

Irish Cobbler—Northern Ontario, 153.4; New Brunswick, 148; Old Ontario, 127.

Green Mountain—Northern Ontario, 177.6; New Brunswick, 137.3; Old Ontario, 167.8.

The general average per acre on the different plots was:

Irish Cobbler planted in sand, 151.5, and on clay, 126.1, which shows a yield of 25.4 bushels more to the acre from seed planted on sand.

Green Mountain planted on sand, 169.3, and 153.2 bushels planted on clay, a yield of 16.1 more bushels per acre from seed planted on sand.

The results when the yields from all sources for Irish Cobbler are combined show the average number of bushels per acre was 142.1, and Green Mountain, 161.4 bushels. Thus it will be seen that the Green Mountain gave the larger yield, being 19.3 bushels per acre ahead of the Irish Cobbler variety.

With Ewes at Lambing Time.

The two main factors contributing to a satisfactory lamb crop are the proper feeding and care of the sheep during the six months previous to lambing time together with care and detailed attention given to the flock during the lambing period. Plenty of exercise coupled with a sufficient amount of the right kind of feed to maintain the flock in good thriving condition will usually result in the birth of active, rugged lambs for which the mother will have a liberal supply of milk. In practically every flock, no matter how well cared for, the attendant must be on hand frequently, day and night, during the period the lambs are arriving. A little attention at the proper time will often result in the saving of not a few lambs.

Absolute dryness and freedom from draught are very essential for the flock, and when the lambs are expected in March or even early April provision should be made for reasonable protection from the cold.

Wool balls in the stomach is often the cause of much loss in young lambs. This trouble as well as difficulty in getting the lambs to nurse may be avoided by clipping away all loose and dirty wool from around the udder and quarters of the ewes.

Provision should be made for a few small pens located along the warmest side of the building. The ewe to lamb is much safer separated from the main flock and in cases of difficult parturition, weak lambs, ewes disowning their lambs and numerous other difficulties that may arise they can be looked after a great deal more satisfactorily when confined in small enclosures. It not infrequently happens that a ewe has difficulty in delivering her lamb; this is more common in the case of young ewes with their first lamb. When the lamb has come forward far enough so that the nose and front feet are in sight and the head is unable to pass through the ewe should be assisted by gentle pulling on the forefeet. If this fails smear the inside of the vagina well with linseed oil, this has the effect of softening and allowing the opening to stretch and will, unless the case is a very severe one, give relief. No action should be taken until it is reasonably certain some assistance is needed and before investigating the hands should be perfectly clean and disinfected.

Lambs may be born weak and apparently lifeless, more particularly in case of difficult delivery. These may be revived by quick action on the part of the attendant. First remove the phlegm from the mouth, then hold the mouth open and blow gently a few times to start lung action. Next lay the lamb on its belly and gently beat it on the sides next to the heart just back of the shoulder.—Prof. J. P. Sackville, O. A. College, Guelph.

"Bear" Proved Harmless.

A white bear had been seen in the Alps near Ofenberg, Switzerland, peasants reported. The alarm created some excitement in the mountains. The authorities were forced to arrange a great hunt to run down the "animal." The hunt was successful and the "animal" was cornered. He turned out to be a poor Russian deserter clad in a sheepskin coat who had been running around aimlessly.

Church Novelty.

Flatbush—Been to church lately?

Bensonhurst—Sure. I was there last Sunday.

"Anything new doing?"

"Indeed, yes. Grimes' boy, who is home on furlough, was there, and the deminie announced: 'The young man in khaki will now take up the collection in his helmet.'"

MILLBURNS' LAXA-LIVER PILLS.

Act as a stimulant to the sluggish liver, clean the furred tongue, sweeten the foul, obnoxious breath, and clear away all the poisonous accumulations from the system by causing the bowels to move regularly and naturally every day, thus preventing as well as curing constipation, sick headaches, bilious headaches, water brash, heartburn, and all diseases arising from a lazy, slow or torpid liver.

They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take and there is nothing of the griping, weakening and sickening effects of the old-fashioned purgatives.

Mrs. John Kaley, Chipman, N.B., writes: "I have been using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for some time and can recommend them to anyone suffering from heartburn and liver trouble. I tried other remedies, but they only relieved me for a short time. I always recommend Laxa-Liver Pills to all sufferers as I think they are a valuable remedy."

When you go to your dealer and ask for Laxa-Liver Pills, see that you get the genuine "Milburn's." Price 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Announcement

Mr. H. W. STOCK announces to his customers that the baking business heretofore carried on as WILLIAM STOCK & SONS, has been incorporated into a Joint Stock Company and MR. STOCK will be President of the Company, MR. JAMES DUTTON will continue his position as Superintendent, and MR. PERCY STOCK, who has been three years overseas, part of the time in the Royal Air Service, and who was wounded and discharged, will act as Assistant General Manager.

On account of the bread business of William Stock and Sons having increased to such large proportions it was found necessary to incorporate it into a Company, which will carry on the business with the same standard of service as given up to the present time. It is not the intention of the Company to carry on any other business except bread making, but to give every attention to increasing its output and the development of the business which has already had a most striking growth.

This Company is a purely Peterborough Company, and Wm. Stock and Sons have been known for the last quarter of a century as being at the front with up-to-date methods, sanitary appliances and large and well ventilated bakeries, in which the Company will continue to carry on bread manufacturing.

Fiji Islands Make Notable Progress In Commercialism

HONOLULU, Hawaii. — Probably none of the smaller possessions of Great Britain has a more hopeful and progressive post-war outlook than the Fiji Islands, that tiny colony in the middle of the Southern Pacific Ocean which has never been in the public eye, which one hardly ever reads about and of which the average American knows but little. But, left to itself, little Fiji bids fair to force ahead with surprising rapidity, building up its valuable industries, broadening and extending its educational system, opening up new avenues of trade, and coming to have more and more in common with the outside world, until it becomes an asset of which the mother country may well be proud.

This, briefly is the impression gained from an interview with the Hon. J. M. Hedstrom, M.L.C., M.F.C., president of one of the largest business concerns in the Islands. Mr. Hedstrom, who is a member of the Legislative Council, has been a resident of Fiji for many years and is unusually well acquainted with conditions here, and well qualified to forecast what the future has in store for the colony.

Associated With Pirates.

Time was when the Fiji Islands existed—as far as the great majority of the people of the United States were concerned—only in story books. The tiny colony, with its sandy beaches and palm fringed lagoons, was associated with pirates, pearls and pieces of eight, buried treasure and Bully Hayes. But the years have changed all this and to-day great mills grind out their wealth of sugar, cocoanut trees help supply the world with copra, hundreds of thousands of bunches of bananas are gathered and exported yearly and, when evening comes, a daily newspaper furnishes the people of Suva with up-to-the-minute cable news of world happenings. The halcyon days of romance and adventure have changed to days of big business and big industrial development. The Fiji of the story book is no more.

Suva, a fair sized city, modern in nearly every respect, is the capital and principal port of call. Fiji is not self-governing. Heading the administration is the Governor, appointed from London. The administration consists of a Legislative Council, composed of twenty persons. Ten of the members are colonial officers and vote with the Governor. Seven members are representatives of the European population, two represent the native Fijians and one represents the Indians, who are natives of India. The native Fijians do not have the right to vote. As a rule, they are not greatly advanced as regards education, though they are stalwart and hard and industrious workers.

Suva a Modern City.

Although the area of the Fiji Islands is greater than that of the Hawaiian Islands, the former have a population of only about 150,000. Of this number about 500 are Europeans, the rest being composed mainly of natives and Indians, with a scattering of Chinese. Suva is a beautiful tropical city, with every modern convenience, with the exception of street cars, and with large stores, banks, hotels, theatres and business houses. Freight and passenger steamers call regularly at Suva on their way from Canada or the United States to Australia, or vice versa. During the war the call of steamers was not as frequent as in the past, but traffic is expected to be resumed in the near future.

One of the interesting things about Fiji is the government land situation. In the first place, says Mr. Hedstrom, the soil of the islands is of the highest quality and capable of growing almost anything that can be cultivated with success in the tropics. There are thousands of acres awaiting cultivation, he says, and fine arable land can be leased from the government at a rental so low as a penny an acre for ten years or so. The better lands, of course, bring a higher rental, and a fairly good price, although unusually nominal, is obtained from the higher grade lands, especially adapted to the cultivation of sugar cane.

In explaining the land situation Mr. Hedstrom points out, as an example, that a native after one year's residence may obtain a small piece of planting ground near his home, may raise and harvest his crop, and then the next year take a piece of land probably three miles from his home. In many instances, he says, a native may till a series of plots in rotation, probably not visiting the first for three or four years after a crop has been taken from it.

Fiji's educational system has yet to be improved in many ways if it is to be brought up to the high standard maintained in new countries. Children of Europeans are given a rather thorough primary and secondary education, which tends to fit them for entrance into universities. The education of other children has been conducted largely by the missions, and arrangements have now been made whereby these mission schools will receive government aid when they are brought up to a certain standard. The last Governor of Fiji was an advocate of education, and it was through him that a number of important advances were made which, in the future, should prove of particular benefit to the children of the islands. A new high school was opened at Suva just before Mr. Hedstrom left the islands.

A MOVE IN ENGLAND TO CLEAR GEN. GOUGH

Hamilton Fyfe, English war correspondent, believes that the time is ripe for clearing General Gough and the 3rd and 5th British armies for the historic retreat between St. Quentin and La Fere on the fateful March 21, 1918. Mr. Fyfe, who writes at length in the Contemporary Review, blames the censorship for muffling the correspondents at that time and declares that Sir Douglas Haig was no less to blame (if blame must be fixed) than General Gough.

The correspondent points out that against the judgment both of Field Marshal Haig and the French generals, the British forces had just taken over this sector—forty fresh miles—and the line with the 5th Army strung along it was perilously thin at its weakest point, where the British forces joined the French. He believes that this page of Britain's history should be cleared of scandal. He writes:

"About that retreat, and especially the 5th Army part of it, many absurd stories were afloat. What was particularly unfortunate was that American soldiers arriving in France were apt to be told that British troops became a disorderly rabble, that officers lost their heads, that men wandered like sheep without a shepherd, and that their unworthy conduct caused a grave setback to the allied cause. Such stories were, I dare say, set going, many of them, by spies and traitors, very likely by paid German agents. The were repeated by habitual grumblers, by those who like to 'seem to know,' and even by many who passed on this kind of talk merely because they had nothing better to say. One story which was widely told represented General Gough as having dined in London on the night of March 21!

"That the 5th Army yielded more ground than the 3rd Army is indisputable. Hasty critics jumped to the conclusion that it did not fight so well. That was unjustifiable. Both armies fought with a dogged courage that has not been surpassed in any battle of the war. The reason for the 5th Army's retirement lay in this, that it consisted of fourteen divisions, eleven in the line, three in reserve, and that it was attacked by forty-eight. Fourteen against forty-eight! That tells the whole story.

"No, not quite the whole, either, for this must be said, too, that the eleven divisions in the line were spread over a front of forty miles. Three miles is considered a very long front for a division to hold. These 5th Army divisions each held nearly four. Yet this was not clearly stated at that time, nor has the story, I think, been fairly told since the event. The instinct to seize upon a scapegoat when things go wrong is one of the most powerful instincts in human nature. Before the facts were known in England the 5th Army was blamed for what had happened."

WHAT IS A CHRISTIAN.

Christianity is kept alive because some men and women have real religious experience. The hangers on of religion, the more or less half and half Christians are usually people who get warmth from it to themselves. The real sources of any real religious vitality are people who have felt and experienced the Divine touch. They are the fire.

Now millions don't know this. They think religion means something told them on authority. Now I am not denying that this is reliance, or starting place, is good, but I maintain that if this was all, religion would not survive long. Unshaken and unshakable Christians and any religious people believe and cannot be put out of countenance because they have felt and experienced the Divine touch. Some have experienced conversion; it is no merit of theirs. Others find in prayer or meditation a sense of peace, of help, of strength; they are in touch with a power higher than themselves. Others live by a divine standard. They try by God's help to be honest and pure and kind. They find their reward. They may not get their reward in wealth. On the contrary, sooner or later they suffer with Christ, for the world is redeemed by the sacrifice of the best, not the worst. But they have as their reward a clear conscience, a spiritual cupboard. An inward peace and security through Christ. These are the people against which atheistic writers break helplessly, and will always break, for their religion does not depend on the date of Genesis or Pentateuchal criticisms, higher or lower. It depends on an experience which nothing can touch.

PRETTY LITTLE BLONDE IS IN OXFORD JAIL.

To Face Charges of False Pretenses and Non-Payment of Board.

WOODSTOCK, March 3. — Ivy Hutchinson, aged 20, who claims to be an heiress and the daughter of a wealthy mine owner near Timmins, and who created such a clamour upon the occasion of her arrest in London, is now an inmate of the Oxford county jail. She was brought here from London yesterday to face several charges, among them being charges of false pretenses and non-payment of board. She was here for a month before she left suddenly for London. She was remanded for a week by the magistrate who will make inquiries and endeavour to communicate with her father. The girl is a pretty little blonde, and her admirers both here and in London run into scores.

SAW HUSBAND MURDERED.

GENEVA, March 3. — Princess Helena of Serbia passed through Geneva for Paris, where she will join her brother, Prince Regent Alexander of Serbia. Her husband, Duke Jean Constantinovitch of Russia, was murdered by the Bolsheviki before her eyes at Perm, and the Princess, with her two children, narrowly escaped the same fate. They fled to Copenhagen in disguise.

USED FOR SHAVING.

Many men are troubled, more particularly in the cold weather, with a sort of roughness of the skin or eczema caused by shaving. The application of Dr. Chase's Ointment after the shave soon cures the trouble and by using after each shave you keep the skin soft and prevent irritation and soreness. Because of its antiseptic qualities this ointment prevents and cures Barber's Itch.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Propinquity's Part

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Oh, yes, I shall be brave!" Her tone was light. Her heart held tears. "I shall wait for you—always," she said, a smile as gay and brilliant as if it played about happy lips.

"But—of course you will, girl! You're that kind of stuff. And I'll come back to you with a chest full of medals and arms full of love." Her head drooped on his khaki shoulder for a moment while she almost gave way. "Good-by," she whispered and pushed him from her.

He held her for one more moment. "Good-by, my girl," he said, swallowing the lump that almost choked him. Then he took his cap and strode down the garden path, closed the gate behind him and was lost to her among the shadows of the trees.

June twisted her handkerchief to a hard knot, bit her lips and kept her eyes glued to the opening in the trees where she had last seen him. Then slowly, she let the tears flow down her cheeks, threw herself into the hammock and sobbed.

Capt. Teddy Blake was soon back in his quarters with the knowledge in his own heart that this was the last time he should see June for many a day. That he would sail on the following day or the next at the latest he was sure. It seemed very hard to leave June; they had been so happy; she was wonderfully lovely. But—he would come back and claim her some day. That she would not wait for him, that he could forget—those were unfortunate suggestions.

June answered the call of the Red Cross for nurses. She felt in her first dejection and loneliness as if she must do something to help hasten the end of the war that had separated Teddy from her. She was accepted and went into a hospital for training almost at once. She became absorbed in the work, met many new and interesting persons and soon found herself quite cheerful again. At night when she wrote her letter to Captain Teddy she told him of her work, of the new faces, of her ambition to get "over there" and help, and perhaps take care of him. But she did not weep; rather she grew more and more proud of having sent her captain off so bravely, and congratulated herself for her own cheerfulness.

"You're going to make a wonderful nurse, Miss Prince," one of the doctors told her after she had helped him in some surgical dressing.

"Oh, am I?" she exclaimed. "I love the work."

Doctor Buchanan watched the wonderful color flood her face at the compliment he had paid her. He was thirty-five and had been so absorbed in his profession that he had never taken time to get married.

June worked more earnestly than ever after that word of praise from so clever a surgeon as Doctor Buchanan. Also she now had the temerity to smile at him when she passed him in the corridors or he chanced upon her in the wards. Heretofore she had never noticed any of the doctors, some one having told her it was better to attend strictly to the professional side of the work and not permit herself to know the doctors socially.

Captain Teddy's letters were filled with interesting stories of jaunts here and there, when he had time to himself. He spoke more than once of the alacrity with which he was picking up the French language. A pretty French girl, Jeanne de Nancier, whom he had met at a canteen, was giving him lessons on every available occasion. Oh, he would come back to June quite an accomplished French student, and he hoped she was not being too lonely.

The war dragged on and June finished her training, grew even more lovely, with a more serious expression in her eyes, forced there by the knowledge she was gaining of the suffering in this world.

Instead of being sent to France, Nurse June was sent to a base hospital "somewhere on Long Island" to take care of the poor wounded soldiers who were being brought home by every boat. She had little time for letter writing now. Her leisure hours, many of them, were spent with Doctor Buchanan, studying, always learning more thoroughly the requirements of a good nurse. Without having become aware of it, she had become very fond of the able surgeon who had done so much for her throughout her training. And she had not noticed that he sought her out on every occasion. There was a serious sort of companionship and they had been drawn together almost daily in their work.

Letters from Captain Teddy, now in action, still referred to Jeanne, the little French girl. He spoke rather casually of her—rather too casually, June thought once or twice, but she seemed not to mind.

"Did you ever realize what a dangerous thing propinquity is?" one asked Doctor Buchanan one night when they were leaving the grounds of the big base hospital for a couple of hours of rest from duty.

"Dangerous?" he asked.

She nodded. "Yes—dangerous. Now, don't think I'm going to weep and have hysterics or be love-sick at what I'm going to tell you. You know I'm not that sort—don't you, by this time?"

"Oh—don't I, though? You're just the bravest, finest—"

June stopped him. "This is my story, not yours," she reminded him.

"It's a story about Teddy—my Captain Teddy, you know. He has fallen really and truly in love with a French girl, and he's afraid to tell me so in so many words, and he's waiting for me to find it out through my woman's intuition—which I've done, true to type—and write him that I know all about it and hope he'll be happy, and that his affair and mine, while very sweet, was only a young love, not very deep." June looked up at the doctor for the effect of her story on him.

"And that is the danger of propinquity?" asked the doctor quietly. His own heart was beating very fast, and he longed to tell her what a wonderful thing he thought propinquity was, and of how he would like to write the letters high everywhere. That French girl! How glad he was that she had happened to be there—that was what caused Captain Teddy to fall out of love with June Prince.

"Wouldn't you call it a danger?" she was asking.

"No—I should not."

"When you realize that falling in love must be only a matter of propinquity, doesn't that seem rather dreadful?"

"Dreadful—dreadful!" mocked the doctor, patiently, waiting his turn.

"And all your young ideals are smashed—your ideals which include the one and only man in the world no matter where he be?"

The doctor looked at her. "Dare I tell you, June, what I think of propinquity?"

"But—of course—why not?" said June.

He took her arm and tucked it under his as they strolled beneath the old Long Island trees that surrounded the hospital. "I think it is the greatest thing in the world, dear. It has been propinquity that has shown me the beautiful character, the sweetness, the dearness of you. I love you and I'm going to make you love me, and you may write to your one-time captain that you have positively felt he was falling in love with the pretty French girl, and that you—well, you are not too lonely. Will you, June? Will you go on making it a case of propinquity?"

Now that it had come June knew she had long expected it.

"Yes. I think I've been happier in these three years of working side by side with you than—than I've ever been in my life. Wouldn't it have been dreadful if—" She blushed and hesitated.

He leaned down to look into her face. "If Teddy hadn't found the French girl?"

SURE DEATH TO COCKROACH

Commercial Sodium Fluoride Recommended as Effective in Warfare Against Common Household Pest.

The Bulletin of the Chicago School of Sanitary Instruction has been dealing with domestic pests, the latest issue describing a simple and effective way of ridding premises of these unpleasant arthropods. Commercial sodium fluoride mixed in equal parts with flour is dusted over places frequented by the insects, or applied with a dustgun or powder blower.

The immediate effect will be noticed that the insects will come out of their hiding places, and after rushing about in a frantic manner for a time become paralyzed and soon die. The dead or paralyzed cockroaches may then be swept up and burned. As a rule premises can be ridden of roaches by this method in 24 to 48 hours.

The same mixture is said to kill caterpillars when used on foliage that has been dusted with it. The fluorides should be used, however, with care and the inhalation of the dust should, of course, be avoided, as these salts have an injurious action on the human subject. Their use as preservatives in food is legally prohibited in the United States.

Liquid Measure.

Jim Snedecor has been elected justice of the peace, and he judged that his office required a silk hat. The only one in town was the parson's, and before he went up to the city Jim borrowed it one afternoon to get a notion of his size. It fitted him. In the city store he told the clerk that he aimed to get a silk hat.

"What size, sir?" asked the clerk.

"Well," said Jim, "you'd better gimme the three quart size, young man."

A Chance of That.

The beggar accepted gratefully a nickel from the professional humorist.

"Thank you, sir," he said, his voice vibrant with deep feeling. "Oh, thank you, sir, and may you live to be as old as your jokes."

Restrictions.

"How do you like your new flat?"

"It's a little restricted," replied the patient man. "They won't allow you to raise children or pets. They even complain if you raise your voice."

Unbearable.

Ray—As long as there was another boarder at the farmhouse you had somebody to talk to.

Fay—But as there were only the two of us there was nobody to talk about.

NOSE CLOGGED FROM A COLD OR CATARRH

Apply Cream in Nostrils To Open Up All Passages.

Ah! What relief! Your clogged nostrils open right up, the air passages of your head are clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, mucous discharge, headache, dryness—no struggling for breath at night, your cold or catarrh is gone.

Don't stay stuffed up! Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head, soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Ely's Cream Balm is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer has been seeking. It's just splendid.

That Remarkable Sheep.

Some of the most singular plants in the world are the vegetable sheep of New Zealand. These are known to science as raoulia exinia, and although they are of such a strange habit of growth they are members of the daisy tribe. The vegetable sheep grow at high altitudes, usually on some bleak mountain slope, which may be 5,000 feet above sea level. The whole plant is a compact mass of stems densely covered with small woolly leaves. So closely do the raoulias resemble sheep that experienced shepherds will often climb a long way up the mountain, thinking that they see some missing members of their flock huddled against a rock, only to discover that they have been deceived by a plant! During a recent exhibition at Christchurch, in New Zealand, some specimens of the vegetable sheep were collected for the show. The plants are often large and heavy, and it required the efforts of half a dozen strong men to secure some fine examples of raoulina.

First Official Newspaper.

The first newspaper to come into existence when written accounts of the imperial armies of Rome were sent to the generals in command in all parts of the provinces.

In 1566 the first official news sheets were published in Venice. They were written by hand and exhibited in public places, people paying the small coin of a gazetta to read them.

The church, averse to all diffusing of knowledge, tried to impede this source of education, and Pope Gregory even prosecuted the editors.

PRESIDENT SHAKES HAND OF MR. CHAMERBLAIN BUT DOES NOT SPEAK TO HIM

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 3. — President Wilson and Senator Chamberlain, of Oregon, chairman of the Senate Military committee, met for the first time since their controversy of more than a year ago when the President wrote a letter sharply criticizing the senator for his New York speech in which he said certain government bureaus had "almost ceased to function."

Senator Chamberlain called to pay his respects to the President, who was at the Capitol conferring with senators and representatives. The President shook Senator Chamberlain's hand once and the smile on his face disappeared. Gravely bowing, the President released Mr. Chamberlain's hand and without speaking turned to greet another senator.

Members of the Democratic National committee, now meeting in Washington, will be guests of President Wilson at luncheon at the White House to-morrow.

Girls! Use Lemons! Make a Bleaching, Beautifying Cream

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quarter pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in; then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweet, fragrant lemon lotion and massage daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It naturally should help to soften, freshen, whiten and bleach and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin. It is truly marvelous to smoothen rough red hands.

PRESIDENT TO COMMUTE EXCESSIVE SENTENCES

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Major-General Crowder, Judge Advocate General of the Army, appearing before the Senate Military Committee at a resumption of hearings on the court-martial situation, said that all imprisonment sentences imposed on men of the army during the war and found upon review to be too severe would be mitigated through the President's power of remission.

General Crowder said that within sixty days the five thousand sentences imposed since the beginning of hostilities would be reviewed by a special board headed by Brigadier General Samuel T. Ansell, who was acting Judge Advocate General during the war, and whose testimony regarding severity of court-martial sentences led the committee to extend its investigation.

Steps toward mitigating the sentences were begun, General Crowder said, prior to the investigation by the Senate committee. Practically all of the men sentenced to dishonourable discharge and imprisonment, he said, already have received revocation of the dishonourable discharge provision.

PRESIDENT NAMES A. M. PALMER TO POST OF ATTORNEY GENERAL

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.—A Mitchel Palmer, although under fire for the conduct of his office as Alien Property Custodian, received appointment to the Cabinet, to succeed Thomas W. Gregory as Attorney General. President Wilson sent the nomination to the Senate and probably upset some of the political calculations of the last few weeks. Mr. Palmer's name had been considered as the possibility for the place.

The Senate, following an old rule, will act almost immediately, confirming the Palmer nomination. There is no objection to Mr. Palmer, apparently, although a resolution was adopted by the Senate only a few days ago calling for an investigation of the office of the Alien Property Custodian. The charges, made by Senator Calder, of New York, are chiefly that certain lawyers had been overpaid in their work for the alien property office.

Mr. Palmer is a native of Pennsylvania; where he has been active in democratic politics for many years. He served in Congress for three terms, from the Stroudsburg district. Stroudsburg is his place of residence. In 1914 he was a candidate for the Senate, but was defeated by Senator Penrose.

President Wilson appointed Mr. Palmer to the position of Alien Property Custodian, in which office he took over for the period of the war all property owned in the United States by citizens of Germany or Austria-Hungary. This amounted in all to $700,000,000, scattered in every State in the Union.

In a statement Mr. Palmer said he welcomed a full investigation by the Senate, denying specifically all the charges made by Senator Calder.

Senator Frelinghuysen to Oppose Palmer Confirmation.

Senator Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, republican, who introduced the resolution proposing Congressional investigation of the Alien Property Custodian's administration, announced that he would oppose Mr. Palmer's confirmation until some explanation was given Congress of the charges made against the administration of the custodian's office.

MERCHANTS WILL USE PROHIBITION TO BOOM TEA TRADE

Importers, Jobbers and Brokers Unite to Educate Americans in Respect to Oriental Beverage.

NEW YORK, March 3. — If the nation is made teetotalling it should learn to be tea bibbling, in the opinion of American tea merchants, and they are organizing to that end. Two weeks ago a committee was appointed by the Tea Association of the United States to investigate the opportunity prohibition brings to the trade—generally admitted as its golden opportunity. A meeting of the committee was held at a luncheon in the Bankers' Club, called by J. F. Hartley, an importer.

Letters suggesting co-operation of tea importers, jobbers and brokers of the United States have been sent to thousands of firms and cablegrams to the growers' and exporters' associations of tea producing countries. The organization probably will take definite form in a few weeks.

Publicity, the tea merchants believe, will be the chief arm of the movement because of the American ignorance of and bias toward tea. The merits of tea will be expounded in statistical and sentimental appeal. In these days of innovation of fixed American policies the tea importers feel Americans should forget the "Boston tea party" which they hold largely responsible for American prejudice. They point to figures showing that the United States consumes far less tea per capital than other English-speaking countries.

The movement to popularize tea is based on two principles—the one of sociability, where the tea service will take the place of the bar, and the other physiological in that tea's mild stimulant will allay the craving for alcoholic drink. The tea trade, composed of some houses established in the days of clipper ships, is invited to undertake an expansion which promises in view of prohibiton a proportion similar to that of the trade in British countries, where tea drinking is universal.

All this was discussed by representatives of large tea houses at the luncheon.

FALLS UNDER TRAIN, STUDENT DIES

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Ludwig Lagousky, twenty-one years old, of No. 23 Silver street, Bayonne, N.J., a student of the evening medical class at the College of the City of New York, died in a Bayonne Hospital early, after having had both legs cut off by a train of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, under which he had fallen while alighting at the West Eighth street station.

WEAK, DISCOURAGED WIFE

Advised by Friends to Try Vinol—What it Has Done For Her

Florence, S. C.—"I was in a weak nervous, run-down condition, took cold easily, could hardly keep around and do my work—and was all discouraged. I had taken cough syrups and tonics without benefit, until a friend asked me to try Vinol.—I gained rapidly by its use, so I am now in good health."—Mrs. Addie Wilkerson.

The reason Vinol was so successful in restoring Mrs. Wilkerson to health is because it is a constitutional remedy, which enriches and revitalizes the blood and creates strength.

O'Leary's Father Tells Of Family's Service To Country

Three Brothers Killed in the Civil War He Testifies at Trial of Son.

NEW YORK, March 1. — Daniel O'Leary, father of Jeremiah A. O'Leary, was called to the witness stand in the federal court at the trial of his son on an indictment charging violation of the Espionage law. Mr. O'Leary was questioned mostly by his son, who frequently called him 'Pop.'

The elder O'Leary said he was appointed inspector in the State Department of Labour by Governor Levi P. Morton, and has held the post ever since. He said that, like Jeremiah, he was born in Glens Falls, N.Y., and that members of his family settled in America between 1760 and 1770.

Three of his brothers, he said, were killed in the civil war while fighting with the Union forces. He read a list of relatives who served in the war just ended and expressed the belief that, with the exception of Jeremiah, every member of the family who was permitted to do so served in either the army or navy in the war. Jeremiah, he said, was physically incapacitated.

"My father was as sterling an American as ever lived," the witness declared. "Some of my immediate relatives fought in the Mexican War and the War of 1812. My father and mother suffered terribly under English rule. They were driven from their home in Ireland, and years after my father took 'Jerry' down to the historic spots of the Revolution and pointed out the places where English soldiers had shot down the freemen of America. My boys could not be disloyal if they tried," he shouted.

Other witnesses testified to the loyalty of the defendant.

WILL CONTEST HIS SISTER'S BEQUEST TO HER HUSBAND

NEW YORK, March 3.—That Mrs. Elise Uhlmann Blumhardt, who died January 17 last, was influenced by her husband, George J. Blumhardt, into bequeathing to him an estate of $250,000 through the medium of spiritualism, was alleged by his brother-in-law, Simon Uhlmann, a wealthy brewer, of Albany, N.Y., in proceedings before Surrogate Fowler. Mr. Uhlmann, who intends to contest his sister's will, obtained an order from the Surrogate requiring his brother-in-law to show cause why the probate of the will should not be vacated.

In explaining his belated petition Mr. Uhlmann stated that the unusual conditions affecting the brewing interests had so engrossed him that he failed to give proper attention to the matter of his sister's will when it came up for probate.

In declaring that he intended to prove that undue influence was exercised upon his sister through her affiliation with a body of spiritualists, of whom her husband was one, Mr. Uhlmann says that "they and he induced her to believe that the spirit of her deceased brother communicating through supposed mediums urged her to marry, and it was only through such representations that she was induced into marriage."

Mr. Uhlmann alleges that his sister and Mr. Blumhardt were secretly married by an Alderman, and that she then described herself as being fifty-two years old, when she actually was sixty-five. Her husband, he asserts, posed as a prosperous retired merchant, living on his income, whereas he was a cigar packer, getting a salary of $20 a week.

After the marriage Mrs. Blumhardt, according to her brother, lived as a recluse, permitting her husband to control her affairs and handle her income of $20,000 a year. She was kept aloof from her relatives, declares Mr. Uhlmann, and only moved in spiritualistic circles. Mrs. Blumhardt had been previously married and inherited a large estate from her first husband.

Starts Crusade On Low Neck Dresses

NEW YORK, March 3.—Those flesh-coloured, satin covered figures representing the female form of more or less divine proportions and partly draped in the latest Paris creations, which comprises little or nothing above the waistline, may be excluded from shop windows, according to a statement made here by Mrs. James Griswold Wentz, president of the Woman's Republican Club. This organization has started a crusade against indecent dress worn by women and displayed in shop windows, which promises to have a widespread effect.

In the belief that if women do not see these waistless evening dresses they will be less likely to purchase them, Mrs. Wentz has included such apparel in her list of garments to be barred from public view. To meet with the approval of the Woman's Republican Club members and their sympathisers, an evening dress shall not be cut down under the arms and it must have some kind of a top which can be considered important enough to be classified otherwise than a belt, and also have sleeves.

"Dresses with no tops whatever and those that come only part way under the arms and stop there are indecent," declared Mrs. Wentz.

When asked to give a rule for the proper highness or lowness of a decollete the republican leader replied that it would be impossible to do so, for it depended on the woman's figure.

Mrs. Wentz has divided the shopping district into sets of block and has assigned a member of her Indecent Dress committee to a certain set.

"IT'S GERMAN," SAYS JAMES W. GERARD OF STINGING JELLYFISH

And He Rushed Out of Surf, as Did Otto H. Kahn, His Guest.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 3. — James W. Gerard, formerly Ambassador to Germany, and his house guest, Otto H. Kahn, were set upon by jellyfish while bathing this morning. They ran from the surf to the Casino, where attendants applied a cooling lotion that took the scart away.

Mr. Gerard said he recognized the fish as being of German origin and steady in its approach. It made its way under his bathing suit and began to sting.

Jellyfish occasionally float in the sea here and sometimes sting persons, usually politicians. However there are exceptions, as a prominent actress was badly stung here last winter.

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS OVERCOME BY SAFE METHOD

SUGGESTIONS GIVEN WHEREBY INSOMNIA CAN BE SAFELY AND QUICKLY CURED.

Worry, overwork, overstudy and indigestion cause insomnia.

Healthy, natural sleep can't be produced by drugs.

First, the blood circulation must be improved;

Congestion of blood in the head must be removed.

Irritation in the brain must be relieved.

It's because Ferrozone equalizes circulation, because it soothes the irritation, because it removes congestion that it does cure insomnia.

For building blood and nerve, for instilling force and life into overworked organs, for establishing strength and vitality where can you find anything so efficient as Ferrozone?

Remember, sleep is just as important as food.

You must sleep, or break down, but if you'll use Ferrozone and thereby remove the conditions which now keep you from sleep you'll get well quickly.

Ferrozone is not a narcotic, not a dope; it is a health-giving tonic that any child or delicate woman can use.

Absolutely safe is Ferrozone.

Take it for a month, take it for a year— no harm, but immeasurable good will result.

ALCOHOL KILLS TWO, DOZENS OTHERS SICK

Celebration at Nobel of Demobilizing Explosives Plant.

PARRY SOUND, March 3. — Bert West, chief electrician, and Samuel Smith, chief timekeeper, at the munitions plant at Nobel, died here from the effects of drinking alcohol, a large quantity of which was being taken away from the plant in tank cars. A dozen other men who took part in celebrating the event are seriously ill.

Alcohol is largely used in the manufacture of explosives, and large quantities have been kept on hand. Several times liquor has been taken from the vats, and this is the second case where fatal results have followed its use. It is not wood alcohol, but the pure stuff, and the custom has been to treat it with acetone.

Just One Application And The Hairs Vanish

(Toilet Talk)

Any woman can free her skin free from unsightly hair or fuzz if she will follow these simple instructions. When hairy growths appear, apply a simple paste, made by mixing some water with powdered delatone. Apply this to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off and the skin and the hairs are gone. This is a harmless treatment, but be sure you get the real delatone.

Jewels Valued At $50,000 Stolen From Two Guests

AIKEN, S.C., March 1.—The third and largest of a series of robberies among winter colony occurred at the Whitney home, in Easy street, while Mrs. Willard D. Straight and guests were at dinner. Rooms of Mrs. Harrison Tweed and Mrs. Arthur W. Swann, her guests, were robbed of jewelry valued at $50,000. A silver mesh bag, containing several diamond rings and brooches, was stolen from the room of Mrs. Tweed, while several articles, including two jewelled pens, were taken from the room of Mrs. Swann.

Mrs. Straight's rooms were locked and no attempt was made to enter them.

A night watchman, who went on duty at eight o'clock, heard no noise and saw no strangers on the Whitney grounds. The case is puzzling the Sheriff and the Chief of Police, who believe that the winter colony has been followed up by an expert second story man.

Recently Lady Kemp, a guest of Mrs. F. S. Stevens at Sandhurst, and Mrs. Josef Hofmann, wife of the pianist of that name, have been the losers of valuable jewels through the work of thieves.

Mrs. D. Straight will leave for New York on Saturday, returning later in the season. It is understood an agency detective has been employed to solve the Aiken robberies.

LETTER CAUSES CHAUFFEUR'S ARREST AFTER BOY IS KILLED

NEW YORK, March 3.—An anonymous letter, giving the number of an automobile, resulted in the arrest of George H. Peterson, thirty-one years old, chauffeur for Reginald C. Vanderbilt, of No. 13 East Seventy-seventh street, on a charge of homicide. Detective John P. Baron, of the East Fifty-first street station, alleges that Peterson, while operating the Vanderbilt automobile on the night of February 20, ran down and killed eight-year-old Edward Powers, of No. 855 First avenue, going on without stopping. The identity of the car remained a mystery, according to Baron, until the letter was received.

Baron located the machine and said he found the right mudguard dented and showing signs of recent repair. Peterson denied the charge. He was held in $1,500 bail by Magistrate Norman J. Marsh, for examination March 5.

ALSACE MAKES DEMANDS.

Money and Property Seized by the Huns Must be Handed Over.

PARIS, March 3. — The Superior Council of Alsace and Lorraine has asked the government that Marshal Foch be given authority to secure the execution of a part of the armistice agreement with Germany affecting Alsace-Lorraine which is not being complied with. It is requested that the Marshal exact the handing over within a month to the Strasbourg branch of the Reichsbank all the securities taken from Alsace and Lorraine by the German authorities, and all the proceeds from the sequestration and liquidation of French property in Alsace and Lorraine. In addition, that the stipulations relating to the restitution of personal property of all kinds of securities, bonds, archives, documents, accounts, etc., be complied with at an early date.

LIFT OFF CORNS!

Drop Freezone on a touchy corn, then lift that corn off with fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little Freezone on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then you lift it right out. Yes, really! No humbug! A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store, but is sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Freezone is the sensational discovery of a Cincinnati genius. It is wonderful.

Republican Senators Oppose Acceptance Of Constitution Of The League Of Nations

President is Returning to France in Midst of Bitter Fight—Woodrow Wilson's Description of the Opposing Senators.

CLASSIC LANGUAGE

(United Press.)
(By Robert J. Bender.)

WASHINGTON, March 4. — President Wilson plans to depart from Washington at 2 o'clock to-day in the midst of the bitterest fight of his political career.

Returning to France to complete his work on a league of nations, he leaves behind him the definite assurance that sufficient Republican Senators have pledged themselves to defeat ratification of the league if it is presented in its present form.

The issue is clean cut. Every Republican senator who has been seriously spoken of as a presidential possibility has aligned himself against the president's league plan. Borah came out clearly against the covenant; also Hiram Johnson, Lodge, Harding and Watson, all if whom have booms under way for the Republican presidential nominations, and have pledged themselves against it.

Fate of League.

The fate of the league rests now in the hands of the rank and file of the American people. On their decision when it is finally taken up will depend also whether William Howard Taft and those Republicans out of Congress who favour the present league document will control the Republican party in 1920, or whether Lodge and his colleagues in the Senate will be in the saddle when the campaign year rolls around.

It was stated by the Republicans in the Senate to-day that the idea of approaching democracy solons for signatures on the league resolution, was abandoned primarily because the Republicans wished to make the league document a party issue and go before the country in an aggressive campaign, staking everything on the people's decision.

Will Speak To-night.

The president's friends say that this is agreeable to him and they believe that if necessary he may stand for re-election in 1920 with the league covenant as the issue.

What he will do now directly in reply to the signed document presented by Senator Lodge, was the subject of much conjecture to-day. He is reported as extremely bitter about the action of the Republican leader, believing that it may have serious effects abroad. That the President will counter with a strong reply when he speaks together with former President Taft in New York to-night, is accepted as certain. It will be his last appearance to the Americans on his own shores before his return from the peace conference.

A FILIBUSTER.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 4. — With but a few hours of the final session of the 65th Congress the remaining Republicans in the Senate this morning were continuing a general filibuster, which had lasted throughout the long night meeting.

The general deficiency bill, including 750 millions for railroad administration, involving a measure against which a minority filibuster was aimed at, but the Republican leaders said that it would be passed finally, as their purpose simply was to prevent action on other legislation.

Senators Sherman of Illinois and Lafollette of Wisconsin, spoke for several hours, the former beginning at 1 a.m., to-day, after the Republican leader, Lodge, had presented and failed to secure action on the resolution which he said was supported by 37 members of the new Senate, opposing acceptance of the constitution of the league of nations as framed.

IRELAND'S CLAIMS.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 4. — The House early to-day by a vote of 216 to 41 adopted a resolution expressing the hope that the peace conference would favorably consider the claims of Ireland to right of self-determination. The resolution now goes to the senate where it is considered improbable that any action can be obtained before final adjournment.

WASHINGTON, March 4. — The newspaper account of the recent dinner given by President Wilson to the members of the Democratic National Committee, saying that the president had bitterly assailed the senators opposing the league of nations campaign, were subject of an address by Senator Sherman of Illinois, a Republican, early this morning in the Senate. The published reports read by the Senator, had referred to the Senators as having "pigmy minds," and that he had declared they should be hanged on gibbets as high as heaven, but pointing in the opposite direction.

Nothing Leaked Out.

"Nothing has leaked out of the peace congress at Paris," said Senator Sherman, "more applicable to the war situation than these threats of the Chief Executive, declaring that one account had quoted the President as saying that the heads of Senators opposing the league were nothing but knots to keep their bodies from unravelling." The Illinois Senator said that this language is classic; "he has added another matchless phrase to those which he has enriched our American political literature."

Senator Sherman spoke at great length and his humorous comments and scathing sarcasm caused the Senators and spectators alike to rock with laughter with only perfunctory attempts at restraint made by the presiding officer.

CALLS IT ATHEISM.

J. H. Burnham, M.P., Makes Reply to A. H. Lytle.

A. H. Lytle, grand secretary of the international order of Good Templars, forwarded to J. H. Burnham, M.P., a letter on behalf of the order, asking that the prohibitory orders be enacted into parliamentary laws, to which Mr. Burnham replied: "What God has not prohibited, but created, I will not rebuke. The awful atheism involved in this movement is far worse than the excess which it seeks to repress."—Hamilton Herald.

MAY SHATTER CIVILIZATION

Premier Lloyd George Addressed Meeting of Employers and Employees

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, March 4.—Premier Lloyd George, in addressing the first meeting to-day of a joint committee of employers and employees constituted by Industrial Parliament last week, said: "Civilization, unless we try to save it, may be precipitated and shattered to atoms. It can only be saved by triumphs, justice and fair play to all classes alike."

The Premier warned the committee that it was the trustee of the welfare and safety of the whole nation. Unemployment must be banished, he said, and workers must never again be put in dread of horrors of distress and hunger.

"Let the workers understand," the Premier declared, "that where there is an increase of products they will get a fair share of it."

Lloyd George said that what was wanted was more confidence and understanding between employers and employees. The employers must never again say, "You are earning too much and our wages must come down."

FUNERAL OF A VETERAN

The funeral of the late John McLeod, former member of the 93rd battalion, and a veteran of the great war, took place yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Great War Veterans' Association. The funeral cortege contained one of the largest turnouts that the Veterans have yet had, as in addition to the firing party and the band, a large number of members of the G.W.V.A. followed the remains to their last resting place in Little Lake cemetery. The Veterans' band, under Bandmaster Hughes, had a very large attendance and was augmented by a number of members of the Temple Band. The funeral service at the late residence of Simcoe street and at the cemetery was conducted by Rev. Robert Pogue.

A Great Sale Starts This Week

A "Whirlwind of Clearance Prices" begins this week at the Peterboro Bargain House, 440 George Street. Hundreds of articles have been specially priced to such a figure that should startle economy buyers. Preparations have been made to make a swift clearance of all left-over Winters stocks. This clearance is an event that should gladden the hearts of women, for it represents an exceptional opportunity to buy handsome dresses, skirts, hosiery and household goods at a small cost. There is a splendid variety of them, but early shopping is advised for such value-giving will attract great crowds; and there is no guarantee that the big bargains will last long. See large advertisement on first page of to-day's Examiner.

SPARTACANS ARE ACTIVE

Over Twelve Thousand Men Affected in One Plant—Will Call Country-wide Strike

FACTORY COUNCILS

(Canadian Press.)

BERLIN, March 4.—National Spartacus League and Greater Berlin Communist organizations have issued an appeal for an immediate general strike and overthrow of the National Assembly and the present republic. Non-Socialists will declare a country-wide strike. The organizations instruct their followers to assemble at factories to prevent work and direct them to avoid street demonstrations in order that the government may have no opportunity to crush the movement by force. The workmen of the Schwartze plant, who are among the most radical in Berlin, have voted for a great strike, twelve thousand men being affected. This is the first response to the Spartacan appeal.

According to Vorwaerts, the majority of the workmen in metal trades and railway workers are favouring a general stoppage of work.

Aim of Strike.

The aims of the proposed strike as called by Berlin Spartacans include introduction of factory councils in all plants to regulate factory affairs and ultimately taking over of factories, the dismissal of government troops and disarmament of all non-Socialists and formation of Red Guard, under control of Soviets, the establishment of revolutionary tribunal to try chief culprits of war, the Hohenzollerns, Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, Gen. Ludendorff, Admiral Tirpitz and traitors to the revolution, President Ebert, Chancellor Scheidemann and Gustav Noske. The establishment of diplomatic relations with the Russian Soviet Republic is likewise demanded.

Marching on City.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, March 4.—Bavarian troops opposed to radical government in Munich are marching on city, according to despatch from Zurich. Severe fighting is probable.

Two Years For Kinmount Men

Both Men Were Accused of Being Defaulters

Seward Crego, 22 years of age, a farmer's son residing near the village of Kinmount, was sentenced to two years less one day on the Guelph Prison Farm on a charge of being a defaulter. John Bacon, who could neither read or write, although 27 years of age, was given a similar sentence. Bacon also resides on a farm near the village of Kinmount.

Mr. Fenwyce Strickland acted for the Crown Attorney, and Mr. John Birnie acted for the prisoners. Both men pleaded guilty to the charge and were put in the witness box by Mr. Birnie in order to show the extraordinary hardships that the acceptance of the call to the colours would have entailed. Crego lives on a 340 acre farm in the township of Galway. His father is 82 years old and quite feeble, and the prisoner was the only one on the farm to work the land.

"How many acres do you work on the farm," asked the Magistrate.

"About a hundred," was the prisoner's reply.

"I never saw one hundred acres in Galway that could be ploughed," replied Mr. Birnie.

Receiving an order to report he went before a tribunal but was refused exemption. An appeal entered before the Central Appeal Judge, Mr. Justice Duff, was productive of no results, and the Government had in the meantime passed an Order-in-Council cancelling all exemptions in the class to which Crego was a member.

His Worship said that although the working of the M.S.A. entailed many hardships yet he could not overrule the appeal courts. It would be a piece of presumption on his part that he was not going to find guilty of.

Could Not Read.

John Bacon also is a farmer in the vicinity of Kinmount in the township of Snowdon. He cannot read or write and when he was ordered to report, sent back the notice.

"With your compliments?" asked the Magistrate.

The counsel for the defence made an eloquent plea for the prisoner. He was a man that had not the advantages of education and very likely saw only his immediate duty.

Bacon was before a tribunal, was refused exemption and appealed, which was also refused.

"He is an ignorant back woods boy," pleaded the defence.

"The way to teach them is not to send them to the stone pile."

A STATE OF SIEGE

Minister of War Has Assumed the Executive Power—Will Protect the Working People

GERMAN FLEET

(Canadian Press.)

COPENHAGEN, March 4. — The Prussian government has declared a state of siege in the Polish districts of Berlin, Spandau and other suburbs of Berlin in order to protect the bulk of the working people from famine and terror of the minority. Minister of War Noske has assumed executive power.

Marshal Foch has demanded immediate delivery of German mercantile fleet without regard to the question of food supply, says a despatch from Weimar.

39,000 POUNDS OF GOVERNMENT FISH WERE SOLD HERE

Four million pounds of fish were sold last year by the sales branch of the Ontario Fisheries Department. Of that quantity 39,800 pounds were disposed of in Peterborough. Encouraged by this accomplishment, the Department proposes to carry on the work again this year, and S. L. Squire, who had charge of the work, has asked the Council to advise him whether the distributors appointed for Peterborough shall be again nominated. This matter was referred to the Property committee.

Council Will Ask Hydro To Assume Lakefield Dam

Lamps for the following streets were recommended to the Utilities committee by the Council last night; Maria street from St. Luke's church to Hunter street; three on Water street from Charlotte street south fronting the Duffus garage; one on Hill and street at the corner of Water street; one on Rubidge street, north of Simcoe; and a more powerful light at the corner of Simcoe and Brock streets.

Ald. Turner's project of trying to persuade a section of North Monaghan to annex itself to the city was referred to the Committee of the Whole.

Ald. McIntyre moved, seconded by Ald. Edgar, that the Hydro-Electric Commission be requested to expropriate the water power at the Lakefield dam before it can be improved by the Dominion government.

A SPRING SONG AND SIGN

A convincing sign and assurance that spring is just over the hill, is indicated by Mr. A. G. GOVERNMENT DECLARES THERE WILL BE NO COMPROMISE WITH TERRORISM

General Political Strike Will Be Directed Against the Present Germat Government—Will Make Another Attempt to Overthrow the Government

By Frank J. Taylor.
(United Press.)

BERLIN, March 4. — Following a special caucus late yesterday, Independent Socialists announced the general political strike against the present government will be called at eight o'clock to-night, instead of Wednesday morning.

The Independents demand political recognition of the Soviets, and the overthrow of the Scheidemann cabinet.

The strike, which will be purely political in character, is expected to continue until the present government is overthrown. The Independents counsel against violence, "except in retaliation." They expect the strike to spread to all parts of the country.

The government announced that "there will be no compromise with terrorism." There was every indication that the struggle between the proletariat and the bourgeoisie will now go to a finish. The people here this evening appeared unperturbed by the latest turn in the political situation.

Council Will Study The Government's Housing Bill

Mr. G. A. Gillespie Requested That They Discuss It and Communicate Their Opinions or Suggestions to Him.

YEOTES CASE TO COMMITTEE

Copies of the Provincial Government housing Bill were distributed among the Council last night by Mr. G. A. Gillespie, with a request that the Council study and discuss it as soon as possible and express their opinion of its provisions. Mayor Duncan promised that the Committee of the Whole would devote an evening to this subject probably next week.

Mr. Gillespie stated that the Bill had been rushed through the Legislature for the purpose of offering it to the people before the building season opens.

City Price Too High.

J. J. Turner & Sons objected to the city's price of $50 for the rent of the sign board north of the C. P. R. for three years. The property had no other use, and for the privilege of erecting a sign on a farm east of the canal they were paying a rental of $5 a year. The company suggested that this sum should be the limit for the island site. —Referred back to the Property committee.

Labour Council's Note.

A resolution from the Trades and Labour Council to the effect that Yeotes brothers should not be given a new pool and billiard license because of three convictions against them, was referred to the Finance committee.

Mr. G. N. Gordon pointed out that one conviction was for betting on a hockey game. A number of young men had gathered there and made bets, and on the same night betting had been openly carried on in other places in the city. Another conviction was made under the Temperance Act. A bottle of whiskey was found in the proprietor's living quarters above the store. It was intended for medicinal purposes, but because there was a connection between the store and the rooms above, this constituted a breach of the Act.

Mr. Gordon stated that Yeotes brothers had $18,000 invested in their business, that they were British subjects and should receive fair treatment. He requested that this question be referred to a committee for consideration before the Council disposed of it.

A motion by Ald. Gainey, seconded by Ald. Garside, that the applications from city employees for salary increases be referred to the Committee of the Whole instead of the Finance committee was approved.

Mayor Duncan remarked that it was hardly the ordinary procedure to transfer questions from a committee that customarily handled them, but Ald. Gainey contended that it was only by hearing the salary subject discussed that he could vote intelligently on it in Council.

Marine Workers Tie Up All Traffic on the Harbour Front—Tube Service Halted

PARTIAL SERVICE

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, March 4.—New York harbour was completely tied up to-day by a strike of the marine workers' affiliation, affecting practically all men employed on harbour and river craft around this city. It was estimated that 15,000 quit work at six o'clock.

Government craft were exempt from the strike order.

The rivers and the bay looked deserted, with only a few small boats visible this morning.

Ferries were halted and service on tubes under the Hudson river crippled when employees of the tubes traing quit in sympathy with the boatmen. A partial service was being maintained under the river, railroad officials said. Many Jersey commuters, however, were forced to cross the Hudson in launches.

The Demands.

The strike was believed yesterday to have been averted, but at a meeting last night the men decided not to accept the Macy award of an eight hour day without an increase in wages. Union leaders declare this will be a mere to the finish. The strikers have refused to accept the employers' offer of a compromise and demanded an eight hour day, increases of thirty per cent in the wage scale, and time and a half for overtime. Leaders of the men declare they cannot accept the War Labour Board's award of an eight hour day without a wage increase.

A meeting of the men will be held to-day to decide whether they will allow ferry boats to run from Jersey and Staten Island to Manhattan with Union men aboard.

Curling Rink Is A Swimming Pool Now

The curling rink to-day is suggestive of a mill pond or a forebay, or of a symbol of the watery days that have fallen upon an old and honorable game that developed its fine traditions in a more spirited time and country.

A canoe might have floated over the liquified surface upon which the stones glided smoothly a few days ago, and there is a feeling that the end is near unless March performs a come back.

The Waddell Cup games yesterday suffered from the slush, and more than one curler sat down in pools that soaked uncomfortably and intimately into the inner garments.

The results of the first round were as follows:

D. Davidson—10: G. H. Giroux—4
T. Brightman—11: R. Hicks—8
P. D. Fitzgerald—13 George Benor—4
J. E. A. Fitzgerald—13 W. G. Morrow —5

No Skating To-night Holding for To-morrow

If Ice is Good Will Be Another Big Night at Rink To-morrow

The soft weather has again caused the Brock Street Rink to close for to-night. Every effort is being made to preserve the ice for the big night to-morrow.

If it turns a little colder the ice will be in first class condition. Every nights skating should be taken advantage of as the season is about over.

THE FUNERAL OF BANDSMAN GRANGE ON SUNDAY NEXT

The funeral of Bandsman Grange will take place from the Armouries on Sunday next March the 9th at 3.30 p.m. All members of the G.W.V.A. and other returned are requested to attend. It is hoped that every member will make a special effort to attend this funeral as the day has been set aside in order that every returned soldier may be able to attend.

P.S.—Please note all funerals in future which take place under the auspices of the G.W.V.A. will be on a Saturday or Sunday, if it can be so arranged, in order that we may have a representative gathering.

DAYLIGHT SAVING ACT WILL STAND IN THE U.S.

WASHINGTON, March 4. — The Daylight Saving Act is safe. It cannot be repealed at this session of Congress. The movement to have it stricken from the statute books was late in getting under way and the friends of the measure nipped it in the bud. It was conceded last night by the opponents that they have failed in their programme to kill it.

Republican Senators Oppose Acceptance Of Constitution Of The League Of Nations

President is Returning to France in Midst of Bitter Fight—Woodrow Wilson's Description of the Opposing Senators.

CLASSIC LANGUAGE

(United Press.)
(By Robert J. Bender.)

WASHINGTON, March 4. — President Wilson plans to depart from Washington at 2 o'clock to-day in the midst of the bitterest fight of his political career.

Returning to France to complete his work on a league of nations, he leaves behind him the definite assurance that sufficient Republican Senators have pledged themselves to defeat ratification of the league if it is presented in its present form.

The issue is clean cut. Every Republican senator who has been seriously spoken of as a presidential possibility has aligned himself against the president's league plan. Borah came out clearly against the covenant; also Hiram Johnson, Lodge, Harding and Watson, all if whom have booms under way for the Republican presidential nominations, and have pledged themselves against it.

Fate of League.

The fate of the league rests now in the hands of the rank and file of the American people. On their decision when it is finally taken up will depend also whether William Howard Taft and those Republicans out of Congress who favour the present league document will control the Republican party in 1920, or whether Lodge and his colleagues in the Senate will be in the saddle when the campaign year rolls around.

It was stated by the Republicans in the Senate to-day that the idea of approaching democracy bolons for signatures on the league resolution, was abandoned primarily because the Republicans wished to make the league document a party issue and go before the country in an aggressive campaign, staking everything on the people's decision.

Will Speak To-night.

The president's friends say that this is agreeable to him and they believe that if necessary he may stand for re-election in 1920 with the league covenant as the issue.

What he will do now directly in reply to the signed document presented by Senator Lodge, was the subject of much conjecture to-day. He is reported as extremely bitter about the action of the Republican leader, believing that it may have serious effects abroad. That the President will counter with a strong reply when he speaks together with former President Taft in New York to-night, is accepted as certain. It will be his last appearance to the Americans on his own shores before his return from the peace conference.

A FILIBUSTER.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 4. — With but a few hours of the final session of the 65th Congress the remaining Republicans in the Senate this morning were continuing a general filibuster, which had lasted throughout the long night meeting.

The general deficiency bill, including 750 million for railroad administration, involving a measure against which a minority filibuster was aimed at, but the Republican leaders said that it would be passed finally, as their purpose simply was to prevent action on other legislation.

Senators Sherman of Illinois and Lafollette of Wisconsin, spoke for several hours, the former beginning at 1 a.m., to-day, after the Republican leader, Lodge, had presented and failed to secure action on the resolution which he said was supported by 37 members of the new Senate, opposing acceptance of the constitution of the league of nations as framed.

IRELAND'S CLAIMS.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 4. — The House early to-day by a vote of 216 to 41 adopted a resolution expressing the hope that the peace conference would favorably consider the claims of Ireland to right of self-determination. The resolution now goes to the senate where it is considered improbable that any action can be obtained before final adjournment.

WASHINGTON, March 4. — The newspaper account of the recent dinner given by President Wilson to the members of the Democratic National Committee, saying that the president had bitterly assailed the senators opposing the league of nations campaign, were subject of an address by Senator Sherman of Illinois, a Republican, early this morning in the Senate. The published reports read by the Senator, had referred to the Senators as having "pigmy minds," and that he had declared they should be hanged on gibbets as high as heaven, but pointing in the opposite direction.

Nothing Leaked Out.

"Nothing has leaked out of the peace congress at Paris," said Senator Sherman, "more applicable to the war situation than these threats of the Chief Executive, declaring that one account had quoted the President as saying that the heads of Senators opposing the league were nothing but knots to keep their bodies from unravelling." The Illinois Senator said that the language is classic; "he has added another matchless phrase to those which he has enriched our American political literature."

Senator Sherman spoke at great length and his humorous comments and scathing sarcasm caused the Senators and spectators alike to rock with laughter with only perfunctory attempts at restraint made by the presiding officer.

CALLS IT ATHEISM.

J. H. Burnham, M.P., Makes Reply to A. H. Lytle.

A. H. Lytle, grand secretary of the international order of Good Templars, forwarded to J. H. Burnham, M.P., a letter on behalf of the order, asking that the prohibitory orders be enacted into parliamentary laws, to which Mr. Burnham replied: "What God has not prohibited, but created, I will not rebuke. The awful atheism involved in this movement is far worse than the excess which it seeks to repress."—Hamilton Herald.

MAY SHATTER CIVILIZATION

Premier Lloyd George Addressed Meeting of Employers and Employees

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, March 4.—Premier Lloyd George, in addressing the first meeting to-day of a joint committee of employers and employees constituted by Industrial Parliament last week, said: "Civilization, unless we try to save it, may be precipitated and shattered to atoms. It can only be saved by triumphs, justice and fair play to all classes alike."

The Premier warned the committee that it was the trustee of the welfare and safety of the whole nation. Unemployment must be banished, he said, and workers must never again be put in dread of horrors of distress and hunger.

"Let the workers understand," the Premier declared, "that where there is an increase of products they will get a fair share of it."

Lloyd George said that what was wanted was more confidence and understanding between employers and employees. The employers must never again say, "You are earning too much and our wages must come down."

FUNERAL OF A VETERAN

The funeral of the late John McLeod, former member of the 93rd battalion, and a veteran of the great war, took place yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Great War Veterans' Association. The funeral cortege contained one of the largest turnouts that the Veterans have yet had, as in addition to the firing party and the band, a large number of members of the G.W.V.A. followed the remains to their last resting place in Little Lake cemetery. The Veterans' band, under Bandmaster Hughes, had a very large attendance and was augmented by a number of members of the Temple Band. The funeral service at the late residence on Simcoe street and at the cemetery was conducted by Rev. Robert Pogue.

A Great Sale Starts This Week

A "Whirlwind" of Clearance Prices" begins this week at the Peterboro Bargain House, 440 George Street. Hundreds of articles have been specially priced to such a figure that should startle economy buyers. Preparations have been made to make a swift clearance of all left-over Winters stocks. This clearance is an event that should gladden the hearts of women, for it represents an exceptional opportunity to buy handsome dresses, skirts, hosiery and household goods at a small cost. There is a splendid variety of them, but early shopping is advised for such value-giving will attract great crowds; and there is no guarantee that the big bargains will last long. See large advertisement on first page of to-day's Examiner.

SPARTACANS ARE ACTIVE

Over Twelve Thousand Men Affected in One Plant—Will Call Country-wide Strike

FACTORY COUNCILS

(Canadian Press.)

BERLIN, March 4.—National Spartacus League and Greater Berlin Communist organizations have issued an appeal for an immediate general strike and overthrow of the National Assembly and the present republic. Non-Socialists will declare a country-wide strike. The organizations instruct their followers to assemble at factories to prevent work and direct them to avoid street demonstrations in order that the government may have no opportunity to crush the movement by force. The workmen of the Schwartze plant, who are among the most radical in Berlin, have voted for a great strike, twelve thousand men being affected. This is the first response to the Spartacan appeal.

According to Vorwaerts, the majority of the workmen in metal trades and railway works are favouring a general stoppage of work.

Aim of Strike.

The aims of the proposed strike as called by Berlin Spartacans include introduction of factory councils in all plants to regulate factory affairs and ultimately taking over of factories, the dismissal of government troops and disarmament of all non-Socialists and formation of Red Guard, under control of Soviets, the establishment of revolutionary tribunal to try chief culprits of war, the Hohenzollerns, Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, Gen. Ludendorff, Admiral Tirpitz and traitors to the revolution, President Ebert, Chancellor Scheidemann and Gustav Noske. The establishment of diplomatic relations with the Russian Soviet Republic is likewise demanded.

Two Years For Kinmount Men

Both Men Were Accused of Being Defaulters

Seward Crego, 22 years of age, a farmer's son residing near the village of Kinmount, was sentenced to two years less one day on the Guelph Prison Farm on a charge of being a defaulter. John Bacon, who could neither read or write, although 27 years of age, was given a similar sentence. Bacon also resides on a farm near the village of Kinmount.

Mr. Fenyce Strickland acted for the Crown Attorney, and Mr. John Birnie acted for the prisoners. Both men pleaded guilty to the charge and were put in the witness box by Mr. Birnie in order to show the extraordinary hardships that the acceptance of the call to the colours would have entailed. Crego lives on a 340 acre farm in the township of Galway. His father is 82 years old and quite feeble, and the prisoner was the only one on the farm to work the land.

"How many acres do you work on the farm," asked the Magistrate.

"About a hundred," was the prisoner's reply.

"I never saw one hundred acres in Galway that could be ploughed," replied Mr. Birnie.

Receiving an order to report he went before a tribunal but was refused exemption. An appeal entered before the Central Appeal Judge, Mr. Justice Duff, was productive of no results, and the Government had in the meantime passed an Order-in-Council cancelling all exemptions in the class to which Crego was a member.

His Worship said that although the working of the M.S.A. entailed many hardships yet he could not overrule the appeal courts. It would be a piece of presumption on his part that he was not going to find guilty of.

Could Not Read.

John Bacon who is a farmer in the vicinity of Kinmount in the township of Snowdon. He cannot read or write and when he was ordered to report, sent back the notice.

"With your compliments?" asked the Magistrate.

The counsel for the defence made an eloquent plea for the prisoner. He was a man that had not the advantages of education and very likely saw only his immediate duty.

Bacon was before a tribunal, was refused exemption and appealed, which was also refused.

"He is an ignorant back woods boy," pleaded the defence.

"The way to teach them is not to send them to the stone pile."

Minister of War Has Assumed the Executive Power—Will Protect the Working People

GERMAN FLEET

(Canadian Press.)

COPENHAGEN, March 4. — The Prussian government has declared a state of siege in the Polish districts of Berlin, Spandau and other suburbs of Berlin, in order to protect the bulk of the working people from crime and terror of the minority. Minister of War Noske has assumed executive power.

Marshal Foch has demanded immediate delivery of German mercantile fleet without regard to the question of food supply, says a despatch from Weimar.

38,000 POUNDS OF GOVERNMENT FISH WERE SOLD HERE

Four million pounds of fish were sold last year by the sales branch of the Ontario Fisheries Department. Of that quantity 33,800 pounds were disposed of in Peterborough. Encouraged by this accomplishment, the Department proposes to carry on the work again this year, and S. L. Squire, who had charge of the work, has asked the Council to advise him whether the distributors appointed for Peterborough shall be again nominated. The matter was referred to the Property committee.

Lecture at Lakefield Methodist Church

Girls Won First Prize for Selling Tickets

Lakefield, March 4.—An interesting lecture was given in Lakefield Monday evening an interesting lecture was given in the Lakefield Methodist church by the Rev. H. B. Kenny of Cobourg. The speaker took for his subject "The Human Trinity" A feature of the event for a ticket selling contest in which the boys and girls of the village took part. The girls won first prize for selling the most tickets and the boys were so close they were given a consolation prize.

A Dance

The second dance of the season at Mr. Gordon's house was held Monday evening. About sixty couples took part and an enjoyable evening was spent. Card tables were provided for those who did not wish to dance. Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. G. Graham and Miss M. Grieves of Peterboro and Mr. Robt. McKay of Toronto.

Curling Rink Is A Swimming Pool Now

The curling rink to-day is suggestive of a mill pond or a forebay, or of a symbol of the watery days that have fallen upon an old and honorable game that developed its fine traditions in more spirited time and country.

A canoe might have floated over the liquified surface upon which the stones glided smoothly a few days ago, and there is a feeling that the end is near unless March performs a come back.

The Waddell Cup games yesterday suffered from the slush, and more than one curler sat down in pools that soaked uncomfortably and intimately into his inner garments.

The results of the first round were as follows:

D. Davidson—10:	G. H. Giroux—4
T. Brightman—11:	R. Hicks—8
P. D. Fitzgerald—13	George Benor—4
J. E. A. Fitzgerald—13	W. G. Morrow —5

BIG STRIKE IN NEW YORK

Marine Workers Tie Up All Traffic on the Harbour Front—Tube Service Halted

PARTIAL SERVICE

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, March 4.—New York harbour was completely tied up to-day by a strike of the marine workers' affiliation, affecting practically all men employed on harbour and river craft around this city. It was estimated that 15,000 quit work at six o'clock.

Government craft were exempt from the strike order.

The rivers and the bay looked deserted, with only a few small boats visible this morning.

Ferries were halted and service on tubes under the Hudson river crippled when employees of the tubes trains quit in sympathy with the boatmen. A partial service was being maintained under the river, railroad officials said. Many Jersey commuters, however, were forced to cross the Hudson in launches.

The Demands.

The strike was believed yesterday to have been averted, but at a meeting last night the men decided not to accept the Macy award of an eight hour day without an increase in wages. Union leaders declare that it will be a fight to the finish. The employers have refused to accept the employees' offer of a compromise and demand an eight hour day, increases of thirty per cent in the wage scale, and time and a half for overtime. Leaders of the men declare they cannot accept the War Labour Board's award of an eight hour day without a wage increase.

A meeting of the men will be held to-day to decide whether they will allow ferry boats to run from Jersey and Staten Island to Manhattan with Union men aboard.

No Skating To-night Holding for To-morrow

If Ice is Good Will Be Another Big Night at Rink To-morrow

The soft weather has again caused the Brock Street Rink to close for to-night. Every effort is being made to preserve the ice for the big night to-morrow.

If it turns a little colder the ice will be in first class condition. Every nights skating should be taken advantage of as the season is about over.

THE FUNERAL OF BANDSMAN GRANGE ON SUNDAY NEXT

The funeral of Bandsman Grange will take place from the Armouries on Sunday next March the 9th at 3.30 p.m. All members of the G.W.V.A. and other returned are requested to attend. It is hoped that every member will make a special effort to attend this funeral as the day has been set aside in order that every returned soldier may be able to attend.

P.S.—Please note all funerals in future which take place under the auspices of the G.W.V.A. will be on a Saturday or Sunday, if it can be so arranged, in order that we may have a representative gathering.

DAYLIGHT SAVING ACT WILL STAND IN THE U.S.

WASHINGTON, March 4. — The Daylight Saving Act is safe. It cannot be repealed at this session of Congress. The movement to have it stricken from the statute books was late in getting under way and the friends of the measure nipped it in the bud. It was conceded last night by the opponents that they have failed in their programme to kill it.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

Ottawa advices state that the civil service of Canada is to be remodelled and that a new classification of government positions made by the Civil Service Commission is to be submitted to Parliament. It is claimed that the new system will remove many of the defects that are at present too prevalent in the public service and that positions which have been regarded as sinecures will be swept away. In addition it will be possible to pay civil servants according to the position occupied and the amount of work done. They are results that would be welcomed by the people of Canada generally and it is hoped that the changes to be made will be attended by the success that the government press agents are predicting. It is the general feeling that there are positions in the civil service that are unnecessary. The occupants are being paid for services that are trivial to say the least. One cabinet minister covered the ground recently when he said:

"I have a dozen men in my department earning all the way from $700 to $4,000 a year whom I would be glad to make a present of to anybody who would take them. All the real work of the establishment is done by the others." The condition exists all through the government service. Men who have outgrow their usefulness are being kept at work. It should be possible to retire on a pension those men who after thirty or forty years have been civil servants. They have in their earlier years done good work, but to retain them now is to clog the department, and the public would welcome the retirement of pensions to those who are incapable of thinking. There should be no room in the civil service for inefficient men, and although the promises of the government have not always been fulfilled according to the announcements, yet the people of Canada will hope that the new plans for the improvement of the service will be carried out along the lines that have been indicated.

THE FARCE GOES ON

Yesterday Police Magistrate Dumble sentenced two, young men found guilty of being defaulters under the Military Service Act to imprisonment in jail for two years less one day. In doing so His Worship made it clear that he considered that he had no other alternative and his interpretation of the law has been borne out by other Ontario magistrates. Yet in Quebec the magistrates continue to allow similar offenders to escape with nominal imprisonment of a few hours or with a small fine.

How much longer is this state of affairs to be allowed to go on? Our local contemporary remarks that "the country will never stand long for a law, universal in its scope so far as the Dominion is concerned and operated by the same set of legal machinery, if it is not fairly administered in all parts of the country" and we are heartily in accord with that statement. That the Act is not being evenly administered requires only the reading of the daily newspapers to show. And yet the farce goes on day by day and Parliament discusses almost every other subject under the sun from Bolshevism to the King's dinner for President Wilson. The Examiner has been expecting to hear a protest from the member for West Peterboro in whose riding many of the cases in this district are being tried or from General Sir Sam Hughes, several of whose constituents have been the victims of the Ontario method of dealing with defaulters but so far the voice of neither has been heard demanding that the Act shall be carried out equitably in all parts of Canada.

Throughout all the jungling that has taken place in the administration of the Military Service Act, the Government's fear of Quebec stands out prominently. In Quebec when the conscription measure was first introduced the people were told that it was an exemption act and it must be admitted that the weakness of the Government enabled the people of the neighboring province to make it exactly that. Exemption from service was granted on the most trivial grounds and although the military authorities, goaded on by the indignation of the rest of Canada appeared a large number of cases the slow-moving legal machinery did not produce quick results. When Mr. Justice Duff did get an opportunity of dealing with these appeal cases he reversed many of the decisions but the Canadian Expeditionary force did not benefit appreciably as a result for the men who were notified to report for service promptly disappeared.

Meanwhile in Ontario which under the voluntary system had contributed more than its share of men for the army the Military Service Act was being rigorously enforced. Exemptions except on physical grounds were decidedly below the Quebec mark and as a result the province that had surpassed its quota under the volunteer plan continued to supply most of the recruits under the draft system. The Act that was to drive the young men of Quebec into the army only succeeded in driving many of them into the woods while Ontario which supported the Union Government because it was thought that the conscription measure would even up the enlistment record of the two provinces found that its young manhood was being still further drained.

And now that the war is over Ontario realizes still more easily that there was more glitter than gold about the famous Act. The people who read with indignation of the manner in which young Quebec was escaping from military service consoled themselves with the idea that there would be a day of reckoning when the law closed upon the defaulters. And once more Ontario was wrong. The young men in Quebec who preferred life in the woods to a military career have been trapping daily home, paying $5 fines or spending a few hours in jail while here the men who did not answer the call are being punished with long jail sentences.

The whole question of dealing with the defaulters is a matter that Parliament must take up without delay. The present condition of affairs is more than even the long, suffering patience of Canada can endure.

BOLSHEVISM EXPOSED

What is the logical end and aim of Bolshevism? This is a question often asked by those who believe that possibly there may be something in its tenets and doctrine worthy of belief and support. It is primarily to do away with capital, it aims at the abolition of an employing class, the placing everybody on terms of complete equality with everybody else, the creation of a world where no one possesses any rights and privileges which cannot be claimed by his next door neighbor or any one who comes along, where, as in paradise, there is no marrying, or giving in marriage, where women have no rights but are liable to be handed over to the first claimant, where a man may not believe in God or retain and educate his own children but where the family and all that it implies are utterly abolished. Finally a prominent Bolshevist has admitted that Bolshevism can be completely successful only when no one can either read or write.

An English trades unionist named Keeling, whose tendencies toward Bolshevism enabled him to stay in Russia longer than other foreigners, has just succeeded in getting out of the country, and, having tried the social scheme and found it utterly wanting, declares, after five years spent in close contact with the Russian working classes, followed by his Bolshevik experiences, that the new regime is now nothing but "a starvation conspiracy." The Bolshevik system has been tried but has failed but they dare not now let go, and by starving and oppressing a people already reduced to misery beyond the power of organized resistance. Lenine and Trotzky know that Bolshevism has utterly failed, but they dare not now let go, and so they simply "work their machines round and round and grind out anybody they think is dangerous."

Mr. Keeling was asked why the Russians do not revolt and smash the whole thing, and he explains their submissiveness as by the fact that they have grown used to tyranny. Nevertheless, he says, they are sick to death of Bolshevism and would do anything to get rid of it if they knew how. It has been said that every country gets the government which it deserves, but surely it cannot be said that any country, however lacking spirit and courage or the moral qualities which go to the making of a great nation, can deserve such a government as that of Lenine and Trotzky. The Russians are really a great people with fine qualities of courage and virtue. But they are in the mass uneducated and they lack leaders, because the best of them have been killed or driven from the country by a number of desperate adventurers who, by vile propaganda and lavishly spent foreign money, have managed to get hold of the reins of power.

Possibly a great leader may yet arise in Russia though it is difficult to see what he could do when the vast majority of the people are starving and in a state of abject misery. Surely it is the duty of other free peoples ot combine and go to the rescue, and by once more setting up a stable and free government in Russia not only restore peace and happiness to that country but prevent the spread of pernicious doctrines elsewhere—New York Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

According to an Ottawa despatch, the Senate is working "club in hand," to lay the prohibition legislation low when it is presented to them. Another reason for the abolition of the Senate.

The first units of Canada's Expeditionary Force to sail for home are on their way. They should and will receive a royal welcome.

Rumour is already picking a successor to the late Auditor-General. Is there not a returned soldier with the necessary qualifications to fill this important position.

Kingston is taking advantage of the Provincial Act regarding housing. 200 houses are needed in that city. How about Peterborough?

DOESN'T LOOK HER AGE.

"There is a widespread belief that when you say of a woman, "She doesn't look her age," you are paying her a great compliment. But this is not necessarily true. It may merely mean that maturity has brought her nothing of experience or development valuable enough to bring lines of character to her face. It may mean that she has devoted herself to the supremely petty purpose of maintaining the appearance of youthfulness.

Youth represents a charmed period. We cannot stop there, no matter how much we long to. And if we must inexorably go on to middle age why not make that signify something splendid and charming, too, with a dignity and a purpose of its own?

And women who long to remain young are victims of their own vanity. The shrewd shop assistant sizes them up and bring out a garment which she advises is "very youthful in cut," or "Here is something very simple and girlish in this style, madam." Do not take this as a tribute to your apparent lack of age, dear lady. The shop assistant, after you have departed, says to her nearest fellow-worker, "They all rush for that simple and girlish stuff. Never knew it to fail. The older they are, the quicker they rush."

If life can't give us any larger interest than making ourselves up to seem younger than we are—and who really cares what our age is anyway?—then life has wronged us, and we have been blind indeed to its great possibilities.

THE COUNTRY IS PROGRESSING

When one realizes the comforts we enjoy today and those enjoyed by our ancestors two hundred years ago, we can but pity the people who struggled along and lived at that early day. The following law was in force two hundred years ago in the New Haven colony:

"Whosoever shall envelgh or draw the affections of any maide or maide servant, either to himself or others, without first obtaining the consent of her parents, shall pay to the plantation for the first offense, 40 shillings; the second, 4 pounds; for the third he shall be imprisoned or corporeously punished." And under the law the police reports give the particulars of the prosecution of Jacobeth Martin and Sara Tuttle; for sitting on a chestie together, his arms around her waiste, and her arms upon his shoulder or about his neck, and continuing in the sinful posture about half an hour, in which time he kyssed her and she kyssed him, or they kyssed one another, as ye witnesses testified." Imagine one of the Yale students being arrested every time he hugged a "maide" there at New Haven at the present day. The country is progressing—anyone can see that.

The new vest collars are made of pique.

New tunics are rather long than short.

In Quebec when the conscription measure was first introduced the people were told that it was an exemption act, and it must be admitted that the weakness of the Government enabled the people of the neighboring province to make it exactly that. Exemption from service was granted on the most trivial grounds and although the military authorities, goaded on by the indignation of the rest of Canada appeared a large number of cases, the slow-moving legal machinery did not produce quick results. When Mr. Justice Duff did get an opportunity of dealing with these appeal cases he reversed many of the decisions but the Canadian Expeditionary force did not benefit appreciably as a result for the men who were notified to report for service promptly disappeared.

Meanwhile in Ontario which under the voluntary system had contributed more than its share of men for the army the Military Service Act was being rigorously enforced. Exemptions except on physical grounds were decidedly below the Quebec mark and as a result the province that had surpassed its quota under the volunteer plan continued to supply most of the recruits under the draft system. The Act that was to drive the young men of Quebec into the army only succeeded in driving many of them into the woods while Ontario which supported the Union Government because it was thought that the conscription measure would even up the enlistment record of the two provinces found that its young manhood was being still further drained.

And now that the war is over Ontario realizes still more easily that there was more glitter than gold about the famous Act. The people who read with indignation of the manner in which young Quebec was escaping from military service consoled themselves with the idea that there would be a day of reckoning when the law closed upon the defaulters. And once more Ontario was wrong. The young men in Quebec who preferred life in the woods to a military career have been trooping daily home, paying $5 fines or spending a few hours in jail while here, the men who did not answer the call are being punished with long jail sentences.

The whole question of dealing with the defaulters is a matter that Parliament must take up without delay. The present condition of affairs is more than even the long, suffering patience of Canada can endure.

BOLSHEVISM EXPOSED

What is the logical end and aim of Bolshevism? This is a question often asked by those who believe that possibly there may be something in its tenets and doctrine worthy of belief and support. It is primarily to do away with capital, it aims at the abolition of an employing class, the placing everybody on terms of complete equality with everybody else, the creation of a world where no one possesses any rights and privileges which cannot be claimed by his next door neighbor or any one who comes along, where, as in paradise, there is

"Boy Scout to the Rescue" film at the Royal

"Boy Scout to the Rescue" film, brought by Mr. Pappas and the Local Council to induce the mothers and fathers of boys to see what a Boy Scout learns.

The only film with a real Boy Scout all through it, under the personal supervision of Baden-Powell himself, who is seen in the pictures.

This film will be shown every Wednesday and Thursday for five weeks, starting March 5 and 6, till April 2 and 3.

Series tickets for the five weeks can be had from the Boy Scouts. Buy your ticket from the Scouts. Attend the picture and boost the Scout movement in Peterborough.

no marrying or giving in marriage, where women have no rights but are liable to be handed over to the first claimant, where a man may not believe in God or retain and educate his own children but where the family and all that it implies are utterly abolished. Finally a prominent Bolshevist has admitted that Bolshevism can be completely successful only when no one can either read or write.

An English trades unionist named Keeling, whose tendencies toward Bolshevism enabled him to stay in Russia longer than other foreigners, has just succeeded in getting out of the country, and, having tried the social scheme and found it utterly wanting, declares, after five years spent in close contact with the Russian working classes, followed by his Bolshevik experiences, that the new regime is now nothing but "a starvation conspiracy." The Bolshevik system has been tried but has failed but they dare not now let go, and by starving and oppressing a people already reduced to misery beyond the power of organized resistance. Lenine and Trotzky know that Bolshevism has utterly failed, but they dare not now let go, and so they simply "work their machines round and round and grind out anybody they think is dangerous."

Mr. Keeling was asked why the Russians do not revolt and smash the whole thing, and he explains their submissiveness by thefact that they have grown used to tyranny. Nevertheless, he says, they are sick to death of Bolshevism and would do anything to get rid of it if they knew how. It has been said that every country gets the government which it deserves, but surely it cannot be said that any country, however lacking spirit and courage or the moral qualities which go to the making of a great nation, can deserve such a government as that of Lenine and Trotzky. The Russians are really a great people with fine qualities of courage and virtue. But they are in the mass uneducated and they lack leaders, because the best of them have been killed or driven from the country by a number of desperate adventurers who, by vile propaganda and lavishly spent foreign money, have managed to get hold of the reins of power.

Possibly a great leader may yet arise in Russia though it is difficult to see what he could do when the vast majority of the people are starving and in a state of abject misery Surely it is the duty of other free peoples ot combine and go to the rescue, and by once more setting up a stable and free government in Russia not only restore peace and happiness to that country but prevent the spread of pernicious doctrines elsewhere—New York Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

According to an Ottawa despatch, the Senate is working "club in hand," to lay the prohibition legislation low when it is presented to them. Another reason for the abolition of the Senate.

The first units of Canada's Expeditionary Force to sail for home are on their way. They should and will receive a royal welcome.

Rumour is already picking a successor to the late Auditor-General. Is there not a returned soldier with the necessary qualifications to fill this important position.

Kingston is taking advantage of the Provincial Act regarding housing. 200 houses are needed in that city. How about Peterborough?

DOESN'T LOOK HER AGE.

"There is a widespread belief that when you say of a woman, "She doesn't look her age," you are paying her a great compliment. But this is not necessarily true. It may merely mean that maturity has brought her nothing of experience or development valuable enough to bring lines of character to her face. It may mean that she has devoted herself to the supremely petty purpose of maintaining the appearance of youthfulness.

Youth represents a charmed period. We cannot stop there, no matter how much we long to. And if we must inexorably go on to middle age why not make that signify something splendid and charming, too, with a dignity and a purpose of its own?

And women who long to remain young are victims of their own vanity. The shrewd shop assistant sizes them up and bring out a garment which she advises is "very youthful in cut," or "Here is something very simple and girlish in this style, madam." Do not take this as a tribute to your apparent lack of age, dear lady. The shop assistant, after you have departed, says to her nearest fellow-worker, "They all rush for that simple and girlish stuff. Never knew it to fail. The older they are, the quicker they rush."

If life can't give us any larger interest than making ourselves up to seem younger than we are—and who really cares what our age is anyway?—then life has wronged us, and we have been blind indeed to its great possibilities.

THE COUNTRY IS PROGRESSING

When one realizes the comforts we enjoy today and those enjoyed by our ancestors two hundred years ago, we can but pity the people who struggled along and lived at that early day. The following law was in force two hundred years ago in the New Haven colony:

"Whosoever shall enveigh or draw the affections of any maide or maide servant, either to himself or others, without first obtaining the consent of her parents, shall pay to the plantation for the first offense, 40 shillings; the second, 4 pounds; for the third he shall be imprisoned or corporeously punished." And under the law the police reports give the particulars of the prosecution of Jacobeth Martin and Sara Tuttle, for sitting on a chestie together, his arms around her waiste, and her arms upon his shoulder or about his neck, and continuing in the sinful posture about half an hour, in which time he kyssed her and she kyssed him, or they kyssed one another, as ye witnesses testified." Imagine one of the Yale students being arrested every time he hugged a "maide" there at New Haven at the present day. The country is progressing—anyone can see that.

The new vest collars are made of pique.

New tunics are rather long than short.

Church Woman's Association Tea

Mrs. C. C. Abbot Placed Her Home at Disposal of Association

Under the auspices of the Church Woman's Association of St. John's church, a most successful and charming musicale and tea was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. C. Abbot, who placed her home at the disposal of the Association for a tea cup and saucer shower to furnish cups and saucers for the kitchen at St. John's Sunday school. About one hundred attended the entertainment and seventy cups and a sum of money were received.

The guests were received in the drawing room, which was gaily decorated in daffodils by Mrs. Abbot and Mrs. Seels, president of the C.W.A., while Mrs. C. L. Beer had charge of the tea room, where a profusion of carnations lent a pretty effect.

Musical Programme.

During the afternoon a well selected musical programme was given, to which the Misses Harrington contributed, home very enjoyable piano and violin solos, Miss Tamblyn of Toronto, vocal and piano selections of her own composition, Miss MacLaren vocal solos, and Mrs. MacDonald vocal solos. Each item by the talented artists was heartily appreciated by all who attended.

CONCLUDING SESSION OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Officers Elected for the Ensuing Year—Interesting Addresses by Able Speakers.

At the concluding session of the Sunday school convention held last night in the George street Methodist church, the following were elected as the officers of the Peterborough Sunday School Association for the coming year:

President—A. Mowat.
1st Vice-Pres.—C. C. Parsons.
2nd Vice-Pres.—J. A. McKone.
Treasurer—A. T. Johnstone.
Secretary—J. J. Turner.
Supt. Primary Dept.— Mrs. E. D. Lewis.
Supt. Secondary Dept. — Hughson Johnstone.
Supt. Adult Dept.—C. E. Sisson.
Supt. Home Dept—A. McNabb.
Supt. Teachers' Training Dept. Mrs. R. H. Kenner.
Supt. Missionary Dept.—Mrs. A. Lane.
Supt. Temperance Dept. — F. E. Kerr.

The Executive is composed of the above mentioned officers and the Superintendent of the different Sunday schools of the city.

Tribute to Mr. Turner.

Mr. Joseph Wearing, the retiring president, who occupied the chair, welcomed the Sunday school workers to the convention, and in a short address paid a warm tribute to the unfailing devotion shown by Mr. J. J. Turner, the secretary, to the duties his office imposed upon him. Although an intensely busy man at all times, an alderman, the head of the Board of Trade, and an active member of several other public institutions, he has never failed the Sunday School Association or been too busy to do the necessary work of the society.

The Child in Our Midst.

Rev. P. K. Dayfoot gave an interesting talk on "The Child in Our Midst." The greatest task or question before the Canadian people to-day is to know what to do with the child, he said. We need not wait for the solution of what to do as He has told us, but the difficulty lies in working out his instructions of putting the child in our midst. There are four ways of so doing, physically. To some it may appear needly necessary to mention the physical department in connection with religion, but we must have a healthy body to house the healthy soul. The child must be cared for mentally. Speaking of this necessity Mr. Dayfoot spoke strongly of the necessity of extending the age coming under compulsory education. The child, he said, should not leave school until at least 16 years of age. No child of fourteen years of age has any right to be thrust into business of any kind. The child must be put in our midst socially. If to-day we have anything to ask God's forgiveness for, it is the blunder we have made in the social and play life of our children. We must provide the right substitute for what play the children have had. Science and observation have shown us that environment is a stronger feature than heredity and knowing this it is the bounden duty of the people of to-day to provide the right environment. Lastly we must put the child in our midst spiritually. To-day there are scores of children the Sunday school has not reached and are growing up without the factor that is the greatest influence there can be had in life. In looking after the child's spiritual welfare we do the Father's business and will receive His blessing.

Laying Foundations.

In an interesting and instructive talk on 'Laying Foundations' Rev. T. J. Halpenny, B.A., made a strong plea for the men and women of to-day to take up the work in the Sunday school which is the foundation of the child's welfare. The greatest opportunity for fulfilling the highest law of God, which is to devote one's life to the betterment of the lives of those about us, lies in training the child and Sunday school work affords this opportunity.

FRANCE AND ITALY ADVANCE ALL CLOCKS

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, March 3. — The daylight saving plan will be effective in France and Algeria from March 1 to October 5, and in Italy from March 2 to an undetermined date, the Commercial Cable Company announced to-day. In each case the legal time is advanced one hour.

MONTREAL HAS RAISED OVER $161,000

But Several Suggest $200,000 As Fitting Aim for S. A. Fund.

MONTREAL, March 3.—With an object in view of $150,000 for the Salvation Army after-war work, the campaign which came to a close Friday so far as the canvassing is concerned, showed a total of $161,008, and it was announced that in all probability this amount would be considerably higher ultimately, as nearly all the teams reported that their returns were incomplete. On the other hand, throughout the drive it has been intimated that the objective was too low for Montreal, and all speakers have suggested that the final amount should be something like $250,000.

With tag day Friday and the cleaning up by the teams it is yet possible that $200,000 at least may be reached. Although teams have worked strenuously, it is believed that many citizens have not been reached

American Describes Horrors Of The Red Rule In Russia

People of Every Class Except the Scum Subjected to Violence by the Mob—Strip Women in the Streets—Class Hatred Preached

ENGLISH SAILORS JAILED

WASHINGTON — The Senate committee investigating Bolshevism head the narratives of two Americans who passed through some of the horrors which beset Russia. One of them was Roger E. Simmons of Hagerstown, Md., who was in Russia as the accredited representative of the Department of Commerce, and attached to the American Embassy staff.

"I went to Russia as an attache," he said, "of the Department of Commerce to study the sources of lumber in Russia and Siberia in order to gather information for the Government for use in the solution of the problem which involves the reconstruction of the devastated sections of France, Belgium, Italy, Serbia, and Greece. If the United States is to supply most of the materials that will be needed it will mean the placing of an enormous burden on our forestry reserve, and it was the hope and expectation of the Government that forests of Russia, in Asia and in Europe, could be used to ease the burden that this vast problem of reconstruction will entail.

He told of his trials in the stricken country and described the methods of the Reds.

"The Bolshevist revolution has as its object the putting into power of a few over the many. The worst feature of their programme, and this feature is always emphasized, is that of the spirit of class hatred. In every corner of Russia these people are preaching the religion of class hatred.

"In Petrograd I witnessed on one occasion the undressing of a refined woman by several soldiers of the Red Guard. It was in the Nevsky Prospekt at about 6:30 p.m. I heard the scream of the woman, who had been taken into a side street, and saw the soldiers steal the clothes from off her body. The forcible disrobing was accompanied on the part of the soldiers with insulting language. This was just one case and most of the women subjected to these indignities were women not of the aristocracy, but of the middle class.

"Bolshevism is directed against every decent man, woman and child who will not bow down to the dictates of Trotzky and Lenine. In other words they are now fighting the very class that in the beginning they said they were struggling to put on top and in control. They are fighting day and night now to put on top not the proletariat as we know it but the very scum of humanity.

"And they are working with all the devilishness they have to spread their doctrines throughout the world. As late as November 18, last, Lenine said in Moscow, and I have a copy of the statement with me, that they had sympathizers with great organizations behind them in Scandinavia, in Germany, in England, and in France. He also named this country as one of his targets they were aiming at.

Expect to Crush America.

"'The power that has crushed Germany,' he said, 'is also the power that will in the end crush England and the United States.'

"On another occasion and within the last few weeks, Lenine said that this year will decide whether or not Bolshevism is to triumph in other parts of the world.

"And I have the information, given to me in Petrograd, that already the agents of Trotzky and Lenine have been sent to this country, and that they have in operation a central bureau of propaganda somewhere in this country. This propaganda is false and at the same time incidious. I have been astounded at some of the people who are willing to take it seriously. Only a few days ago I was at the La Salle Hotel in Chicago, and a Major of the United States Army told me that they had found a great mass of this treasonable stuff in a camp where large numbers of American soldiers are being demobilized.

"Do you know of any agents who have been sent here by the Bolshevist Government?" asked Senator Wolcott.

"I heard in Petrograd that a man known as Albert Rhys Williams was one of them. I heard him speak in the shadow of the Capitol a few nights ago in which speech he lauded the Bolsheviki. This man, I was informed, was employed by the Bolshevist Government and was sent here to organize their propaganda bureau. If I gave my authority it would mean the death of certain persons in Russia. It was of the highest. I know agents who were sent to Denmark, Sweden and other European countries.

"In June and July of last year I was on duty in Vologda; I had in my possession letters of safe conduct from the highest authorities in the Bolshevist Government. It was at this time that Lenine notified the allied embassies and legations which were then in Vologda to transfer their headquarters to Moscow, a command that the ladies refused to obey. Ambassador Francis told Lenine that if he wanted to see either his colleagues or himself to come to Vologda. The matter became so acute as that the allied diplomats and their staffs, transferred to Archangel, leaving one secretary of the American Embassy, a Mr. Arnold, myself, and the staff of the National City Bank in Vologda. We were the only foreigners left.

"Mr. Arnold was ordered to Moscow then, and when he declined to go the Red Guards forced him to go at the point of a bayonet. The bank staff was also forced to go, and I was left alone in Vologda. The reason I was left behind was due to the fact that I was in bed with pneumonia. When I recovered so as to be able to leave my room I went to the Commisarie of city and showed him my papers. He looked them over and said they read very well. He told me in a way that aroused my suspicion to return two days later. The Chief Commisarie was a Russian named Vedloff. Two days later I returned and was referred to his assistant, a Jewish apostate named Eiduk, who is of Lettish origin.

Stripped of His Passport.

"Eiduk asked to see my pass. 'He took my American' passport and glanced over it, crumpled it up, and threw it on the floor.

"'No such passports,' he said, 'will be recognized. In thirty minutes you will be in prison.'

"In a few minutes Red Guards appeared, anad I was taken to a prison car which was pitched on to the private train of Eiduk, who had as his private car that once used by the Czar. It was then about noon. I had as a secretary a Russian, who was a Socialist and a former supporter of Kerensky. I asked my secretary to call on Eiduk in his car and to inform him that I was an official of the Government of the United States, and to demand what he intended to do. Eiduk sent back the message that I would find out at 6:30 a.m. the next day, and added that all the American officials in Moscow were then in prison, the latter statement being false.

"Arriving in Moscow I was hurried to prison and locked up in a cell with eighty-five other men. All bedding was taken away from us, our clothes, except a few we wore were taken, all our money and even toilet articles appropriated. I remained in this cell for three days. At the end of that time I was transferred to another prison and put in a cell with twenty-five other men. I was there four or five days, making the total of my imprisonment eleven days.

"My time I spent trying to find a way to communicate with neutral consulates, but every effort was balked. In the celel with me were five young English sailors who were being starved to death. They had been in the cell twenty-eight days, and were so weak that they could not crawl across the floor. Not one among them could stand for one second on his feet, so frightful was their condition. I decided to try and bribe a Littish Guard who I was able to find out had lived for a time in Kansas. For 100 rubles he agreed to take a message to the Swedish Consul. Thirty-six hours elapsed before I heard from the Consul. Then I got a loaf of bread and note from Dr. Huntington of our embassy staff, who was in Moscow, telling me to keep my nerve. Four hours later the Swedish Consul General succeeded in getting me released.

"In the first prison I was in I came in contact with a great many people and I talked with them and got their stories. I had expected to find that most of the prisoners were of the nobility or else were men of considerable means. Such, however, was not the case. They were for the most part of the middle class, mechanics, printers, shopkeepers, peasant farmers, loyal soldiers, merchants, etc. I talked with them all and fully 80 per cent. of them did not know why they were in prison. They had simply been arrested and no reasons given.

"The head of the committee that condemned these men was a Lett named Peters. He had lived in England at one time and, with this man Eiduk of Vologda, is considered the most blood-thirsty monster in Russia. The Italian Consul General in Moscow told me that one on occasion he saw Peters sign the death warrants of seventy-one men without even taking the trouble to see what their names were or to find out what they were charged with.

"While I was in jail twenty-three men were taken out of the cell in order, it was said, to make room for twenty-six other men who had just been arrested. The twenty-three were never heard of again. There was another poor fellow with us who was under sentence of death when I left. He was a peasant, who had refused to give up the little food that he happened to have in his home. I might also recall the case of an aged high priest, who was, he told me, a close friend of Dr. John R. Mott of Montclair. He translated many of Dr. Mott's books, he said. He, too, was executed. He was a brave old fellow, of about sixtyfive. His last words were a plea to me to tell the American people about the horrors Russia is passing through.

Look to President Wilson.

"I might cite case after case like these, all of them just as horrible. In nearly every instance the poor victim was ignorant of why he was in arrest or under sentence of death. You ask me what became of those English sailor lads? God only knows. They were nearly at the end when I left them. They were being fed on dried fish once a day and a little hot diet that will kill any man if it lasts long enough."

"Are these people looking to us for help?" Senator Sterling asked.

"They are praying to President Wilson. That is actually what they are doing, praying to President Wilson."

"What is going to save Russia in the end?"

"In my opinion, the Church, for Russia, at heart, is deeply religious.

"Everywhere you go you hear the wails of the people, on trains, an streets, and in the houses. It is a situation of combined horror and despair which has no counterpart in history."

Executors of Mrs. R. O'Brien's Estate Allege That Street Drainage Was at Fault—Fair Wage Clause in Hunter Street Bridge Specifications — Request For Bathing Places.

OPERA HOUSE ASSESSMENT

The City Council disposed of the business presented at the regular meeting last night in two hours and fifteen minutes, and the Aldermen were probably building bridges in dreamland during the later hours to which they are wont by habit or necessity to prolong the usual session. Although they were not actually decided to hold semi-monthly meetings the trend has been in that direction, and the Council has virtually adopted this plan. All the members were present last night except Alderman Murray.

Assessment Cancelled

Messrs Gordon & O'Brien wrote that they had been instructed by a ratepayer to point out that the fixed assessment on the Grand Opera House, granted to J. J. Turner & Sons, did not apply to the land, and that it terminated with sale to any purchaser and that the premises should now be assessed at their actual value. This communication will be referred to W. J. Henry, Assessor.

Ask City to Have Price

A. E. Dixon, solicitor for the executors of the Edward Green estate, wrote asking the Council what price they considered a fair offer for that section of the Government reserve at he east end of Charlote street, which the estate desires to obtain. Referred to Committee of the Whole.

Request for Bathing Places

A. G. Roberts, president of the Playgrounds Association, requested the Council to make an appropriation for the preparation and maintenance of two new public bathing places, one in Ashburnham and one in the south end. The success of the Inverlea Park bathing place last summer and the great need it supplied as a local pleasure resort was demonstrated by the atendance of nearly 15,000 persons who enjyed bathing during the summer mnths. Referred to the Prperty Committee.

Motion to Quash By-law

City Solicitor Widdifield reported the receipt from R. R. Hall, solicitor for G. W. Hatton, of a notice of motion to quash the McDonald St. sewer by-law. Referred to Board of Works.

Would Tax Churches

A letter from G. W. Bartley, secretary of the County Orange Lodge, submitted a resolution passed by the lodge requesting the Council to approve a movement by which all churches would be required to pay taxes. Referred to Legal Committee.

Claim $600 Damages

Gordon & O'Brien, solicitors for the executors of the estate of the late Mrs. Rosanna O'Brien, announced a claim for $600 damages to the house at 360 Downie, belonging to the estate which, it is alleged, was damaged by water pouring against the and undermining the foundation. It is contended by the executors that this damage might have been prevented by proper drainage. Referred to the Legal Committee.

Would Abolish Qualifications

Brantford Council forwarded a resolution asking the Government to abolish the property qualifications for municipal offices, and asked Peterboro to indorse it.

Ald. Edgar moved, seconded by Ald. Garside that this communication be received.

Ald. Gainey moved an amendment seconded by Ald. Taylor, that it be referred to the Committee of the Whole.

The amendment carried.

Referring to the Board of Works report, Ald. Gainey suggested that the specifications for the Hunter Street Bridge should include a Fair Wage clause. He explained that by this provision the contractor would be required to pay the prevailing union wages to the various workmen engaged. He moved, seconded by Morris, that this clause be inserted, and the Council adopted the proposal.

Ald. Edgar remarked that the specifications called for the employment of local labor, "all things being equal."

"Isn't it likely that a Fair Wage clause will run the cost of the bridge away up?" he asked.

"I can't see that it will add much to the cost," Ald. Gainey replied.

Ald. McIntyre stated that with a Fair Wage clause the contractor would have to pay the scale of wages set by the local unions for the various branches of the work. He was in favor of the insertion of the clause.

Ald. Phelan suggested that this question be referred back to the Board of Works, but the Council passed the motion without opposition.

Ald. Edgar moved, seconded by Ald. Turner that the F.R.J. McPherson Co. Ltd., be permitted to open a coal chute in the sidewalk in front of their new store on George street north of Brock Street.

More Trees To Fall

The Council sanctioned the removal of a tree in frnt of Mr. Thomas Stenton's residence at the corner of Reid and Dublin Streets. The tree half way down Chamberlain Street a branch of which pierced W. J. Perry's car, was lead to the axeman by Ald. Garside. Ald. Taylor doomed another in front of J. Hall's house on Water Street, and Ald Edgar set out the plank for an offending tree on Rubidge Street south of Townsend, which rubs against a nearby telegraph post when the wind blows, and disturbs the neighbors in their sleep.

Wants Pavement on Water St.

Ald. Turner asked for an estimate of the cost of paving Water Street from Charlotte Street to King Street and also King Street from Water Street. There was a great deal of traffic over this street to the C.P.R. freight sheds he stated. The Turner Co. and Mr. J. J. Duffus were willing to pay their share of the cost, and Ald. Turner volunteered to interview the other property-holders who would be affected and ask for their approval.

Mr. J. H. Burnham M.P., Refers To Need Of An Alcoholic Tonic

Some Spirited Correspondence Between Mr. Burnham and Mr. A. B. Cunningham of This City.

The following correspondence explains itself:

House of Commons,
Ottawa, March 3, 1919.

Mr. A. B. Cunningham,
Secretary, Social Service Dept.,
Trinity Methodist Church,
Peterboro, Ont.:

Dear Sir: I received a letter from what I took to be the lay association of Trinity Church, through you, a week or so ago. It contained a resolution requiring "bone-dry prohibition until, as you say, after the vote is taken, or plebiscite.

I wrote in reply and asked if your total extinction resolution included alcohol produced by the Creator without the intervention of men; because frankly I do not know as much as the Creator, nor as much as many men, and I bow in absolute reverence to the Creator and His works even though they may not be just the same as I would have done myself. In that case my opinions and yours should both be subject to severe revision. We must be wrong, for God cannot be; therefore, the letter which I have received from you this morning may indicate your opinions but they are not sufficiently explicit for me; nor am I to be coaxed by any sneer on your part, believe me. I have had much to put up with this last year or two in the way of abuse, and I am just about getting to the end of it. The letter to which I refer is as follows:

Peterboro, March 3, 1919.
331 Reid Street.

Mr. J. H. Burnham,
Ottawa,

Dear Sir: Your letter erroneously addressed to Trinity Laymen's Association has just reached me. You need not worry about such an evasive question as alcohol produced by nature alone. Please attend to our request (avoiding all freak side issues) that the order in Council be confirmed and continued by effective parliamentary action until such time as a vote on the question is taken after demobilization is completed. By that time you may have learned the generally accepted meaning of bone-dry prohibition.

Yours truly,
A. B. Cunningham,
Secretary Social Service Department, Trinity Methodist Church.

With further reference to the above letter I may say that I am in favor of the strictest possible regulation. No one can say for one minute that I have ever shown myself in the slightest degree sympathetic with the shady side of life, and I have suffered in popularity accordingly — which I am quite wiling to do. I have had much to fight of a particularly vicious character in this respect; but however, I am quite willing and able to do it—when I am not, then I will quit.

In the meantime, let me say that the late epidemic and the pitiful condition of people who required the assistance of a tonic, attracted my very intense attention. Scores of people that I met with were in absolute need of the assistance of an alcoholic tonic; and though I come of a doctor's family I will not hand everybody over to the doctors for prescriptions and such tonics as they may deem fit to give in lieu of alcohol. An alcohol tonic is something that can be taken by all people at all times without danger, which is not so with medicinal tonics.

Ninety-five per cent. of the population is and always was strong and respectable; and it is time that we found out some way of treating the other five per cent., except at the expense of the ninety-five. If in my opinion prohibition, total and absolute, were a good thing for the people, I would vote for it to-morrow; but I do not think, for the reasons I have given above, that we can fly to remedies, and get away with it, such as total extinction; in other words called "bone-dry prohibition." The effect will be, I am afraid, to overturn the immense advance which has been made in temperance, which I may observe is due to the improvement of public opinion, and the more public opinion is cultivated in this respect, the more it will be found necessary to remove the vicious of all sorts, like weeds from the garden, and by means of detention farms, or otherwise ,to save them from themselves.

No doubt by prohibition of evil, Hell itself could have been dispensed with and the world made perfectly happy; but the way to salvation was through a crucifixion, and this we must remember. I do not understand it, but I am quite willing to leave it with God, rather than with you. Mr. Cunningham, and I shall not attempt to disprove him.

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

Army Scandal Is Stirring England

Lieut.-Col. Norman Cecil Rutherford, winner of a D.S.O. medal, shot and killed Major Miles Seton in a London drawing room because the Rutherford home had been broken up. This was the substance of testimony delivered at the second day's sitting of the coroner's jury, which returned a verdict of murder against Colonel Seton.

Winifred Lowth, the Rutherford's housemaid, testified that Major Seton visited the Rutherford home on a number of occasions while Colonel Rutherford was at the front. The men were supposed to be close friends. On one visit Seton stayed three days, according to the witness. At another time he remained at the Rutherford home a week.

Wife Planned to Get a Divorce.

The Rutherfords home life had not been happy during the last two years, according to witnesses. Theirs had been a romantic marriage, an elopement because of the objections of her father, Sir James Roberts, of Strathallan Castle, Scotland. The culmination of their domestic troubles seems to have been reached when Mrs. Rutherford sent the following letter to her husband, who was then at the front:

Dear Norman. When I wrote to you seven weeks ago expressing my real feelings with regard to our future, I knew that you would in all probability attribute the cause of it to extreme mental and physical strain, due to what I was having to cope with quite alone at the time I, therefore, carefully waited for a reasonable time to elapse before writing to ask you to put no obstacles in the way of divorce if I bring an action against you. I need not waste words in lengthy explanations, and your knowledge of my nature will make you realize what it has cost me to write even these few lines. I want to gain my freedom with as little suffering to you as possible, and if for the children's sakes you will agree to carry the thing through with as little publicity as possible, I will hand over to you the three elder children.

Honestly, I believe they would be happier with you, and they would at least give you some hold on life. I should not feel that you were utterly broken. This is a difficult letter to write. Please make the rest of my task as easy as possible for the sake of all that I have borne for you.

Locked Wife in Her Room.

It was not long after the receipt of this letter that Colonel Rutherford returned to London. A violent quarrel with his wife ensued and he locked her in her room, packed several letters he had found in a travelling bag and set out to find Seton. He came upon the latter at the home of the major's cousin, Sir Malcolm Seton. The shooting followed.

Lady Seton testified at the inquest that Colonel Rutherford asked her to burn a crumpled letter he held in his hand. This was while she and the stayed were alone with his victim awaiting the arrival of a physician whom Sir Malcolm had gone after Informed Wife of the Murder.

Mrs. Rutherford was excused from testifying at the inquest. The colonel did not appear. It was brought out that as soon as Rutherford was arrested he sent a message to his wife, saying, "I am sorry, an awful thing has happened. Seton is dead."

The Rutherfords have six children. Major Seton was the godfather of the youngest child, a boy.

Owing to the prominence of the parties involved, both in military and social circles, the case is causing unusual interest in London. Moreover, it is indicated that the plea of the unwritten law, which never has been received favourably in English court, will be resorted to in this instance, the defence laying heavy emphasis upon the charge that Colonel Rutherford's home was invaded while he was at the front.

FRANCE'S MINE PROBLEM.

Reconstruction of Coal Districts to Cost 75,000,000,000 Francs.

PARIS.—France is faced with a most formidable task in reconstructing the important coal and industrial districts of the Department of the Nord and the Pas de Galais, and it will cost 75,000,000,000 francs, according to a statement made to the French Senate by Louis Loucheur, Minister of Industrial Reconstruction. The Germans destroyed 101 coal pits, and M. Loucheur said he hoped that if the French had luck and worked very hard they might be able to produce 3,000 tons daily by the end of 1919, instead of 75,000 tons, the output before the war. The repair of the mines will cost more than 2,000,000,000 francs, and cannot be accomplished in less than ten years.

The factories in the district have no raw material and the machinery has been destroyed or carried away. M. Loucher said it would take several years and 40,000 freight cars to bring back the machinery taken to Germany.

"There is not one of the problems relative to the reconstruction of the liberated regions that can be solved quickly," the Minister added. "We will do our best for these unfortunate regions, but I must say again that no satisfactory results will be obtained in a year or two. The work of generations has been destroyed. Years will be necessary to restore the ruins."

The tan shades will be especially popular this Spring.

Quaintly flounced skirts are promised for the future.

The most useful brassieres come very near being corsets.

INVESTS QUEBEC COLONEL WITH V. C. AND OTHER HONOURS

LONDON, March 3.—Two Canadians, fresh from many months in London hospitals, received a variety of decorations from the King at Buckingham Palace on Saturday. Lieut.-Col. William Clark Kennedy, commanding the 24th Quebec Regiment, and who is a resident of Montreal, was invested with the Victoria Cross, the C. M. G., and the Bar to the D. S. O. Colonel Kennedy's grandfather was decorated on the field of Waterloo; his father was killed in the Boer war, where he also served himself. His three brothers also served in the present war, two of whom sleep in soldiers' graves.

More cords or ribbons are now substituting for real belts.

For distinction is the square collar.

The armhole promises still to be close.

"WITH THE EMPIRE'S FIGHTERS" AT GRAND

Dr. Girdwood, Photographer to the Indian Government, Shows Remarkable Film Depicting the Valour of Empire's Troops in France.

GREAT PHOTOGRAPHY

There are three outstanding features in connection with the wonderful film, "With the Empire's Fighters" that is being shown at the Grand Opera House by Dr. J. T. Girdwood. One is the fact that it is entirely a British production and as such is a refreshing novelty after the constant series of American pictures with which this country is flooded, a second is the splendid demonstration that it gives of the loyalty of India to the Empire and of the valour of the Indian troops and last but not least is the remarkable photography which distinguishes the picture.

Dr. Girdwood, who accompanies the film with a most interesting lecture is a Canadian by birth and before the war was photographer to the Indian Government. He was the first motion picture operator to be allowed to go to France and since taking the pictures which are being shown here has given thousands of lectures throughout the British Isles the United States and Canada in his mission of showing how effectively India rallied to the support of the Empire while he has also had published in leading English magazines some most interesting articles on the work of the Indian troops, illustrated by many of his own photographs.

The film shows indisputably that Dr. Girdwood is an artist. Some of the war pictures that have been shown here before have been drab affairs, accentuating the horrors and the misery of modern warfare. Dr. Girdwood in the midst of the turmoil has had an eye for artistic effects and throughout the film there are a number of scenes that are delightful. In one of these where a number of British troops are shown using a table to carry men and munitions across a stream, the contrast of lights and shadows is most striking and a similar effect is produced in another picture depicting a British cavalry patrol crossing a river. In this picture the shadows of the men and horses stand out in the water with remarkable distinctness.

The war film is preceeded by a wonderful reel showing scenes in Palestine. The photography in this section of the programme contains a promise that is carried out in the main film.

Many of the scenes in the war picture are of great historic importance While the Indian troops largely predominate a considerable part of the film and the Sikhs, Ghurkas, Jats and other Indian fighters are shown in trench and billet and on the road, yet there are many remarkable pictures of other parts of the Empire's army. The Leicesters are shown in a thrilling charge and there are many clear pictures of other British units, including several fine views of Canadian troops. Incidentally the film concludes with a fine picture of the arrival of the Aquitania at Halifax carrying several thousands of Canada's fighters on their way home. This is by no means the least enjoyable feature of the film for the arrival of Canadian troops is a topic that bulks very largely in the public mind at present.

In his lecture Dr. Girdwood tells many interesting things about the Indian troops. He is most enthusiastic about their service in the world war and takes advantage of the opportunity to remind the hearers of the great share that the Indian fighters had in the victories in Palestine and Mesopotamia, which is something that Canadians are sometimes inclined to forget.

A film that contains nothing but British soldiers is such an unusual thing in Canadian theatres, owing to our proximity to the United States and the consequent almost exclusive use of American pictures that the people of Peterboro should not lose the opportunity of seeing "With the Empire's Fighters." Dr. Girdwood's picture will be shown at the Grand again to-night under the patronage of the Major Bennett chapter of the I.O.D.E. and there should be an attendance worthy of the merit of the picture. It will be the last chance to see the film.

TAXES IN THREE INSTALMENTS WAS NOT APPROVED

Ald. Edgar's Proposal For An Early Collection on June 1st Would Be a Hardship—Ald. Garside Objected

DISCUSSED AT LENGTH

After a thoughtful discussion of Ald. Edgar's motion that the city's taxes be paid in three instalments instead of two, the Council last night practically decided that it was inadvisable to put this idea into effect this year but referred it to the Finance Committee. He proposed that an early and an additional collection be made on June 1st together with the collections on August 1st and November 1st as at present. In advocating this change Ald. Edgar argued that it would be an advantage to ratepayers who, he believed, would find it easier to pay their taxes in three instalments rather than in two. He also asserted that the city would save considerable interest on its overdraft. The city's overdraft was now $71,413 he pointed out, and interest would have to be paid on the increasing overdraft until August 1st when the first taxes would be received and deposited. The city would save the interest for the months of June and July which would more than pay the city treasurer's salary.

Ald. Taylor explained that a large part of the overdraft was caused by the payment out of the current account of work on sewers for which debentures would be issued during the year.

City Treasurer Adams stated that of the $57,400 overdraft in January $30,000 represented unpaid taxes, and the balance was largely for works which would be covered by debentures which would be issued this year.

Ald. Turner favored Ald. Edgar's proposed change because he desired to make any possible saving in interest.

Would Prove a Hardship.

Ald. Garside stated that the June collection would be a hardship for many workingmen this Spring. Many of them were out of work, and they would probably be unable to meet the early collection.

It was also stated that the rolls would not be completed in time, and therefore the preliminary work could not be cleared away.

Replying to Ald. Garside's contention that the June collection would find workingmen unable to pay that installment, Ald. Edgar stated, he had heard business man remark that those citizens who had made big money last year should be ashamed of themselves if they were now without money. One man whose wages had been $100 every two weeks was receiving assistance from the Charity Board.

"I know a man who made $60 a week," Ald. Morrison related, catching up this phase of the discussion, "but he paid it out for his house. I say he was perfectly justified in spending his money on his house and I don't think it is right for people to make remarks of that kind. That man became sick and had to pay out all he had earned losing his house."

Ald. Morrison admitted that there were men who had not saved anything out of their earnings. One man made a $100 a week, but he bought an automobile and a piano and he was now "right up against it".

Ald. Edgar's motion was seconded by Ald. Turner.

An amendment that this matter be referred to the Finance Committee was moved by Ald. Phelan and seconded by Ald. Garside. The amendment carried.

EXPLOSION KILLS FOUR.

Police Suspect Foul Play at the American Woollen Co. Disaster.

FRANKLIN, MASS., March 3. — The premature explosion of dynamite which the police believe was intended to destroy the Ray mill of the American Woollen Co., caused the death of four men, it became known here. Pending efforts to identify the bodies, the police hold the theory that the men killed were carrying the explosive.

It was not until after daybreak that the bodies, one of which was in army uniform, were found. Police officials were understood to have made partial identification of the victims as men of foreign birth who had participated in meetings of a radical nature here recently.

SPENCE CASE MAY PROCEED

Justice Sutherland Dismisses Application for Order to Prevent This.

TORONTO, March 3.— Mr. Justice Sutherland at Osgoode Hall on Saturday dismissed the application for a writ of prohibition to prevent the Crown from proceeding against Rev. Ben Spence, charged with publishing a banned book, "The Parasite." On a similar charge Mr. Spence appeared before Mr. Justice Masten at the Fall Assizes, and on instructions from the Attorney-General the proceedings were ordered stayed.

In his judgment Mr. Justice Sutherland held that the Crown was at liberty to prosecute Mr. Spence on the same charge, on the ground that new information had been laid. His Lordship referred to a letter written by the Minister of Justice to the Attorney-General, in which he stated that if, in his opinion, the circumstances would justify a stay of proceedings, the Government would not insist on further prosecution. His Lordship states that he is not called on to deal with the intentions at that time, but that in his opinion the stay granted by the Crown does not preclude a new information being laid.

General Pershing Defies Order On Courts Martial

Representative Johnson Declares He Refuses to Submit Cases For Revision—Favours Adoption of Foreign System

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.—That General Pershing has been ordered by the War Department to return for revision by the Judge Advocate General all court martial cases pending in France, and has refused to comply with the order, was revealed in the House by Representative Royal Johnson, republican, of South Dakota.

Included in the cases under General Pershing are six death sentences; which will be imposed unless Congress revises the court martial law. For this reason, among others, Mr. Johnson urged speedy action upon the proposed Chamberlain bill for revision of the court martial law, which Mr. Johnson has introduced into the house.

Assailing the present court martial system, Mr. Johnson said that it does not permit of justice, that the code and procedure under it are offensive to any enlightened sense of natural justice, that it is "mediaeval, crude archaic, and unjust," and utterly foreign to the American spirit. From authentic sources, including the official records of the department and from army officers both here and abroad Mr Johnson added a long list of cases in which excessive sentences have been imposed for trivial offences.

Favours Adoption of Foreign System.

"General Ansell, who was for a time Acting Judge Advocate General, has insisted repeatedly upon a supervision of the court martial law," said Mr Johnson. "After four months' study of systems of military justice among our allies in Europe he returned last July and made a report showing those systems superior to ours. That report was disregarded, ignored and never reached the Secretary of War.

"General Order No. 84 was recently issued by the War Department instructing the commander in chief of the American Expeditionary Forces to return for revision by the Judge Advocate General all court martial cases now pending in France. Six cases involving the imposition of death sentences are included, I am told, in these cases. The commander in chief has refused to obey the order, claiming that it is not in accordance with the articles of war. That is one reason why I am insisting that Congress should act speedily upon the proposal to revise the court martial law."

Mr. Johnson said he does not wholly blame the Secretary of War for the present system, since it is one inherited from previous administrations.

Terms Trials Lawless.

"The War Department says trials are legal," said Mr. Johnson. "I say they reek of lawlessness; they have not been fair, they have not been impartial and in many instances they have not been tried at all.

"Can a trial be said to be fair when an enlisted man of the army, ignorant of his rights, unappreciative of the consequences, is placed on trial before a court martial for his life and has assigned to him for his defence a newly joined second lieutenant, who is frightened, inexperienced, knowing nothing of life or of law and less than nothing about court martial procedure? Yet this is exactly what has occurred in France and in the United States."

Mr. Johnson then submitted a list of perhaps one hundred cases, giving the number, place of origin and other data completely identifying them. In one case a boy of eighteen, Ira R. Sellers, of Dallas, Texas, stationed at Port Arthur, Texas, was threatened with court martial because he left his post to warm his hands. After appealing to his father, who he found could not reach him or intercede for him, the boy committed suicide. Others showed sentences wholly out of proportion to offences and a wide discrepancy in punishments given for the same offences.

Cites Excessive Penalties.

Other cases cited by Mr. Johnson follow:

Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.:—Charge, disobeyed order to go to isolation hospital, order to stand at attention; sentence, twenty-five years.

Charge, disobeyed order to drill; sentence, forty years, reduced to dishonorable discharge and forfeiture of pay.

Charge, absent without leave, four days, broke out of confinement; sentence, life imprisonment.

Arcadia, Fla.:—Charge, did not remain at barracks as ordered; sentence, fifteen years.

Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo.:—Charge, wilfully disobeyed order to go to work; sentence, forfeiture of pay and ten years in prison.

Fort Winfield Scott, Cal.:—Charge, wilfully disobeyed order to resume his work as janitor at the office of Quartermaster General; sentence, twenty years' imprisonment, forfeiture of all pay.

U. S. Disciplinary Barracks.—Charge, desertion, one day's absence; sentence, fifteen years.

Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.:—Charge, disobedience of orders; sentence, ten years' confinement and forfeiture of pay.

Charge, disobedience of order, involving two other charges of disobedience and threats to strike with an axe; sentence, two years' confinement and forfeiture of pay.

Charge, sleeping at post; sentence, ten years' confinement, forfeiture of pay.

Fort McPherson, Ga.:— Charge, sleeping at post; sentence, six months' confinement, forfeiture of pay.

Fort Lawton:—Charge, recruit wilfully refused to serve in army or to wear the uniform; sentence, forfeiture of pay, thirty-five years' confinement.

Fort McArthur:—Charge, refused to wear the uniform; sentence, forfeiture of pay, three years' confinement. On review sentence was suspended and soldier restored to duty.

Fort Barrancas:—Charge, desertion, absent one day; sentence, dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of pay, twenty years' confinement.

Jackson Barracks:—Charge, desertion, absence thirty days; also stole rifle; sentence, dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of pay, five years' confinement.

ARMY DOCTORS FIND FLU GERMS

One of the British Investigators Dies During Experiments.

LONDON, March 3.—The Times announces that in connection with the army medical investigations of influenza that after prolonged research Major Graeme Gibson, British; Captain Connor, Australian, and Major Bowman of the Medical Corps have completed the discovery of what are probably the causative germs of the grippe epidemic. Major Gibson contracted influenza-pneumonia during the investigation and died at Abbeville. The germ belongs to the order of filter passers, and is grown by the negri method.

PRACTICAL WHITEWASH RECIPE.

Take a half-bushel of unslacked lime and slack it with boiling water, covering it during the process to keep in the steam, then strain the liquor through a fine sieve or strainer, and add to it three or four pounds of salt previously dissolved in warm water. Add five gallons of hot water to the mixture, stir well and let stand a few days, covered as nearly air tight as possible. When the lime is being slacked, three or four pounds of hot grease or tallow may be mixed with it. If this is done it will insure a mixture which will stick well to most any surface and have a glossy appearance.

The New Duffus Garage Was Officially Opened By Mayor Duncan

Over Four Hundred Persons Took Part in the Proceedings—New Building Is One of the Finest of Its Kind in Canada.

The new large and commodious Duffus Garage was opened last evening with Mayor Duncan and other officials of the city attending. The well appointed building was thrown open to over four hundred people. The building was officially opened by His Worship, Mayor Duncan, who in a few words expressed his pleasure at being present. He designated it one of the best in Canada and a garage that was not only a credit to the owner but also to the city. He spoke of Ex-Mayor Duffus who stood for business first, last, and always. He had been associated with him in City Council and said that he always found him obliging and reliable. He could be taken as an acme of truth and honesty. Speaking of the growth of the business the Mayor said that he was pleased that the business had grown to such dimensions that it was necessary to provide more commodious quarters. He well remembered that prior to Mr. Duffus taking over the present site of the new garage the location was an eye sore and a disgrace to the city of Peterboro.

He wished Mr. Duffus every measure of success in his large undertaking and appreciated the privilege of officially opening the building and concluded by declaring that the premises were now officially opened.

Mr. Duffus, the proprietor, in reply thanked His Worship for the kind remarks that he had made and stated that he was fully qualified to say that his Worship the Mayor was an extremely busy man and that it was very kind of him to consent to perform the duties of officially opening the new building. Mr. Duffus stated that the premises were built primarily for the purpose of doing business. However, one of the main features was to give more efficient service to customers. He well knew that the old premises had outgrown the business and that it was a great inconvenience to have to do work outside. He knew that the new premises would be appreciated by his numerous customers. He stated that the building was a good and substantial one and also stated that one of the features in building it was to eliminate as far as possible all unnecessary expense yet at the same time have a building which would be suitable for the business and likewise a credit. He also stated that being located next to Peterboro's largest hotel, he was endeavoring to give the tourist traffic first class service and to treat them in such a manner as would send them away from Peterboro feeling that they had not only been properly treated but that Peterboro had first class service as far as requirements were concerned. He further into details of the building to Peterboro, now that the war was finished would be greater than ever on account of the attention to the lakes adjacent to the city. In going further into details of the building he stated that the erection was admirably adopted for garage purposes. The particular lay of the land enables access and egress without the necessity of an elevator. It has been stated by those who are conversant with garage business that it costs at least 75c per car to have the cars taken from floor to floor by means of an elevator, taking into consideration the investment on the plant, power for operating the same, and the necessary help to operate it. However as stated before the particular lay of the ground eliminated this expense. The building is as thoroughly fireproof as it is possible to make it. He felt sure that it would be thoroughly appreciated by car owners and the public generally, both as an improvement to the city of Peterboro and also from a standpoint of revenue. In the very near future he hoped that the equipment would be most complete with ample facilities to take care of all the requirements of motorists and car owners together with getting first class service on trucks and cars used for business purposes.

Mr. Hickey, Contractor.

Mr. Duffus stated that as the contractor, Mr. Hickey, was not present, he felt that it would be quite in order for him to make some statements regarding him. Although a young man of between 25 and 30 years of age he would consider that Mr. Hickey was capable of assuming and carrying out to a successful conclusion any contract, no matter how large or important. He was not only a first class contractor but was also a first class mechnic as could be verified by the quality of the work seen around the plant. Although it is some 10 months since the building was started Mr. Duffus stated that there had scarcely been an unpleasant word uttered on the premises. He was most painstaking and careful, and notwithstanding the fact that there had been upwards of $10,000 paid out in wages, there had not been the slightest accident in connection with the erection, and as far as he was concerned he would carry with him the very highest recommendations as an official builder and an an honest and amiable contractor to do business with.

In connection with the opening Mr. Duffus made it plain to the citizens present that the freedom of the building was heartily extended to them for the week. He stated that while all the details were not completed he hoped to have them entirely finished within a very few days and and that they would be ready to hand out to the citizens of Peterboro honest and efficient service. He thanked those present for their attendance and hoped that before the end of the week many thousands would have visited the building and that the programme of moving pictures would be thoroughly enjoyed.

KEEP FIT AFTER FORTY-FIVE

Wearing the same weight underclothing the year round will save you a lot of colds.

Dress cool when you walk and warm when you ride.

Your nose, not your mouth, was given you to breathe through.

Clean skin, clean socks, clean underwear every day.

Don't sit still with wet feet. Walk until you have a chance to change.

Never let a day pass without covering four miles on foot.

See how high you can hold your head and how deeply you can breathe whenever you are out of doors.

Hot water quick is the best thing for a sprain.

Short shoes and shoes that don't fit cost a lot in the long run.

FEARS BOLSHEVIST CONTROL OF SIBERIA

NEW YORK. — Describing the conditions that confront the Peace Conference in Siberia and Russia, at the School of Journalism, Columbia University, Carl W. Ackerman said that unless immediate steps were taken to supplant the Czechoslovak troops with an adequate army, the whole of Siberia and Russia would be overrun by the Bolsheviki. Mr. Ackermann, who said that it was only a question of a very short time before the Czechoslovaks would abandon Siberia to the Bolsheviki.

"The Czechoslovak Army in Eastern Russia," Mr. Ackermann said, "is extremely anxious to return to Bohemia to take part in the internal affairs of its newly established country. To realize the feelings of the Czechslovaks are in a hurry to get sary to understand that every one of the Czechslovaks in Russia is a Socialist and a revolutionist who has fought the Bolsheviki, partly because it was the wish of the allies, but also to secure the independence of his own Bohemia. Now that the last purpose has been accomplished, the Czechslovaks are in a hurry to get back to Prague. At present they are divided as to whether to leave at once or to remain for a few months longer."

"The allies have got to decide," said Mr. Ackermann, "whether they are willing to abandon Siberia to the Bolsheviki, or whether they are willing to replace the Czechslovaks by an allied army. The armistice has assured the Czechoslovks that now that the war has been won on the western front the allies can and should send an adequate army to Russia."

Mr. Ackermann told of the difficulties which American correspondents encountered in sending their despatches. There were only three telegraph lines along the Siberian Railway, he said, two of them under allied control, and one under the Russian authorities.

"When we wished to send despatches from Ekaterinberg, or some other place in Eastern Russia we were compelled to hand our telegrams, written in English, to a Russian telegraph operator, who could speak no other language than Russian, and trust to luck that he would be able to transmit English letters. As a rule the despatch arrived at the censor's office at Vladivostok in a mixture of Russian and English script. We were finally compelled to employ a translator in Vladivostok to turn it into correct English. In addition to the difficulties of language, it took three days for a despatch to reach Vladivostok."

Cable Tolls on Despatches High.

"Upon my arrival at Vladivostok," said Mr. Ackermann, "I found that it cost 39 cents a word to send a cable to New York. From Omsk it cost 52 cents. Later the cost was raised from 39 cents a word at Vladivostok to 69 cents, and at Omsk from 52 cents to 84 cents. In addition to this the bankers raised the price of rubles from 16 to 17 cents.

"The Japanese," he continued, "went into Siberia with a larger army than any of the other Allies for the purpose of extending their sphere of influence in accordance with the policy they inaugurated after the Russo-Japanese war. Japanese troops occupie not only the towns on the railways, but also the caravan routes and coutrs. In the Japanese Army, however, there are two parties, one for war and the other for peace. The peace party is doing everything in its power to prevent the aggressive party from pursuing its policy of dominating the Pacific Islands against the will of the Allies."

"The man most admired by the rank and file in the Czechoslovak army," Mr. Ackermann added, "is General Gaida, who is only 28 years old. Like all the other officers, he has led an extremely adventurous life. He was at one time a Lieutenant in the Austrian Army. Leaving the army to study medicine, he entered the Serbian Army as a surgeon, and served through the Balkan wars. At the outbreak of the great war, he joined the Russian Army with the rank of Captain, and fought against the Germans until the collapse of the Czar's regime. When the Czechoslovaks were attacked by the Bolsheviki he joined their army as a Major and was soon after raised to the rank of Major General."

NEW YORK.—Charles Frohman, the theatrical producer, who lost his life when the Lusitania was sunk by a submarine in 1915, left a net estate of only $452, according to a transfer tax appraisal of his estate filed here. The total estate was $919,383, from which deduction of $918,281 were made, the largest item being debts.

Al Hayman, theatrical manager, who died February 10, 1917, and the appraisal of whose estate has been filed, left a net estate of $1,602,815. His wife was the principal beneficiary.

U. T. S. Juniors Beat Cornwall

On Heavy Ice the Bloor Street Boys Pull Out a 2-to-1 Victory

CORNWALL, Ont., March 4.—University of Toronto Schools won a very clean and hard-checking game here last night in the first of the semi-finals played of the junior O.H.A. when they defeated the Union Jacks by the score of 2 to 1. Very heavy and watery ice prevailed throughout the game, necessitating much long range shooting on the nets, which made it easy for the goalkeepers.

Neither team were able to develop much combination play because of the ice conditions and the close-checking, but there was sufficient individual work of a stellar nature coupled with the close score that kept the fans' interest sustained throughout. Supporters of both teams were well satisfied with the result and are fully confident of pulling out a victory on the round, the second game of which will be played in Toronto on Thursday.

Woodstock Now In Junior Finals

Sudbury Default Final Contest, But Play an Exhibition Game

WOODSTOCK, March 4. — Woodstock juniors last night qualified to enter the O. H. A. junior finals by defeating the Sudbury juniors in the local arena by a score of 9 to 5, thus winning the round by a score of 9 to 5. The contest was staged on water soggy ice which hampered fast play, but the game was a good one. Rink was crowded, and Woodstock fans are naturally "tickled to death." The red and white demonstrated superiority in no uncertain way, and did not extend themselves to the limit at any time during the fray.

The Sudury team was fast, but lacked team play, while the locals were there with the combination, and were strong both offensively and defensively.

Collingwood Meet Kingston in Finals

SEAFORTH, March 4.—In the intermediate semi-final here last night, Collingwood won by 7 to 1, thus winning the round by 15 to 3. The game was fast and clean throughout, and the Northerners clearly demonstrated their superiority over the locals. They now meet Kingston in the finals.

ENGLISH FEATHERWEIGHT IS PHILADELPHIA WINNER

PHILADELPHI, March 3. — Josey Fox of England, boxing in the featherweight class, defeated Young Robideau, of Philadelphia in a scheduled six round bout. Fox showed to advantage in all rounds.

A TOWN'S GROWTH

Entirely a Matter of the Enterprise of the Business Men.

In every community and in every state can be found towns that are continually forging ahead, while others in the same vicinity remain practically at a stand still and accomplish nothing in a way of improvement or advancement. In every case the fault can be found to rest not with the town, but with the people themselves.

The reason why some towns grow is because they have men in them with push and energy who are not afraid to spend their time, energy and money in anything that will bloom and benefit the town. They have confidence enough in their town to erect substantial and modern buildings and residences and work for public improvement in the same order. They organize stock companies and establish factories, induce industrial enterprises to locate and use every means to further the best interests of the town. Their work is never considered finished and the accomplishment of one thing is only an incentive of another.

BELGIAN RAILROAD LOSS.

Commission Finds Germans Destroyed 600 Miles Completely.

PARIS.—The Belgian Commission which is investigating the damage done by the Germans to railroads in occupied territory, while it has not yet finished its work, is in a position to give interesting figures relative to the destruction caused by the Germans.

The figures show that nearly 600 miles of railroad tracks were destroyed completely and nearly 200 miles virtually destroyed and rendered useless out of a total mileage of approximately 2,600 in Belgium. These destructions mostly were in the Mons coal valley, in the region of Tournai and around Ghent, Bruges, Ostend and Courtrai, and 70 per cent. of the destruction was carried out during the period from the start of the Belgian offensive on September 28, 1918, and the signing of the armistice.

SCRIPTURES ARE FULL OF TELEPHONE TEXTS

While the telephone was not known or dreamed of in the biblical times, the following texts relating to it seem almost to contain a prophesy of its later appearance and development:

The Company—Their line has gone out unto all the earth and their words to the end of the world. Ps., xix, 4.

Trunk Lines—They land shall be divided by lines. Amos viii, 17.

The Service—They are employed in that work day and night, I. Chron. ix, 33.

Monopoly—We have no right against this great company. II Chron xx, 12.

Now shall this company lick up all that are about us? Num. xxii, 4.

Threatened Competition — See, there are people down by the middle of the land, another company come along. Judges, ix, 37.

Charge the people. Exodus xix, 21.

A daily rate for every day. II Kings, xxv, 30.

And kept back part of the price. Acts, v 2.

Information—Is there any number? Job. xxv, 3.

He telleth the number. Ps. cxixii, 4

The number is 6[illegible]. Rev. viii, 18.

I understood the number. Dan., ix, 2.

The Call—When I call answer speedily. Cant. v, 6.

Then they waited according to their order. I Chron. vi, 32.

Call now, if there be any that will answer thee. Job. v 1.

Where is the receiver? Isa, xxxiv, 16.

Let every man be swift to hear and slow to speak. James i, 19.

Who Was It?

The young teacher had been studying the wind all week—its power, effects, etc.—until the subject had been pretty well exhausted. To stimulate interest the teacher said, in her most enthusiastic manner: "Children, as I came to school to-day in the trolley car the door opened and something came softly in and kissed me on the cheek. What do you think it was?"

And the children joyfully answered: "The conductor"

Fiske O'Hara Coming

Fiske O'Hara comes to the Grand Opera House Saturday, March 8th, matinee and evening, in a new play called, 'Marry In Haste." It is by Anna Nichols, and is said to furnish the popular star with the best vehicle he has ever had. It is the story of young Richard Leigh, scion of a titled Irish family, who marries a girl unknown to him in a fit of pique, only to repent to his heart's desire when he meets charming Lady Evelyn O'Connor. The play has a delightful element of mystery in its story, which is admirably sustained throughout, and the love interest is enhanced by the fact that two distinct romances are disclosed during its three acts. Wholesome comedy, amusing situations, and witty dialogue help to make "Marry in Haste" one of the best plays O'Hara has ever offered. He sings a number of new songs, and is surrounded by an unusually capable cast of players.

Greek Met Greek.

A tight-fisted old man, says the Washington Post, who was feeling very ill, asked a friend to recommend a physician. The friend named a certain specialist noted no less for his professional skill than for his wit.

"Is he very expensive?" asked the sick man.

"Well, not so very," was the answer. "He'll charge you four dollars for the first visit and two for each one after that."

The old fellow soon afterward walked into the office of the physician named by his friend, and, upon being admitted to the consulting room, laid down two dollars, remarking, "Well, doctor, here I am again."

The physician calmly picked up the money and put it into a drawer, which he locked securely. The sick man looked on, expectantly awaiting the next move.

"Well, I'm ready to be examined," he said at length.

"I don't think it's necessary," replied the shrewd specialist. "There's no need to do it again. Keep right on taking the same medicine. Good day, sir."

Praises Efforts Of Women In Greater Production

Premier Refers to Agricultural Record of Ontario in Debate on Speech

FARMER CANDIDATE PRESENTED YESTERDAY

TORONTO, March 5.—J. W. Widdifield, United Farmer member from North Ontario, was presented to the House at the opening of this afternoon's session of the Legislature. He was introduced by Jeniah Bowman, of Manitoulin, and Alan Studholme, of East Hamilton. The new member took his seat amid cheers.

Sir William Hearst then resumed the debate on the speech from the throne.

The Premier turned first to the splendid record in agricultural production set by Ontario during the war. Ontario's factory produce during 1918 was 70 million, the highest figure on record. The Premier praised the efforts of the women of the Province in the direction of farm production.

Hopes For Financial Aid.

Recalling the conference of Provincial Premiers at Ottawa last fall Sir William referred to the demand of the Western Provinces for the possession of their natural resources. The Premier refused charges of "graft" in connection with the subsidies paid, declaring that no graft could be further from the case.

"We want only fair treatment," he declared. He reviewed the subject taken up at the conference, good roads, housing, aid to technical education, and other topics. The Premier expressed the hope that the Dominion would give financial assistance to the Province's scheme of technical education. Other policies had already been endorsed by the Federal Government.

People Will Not Balk.

Sir William promised that the Government bill would be introduced as soon as possible in order to expedite the business of the session. The treasurer's budget will be presented on Thursday and placed at once under consideration.

The Premier passed to a resume of Ontario's war record, giving high credit to the people of the Province, who had been patriotic, loyal, and generous in answering every call made on them.

"During four and a half years of cruel and bloody war our people have borne every burden laid upon them, and they will not balk at any problem of the trying days of peace," he declared.

Loud applause from both sides of the House greeted the Premier's remarks as he closed.

Spirit of Industry

A policy of "wait and see" caused the downfall of a Government.

Applied to business, the same policy is equally fatal. Whereas, action generates progress.

Our business is barometrical. It presents an absorbing study in creative human nature.

The first evidence of a creative mind at work is apparent in the demand for Power Transmission Equipment. And creators have been remarkably active since the Armistice was signed.

This new Spirit in business has not been confined to war plants.

Other men have sensed the close of an epoch; and the birth of a greater industrial future.

We are proud that many of these firms have hastened to avail themselves of our experience as power transmission engineers. They realise that the gigantic work we have done in the past four years has had its effect upon our spirit. They know it has made us more efficient.

We rendered significant service to customers during the war; but we know now that that was merely a preparation.

The latent possibilities of our organization were a revelation to us; and we do not intend that the high mark of service rendered in 1915, '16, '17, '18 shall be lowered.

Victories of peace are second only to victories of war in their demands upon human energy. But Canada will rise to the occasion, and we are translating this faith into action for every firm that calls upon us.

How To Make Your Hair Beautiful

Ten Minutes' Hair Treatment Works Wonders, Stops Falling Hair and Dandruff and Makes the Hair Soft, Brilliant, Lustrous and Fluffy.

Better than all the so-called "hair tonics" in the world is a simple old fashioned home mixture consisting of plain Bay Rum, Lavona (de Compose) and a little Menthol Crystals. These three mixed at home in a few minutes, work splendid with any scalp. Try it just one night and see. Get from your druggist 6 oz. Lavona, 6 oz. Bay Rum and ½ drachm Menthol Crystals. Dissolve the Crystals in the Bay Rum, then mix in 8 oz. bottle. Then add the Lavona, shake well and let it stand for an hour before using. Apply it by wetting a little of the mixture on the cloth. Draw this cloth slowly through the hair, taking just one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair and scalp of dirt, dust and excessive oil and makes the hair delightfully soft, lustrous and fluffy. To stop the hair from falling and to make it grow again rub the lotion briskly into the scalp with the fingertips. Use a medium stiff brush. Apply night and morning. A few days use and you will not find a single loose or straggling hair. They will be locked in your scalp as tight as a vise. Dandruff will disappear. You will find brand new hairs sprouting up all over your scalp and this new hair will grow with wonderful rapidity.

Any druggist can get you the above. The prescription is very inexpensive and we know nothing so effective and certain in result.

Long years ago we kissed, parted, and now in the deepening shadows of the twilight they have met again.

"Here is the old table, Mary," he said.

"Aye, an' here are the initials that you carved Sandy," she replied.

The ensuing silence was only broken by the buzzing of an aeroplane overhead. Honey-laden memories trilled through the twilight and flushed their glowing cheeks.

"Ah, Mary," exclaimed Sandy, "ye're just as bonnie as ye ever were, an' I ha'e never forgotten ye, my bonnie lassie!"

"And ye, Sandy," she cried, while her blue eyes moistened, "ye're just as big a lecar as ever, an' I love ye jist the same."

SURPLUS AMMUNITION.

British Must Dispose of Thousands of Shells.

"What beats me," said a soldier to me the other day, "is what we shall do with ammunition now we've got no one to fire it at."

He went on to describe the shell dumps, hundreds of yards long, and evidently regarded peace with some disfavor. The shells and bombs must obviously be disposed of; for one thing there is no place to store millions of objects that attain 5 feet in length and three-quarters of a ton in weight; they cannot lie in the open while the metals rust or corrode, and as time goes on, the explosives develop uncertain tempers.

After a few years the shells would be "duds." The only thing to do is to break them down. There are for this course good reasons other than the storage problem. With copper over $500 a ton and serge at $3 a yard, we have here a reserve of materials worth many millions, and, moreover, we need the actual materials, for the world is starved of raw material for peaceful industry. Here are thousands of tons of steel, copper, aluminium, brass, tinplate, cardboard, paper, textiles, etc., all of which can be used.

Even some of the explosives can be applied to peace. They are too swift for mine and tunnel blasting, but all have a composition more or less similar to the valuable nitrates which we use as fertilizers. They are perfectly safe if used in the open, and it is comic to think that next year a French peasant may be manuring a trench-covered field with the contents of a German shell.

A great deal of stock is made up of metal parts which can be melted down. We hold a great many empty shells, fuses, cartridge cases, finished or partly worked; all this can go to the crucible, and it will please the taxpayer to know that in many cases we can recover in good metal as much as a fifth to a quarter of the cost.

As for filled shells and cartridges, the operation will be rather more complicated! It is not dangerous if the rules are followed, and indeed it is rare that breaking down causes a casualty, but it involves a great deal of work.

Shells are easily emptied, for most explosives are meltable or soluble, and can be poured out of the shell that contains them; the explosive does not protest, and though cordite prefers to be cut with bronze scissors (because this prevents sparks), these operations are simple enough. Some very sensitive parts, such as detonators, must be dumped in the sea, but such parts as fuses can easily be taken to pieces and sent to the melting pot, while the valuable cambric and serge of the cartridge bags can be ripped away from the cordite.

All this will provide many months of work for thousands of men and women; as an average round will produce 50-lb. to 100-lb. of steel and 5-lb. of brass. This will be one of the first occasions where war is made to pay.

Proper Pirate.

"You seem to be rather proud of being a pirate," remarked the trusty lieutenant.

"I am," replied Captain Kidd. "I'm a regular pirate—I am. When I want to sink a ship I superintend the job in person. I don't sit at home and send a lot of scared sailors out to take chances all by themselves in U-boats."

It takes a joint of beef to make a bottle of Bovril

Bovril contains the goodness of the beef.

THE vital elements that give beef its special value as a food are concentrated and stored in Bovril.

Just as the equivalent light of 32 candles is concentrated in one electric lamp, so the vital elements of beef—of many pounds of beef—are concentrated in a single bottle of Bovril.

But Bovril is not merely a precious food in itself; it possesses the peculiar power of enabling you to extract more nourishment from other foods. This gives Bovril its wonderful body-building power, proved by independent experiment to be from 10 to 20 times the amount taken. Bovril, therefore, in the true sense of the word, is a Great Food Saver.

Always keep Bovril in the house.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards—Receipts were 50 cars, with 985 cattle, 382 calves, 246 hogs, and 172 sheep and lambs.

Offerings were light, but there was a keen demand for everything available. Extra choice quality steers were scarce, but several small bunches sold from $15 to $15.50. Light butcher's heifers seem to be very much in demand at prices from $13 to $14. Good butcher's steers and heifers, all weights, are firm at this week's general advance of 25c. all round.

Choice fat cows are very strong, and selling anywhere from $10.50 up to $13 for anything special.

TALKS ON ADVERTISING

If there is one enterprise on earth that a quitter should leave entirely alone, it is advertising. To make a success of advertising one must be prepared to stick like a barnacle on a boat's bottom. He should know before he begins that he must spend money—lots of it. Somebody must tell him that he cannot hope to reap results commensurate with his expenditures early in the game. Advertising does not jerk; it pulls. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It increases day by day and year by year until it exerts an irresistible power.—John Wanamaker.

HOW TO LIVE LONG.

Many ailments find their beginning in using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to keep a torpid sluggish condition of liver, kidneys and bowels. As a matter of fact you can add years to the length of your life as well as comfort and happiness by usthese organs regular and active.

A small boy's composition on hens reads as follows: Hens is curious animals. They don't have no nose nor no ears. They swallow their vittels whole, and chew it up in their crops inside 'em. The outside of hens is generally put into pillers and feather dusters. The inside of hens is sometimes filled up with marbles, shirt buttons and such. A hen is very much smaller than a good many other animals, but they did up more tomatoe plants than anything that haint a hen. Hens is very useful to lay eggs for plum pudding. Shinny Bates ate so much plum pudding once that it set him into the colfery. Hens has got wings and can fly when they are started. I cut my Uncle William's hen's neck off and scairt her to death. Ruth Plans For Brian's Home Coming

CHAPTER CXXXV

Brian was back with his regiment "Good as new," he had written. Ruth had not again given way to despondency. And now that he was once more removed from her influence, she forgot Mollie King—almost

She kept up her work among the children of the soldiers, and that, with her work in the shop, a little social dissipation because of her aunt, and the care she gave little Brian kept her every moment filled.

Then came talk of the war ending sooner than had been expected. The Germans were being pushed back day after day. While losses on both sides were great, yet those on that of the Allies were small as compared to those of the enemy. The Hun morale, too, was breaking—the most dangerous thing in an army. Eagerly Ruth followed the line that each day advanced farther and farther into the country occupied by the foe. Like others, she figured that if the Allies kept going with no real setbacks, the war must end.

"Brian will soon be back if what the papers say about the war being soon over is true," she said to her aunt one day.

"Yes—I think the fighting is nearly over. It will be a long time before all the soldiers will come back. Brian may be one of those to remain on duty over there, even if the war ends. Don't think too much of seeing him soon, dear. It would make your disappointment the greater. Then there is still the chance—"

"That he never may come back," Ruth interrupted, "I know. Yet someway I feel, Aunt Louisa, that he will not be wounded again. I feel so sure he will come back to baby and me."

"That is the right way to feel—it keeps you from worrying."

Ruth longed to question her aunt. To ask her if she was planning to remain with her after Brian returned. But she hesitated to do so, fearing her answer would be that she would go home when he came back.

In spite of her love for ease and for pretty things, Ruth had saved a surprising amount while Brian had been away. She still paid the rent of the apartment, but she often said laughingly that it was all she did pay; that her aunt ran the house. Then, too, Mrs. Clayborne was constantly buying clothes for both Ruth and the baby. She delighted in dressing them both. So, aside from her charitable work and the rent, Ruth had saved almost all of her salary. She had bought each issue of Liberty bonds; and had given to the Red Cross. But the greater part of her giving had been to her own pet charity—her war-babies.

After this talk with her aunt, she sat down and figured how much she had saved in various ways; and how much she could add to it in the next few months. Brian would have nothing to start with. His salary as a soldier, ever as a commissioned officer, would scarcely be more than he needed; surely no more than he would spend, knowing she and the baby were having everything they wanted. She had written much of her aunt's generosity, and had told Brian many times to spend his soldier's pay for comforts.

She was surprised to see that, by the time he returned,—even if figured in months,—how much money she would have at his disposal. She had a plan in her head which was to be a surprise for Brian.

She would fit up an office for him in a good location. To his slender law library, she would add books that he needed. He could start anew, feeling that they had money enough ahead so that his mind could be given to his work, without the worry he had before experienced about money. She had said nothing of this plan to anyone, not even to her aunt. But as the papers reiterated their belief that peace was at hand, she thought more and more of the pleasure it would give Brian.

"He'll have a baby to work for, now," she said to herself with a smile. That had he been allowed to work for her, he would have been happier, never occurred to her; neither did she think it might have prevented much of her own unhappiness.

Then one day came other news. News which she hurried home to impart to Mrs. Clayborne. She had heard the newsboys calling: "Wuxtra," had bought one, opened it, and glanced at the first page, which contained an account of a big battle, as she walked along.

"Aunt Louisa! where are you! read this!" she thrust the paper into her aunt's hand and then leaned over her shoulder and read with her the news which had so excited her.

"BEST MEDICINE FOR WOMEN"

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did For Ohio Woman.

Portsmouth, Ohio.—"I suffered from irregularities, pain in my side and was so weak at times I could hardly get around to do my work and as I had four in my family and three boarders it made it very hard for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me. I took it and it has restored my health. It is certainly the best medicine for woman's ailments I ever saw."—Mrs. SARA SHAW, R. No. 5, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Mrs. Shaw proved the benefit of this medicine and wrote this letter in order that other suffering women may find relief as she did.

Women who are suffering as she was should not drag along from day to day without giving this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial. "SPEEDY PITCHING.

Rapidity With Which Walter Johnson's Fast Ball Travels.

Tom Hughes, a veteran pitcher on the staff of the Senators, recently threw some interesting side lights on the work and ability of Walter Johnson, the mighty twirler who received a loving cup containing several hundred dollars in place new ten dollar bills not long ago as a token of appreciation from the Washington fans.

"Johnson has so much speed," said Tom, "that he actually wears out three catchers' mitts in the course of a season. Study this statement over carefully and you'll see the big point. Don't worry about the gloves, for new ones can always be obtained, but think of Catcher Alexmith, the man who usually catches Walter and is compelled to stand up to the plate and stop these miniature cannon balls. How his hands must sting each spring until he gets them broken in and toughened to the work!"

According to Hughes, there is a man in Hartford, Conn., who is employed by the ordnance department of the government and is an expert in computing the speed of projectiles. This man has estimated that Johnson's fast ball travels at the rate of 126 feet a second. Believe me, that is some tall traveling.—Ed A. Cooney in Leslie's.

AEROPLANE WING SHAPES.

One of the Big Problems in Developing Flying Machines.

Wind shields on automobiles arranged to deflect the wind upward so that the driver will not receive the full force of the wind even when his eyes are above the level of the top of the wind shield, is common enough, but this principle of wind deflection has now been applied ingeniously to an aeroplane. The effect sought is to make a reduction pressure above the aeroplane wings or planes, and consequently to increase their lifting power. The front of the wing is so curved that the wind shoots up above the plane instead of sliding along its top.

It is the hope of one of the great number of foreign scientists who are now studying wing shapes. His laboratory tests and a limited number of practical tests have convinced him that a very considerable increase of lifting power can be realized in this way. So he is now preparing to make complete tests with a practical machine. It is in this question of wing shapes that the future development of aeroplaning largely rests.

Birds have enormously greater lifting ability in proportion to the power they exert than do aeroplanes, due undoubtedly to the shapes of their bodies and their wing forms.

The efficiency of the gasoline engine has enabled men to overcome the inefficiency of aeroplane shapes and wings, but the prevailing tendency in flying now is to give less attention to increasing the power and more attention to shaping the wings so they will lift as much as they should, and so that they will give better stability when flying through the air.—Saturday Evening Post.

PANAMA'S WATER BRIDGE.

That Is What Uncle Sam's Wonderful Canal Really Is.

What the engineers of the United States government are constructing at Panama is not a canal through the isthmus, but a bridge of water across and above it. This so called canal is a huge water bridge, the first in the world's history. It is about thirty-four miles in length, eighty-seven feet high, with a channel of water through its center varying in depth from forty-five to eighty-seven feet and in width at the bottom from 300 to 1,000 feet.

The bridge is divided into two sections, Gatun lake and Culebra cut, the latter being an arm of the former. Access to the bridge by vessels will be by means of water elevators, six in duplicate at either end, each 1,000 feet long, 110 feet wide and with a combined lift of eighty-seven feet. At the Atlantic end the elevators are grouped one above another, like a flight of three steps. At the Pacific end two pairs of elevators are grouped at the bottom and are separated from the third pair above by a platform of water in the form of a lake about a mile and a half in length. The piers or walls which hold the bridge in place are the Gatun dam at the Atlantic end and the dam and elevator gates at Pedro Miguel, at the Pacific end.

About nine miles of the canal will be through Culebra cut, and these nine miles constitute all that can properly be called a canal unless the sea approaches at either end be included in that description.—Joseph Bucklin Bishop in Century.

"He's Got It."

The very newest slang expression among college undergraduates, where slang and picturesque expressions always are in with and often ahead of the time, is "He's got it." If a man has "got it" he is distinctly all right. His fellow students have put on him the seal of their unqualified approval. They have bestowed upon him the highest praise that they can bestow. There is about him an indefinite something, usually and mentally, that makes him all right—a square, clean, capable, likable chap. As is the case with most slang, the genesis of "He's got it" is hard to trace.—New York Letter to Pittsburgh Dispatch.

An Impossible Conjecture.

Some time ago a man was visiting the home of his youth and while passing down the main street chanced to meet a person he had known in days agone. Instantly they clutched hands, and in few minutes the reminiscent game was in full swing.

"And there was Aunt Hannah," said the visitor, asking about the old inhabitants. "How about her?"

"I thought you might have heard," answered the resident. "We buried her last year."

"Buried her!" exclaimed the visitor in a surprised tone. "Do you mean to say that she is dead?"

"Why, yes," returned the resident, wondering. "If you remember Aunt Hannah you can easily remember what a swell time we would have in burying her alive.

An Ornament to Paris.

The Place de la Concorde in Paris is one of the most beautiful places of its kind in the world. It was not until 1763 that the grounds were first adorned by the erection of an equestrian statue of Louis XV. and Gabriel, the architect, constructed the balustrades and pavilions that are seen to-day. The present design, however, was made by Hittorff in 1854. In 1792 the statue of the king was removed by the populace and the square became known as the Place de la Revolution. During the bloody period the guillotine was placed here, and Louis XVI. was executed on Jan. 21, 1793, and in the following October the unfortunate Marie Antoinette share a like fate.

Joyful Punishment.

Noticing one of her small boys nibbling at some luncheon in school one day the teacher called the culprit to the desk. "You know," she began sternly, "that you must not eat during lesson hours! Now as a punishment you must stay here in front of the class and eat every bit of it."

The small boy did as he was bid, a curious grin overspreading his face.

The teacher misunderstood that grin until the last scrap had disappeared, when from the class a small voice wailed in tearful accents:

"Please, teacher, that wasn't his lunch he was eating; it was mine."

A South African Heroine.

One of the most interesting of women workers in the cause of the war is Lady Sarah Wilson, who has been appealing for funds in Britain, to organize a base hospital on the Continent for British, French, and Belgian soldiers. No one understands the hardships and horrors of war better than Lady Sarah Wilson. She had ample experience of it in the Transvaal, being shut up in Mafeking during the siege. She was actually captured by the Boers as a spy, being exchanged some time after for Gen. Viljoen.

Sat Up In Bed To Get Her Breath

Palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, inability to lie on the left side, feelings as if smothering, oppressed feeling in the chest, dizzy and faint spells, tired weak, worn out feeling, involuntary twitching of the muscles, sleeplessness, restless, etc., all point to the fact that either the heart or nerves, or both, are not what they should be. Any of these conditions should be remedied immediately so as to avoid a complete breakdown of the whole system.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will bring energy to the weakened constitution, strengthen and regulate the heart, and tone up the tired, overstrained nerves.

Mrs. William Steeves, Chemical Road, N.B., writes:—"I have been a great sufferer from nerve troubles and palpitation of the heart, which was so bad I had to sit up in bed to get my breath. I could not lie on my left side at all. I tried doctor after doctor, also several different remedies, but got no relief from them. My mother assisted on me buying Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. By the time I had used one box, I was feeling very much better. I took in all three boxes, and now I am in perfect health and can enjoy a good sound sleep, and can lie on my left side without any trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or side, headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's poisonous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Tourniquet

By R. RAY BAKER

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"My hermiting business is ruined."

James Morgan stood in the doorway of his hermitage and gazed resentfully across Silver lake, where the red brick buildings of the new Ashton Memorial hospital loomed against a blue June sky.

The slight frown developed into a pronounced scowl as his ears detected a faint humming which originated some distance back of the shack. The humming became a roar as a motor car, with cutout open, whizzed past not far from the dwelling of the dejected hermit.

"It's the limit the way civilization chases a fellow around," he growled. "Here I got a place all picked out for a quiet, unmolested summer of solitude, and when I arrive to begin my hermiting I find that some one has built a concrete race track at my back door, and some one else has erected a kill-or-cure place in my front yard. Between shrieking motorcars and complaining, convalescent patients and giddy nurses my hermitage bids fair to ripen into a main street of a busy town on a Saturday night."

He shrugged his shoulders in disgust and strode into the shack, which consisted of a fixing dining, cook and sleeping room all in one. Three open windows permitted plenty of light and breeze to dispel germs and gloom.

In one corner were a cook stove and a table, in another a narrow cot devoid of bedding. Still another corner held a bookcase in which were some dust-incrusted volumes. Two three-legged stools and one which, possessing four, stood aside in proud disdain, comprised the other articles of furniture.

The hermit rummaged in his pockets and produced a pipe, a sack of tobacco, a box of matches and a railroad guide. Planting himself on the haughty stool, he filled the first-mentioned article from the second, applied part of the third and began to peruse the fourth.

He was not a veteran hermit. His face was clean-shaven and he had clear-cut youthful features, set off by a pair of piercing brown eyes. He was only twenty-seven years old, and that is altogether too young for one to be in the business of hermiting.

The decision to become a recluse was due to two things. They were the acquisition of a fortune and the loss of an attractive young woman he had intended making his partner in a venture far different from hermiting.

Janet Ellison had decided, after all, that she did not care to settle down, so just before she left with her parents for a tour of the continent she broke off her engagement with James.

A month later James inherited nearly half a million dollars from an uncle who died in the Klondike. The money acted as soothing balm for his shattered heart for a brief period—until doting mothers heard of his stroke of luck and began setting traps for him.

This having sweethearts thrust upon him when he had just lost his heart's desire was too much for James. He got tired of attending debuts of young misses and listening to their chatter of society and fashion and other subjects that held no interest for him, especially since he was still yearning and longing for Janet. The deceit of the whole thing grew on him and made him cynical. He determined to sever the sphere of feminism from his universe.

He decided to spend a winter in California, and then in the summer to start hermiting for fair. Before his trip West he located this shack in the Ohio woods, learned who the owner was, and rented it for the season. When this transaction took place there was no sign of a habitation or a road in the vicinity.

Only one man knew his present whereabouts, and that was his chum of college days, Ralph Williamson. Williamson helped him locate the place and even offered to spend some of the time with him; but James demurred, declaring he was going into hermiting "for all there was in it."

Williamson laughed and remarked: "You'll soon be back and you'll marry Janet, after all, when she comes home." Then, thinking to do his friend a favor, Williamson secretly sent a letter to a certain address in the Canadian wilds, taking pains to detail facts about Klondike gold.

The day after James arrived at his cabin, to find it no longer a solitude, he set out on a hike, avoiding the turnpike and heading into the woods that fringed the shore. Heavy underbrush made progress rather difficult, so he took out a long clasp knife to cut a walking stick from a tree. Spying a branch that looked good to him some distance up the trunk, he climbed the tree and, seated on one branch, began to saw at the one he had selected, which was just above him.

James was not adept as a tree cutter or climber, or as an equilibrium artist, and somehow, just as he was taking a final whack at the branch he desired, he lost his balance and fell. The knife, clutched in his right hand, slashed his left arm and severed an artery, and as he sank in a faint to the ground blood gushed from the wound in vicious spurts.

When James regained consciousness he was lying on the cot in the hermitage. But alas! It was a hermitage no longer. A young woman, clad in a white uniform with narrow blue stripes, was holding his left arm aloft while another similarly dressed, was busy about the stove, in which a fire had been built.

The young woman holding his arm—a very pretty blonde—smiled pleasantly and handed him a glass of water.

"What's happened?" he asked after he had drunk the water. She explained in a few words.

"My friend and I were enjoying a half day off, strolling about the lake, when we heard you cry out. We found you lying under a tree, a severe cut in the brachial artery, and blood spurting so profusely from the wound that we were obliged to improvise this tourniquet with your handkerchief and a piece of wood. We saw this house in the distance, assumed that you lived here, and managed to bring you here."

The girl's fingers holding the arm were singularly soothing to the feel of his skin and her smile was one of the most cheery things he had ever seen.

"My friend is preparing something for you to eat," she announced. "It's something light, just the thing for you."

James felt that it was good to have this girl looking after his comfort in this way.

"She knows her business," he decided. "She's a very capable person, all right, and that's what I need."

One day, a month later, while James was partaking of a canned dinner, he heard an automobile horn emit several croaking blasts, followed by the sound as of a machine coming to a stop back of the shack.

Soon there was a knock at the door, and it was thrown open to admit Ralph Williamson, radiant with smiles. The two young men clasped hands warmly and Williamson was offered the four-legged stool as a special honor.

"Can't stop," he remonstrated. "I just came out to see if you had enough of hermiting."

Obtaining no answer, he went on: "I've a pleasant surprise for you. Janet Ellison is out there in my car, and she wants you to be her special guest at a house party starting tomorrow. She got back just this week, and immediately inquired about you. Come on and get ready."

James held up the coffee pot.

"Have a drink," he invited, and receiving a shake of the head from his visitor, he poured another cupful for himself. Dropping in a lump of sugar he stirred it and said:

"I've had enough of hermiting, all right, Ralph; but I can't go with you. You see, I'm getting married to-morrow—to a young lady who tonight will finish her course of training in that hospital across the lake."

If a woman is nervous or has dizzy spells, suffers from awful pains at regular or irregular intervals she should turn to a tonic made up of herbs, and without alcohol, which makes weak women strong and sick women well, such as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Druggists sell it in liquid or tablets. Send 10c cents to the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package. Then, for the liver and bowels nothing is as good as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. These are little, sugar-coated pills, composed of Mandrake, leaves of aloe, root of jalap—things that Nature grows in the ground.

CHATHAM, ONT. — "As a girl I was wonderfully helped by taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I had become all run-down, weak and nervous. I suffered with terrible backaches. I also suffered from suppression and pain. My mother gave me 'Favorite Prescription,' and it so completely regulated my condition that I have never had any trouble since. There is nothing so good for girls or women who suffer as Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription." — Mrs. Wm. MASON, 138 Wellington Street, E.

Touch Toes Fifty Times

Fine exercise! Keeps skin clear and complexion rosy by forcing the delayed food, poisons and waste from the stomach, liver and bowels. Splendid!

But most people take their exercise in an easy chair. They become headachy, bilious, sallow, dyspeptic, constipated. Such folks must take Cascarets occasionally. No other cathartic or laxative "works" like harmless Cascarets. They act on the bile-clogged liver and constipated bowels gently—no inconvenience! Cascarets cost only 10 cents a box.

"If high rates of interest must still be paid on Canadian Government borrowings, ALL the people should have the opportunity to earn this interest".
—SIR THOMAS WHITE, Minister of Finance.

Why They Are Buying WAR-SAVINGS STAMPS

The housewife is economizing in comfortable ways and investing in War-Savings Stamps at $4.02 each this month. In 1924, when these stamps are redeemed at $5.00 each, every dollar will have greater purchasing power.

The business man is cutting off small and unnecessary expenditures and buying War-Savings Stamps. He knows his money is available any time he really needs it, with added interest—$5 for $4 in five years is an excellent return on money otherwise idle.

School children are buying Thrift Stamps at 25 cents each and are filling their Thrift Cards in order to acquire a War Savings Stamp. They are helping their country and acquiring the habit of Thrift.

Men on the farms are buying W-S.S. because the Government uses the money to finance export orders for the food raised on Canadian farms. This makes their market sure.

Men, women and children of all ages and conditions of life are investing in W-S.S. because it is a convenient way to "build a bond". The security is absolute and the interest is unusually high. Some day they will look back with great satisfaction to the day when they bought their first War-Savings Stamps.

Who Edits the Magazines.

During a recent discussion of the old question: college versus no college, one of the contestants remarked that the substantial monthly magazines were not edited by college graduates. The man who made the remark was promptly confronted with the following record:

The Century, edited by Robert Sterling Yard, Princeton '83; Scribner's, Edward L. Burlingame, Harvard '60; Harper's, Henry M. Alden, Williams '57; Atlantic Monthly, Ellery Sedgwick, Harvard '94; Review of Reviews, Albert Shaw, Grinnell '79, and World's Work, Arthur W. Page, Harvard '05.

Proved He Wasn't Dead.

M. Augustin Jaurel, who has just received the military medal for gallantry at Gravelotte during the Franco-Prussian war, has been forty-three years in convincing the authorities that he is alive. He was badly wounded in a bayonet charge and was registered as killed on the roll of the regiment. When he regained consciousness he found himself in a German hospital. When he applied to the minister of war for the military medal he was informed that he was dead, killed at Gravelotte by a Prussian bullet.

Boy Miners in England.

More than 16,000 boys under sixteen years of age were injured in mines in Great Britain last year in such a way as to disable them for more than a week. There are about a million coal mine workers altogether, one worker in every seven being killed or injured last year.

A single machine gun, in the hands of an expert operator, is regarded as the equivalent of from fifty to eighty rifles.

After the War Is Won.

"Mr. Smith, this is Mr. Blankencamp."

"Glad to know you."

"Glad to know y— Say; your name is awfully familiar. Didn't you serve with the marines over at—?"

"Why, yes!"

"And didn't you once lend me a light when I was all out of briquet juice and happened to be going by your diggings with an unlit pipe in my face?"

"Seems to me I do remember a mutt with a pipe like yours, straying up in our neck of the woods one morning looking like a lost soul; yes, I remember swapping addresses with him after lighting his stove for him. So you're it, are you?"

"I am that—shake!"

"Shake!"—Stars and Stripes.

Rather Fastidious.

"Copperhead" Lehew, our erstwhile orderly with the dilapidated shirt, objects strenuously to escorting negro women around camp. He claims that if he had a good shirt it would not be so bad to walk with the women, but even in his old shirt he has been very faithful and courteous to the negro folks. We agree with you, Lehew, that it is tough to walk around camp with the women wearing a ripped shirt.—Camp Lee Bayonet.

ALMOST BLIND FROM HEADACHES.

It is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time. Headache is only habitual with many people; but some are seldom, if ever, free from it, suffering continually, and wondering why they can get no relief.

In nine cases out of ten, people get headaches are due to poor blood, the blood being robbed of proper through some derangement of the stomach, liver or bowels.

The famous Burdock Blood Bitters makes permanent cures of all cases of headache, because it starts the organs of digestion acting freely and the poisons and impurities are carried off from the system, purified blood cells in the brain cells, and instead of pains and aches there is revived mentality and bodily vigor.

Mrs. Geo. Monck, Arden, Ont., writes, "I have been troubled a great deal with sick headaches, and at times would almost go blind, and have to go to bed. I tried different kinds of medicine without any benefit until I was advised to use Burdock Blood Bitters. After taking — I have not been troubled since."

B. B. B. is a purely vegetable remedy, and has been manufactured for the last forty years by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Prevented by "Fruit-a-tives" The Wonderful Fruit Medicine

58 Maisonneuve St., Hull, Que.

"In my opinion, no other medicine is so good as 'Fruit-a-tives' for Indigestion and Constipation.

For years, I suffered with these dreaded diseases, trying all kinds of treatments until I was told I was incurable.

One day a friend told me to try 'Fruit-a-tives'. To my surprise, I found this medicine gave immediate relief, and in a short time I was all right again".

Fast Reclaiming Desert.

Men have begun to reclaim the Californian desert by irrigation. The Imperial valley is the first word in the bringing back of the waters to the thirsty land, but it is by no means the last. Towns like Brawley and Imperial now stand where the mesquite once grew and the coyote howled. The limit of man's progress in the valley is sharply defined. The "field" of alfalfa or grain faces the desert, the one wearing a fierce scowl, the other a gentle smile. (Does he like the desert's conquerors, big upstanding folk, amid the softness of an eternal summer. The irrigation canals flow musically everywhere. The houses are ringed round with cloth screened verandas, which do duty also as living and sleeping places. The people always seem to be on the defensive against the desert. But they have made it blossom like the rose, and are making it pay. Soon the desert of lost hopes, of burning heats, of intolerable mirages, and arid solitudes will be a land of teeming thousands and of plenty.

Don't Prod Your Liver to Action

NR Overcomes Biliousness, Constipation, Sick Headache, Quickly. No Griping or Pain. Guaranteed.

The organs of digestion, assimilation and elimination—the stomach, liver and bowels—are closely allied, and the proper action of any of these organs is largely dependent upon the correct functioning of all the others.

"Whipping" your liver into action with calomel or forcing your bowels with irritating laxatives or strong cathartics is a great mistake. A better, safer plan is strengthening and toning the whole digestive and eliminative system with Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets), which not only brings immediate relief, but genuine and lasting benefit. It acts on the stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys, improves digestion and assimilation, overcomes biliousness, corrects constipation and quickly relieves sick headache.

Get your system thoroughly cleansed and purified for once; stomach, liver and bowels working together in vigorous harmony, and you will not have to take medicine every day—just take one NR Tablet occasionally to keep your system in good condition and always feel your best. Remember it is easier and cheaper to keep well than it is to get well.

Get a box and try it with the understanding that it must give you greater relief and benefit than any bowel or liver medicine you ever tried or no pay. Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is sold, guaranteed and recommended by druggists.

NO DIARY FOR HIM

One Experience Enough for Mr. Wilbur.

In Common With Most People, That "Bug" Had Bitten Him Once, and With Emphasis He Declares "Never Again."

As the 7:15 neared the station Billers reached into his pocket and drew forth a little leather-covered book. He shook down his fountain pen and wrote:

"Day sunny. Had apple pie and cheese for breakfast. Feeling fine. Baby fell . "tinned his left nose. Wife wants a new dress like sample in vest pocket. Rent due next week. Not feeling as well as I did."

"I see," said Billers' friend Wilbur, glancing over his shoulder, "that you keep a diary."

"Don't you keep a diary?" asked Billers, placing his daily record back in its resting place.

"If I keep a diary I lose it," replied Wilbur paradoxically, "and to keep a diary that you'd eventually lose is bad business.

"I used to keep a diary. At one time it was my pet hobby. I'd buy the fanciest gilt-edged little book I could find, make a few entries and lose it immediately. It was very annoying.

"I used to make my entries too intimate. You know how it is. All diarists do the same thing. While a diary is in close communion with one's soul for a time, the day comes when it faces the world.

"Imagine the foolishness of a man who writes the following in a diary that he knows he'll eventually lose:

"'Called on Mary Jane last night. That she will accept me for better or worse I have no donbt. Carrie will rave when she hears of my engagement to Mary Jane!' I wrote it.

"Another entry read: 'What a day! I haven't a cent to my credit at the bank. And yet the world looks upon me as an example of prosperity. I hope I can keep up the bluff until the tailor has my wedding outfit delivered. I should worry when Mary Jane's dad has a cool million. Oh, boy!'

"The last notation I made was on a Friday, the 13th, and, while not of a superstitious nature, a strange feeling permeated my soul as I penned the following:

"'For a wedding present I believe Mary Jane's pa will give her at least $100,000 in cash or collateral. While the old man could easily afford more to begin with, I feel that more will come later. I think he likes me. Why shouldn't he?'

"I dropped the diary on Mary Jane's sun porch as I went away that night, and when I discovered my loss you can imagine my feelings."

"Awful to contemplate!" exclaimed Billers. "Mary Jane found it and all was off. I'll venture."

"No," said Wilbur. "Mary Jane's little brother found it, and being a businesslike little chap held it up for a $10 ransom."

Good Yield on Sod Land.

An instructive and practically useful account of how a third of an acre of pasture land two miles from the center of Leeds, Yorkshire, England, was made to provide food sufficient fully to maintain three men for a year is published by the board of agriculture from the pen of A. G. Ruston of the University of Leeds.

The land had been under grass for at least 50 years, when last year it was divided into plots and planted with potatoes by Mr. Bedford, former lord mayor of the city, and some of his friends. The crop aggregated three tons sixteen hundredweight, which is at the rate of 11.4 per acre, as compared with 6.7 tons per acre, which was the average for the farm crops of Great Britain last year.

New Light on Term "O. K."

President Wilson has his own way of doing things, and he also has a very good reason for doing them his own way. Not only does that apply to matters of world-wide importance but to trivial things as well.

In signing unofficial documents—on official documents he formally writes "Approved"—the president of the United States precedes his signature with the word "Okeh."

One of his secretaries, suddenly realizing the significance of the word, asked the president why he did not write "O. K."

"Because that's wrong," said Wilson.

"Wrong?" echoed the secretary. "Isn't it derived from Andrew Jackson's 'Orl Krecht?'"

"No," said Wilson. "'O. K.' is often erroneously used for 'Okeh,' which in the Choctaw language means, 'It is so.'"

Girls! Women! Do Your Looks Satisfy You?

Is your colour fresh and rosy?

Does the glow of health shine out in your cheeks?

Do your eyes glisten with health, or are they dull, dark, circled and tired?

Alas—your bloodless face indicates trouble. Your watery blood menaces your health. What you need is the toning, cleansing assistance of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They will clean out the overplus of bile that makes your skin so murky—they will put new life into the stomach, bring up digestion and make you eat sufficient food to get a blood supply about you.

Good blood always means more strength and vigour—that's why Dr. Hamilton's Pills are so successful in building up weak, thin folks.

You'll feel better at once, your looks will improve and that half dead, dizzy feeling will depart, because Dr. Hamilton's Pills enliven and fortify every ailing organ in the body.

Ask your friends, your neighbours—most anyone can tell you of the enormous good done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, but beware of any substitute.

Eleventh Hour for the Kaiser.

Wilhelm Hohenzollern is a religious man. He reads the Bible. Perhaps, like most ignorant men, he is superstitious. If so, his kind friends in Holland might call his attention to the curiously important part the number eleven has played in the history of the little drama in which he started out as the hero and ended as the arch villain.

The war came to an end on the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month. Turning to the eleventh verse of the eleventh chapter of the Bible we find this:

"Wherefore, the Lord said unto Solomon, forasmuch as this is done of thee and thou hast not kept my covenant and my statutes, which I have commanded thee, I will surely rend the kingdom from thee, and will give it to thy servant."

A curious analogy surely. The hard-headed will find it an odd coincidence of no significance. Wilhelm Hohenzollern, brooding, with the faces of starving women before his eyes, the cries of children in his ears, his world dream shattered, his kingdom gone, and the shadow of his own doom hovering near, may see in the Bible verse a prophecy that has been all too well fulfilled.—N. Y. Tribune.

Be Generous With Stomach

Give It Nourishing Food and Give It Generous Assistance With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. For Gas, Heartburn or Distress After Eating.

You may read a library on what to eat and what to avoid. You may follow the rules laid down for dieting and still have indigestion, sour stomach and the heavy, drowsy feeling of over-eating. With most people the stomach simply needs the plain, common-sense help afforded by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Not only do they aid digestion, but you may eat sausage for breakfast, pie for lunch, lobster salad for dinner. No gas, no sour risings, no lump in your throat, no biliousness, no headache, no dark brown taste in the morning. This is the result after learning that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets assist digestion, tone the stomach, bring it back to robust appetite. Eat anything you like. These tablets are sold in every drug store in the United States and Canada, which shows how they are esteemed by those who realise how necessary it is now and then to give the stomach a much needed assistance.

The properties in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, combined with that already in the stomach, act upon food and enable the stomach to move on to the intestines the food contents. Try these tablets and get relief almost at once. You can obtain Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store at 50 cents a box.

Engineering Pays.

Basing conclusions upon the income-tax returns, the best-paying profession in the United States is that of engineering. It excels even that of law, which long held the record, and is far ahead of those of theology and medicine. The reason for this is not difficult to find. This is a constructive age, even though the war would seem to contradict such an assertion. After the war, when reconstruction generally sets in, the engineers bid fair to become a class of plutocrats.—Christian Science Monitor.

L. L. HOOKS SAYS HIS TROUBLES ARE OVER

Tanlac Built Him Up So He Is Now Working Hard Every Day

"When I weighed the other day I found I had gained thirty-five pounds, and that's only a part of what Tanlac has done for me," said L. L. Hooks, of North Roswell, Ga., in relating his experience with Tanlac.

"I suffered from such an awful case of stomach trouble," he continued, "that I could hardly eat a thing and nothing tasted right. The little I forced down didn't give me any strength and at times I would almost choke from the gas that formed in my stomach. I was so weak and miserable I just couldn't do any work at all and was just about all in.

"I commenced to take Tanlac because I saw it was good it was doing others, and I could feel all the difference in the world right from the start; it simply made me feel like a new man. My troubles are now over, it built me up wonderfully and I am working hard, using pick and shovel every day, and never have any more trouble with my stomach."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co. Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd., in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

Like the Old Time Bustle.

A fashion report from Paris, stating that dresses are being made in that city with "full drapery in the back several inches below the waist line, giving the skirt a Japanese effect," was spoken of by a New York woman as less Japanese than one time American. "It is simply a return to the bustle," she said. "And some day we may refer to the monstrosity as we did when I wore one and received a valentine with a grotesque picture and these lines:

"The tillowy bustle,
The hoopskirt bustle,
The newspaper bustle,
That hung on so well"

Napoleon's Descendant.

A great-grandson of Napoleon Bonaparte was killed recently in action not far from Reims, where he was at the head of a machine-gun section. His name was Daniel Napoleon Mesnard, and he was the son of a lady whose maiden name was Leon, and who was the daughter of Count Leon, a natural son of the emperor. The dead soldier bore himself bravely in defense of Reims, and was mentioned in dispatches.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Colour and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for 50 cents a large bottle, all ready for us. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

It All Depended.

"I see they are now manufacturing asbestos shingles which will not burn," said the teacher.

"Well, I don't know about their not burning," said the boy reflectively. "I guess it will depend on how they are used."

Mark Twain's Friend.

Apropos of the death of the Rev. Dr. Joseph Twitchell, of Hartford, friend of Mark Twain and original of "Harris" in the latter's "A Tramp Abroad," the Philadelphia Public Ledger tells a story: Some years ago Dr. J. M. Buckley, the noted Methodist editor, took some of his clerical brethren severely to task for their tendency to draw on the ideas and even the language of Joseph Parker without due acknowledgment. While the discussion was at its height Mark Twain attended "Joe" Twitchell's church, and heard one of the latter's finest efforts. After the sermon he came forward, grasped the preacher's hand and said: "Joe, that was a good sermon, but I have a book at home that contains every word of it." Dr. Twitchell was taken aback—and then he waxed indignant. "If you can show me the book, I'd certainly like to see it!" he rejoined. "I gave a great deal of brain- sweat to that sermon." The next day Mark Twain sent him a copy of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary.

Army Supplies.

Since April 1, 1917, the army of the United States has been supplied with 5,377,000 overcoats, 8,069,000 woolen coats, 10,507,000 pairs of woolen breeches, and 55,858,000 pairs of woolen socks. Motortrucks to the number of 17,989 have been sent overseas and 9,860 motor ambulances have been provided.

GIRLS: "THICKEN" AND BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR AND STOP DANRRUFF

Try this! Your hair gets wavy, glossy and abundant at once.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now for a few cents at all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and then as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp. Danderine is, we believe, the only thing that ever did destroy dandruff and cure for itchy scalp, and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

ENVER PASHA'S GUILT.

Was Responsible for Massacre of Armenians.

Enver Pasha, the Turkish Minister of War, like his associate, Talaat, did not hesitate to take full responsibility for the extermination of the Armenians. "In protesting to Enver against these outrages, says Ambassador Henry Morgenthau in the World's Work, "I began by suggesting that the Central Government was probably not to blame for the massacres. I thought that this would not be displeasing to him.

"'Of course I know that the Cabinet would never order such terrible things as have taken place,' I said. 'You and Talaat and the rest of the committee can hardly be held responsible. Undoubtedly your subordinates have gone much further than you have ever intended. I realize that it is not always easy to control your underlings.'

"Enver straightened up at once. I saw that my remarks, far from smoothing the way to a quiet and friendly discussion, had greatly offended him. I had intimated that things could happen in Turkey for which he and his associates were not responsible.

"'You are greatly mistaken,' he said. 'We have this country absolutely under our control. I have no desire to shift the blame on our underlings and I am entirely willing to accept the responsibility myself for everything that has taken place. The Cabinet itself has ordered the deportations. I am convinced that we are completely justified in doing this owing to the hostile attitude of the Armenians toward the Ottoman Government, but we are the real rulers of Turkey, and no underling would dare proceed in a matter of this kind without our orders.'

"Enver tried to mitigate the barbarity of his general attitude by showing mercy in particular instances. I made no progress in my efforts to stop the program of wholesale massacre, but I did save a few Armenians from death. One day I received word from the American Consul at Smyrna that seven Armenians had been sentenced to be hanged. These men had been accused of committing some rather vague political offence in 1909, yet neither Rahmi Bey, the governor-general of Smyrna, nor the military commander believed that they were guilty. When the order for execution reached Smyrna these authorities wired Constantinople that under the Ottoman law the accused had the right to appeal for clemency to the Sultan. The answer which was returned to this communication well illustrated the extent to which the rights of the Armenians were regarded at that time:

"'Technically, you are right; hang them first and send the petition for pardon afterward.'

"In all my talks on the Armenians the Minister of War treated the whole matter more or less casually; he could discuss the kind of a race in a parenthesis and refer to the massacre of children as nonchalantly as he would speak of the weather.

MORE VALUABLE THAN GOLD

Real Treasure of Peru Was the Potato, Though Spaniards Did Not Realize It.

The gold of the Indies was the attraction that led Columbus to sail westward, that carried Cortes to Mexico and Pizarro to Peru. The Incas had large stores of the precious metal, representing, no doubt, the accumulations of many centuries. The capture of such a hoard resounded through Europe. Spain became for a time the wealthiest, as well as the most powerful, nation of Europe, and this was ascribed to the gold of Peru.

But Peru had another treasure much more valuable for the nations of Europe than the golden booty of Pizarro. Carrying the potato to Europe was an event of much more profound significance in relation to the subsequent history of the world than sending the Inca gold to the coffers of Spain. But nobody understood the value of the potato, and its Peruvian origin was generally forgotten before the plant became well known. Instead of Peruvian potatoes we call them Irish potatoes.

The potato was the basis of the ancient Peruvian nation and has attained almost the same importance in other parts of the world within the last 100 years.—National Geographic Magazine.

"Puget Sound Lobster."

Seattle is consuming only about half a ton of octopus, "devilfish," a week, according to fish dealers of that city. But this consumption is bound to jump as soon as the Americans become familiar with the taste of this inhabitant of the deep. The Greek fishermen, who consider the octopus a great delicacy, call it "devilfish;" while the Japanese fish dealer gets calls from his people for "tako," and when Sing, down in Chinatown, places it on his menu card he gives it a name that only a Cantonese can read or understand. When cafe managers uptown decide to give their patrons a treat the jowly devilfish probably will become "Puget Sound lobster."

How Fat Actress Was Made Slim

Many stage people now depend entirely upon Marmola Prescription Tablets for reducing and controlling fat. One clever actress tells that she reduced two to four pounds a week by using this new form of the famous Marmola Prescription and now by taking Marmola Tablets never gains a year, keeps her weight just right. All druggists sell Marmola Prescription Tablets at 75 cents for a large case. Or you can get them by sending price direct to the Marmola Co., 864 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. If you have not tried them do so. They are harmless and effective.

Fast Construction.

A record for hospital building that is likely to last for a long time was made recently on work for the war department at Staten Island, N. Y. The building, a one-story frame structure with every modern convenience, was put up in just 10 hours and 28 minutes from the time work started, at seven o'clock in the morning. The hospital is 150 feet long and 24 feet wide, with a 10½-foot porch the entire length of the building on one side.

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing and fear Catarrh of Deafness, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little, and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal trouble of the ears, is hard of hearing or has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

The German Government Troops Are Said To Be Wavering In Loyalty

Armed Clashes Have Occurred in Berlin—Three Additional Divisions Are Being Hurried to the Capital.

FACING A CRISIS

(United Press.)

COPENHAGEN, March 5.—The German government is facing its gravest, and possibly its final, test of authority, it was indicated in despatches received here to-day.

With disorders growing in Berlin, the general strike was reported to have spread to Leipzig, where the Spartacans were said to be entrenching themselves to oppose a large force of government troops approaching the city.

Armed clashes have occurred in the Tiergarten and Weimarstrasse at Berlin, and plundering and rioting was said to be going on in all parts of the city. Several units of government troops were reported to be wavering in their loyalty and three additional divisions were being hurried to the city.

Workers on Strike.

Government troops have occupied the artillery depots and warehouses at Spandau, where 47,000 workers are on strike.

The Independent Socialists are unreservedly supporting the strikers, and the decision of the Majority Socialist Trade Unionists as to whether they should join the demonstrations, was expected hourly. Printers employed on the Tageblatt, Vossische Zeitung, Lokal Anzeiger, Morgenpost and other non-radical newspapers walked out without waiting for the formal approval of their unions. None of these papers was able to publish. Food was said to be growing scarcer, owing to the enormous waste resulting from indiscriminate plundering.

(Canadian Press.)

MARTIAL LAW.

BERLIN, March 5. — Greater Berlin was quiet up till last night, Gustave Noske, the Minister of War, apparently having the situation well in hand. The proclamation of martial law by the Prussian ministry had a salutary effect; the quick posting to strategic points in the city by Reinhardt brigade also serving to dampen the ardor of the Spartacides. The government soldiers are concentrating attention on Moabit, in the vicinity of the police headquarters, the Chancellory and the Imperial Bank.

The strikers' organizations have thus far done nothing and the leaders are unable to tell the approximate number of men who are out on strike.

The Greater Berlin Soviet met at 10 o'clock this afternoon, under the chairmanship of Richard Mueller, an Independent Radical, for the purpose of receiving reports from the factory stewards.

The Strike Committee Councils and executive boards have increased the membership to 32, being equally divided between Majority Socialists and Independent Socialists.

Fighting Strikes.

In view of its party make up and the fact that the Majority Socialists are fighting the strikes and determined to prevent their spread, it is believed that the executive board, which is declaring a strike, will before long become deadlocked or bring about a compromise.

The strikers' organization has requisitioned the independent Socialist organ "Die Freiheit," and is issuing it as an official Gazette.

The government troops at police headquarters fired upon rioters in the neighborhood this morning and several casualties are reported to have resulted. The troops had been called to disperse the crowds which had been gathering in increased numbers around headquarters. Reports were current early in the day that the Spartacans' marine division had seized the police headquarters, but this turned out to be incorrect.

Heaviest Snow Fall Sometimes In March

When winter "lingers in the lap of spring," it often becomes excessively demonstrative in the last hours before departing. One such occasion was recalled by Mr. F. H. Dobbin this morning. It was in March 1870 when abolated storm blew up on St. Patrick's Day and continued more or less for five days. In the fields the snow registered a depth of four feet seven inches George Street resembled a gulch in the Alps and when the sidewalks were dug out only the upper windows of the stores could be seen from the opposite side of the street. It is unlikely that the old days will repeat a performance so striking as that, but anything is possible with the weather man.

LOCAL HEBREWS TO SEND DELEGATES TO JEWISH CONGRESS

Largely Attended Meeting Was Held in the W. O. W. Hall

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Hebrews of this city was held at the Woodmen of the World Hall on Monday for the purpose of electing a delegate to represent Peterborough and vicinity at the Canadian Jewish Congress to be held in Montreal on March 16, 17, 18.

The object of the Congress, which is composed of Jewish representatives from all parts of the Dominion is to formulate plans for the amelioration of the condition of Jews throughout the world. Among the matters which will be brought up at the Congress is the granting of equal political and economic rights to Jews in all countries in which they reside, the establishment of a Jewish state in Palestine and questions dealing with immigration and colonization. It is altogether likely that representatives will be chosen by the Congress to present the views of the Canadian Jews at the Peace Conference.

Delegates Nominated.

Mr. Chesler, local President of the Jewish congregation acted as chairman of the meeting, and in his opening address emphasized the need of unity amongst the Jews, saying that only by presenting a solid front could much be accomplished in relieving the disabilities under which many of their co-religionists are suffering in many of the countries in which they live.

Mr. N. Sukloff and Mr. M. Fine were nominated as delegates to the Congress and after an interesting contest Mr. Sukloff received the largest number of votes.

Among the speakers who addressed the meeting were Rev. Mr. Baronhols, Messrs. N. Sukloff, Mr. M. Fine, Mr. P. Black, Mr. H. J. Zacks, Mr. L. Erster and Louis Sukloff.

Before closing the meeting Mr. B. Chesler made a brief appeal for expenses of the local delegate to the Congress. The appeal was heartily endorsed and the result deposited with the treasurer, Mr. Harry Zacks. Mr. A. Botnick, secretary of the Peterborough Jewish congregation, kept a record of the evening's proceedings, which will remain an historic memorandum in the annals of the Jewish sect of this city.

The meeting was then closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

Last evening at the conclusion of the rehearsal for the concert which the Murray Baptist choir will put on in the near future, a pleasant social evening was spent by the members in the ladies' parlour. Dainty refreshments were served and the evening was spent in games and music.

ATTACK ON PROHIBITION

Charges That Licensees Are Betrayed and Suggests Municipalities Be Allowed to Decide Location of Vendors

TO-DAY'S SESSION

TORONTO, March 5.— Denouncing the Ontario Temperance Act as being brought about by wild fanatics, and as a pharisean measure, and one which deprived the people of their constitutional liberties, Col. H. A. C. Machin, Conservative member for Kenora, made a scathing attack on the Government in the Legislature last night. His attack had been advertised previously as to be one on the Prime Minister. While he did not specifically mention Sir William Hearst in his wholesale denunciation of the Government for passing the Ontario Temperance Act, and breaking faith with the people who elected in 1914, he drew a critical comparison between the Prime Minister and the former occupant of the position, the late Sir James Whitney.

Ignore Party Whips.

While stating that he was not in favour of going back to the open bar, Col. Machin came out strongly in favour of the Government, "in common decency," compensating those people who had been put out of business by the passing of the O. T. A. He urged members on both sides of the House to vote according to conscience when the amendments to the O.T.A. are introduced by the Government, and not to abide by the decision of party leaders. While he believed he may have taken his political life in his hands by making the address he did, Col. Machin said that he saw things differently since having been in France, and he would never again listen to the orders of party whips, if he was not personally in accord with the measure he was asked to support. He explained that, having made his promised attack, he would return to Ottawa to his military duties, carefully pointing out that his absence from the House would not be because he was seeking to get away from the issue. Col. Machin also suggested a system of Government vendors to sell liquor in each municipality.

To-day's Session.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, March 5.— The bomb shell exploded by Col. Machin in the Ontario House last night was virtually the only topic of conversation at Queen's Park this morning. Government officials declined to make any pronouncement of the subject. C. R. McKeown, Conservative whip, stated this morning he did not consider that the Colonel had definitely broken from the party in taking issue with the government on the temperance question. The debate on the speech from the throne will be brought to a close in the legislature this afternoon, when Hartley Dewart and Alan Studholme are scheduled to speak for the Opposition and T. A. Sinclair for the government. To-morrow, Hon. T. W. McGarry, provincial treasurer, will present his budget, and discussion on that topic will follow, and will likely occupy the remainder of the week.

Failure To Grant Miners' Demands Will Result In A Strike Of "Triple Alliance"

Carriages Equipped With Two Coachmen and Two Footmen on the Streets in England is Not Conducive to Better Labour Conditions "Lady So-and-So's Twenty Maids."

(United Press.)

LONDON, March 5. — Failure to grant the miners' demands will result in a general strike of the "triple alliance," which would paralyze British industries and probably force a change in the government, Robert Williams, general secretary of the Transport Workers' Federation declared to-day.

The "triple alliance" is the common term for the transport workers, railwaymen and miners. Williams' organization alone numbers close to 300,000.

Not Optimistic.

Williams, who next to J. H. Thomas and Robert Smillie, is the most influential labourite in Great Britain, is not optimistic regarding the result of the inquiry being conducted into the mining situation by the government. He does not believe the miners will accept a compromise. He is optimistic, however, regarding negotiations now under way between the transport workers and employers regarding a forty-four hour week with no decrease in present wages.

"Nationalization of all natural monopolies, with the workers participating in the management, is the only solution to the present labour unrest," said Williams. "It would go a long way towards preventing profiteering and in decreasing the cost of living.

"I do not see any possibility of averting a strike of the triple alliance (the alliance is pledged to act together) unless the parliamentary committee investigating the miners' demands recommends nationalization of the mines, a six hour day and a thirty per cent. wage increase.

"Drive on James."

"As long as workers read newspaper stories of discharged soldiers and sailors returning to their old jobs as footmen and butlers, as long as they see carriages equipped with two coachmen and two footmen, as long as they read of Lady So and So's twenty maids, they will be unable to see why their demands are no granted."

Discussing possible failure of the miners' cases, Williams said:

"The triple alliance is pledged not to strike singly. The strike of one element means the strike of all three. It will paralyze the county. It may mean a change in the government."

Miners' Demands.

Williams said that acceptance of the miners' demands would "do much to help settle other difficulties." Although the miners postponed their strike—which was favoured by a large majority in the recent referendum—to allow the government committee an opportunity to investigate, they will meet with railwaymen and transport workers next week. At that time the work of the investigating committee will have reached a stage where miners are likely to know the probable outcome of the probe. If it is unfavourable, the question of a general strike of the "triple alliance" will be taken up at once.

In the meantime, other strikers continue bobbing up here and there. The most recent walk-out was that of 4,000 colliers in Southern Wales.

Wilson Left For France

Presidential Party Sailed Early This Morning—Departure Was Quiet

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, March 5.— President Wilson sailed for France this morning on his second trip to the peace conference.

The Presidential party went aboard the transport George Washington at 1.15 a.m. Shortly after 8 o'clock the steamer swung from the pier and headed downstream.

The President has announced his intention of remaining in Paris until the peace treaty is signed. He believes this will be accomplished not later than June 1, and hopes that the work may be ended by the middle of May.

A Contrast.

The Chief Executive's departure was marked by simplicity, which contrasted with the noisy demonstration accorded him on his first journey to Paris last December. To-day there was only a small crowd of persons assembled at the army transport pier. To these the President, hat in hand, and Mrs. Wilson, waved farewell greetings as the George Washington sauntered out into the lower Hudson river. As the transport turned her nose toward the statue of liberty in a strike that almost paralyzed the harbour, an escort of destroyers got under way ahead and the Presidential salute of twenty-one guns was fired.

200 Germans Were Drowned

Entire Party, Including Train Crew Alleged to Have Been Intoxicated.

(United Press.)

LONDON, March 5. — (British Admiralty Wireless). — More than 200 Germans, men and women, were drowned when a special train in which they were returning from a visit to the German military cemetery at Zeebrugge, ran into an open bridge over the Maritime canal, according to information obtained by a Daily News correspondent.

The entire party, including the train crew, was alleged to have been intoxicated. This is said to have been the reason why the engineer didn't see the signals at the bridge.

PETERBORO' NURSE IS IN GERMANY

Nursing Sister Irene Munro is With Evacuation Hospital

Mr. R. J. Munro has received word from his daughter, Nursing Sister Irene Munro, that she is at present at the Evacuation Hospital in Trien, Germany.

In describing conditions in Germany Miss Munro states that shoes and stockings are practically unprocurable and the nurses expect to use the Red Cross in Paris as the only means of securing any. Jewellery, she stated, is very reasonable at present, and cameos are to be had for practically nothing.

At the hospital things are run in the systematic manner of the American institutions. The matron checks the girls up at ten o'clock and again at the time a late pass calls for. Miss Munro made no mention of coming home for the present.

SIR SAM HUGHES DECLARES CANADIANS WERE NEEDLESSLY SLAIN ON THE WEST FRONT

Ex-Minister of Militia Describes Alleged Intrigue and Declares Sir Joseph Flavelle to be "the Owner of This Administration."

WANTS COURT MARTIAL

OTTAWA, March 5. — Grave charges against the Canadian Command in France, which caused a tremendous sensation at the Capital, and will undoubtedly create a still greater sensation in the country, were made in the House of Commons last evening by Lieutenant-General Sir Sam Hughes, former Minister of Militia.

Speaking with great emotion Sir Sam Hughes declared that Canadian soldiers were massacred by the hundreds in useless attacks at Lens, Passchendaele and Cambrai, "where the only apparent object was to glorify the General in command, through bumbery, to have a fifth and sixth Canadian division and two army corps."

"Needless Slaughter" of Brave Boys.

He asserted that at Cambrai the gallant lads from Canada were sent up against positions swarming with machine guns, without being properly supported by tanks or guns to destroy the machine gun positions. This "needless slaughter," he characterized as a "case of bull-head strategy." The ex-Minister told the House that he called the attention of the Prime Minister to these "useless massacres of the Canadian troops," adding that Sir Robert Borden should assert himself, demand the removal of incompetents, and stop the slaughter of the soldiers.

"Bull-headedness and incompetency are traceable by the horrible casualties, rolling up into eight and ten times the total force of a battalion or brigade," wrote Sir Sam in his appeal to the Prime Minister to take action. "Any ass," he added, "can sit back and simply order battalion after battalion to go forward to certain death."

Wants General Court-martialed.

General Hughes demanded that the General who undertook to capture Cambrai by suburb and street fighting, instead of by an encircling movement, should be court-martialed. He declared that if the Prime Minister would secure the returns of losses by brigades and battalions during each year or tenure of command, and what each brigade accomplished, it would be found that in many instances the brigades and battalions that accomplished the most suffered the least.

The public galleries were packed, and practically every member of Parliament was in his seat when General Hughes rose to speak, for it had been advertised that he would make charges of a very serious character. The General opened by reading a long list of members and their sons who fought in the great war, and tears ran down his cheeks as he read the names of those who fell in action.

No Place for "Stunts."

He declared that from the very commencement of the war he had protested against the strategy which turned Canadian lads into cannon fodder. He made violent complaints against what they called "stunts," which cost hundreds of lives, and notified the authorities that if the nonsense was to continue he would sent them a few shiploads of Texas steers, which would serve the purpose of stopping German bullets just as well as the brave lads from Canada. There was a chance that a solitary steer might break through the wire entanglements and gore a German soldier, but the Canadian regiments, charging across open country swept by rifle and machine-gun fire and covered by an artillery barrage, had not a chance in the world.

"I would not have wasted the life of the commonest Canadian soldier in taking Cambrai by street fighting," exclaimed Sir Sam, who described with great emotion the fierce struggle and heavy loss of life in connection with the capture of that town. He almost broke down, as Capt. Read, of Prince Edward Island cried "Shame! Shame!" as Sir Sam charged that these had been lost needlessly through the bull-headed stupidity of the Canadian Command. "The General responsible should be court-martialed, and the officers reprimanded," declared the former Minister of Militia.

The Attack on Mons.

Sir Sam then referred to the capture of Mons by the Canadian troops with heavy casualties on the very morning that the armistice was signed. "Were I in authority," he said, "the officer who ordered the attack

Was Arrested As A Deserter

Pte. W. A. Richmond Glad That the Suspense is Ended

Charged with being a deserter from the 93rd Battalion for nearly three years, Pte. William Arthur Richmond was arrested by the Dominion Police last night at 11.30 on the farm of Mr. R. J. Tully, Fowler's Corners. Richmond was in bed at the time and did not attempt to resist when apprehended. He refused to commit himself this morning, but said that he was glad that it was all over. For the last three years every man on the street loomed up as a possible military constable. Mr. Harry Rush, J.P., occupied the bench this morning and Richmond, without hesitating, pleaded guilty.

Was Handed Over.

He was ordered to be handed over to the military authorities and a military escort will take him to Kingston on the 2 o'clock G.T.R. train this afternoon.

Richmond enlisted with the 39th Battalion before it left for overseas, but received his discharge because of physical disabilities. He then enlisted with the 93rd Battalion here about Christmas, 1915, and was quartered in Peterborough until the battalion left for Barriefield, preparatory to going overseas, where he deserted and escaped to the United States. South of the line he escaped detection because of his 39th discharge papers, which were quite in order. He worked in the States until about two months ago, when he returned to the vicinity of Peterborough, and which resulted in his arrest last night.

Richmond does not seem dejected, but appears to be relieved that the suspense of the last two years has been ended.

Hydro To Consider Lakefield Power

W. W. Pope, secretary of the Hydro-Electric Commission has replied as follows to Mr. J. H. Burnham's telegram regarding the Lakefield Dam:— "Your telegram of the 1st instant and your letter of the same date are to hand. This matter will be brought to the attention of the chairman directly he arrives in the city which is expected to be this evening or to-morrow morning, and the matter will be taken up with the Board."

The City Council has also passed a resolution urging the Commission to expropriate this water power before any plans of improvement by the Federal Government may be begun.

Two Peterborough Soldiers Home

Pte. Hutchinson was a Prisoner of War for Three Years.

Pte. George Hutchinson of the 4th Canadian Mounted Rifles, who was a prisoner of war in Germany for three years, and who resides at 163 Wescott street, returned home yesterday morning.

Returning To-night.

Mr. Oliver Taylor, who went away with the 93rd Battalion, and whose home is at 45 Ware street, is expected home this evening on the 5.35 train, via G. T. R.

GUNNER NOKES ARRIVES HOME

Gunner Albert Nokes is being welcomed back to Peterborough by his friends after an absence overseas of over four years. Gunner Nokes enlisted with the 4th Battery and was in the first contingent that left Peterborough during August of 1914. He feels thankful that he has come out of the war practically unscathed although having been in many of the important engagements in which the Canadians took part.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, March 5. — A man who later admitted his name was Khellar and that he was a Russian Jew, fired two shots from a revolver from the Palais De Elysee, the residence of President Poincare, to-day.

Knellar, who at first refused to divulge his nationality, declared that he desired to protest against allied intervention in Russia.

The shooting occurred in the presence of guards and sentinels. The bullets fell harmlessly on the verandah of the Court of honor.

The German Government Troops Are Said To Be Wavering In Loyalty

Armed Clashes Have Occurred in Berlin—Three Additional Divisions Are Being Hurried to the Capital.

FACING A CRISIS

(United Press.)

COPENHAGEN, March 5.—The German government is facing its gravest, and possibly its final, test of authority, it was indicated in despatches received here to-day.

With disorders growing in Berlin, the general strike was reported to have spread to Leipsig, where the Spartacans were said to be entrenching themselves to oppose a large force of government troops approaching the city.

Armed clashes have occurred in the Tiergarten and Weimarstrasse at Berlin, and plundering and rioting was said to be going on in all parts of the city. Several units of government troops were reported to be wavering in their loyalty and three additional divisions were being hurried to the city.

Workers on Strike.

Government troops have occupied the artillery depots and warehouses at Spandau, where 47,000 workers are on strike.

The Independent Socialists are unreservedly supporting the strikers, and the decision of the Majority Socialist Trade Unionists as to whether they should join the demonstrations was expected hourly. Printers employed on the Tageblatt, Vossische Zeitung, Lokal Anzeiger, Morgenpost and other non-radical newspapers walked out without waiting for the formal approval of their unions. None of these papers was able to publish. Food was said to be growing scarcer, owing to the enormous waste resulting from indiscriminate plundering.

(Canadian Press.)

MARTIAL LAW.

BERLIN, March 5. — Greater Berlin was quiet up till last night, Gustave Noske, the Minister of War, apparently having the situation well in hand. The proclamation of martial law by the Prussian ministry had a salutary effect; the quick posting to strategic points in the city by Reinhardt brigade also, serving to dampen the ardor of the Spartacides. The government soldiers are concentrating attention on Moabit, in the vicinity of the police headquarters, the Chancellory and the Imperial Bank.

The strikers' organizations have thus far done nothing and the leaders are unable to tell the approximate number of men who are out on strike.

The Greater Berlin Soviet met at 10 o'clock this afternoon, under the chairmanship of Richard Mueller, an Independent Radical, for the purpose of receiving reports from the factory stewards.

The Strike Committee Councils and executive boards have increased the membership to 32, being equally divided between Majority Socialists and Independent Socialists.

Fighting Strikes.

In view of its party make up and the fact that the Majority Socialists are fighting the strikes and determined to prevent their spread, it is believed that the executive board, which is declaring a strike, will before long become deadlocked or bring about a compromise.

The strikers' organization has requisitioned the independent Socialist organ "Die Freiheit," and is issuing it as an official Gazette.

The government troops at police headquarters fired on rioters in the neighborhood this morning and several casualties are reported to have resulted. The troops had been called to disperse the crowds which had been gathering in increased numbers around headquarters. Reports were current early in the day that the Spartacans' marine division had seized the police headquarters, but this turned out to be incorrect.

Heaviest Snow Fall Sometimes In March

When winter "lingers in the lap of spring," it often becomes excessively demonstrative in the last hours before departing. One such occasion was recalled by Mr. F. H. Dobbin this morning. It was in March 1870 when abelated storm blew up on St. Patrick's Day and continued more or less for five days. In the fields the snow registered a depth of four feet seven inches George Street resembled a gulch in the Alps and when the sidewalks were dug out only the upper windows of the stores could be seen from the opposite side of the street. It is unlikly that the old days will repeat a performance so striking as that, but anything is possible with the weather man.

Transport Carried Twelve Hundred Soldiers—The Local List

(Special to The Examiner.)

HALIFAX, March 5.—The transport Megantic, with twelve hundred soldiers and three hundred civilians aboard, docked here this morning. Many of them are for Ontario points.

The following Peterborough men were on the Megantic:

412467 Sergt. Fred Eggleton, 39th Battalion.

196354 Pte. Thomas Cassidy, 93rd Battalion.

196763 Pte. William Percy, 93rd Battalion.

LOCAL HEBREWS TO SEND DELEGATES TO JEWISH CONG

Largely Attended Meeting Was Held in the W. O. W. Hall

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Hebrews of this city was held at the Woodmen of the World Hall on Monday for the purpose of electing a delegate to represent Peterborough and vicinity at the Canadian Jewish Congress to be held in Montreal on March 16, 17, 18.

The object of the Congress, which is composed of Jewish representatives from all parts of the Dominion is to formulate plans for the amelioration of the condition of Jews throughout the world. Among the matters which will be brought up at the Congress is the granting of equal political and economic rights to Jews in all countries in which they reside, the establishment of a Jewish state in Palestine and questions dealing with immigration and colonization. It is altogether likely that representatives will be chosen by the Congress to present the views of the Canadian Jews at the Peace Conference.

Delegates Nominated.

Mr. Chesler, local President of the Jewish congregation acted as chairman of the meeting, and in his opening address emphasized the need of unity amongst the Jews, saying that only by presenting a solid front could much be accomplished in relieving the disabilities under which many of their co-religionists are suffering in many of the countries in which they live.

Mr. N. Sukloff and Mr. M. Fine were nominated as delegates to the Congress and after an interesting contest Mr. Sukloff received the largest number of votes.

Among the speakers who addressed the meeting were Rev. Mr. Baronholz, Messrs. N. Sukloff, Mr. M. Fine, Mr. P. Block, Mr. H. J. Zacks, Mr. L. Erster and Louis Sukloff.

Before closing the meeting Mr. B. Chesler made a brief appeal for expenses of the local delegate to the Congress. The appeal was heartily endorsed and the result deposited with the treasurer, Mr. Harry Zacks. Mr. A. Botnick, secretary of the Peterborough Jewish congregation, kept a record of the evening's proceedings, which will remain an historic memorandum in the annals of the Jewish sect of this city.

The meeting was then closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

ATTACK ON PROHIBITION

Charges That Licensees Are Betrayed and Suggests Municipalities Be Allowed to Decide Location of Vendors

TO-DAY'S SESSION

TORONTO, March 5.— Denouncing the Ontario Temperance Act as being brought about by wild fanatics, and as a pharisean measure, and one which deprived the people of their constitutional liberties, Col. H. A. C. Machin, Conservative member for Kenora, made a scathing attack on the Government in the Legislature last night. His attack had been advertised previously as to be one on the Prime Minister. While he did not specifically mention Sir William Hearst in his wholesale denunciation of the Government for passing the Ontario Temperance Act, and breaking faith with the people who elected in 1914, he drew a critical comparison between the Prime Minister and the former occupant of the position, the late Sir James Whitney.

Ignore Party Whips.

While stating that he was not in favour of going back to the open bar, Col. Machin came out strongly in favour of the Government, "in common decency," compensating those people who had been put out of business by the passing of the O. T. A. He urged members on both sides of the House to vote according to conscience when the amendments to the O.T.A. are introduced by the Government, and not to abide by the decision of party leaders. While he believed he may have taken his political life in his hands by making the address he did, Col. Machin said that he saw things differently since having been in France, and he would never again listen to the orders of party whips, if he was not personally in accord with the measure he was asked to support. He explained that, having made his promised attack, he would return to Ottawa to his military duties, carefully pointing out that his absence from the House would not be because he was seeking to get away from the issue. Col. Machin also suggested a system of Government vendors to sell liquor in each municipality.

To-day's Session.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, March 5.— The bomb shell exploded by Col. Machin in the Ontario House last night was virtually the only topic of conversation at Queen's Park this morning. Government officials declined to make any pronouncement of the subject. C. R. McKeown, Conservative whip, stated this morning he did not consider that the Colonel had definitely broken from the party in taking issue with the government on the temperance question. The debate on the speech from the throne will be brought to a close in the legislature this afternoon, when Hartley Dewart and Alan Studholme are scheduled to speak for the Opposition and W. A. Sinclair for the government. To-morrow, Hon. T. W. McGarry, provincial treasurer, will present his budget, and discussion on that topic will follow, and will likely occupy the remainder of the week.

Failure To Grant Miners' Demands Will Result In A Strike Of "Triple Alliance"

Carriages Equipped With Two Coachmen and Two Footmen on the Streets in England is Not Conducive to Better Labour Conditions "Lady So-and-So's Twenty Maids."

(United Press.)

LONDON, March 5. — Failure to grant the miners' demands will result in a general strike of the "triple alliance," which would paralyze British industries and probably force a change in the government, Robert Williams, general secretary of the Transport Workers' Federation declared to-day.

The "triple alliance" is the common term for the transport workers, railwaymen and miners. Williams' organization alone numbers close to 300,000.

Not Optimistic.

Williams, who next to J. H. Thomas and Robert Smillie, is the most influential labourite in Great Britain, is not optimistic regarding the result of the inquiry being conducted into the mining situation by the government. He does not believe the miners will accept a compromise. He is optimistic, however, regarding negotiations now under way between the transport workers and employers regarding a forty-four hour week with no decrease in present wages.

"Nationalization of all natural monopolies, with the workers participating in the management, is the only solution to the present labour unrest," said Williams. "It would go a long way towards preventing profiteering and in decreasing the cost of living.

"I do not see any possibility of averting a strike of the triple alliance (the alliance is pledged to act together) unless the parliamentary committee investigating the miners' demands recommends nationalization of the mines, a six hour day and a thirty per cent. wage increase.

"Drive on James."

"As long as workers read newspaper stories of discharged soldiers and sailors returning to their old jobs as footmen and butlers, as long as they see carriages equipped with two coachmen and two footmen, as long as they read of Lady So and So's twenty maids, they will be unable to see why their demands are no granted."

Discussing possible failure of the miners' cases, Williams said:

"The triple alliance is pledged not to strike singly. The strike of one element means the strike of all three. It will paralyze the county. It may mean a change in the government."

Miners' Demands.

Williams said that acceptance of the miners' demands would "do much to help settle other difficulties." Although the miners postponed their strike—which was favoured by a large majority in the recent referendum—to allow the government committee an opportunity to investigate, they will meet with railwaymen and transport workers next week. At that time the work of the investigating committee will have reached a stage where miners are likely to know the probable outcome of the probe. If it is unfavourable, the question of a general strike of the "triple alliance" will be taken up at once.

In the meantime, other strikers continue bobbing up here and there. The most recent walk-out was that of 4,000 colliers in Southern Wales.

Presidential Party Sailed Early This Morning—Departure Was Quiet

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, March 5.— President Wilson sailed for France this morning on his second trip to the peace conference.

The Presidential party went aboard the transport George Washington at 1.15 a.m. Shortly after 8 o'clock the steamer swung from the pier and headed downstream.

The President has announced his intention of remaining in Paris until the peace treaty is signed. He believes this will be accomplished not later than June 1, and hopes that the work may be ended by the middle of May.

A Contrast.

The Chief Executive's departure was marked by simplicity, which contrasted with the noisy demonstration accorded him on his first journey to Paris last December. To-day there was only a small crowd of persons assembled at the army transport pier. To these the President, hat in hand, and Mrs. Wilson, waved farewell greetings as the George Washington sauntered out into the lower Hudson river. As the transport turned her nose toward the statue of liberty in a strike that almost paralyzed the harbour, an escort of destroyers got under way ahead and the Presidential salute of twenty-one guns was fired.

200 Germans Were Drowned

Entire Party, Including Train Crew Alleged to Have Been Intoxicated,

(United Press.)

LONDON, March 5. — (British Admiralty Wireless). — More than 200 Germans, men and women, were drowned when a special train in which they were returning from a visit to the German military cemetery at Zeebrugge, ran into an open bridge over the Maritime canal, according to information obtained by a Daily News correspondent.

The entire party, including the train crew, was alleged to have been intoxicated. This is said to have been the reason why the engineer didn't see the signals at the bridge.

PETERBORO' NURSE IS IN GERMANY

Nursing Sister Irene Munro is With Evacuation Hospital

Mr. R. J. Munro has received word from his daughter, Nursing Sister Irene Munro, that she is at present at the Evacuation Hospital in Trien, Germany.

In describing conditions in Germany Miss Munro states that shoes and stockings are practically unprocurable and the nurses expect to use the Red Cross in Paris as the only means of securing any. Jewellery, she stated, is very reasonable at present, and cameos are to be had for practically nothing.

At the hospital things are run in the systematic manner of the American institutions. The matron checks the girls up at ten o'clock and again at the time a late pass calls for. Miss Munro made no mention of coming home for the present.

SIR SAM HUGHES DECLARES CANADIANS WERE NEEDLESSLY SLAIN ON THE WEST FRONT

Ex-Minister of Militia Describes Alleged Intrigue and Declares Sir Joseph Flavelle to be "the Owner of This Administration."

WANTS COURT MARTIAL.

OTTAWA, March 5. — Grave charges against the Canadian Command in France, which caused a tremendous sensation at the Capital, and will undoubtedly create a still greater sensation in the country, were made in the House of Commons last evening by Lieutenant-General Sir Sam Hughes, former Minister of Militia.

Speaking with great emotion Sir Sam Hughes declared that Canadian soldiers were massacred by the hundreds in useless attacks at Lens, Passchendaele and Cambrai, where the only apparent object was to glorify the General in command, through butchery, to have a fifth and sixth Canadian division and two army corps."

"Needless Slaughter" of Brave Boys.

He asserted that at Cambrai the gallant lads from Canada were sent up against positions swarming with machine guns, without being properly supported by tanks or guns to destroy the machine gun positions. This "needless slaughter," he characterized as a "case of bull-head strategy." The ex-Minister told the House that he called the attention of the Prime Minister to these "useless massacres of the Canadian troops," adding that Sir Robert Borden should assert himself, demand the removal of incompetents, and stop the slaughter of the soldiers.

"Bull-headedness and incompetency are traceable by the horrible casualties, rolling up into eight and ten times the total force of a battalion or brigade," wrote Sir Sam in his appeal to the Prime Minister to take action. "Any ass," he added, "can sit back and simply order battalion after battalion to go forward to certain death."

Wants General Court-martialled.

General Hughes demanded that the General who undertook to capture Cambrai by suburb and street fighting, instead of by an encircling movement, should be court-martialed. He declared that if the Prime Minister would secure the returns of losses by brigades and battalions during each year or tenure of command, and what each brigade accomplished, it would be found that in many instances the brigades and battalions that accomplished the most suffered the least.

The public galleries were packed, and practically every member of Parliament was in his seat when General Hughes rose to speak, for it had been advertised that he would make charges of a very serious character. The General opened by reading a long list of members and their sons who fought in the great war, and tears ran down his cheeks as he read the names of those who fell in action.

No Place for "Stunts."

He declared that from the very commencement of the war he had protested against the strategy which turned Canadian lads into cannon fodder. He made violent complaints against what they called "stunts," which cost hundreds of lives, and notified the authorities that if the nonsense was to continue he would sent them a few shiploads of Texas steers, which would serve the purpose of stopping German bullets just as well as the brave lads from Canada. There was a chance that a solitary steer might break through the wire entanglements and gore a German soldier, but the Canadian regiments, charging across open country swept by rifle and machine-gun fire and covered by an artillery barrage, had not a chance in the world.

"I would not have wasted the life of the commonest Canadian soldier in taking Cambrai by street fighting," exclaimed Sir Sam, who described with great emotion the fierce struggle and heavy loss of life in connection with the capture of the town. He almost broke down, as Capt. Read, of Prince Edward Island cried "Shame! Shame!" as Sir Sam charged that lives had been needlessly through the bull-headed stupidity of the Canadian Command. "The General responsible should be court-martialed, and the officers reprimanded," declared the former Minister of Militia.

The Attack on Mons.

Sir Sam then referred to the capture of Mons by the Canadian troops with heavy casualties, on the very morning that the armistice was signed. "Were I in authority," he said, "the officer who ordered the attack

Was Arrested As A Deserter

Pte. W. A. Richmond Glad That the Suspense is Ended

Charged with being a deserter from the 93rd Battalion for nearly three years, Pte. William Arthur Richmond was arrested by the Dominion Police last night at 11.30 on the farm of Mr. R. J. Tully, Fowlers Corners. Richmond was in bed at the time and did not attempt to resist when apprehended. He refused to commit himself this morning, but said that he was glad that it was all over. For the last three years every man on the street loomed up as a possible military constable. Mr. Harry Rush, J.P., occupied the bench this morning and Richmond, without hesitating, pleaded guilty.

Was Handed Over.

He was ordered to be handed over to the military authorities and a military escort will take him to Kingston on the 2 o'clock G.T.R. train this afternoon.

Richmond enlisted with the 39th Battalion before it left for overseas, but received his discharge because of physical disabilities. He then enlisted with the 93rd Battalion here about Christmas, 1915, and was quartered in Peterborough until the battalion left for Barriefield, preparatory to going overseas, where he deserted and escaped to the United States. South of the line he escaped detection because of his 39th discharge papers, which were quite in order. He worked in the States until about two months ago, when he returned to the vicinity of Peterborough, and which ended in his arrest last night.

Richmond does not seem dejected, but appears to be relieved that the suspense of the last two years has been ended.

Hydro To Consider Lakefield Power

W. W. Pope, secretary of the Hydro-Electric Commission has replied as follows to Mr. J. H. Burnham's telegram regarding the Lakefield Dam:— "Your telegram of the 1st instant and your letter of the same date are to hand. This matter will be brought to the attention of the chairman directly he arrives in the city which is expected to be this evening or to-morrow morning, and the matter will be taken up with the Board."

The City Council has also passed a resolution urging the Commission to expropriate this water power before any plans of improvement by the Federal Government may be begun.

Two Peterborough Soldiers Home

Pte. Hutchinson was a Prisoner of War for Three Years.

Pte. George Hutchinson of the 4th Canadian Mounted Rifles, who was a prisoner of war in Germany for three years, and who resides at 163 Wescott street, returned home yesterday morning.

Returning To-night.

Mr. Oliver Taylor, who went away with the 93rd Battalion, and whose home is at 45 Wire street, is expected home this evening on the 5.35 train, via G. T. R.

GUNNER NOKES ARRIVES HOME

Gunner Albert Nokes is being welcomed back to Peterborough by his friends after an absence overseas of over four years. Gunner Nokes enlisted with the 4th Battery and was in the first contingent that left Peterborough during August of 1914. He feels thankful that he has come out of the war practically unscathed although having been in many of the important engagements in which the Canadians took part.

ON ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION OF PRESIDENT POINCARE

Russian Jew Attempts President Poincare's Life—Object to Protest against the Allied Intervention in Russia.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, March 5. — A man who later admitted his name was Khellar and that he was a Russian Jew, fired two shots from a revolver from the Palais De Elysee, the residence of President Poincare, to-day.

Khellar, who at first refused to divulge his nationality, declared that he desired to protest against allied intervention in Russia.

The shooting occurred in the presence of guards and sentinels. The bullets fell harmlessly on the verandah of the Court of Honor.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 5TH, 1919.

MR. HOCKEN'S CHARGES.

It was a frank plea for the restoration of the pork barrel that H. C. Hocken, Unionist member for West Toronto, made in the House of Commons on Monday night. "I would have every position in the outside civil service filled upon the recommendation of the man who sits in parliament for the constituency in which the vacancy exists," was the keynote of his attack upon the Civil Service Commission and the so-called ginger group of old line Tories, who have chafed under the system introduced last session, applauded him to the echo, as was to be expected. With the taking away from the members of the power of making appointments, a privilege that made the average member monarch of all he surveyed in his own riding, much of the glory departed from these individuals and naturally they were delighted because Mr. Hocken put into words what they had been feeling.

The member for West Toronto objects to the Civil Service Commission, because he maintains that the government service is as a result being filled with inefficients who are friends of the officials. In brief he declares that personal "pull" is being substituted for the political patronage that was formerly the custom. Sensational indeed are his charges that candidates for civil service positions who have friends on the inside are secretly drilled in certain subjects upon which they have to write, and "that there is a regular traffic in examination papers."

The Toronto member must be commended for his frankness at least. He left no doubt as to his belief that it would be better to go back to the old method by which private members picked the friends of the party for government positions, than to continue to the present system by which friends of the officials get the berths instead.

The people of Canada last year applauded the announcement that patronage was to be eliminated from the civil service. Many were dubious about the Government's good faith in carrying out the reform, however, and Mr. Hocken's charges will not do much to restore public confidence in the genuineness of the change.

At the same time it is hard to conceive of a condition of affairs under the Civil Service Commission that would be as bad as the old plan. Patronage has been the curse of Canada and while there may be a great deal of truth in the complaint that friends of officials are favoured, yet the number of appointments made on a basis of friendship, cannot possibly approach the patronage record that the private members used to maintain.

CAPT. BURNHAM'S ATTITUDE.

Capt. Burnham's attitude on the prohibition issue, it must be admitted, is original, if nothing else. In his replies to Mr. A. B. Cunningham of the Social Service committee of the Trinity Methodist church, and to Mr. A. H. Lytle, grand secretary of the International Order of Good Templars, the member for West Peterborough calls the effort to prohibit alcohol "awful atheism." "What God has not prohibited but created I will not rebuke," declares Capt. Burnham. In reply to a request that he should support the confirmation by Parliament of the prohibition orders-in-Council.

Exactly what impression the local Federal member intends to convey by his characteristic letter is rather difficult to determine. Capt. Burnham says he is in favour of the strictest possible regulation, and yet later he remarks: "If in my opinion prohibition, total and absolute were a good thing for the people, I would vote for it to-morrow, but I do not think for the reason given above, that we fly to remedies and get away with it, such as total extinction; in other words called "bone-dry prohibition."

In the fact of these two apparently contradictory statements, the public will find it difficult to form a guess as to what course the member for West Peterborough will adopt when the prohibition issue comes before the House, but the best prophecy that can be made at this time is that in spite of his talk about the need of an alcoholic tonic and about bone-dry prohibition being a rebuke to God, which is manifestly designed to impress those voters who would like to see old John Barleycorn restored to his own, Capt. Burnham will line up when the Unionist party whip cracks, and will meekly vote with the government.

CANDY AS A FOOD.

One of the many interesting discoveries that were made during the war among the soldiers of the Canadian army was that the majority of them had a craving for sweets, especially for candy. Whether it was because of the absence from their regular diet of the confections and desserts that many of them had been accustomed to or from some other reason, it is a fact that candy was in great demand. The regimental canteens did a thriving business in chocolate bars and other delicacies of the same kind, and it was noticeable that the parcels from home contained a good deal of candy which rapidly disappeared as soon as it reached its destination.

Few of the men who so eagerly sought and consumed candy during their service in the army realized that in so doing they were providing their bodies with a valuable supply of food. There used to be an opinion that candy, while a delicious confection, was a luxury that had no food value, and that it was, if anything, injurious to the health. This idea has been pretty well exploded in recent years, and the following extract from Toronto Saturday Night shows the change that has come over public opinion in this respect:

"A recent issue of 'The Canada Lancet' contains a leading article entitled, 'Candy as a Food,' which entirely dissipates the theory still prevalent in some quarters, that candy is an unwholesome luxury, which should be very charily indulged in. The 'Lancet' brings an abundance of scientific data in the support of the contention that sugar is a necessary food. It is especially suitable for children who do not as a rule care for fat meat, but who take readily to sweets, which serve as a natural substitute for fat. Candy constitutes a food of the carbohydrate class and it is estimated that the average active and healthy adult requires daily for his effective sustenance about 6,000 grains of carbohydrates. The popular ingredient, chocolate, is also a most nourishing fat food and stimulant; while it appears that the flavourings of good candy are an aid to digestion and elimination.

"The notion that the eating of candy injures the teeth is dismissed by this scientific journal as a superstition. The lack of sugar is much more likely to injure the teeth, through poor nutrition, and is attendant with more serious consequences than even those caused by the derangement of the digestive apparatus by over-indulgence in candy or any other food. On the whole, candy, when safeguarded against vicious adulterations, is a boon to the human race because it affords necessary heat-producing nourishment in a most palatable form. It might be added that it is an excellent aid to temperance; for it is an effective antidote to the craving for alcohol.

"It would appear, therefore, that the widely prevailing human taste for candy, especially in growing children, is soundly based on Nature's needs. The man who takes home a box of candy to his wife; or the youth who finds it a way to the goodwill of his sweetheart, is thereby doing a good deed. He is providing her with beneficent carbohydrates, though for our part, we prefer the old-fashioned name of 'sweets.'"

MOVING PICTURES.

More Canadians go to movies than to baseball. A town plays ball once at a time. It plays movies up to a hundred and more; big cities up to a thousand films per day. There are blocks downtown that are ablaze with a thousand lights. Coloured pictures almost leap from the wall. There is a chamber of horrors in full view and in most of the colours of the rainbow. The place where the barroom was next door may be dark. This one glows and palpitates with colour and warmth. It lures people who never go to a theatre, seldom to church, perhaps, not often to a concert, and never by any means to grand opera. Even at the little stall-wide dime miles west or east of the City Hall you may note the line-up in the evening to see a film for fifteen cents that a month ago was featured in a palace movie house downtown for a quarter. The power of the moving picture in the imagination has never been computed. Our big centres are movie-mad just as they are in the United States—for the same reasons—over exactly the same films.

The everyday screen spasm that lures millions of Canadian dollars every year into the "show" with the all-lighted-up front and the wild man all ready to crack everything in sight, but the olive-eyed maiden, makes no pretense at decency—or even at being a good film. All its wants is the money. The whiskey bar made drunkards of men. The movie bill makes film fiends of women and children. What it does to the children of to-day will be found out in the men and women and the homes of to-morrow. But any average student of people, no matter whether he deals in mass psychosis, sociology or just plain humanity, can see for himself how the average film is using up the mental and moral fibre of the race.

Where does Canada get these degenerating films? From the same country where we get nine-tenths of the good ones, the big stories, the real screen dramas. The cheap, prostituting film comes from the yellow press and the gutters of a so-called "under world" that has its habitat in New York, Chicago and other "metropolises of mankind" which have become the dumping ground of millions of unassimilated foreigners. More than half the films shown in Canada are films of anarchy.

And Canada does not make these films.

They are produced—elsewhere. They are all the films of any account we have. Canada has a film appetite, fed by people who are not Canadians. The "movies" have come to grow. They are part of the modern way of living in the sensational. But Canada has nothing to do with the production of her own films; and so far has done very little by way of importing British films.

How great a power of propaganda the film has become is shown by what William A. Brady says in the Photoplay Magazine:

"It was the darkest hour of the war. France and England were bent, but not broken. America had come in, but she was only getting ready. . . It was the exact moment for a great German psychological drive. German whispers, German discouragements, drifted over to France on every wind that blew from the North. . . And they began to take effect! . . . There could be but one response; to prove to the whole people of France that the Germans lied. . . It was up to America to show Jacques and Marie that we were coming to them, right away and millions strong. In its five thousand recorded years humanity has contrived only one device to make such an exposition possible: The Motion-Picture. Not thousands but millions of feet of film were rushed across by our government, and were shown in all parts of France simultaneously. . . France drew a new breath. It smiled. And—with its American brother—it began to give its answer to the Germans at Chateau-Thierry. That is how the motion-picture saved the world."

So Mr. Brady says. Apart from the historical facts of the case which we believe are not accurately stated, that is what this expert believes about the propagandic power of the film picture. The motion-picture did not save France. But it gave Mr. Brady a fine chance to use the megaphone.

William Ellery Leonard in The Dial says that a Wagner must arise to dramatize the movies. What is needed first is a theatrical earthquake to clean out the rabble and to substitute the big picture—no matter how big.

Churches are going into the movie business. A Methodist church in Toronto advertises a weekly Wednesday evening film in the basement—and it is not Bible Stories, neither an educational film. The pulpit will yet make use of the screen with the Bible for a source of scenarios.

The schools are waiting to see what will be done with the movies to get geographic, historical and scientific knowledge in its biggest and most dramatic forms before the children. The United States is making gigantic strides in this direction. The Department of Agriculture in Washington is producing pictures of a great variety of subjects and showing all sections of the country, ranging in length from split reels of 500 feet or less to an 8-reel Story of Cotton. A few of the subjects of the Government thrillers are Wool from Sheep to Cloth; Macadam Road Construction; Dust Explosions; The Work of a Forest Fire Ranger; Wild Life Studies in The National Parks, and a dozen others.

What is Ottawa doing? Three Departments—Public Information, Agriculture and Trade and Commerce—are said to be "moving" in that direction. Is it a glacial movement?—Canadian Courier.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"Is not this a fact?" asks Mr. Hocken, M.P., that there is no place in the civil service for a returned soldier except at the bottom?" An official answer to this query would be interesting to Canada's Veterans.

The United Farmers' campaign in Ontario is developing. There will be a farmers' candidate in North Bruce at the next election.

While Magistrate Dunbar was sentencing two defaulters to two years in jail, Judge Langelier, of Quebec, was allowing 150 young men, guilty of the same offence, to escape with fines ranging from $5 to $25.

A new order-in-council says that no fine under $250 may be inflicted in the case of defaulters under the Military Service Act. Hundreds of Quebec young men saved $245 each by getting their cases heard early.

BOTH COUNTRIES ISSUED STATEMENTS

(United Press.)

PARIS, March 5.—The Japanese and Chinese representatives issued statements to the press to-day agreeing that the league of nations will settle Oriental problems, but taking contrary views regarding the individual associations of their respective countries.

MATTERS MUSICAL

MANDOLIN

The Mandolin is a small, beautifully shaped musical instrument of the Lute family. It is of Italian origin and some say that it obtained its name from the almond, Mandola, being the Italian for this fruit, but this is rather far fetched. Two varieties are in use the Milanese and the Neapolitan, the latter is the favorite.

The Mandolin is pear-shaped, and made of strips of wood firmly glued together; mahogany, spruce, rosewood, white holly, etc., being used in its manufacture, as fancy dictates. The neck is generally made of mahogany with perhaps a rosewood head: the finger-board is of ebony inlaid with position dots of pearl, or other suitable material; seventeen frets run across the finger-board, it being fretted like the Guitar.

In the best makes the lowest pair of strings are of gut springer with silver of copper wire, like the first string of a guitar; the next are of steel also spun over, while the first and second are of steel only. For the sake of tone, these strings are in duplicate. In common with the violin they are tuned in fifths, the fingering tuning, and notation, is the same with this instrument. The strings are struck with a plectrum or pick, a piece of tortoise-shell, ivory, whalebone, ostrich-quill, etc., which is held in the right hand, the left being used for stopping the strings.

The principal use is for melodic passages, for there is not the slightest doubt that in the rendition of melody the Mandolin, of all instruments of the pizzicato class is the best suited, for though it may be somewhat nasal in tone, it is extremely pleasing, while its practical compass is limited to the first octave above E, highest string.

The Mandolin was first genealy adopted in America in 1880, being brought into prominence by the efforts of certain Spanish students. Now, every American college has its Mandolin club, so popular has it become.

The great composers have not disdained the Mandolin, for Beethoven wrote a Sonatina for it: Mozart employed it for accompanying that fine serenade in "Don Giovanni": while Paissiellao in the "Barber of Seville" and Handel have used it with the greatest effect.

The tone of the instrmnet is sympathetic, and it is easy to learn. The chief thing to bear in mind is to obtain a good sostenuto, or sustained note. This is got by a rapid repetition of the same note, these iterated notes if execued with sufficient speed and regularity convey the idea of a long sustained note. Though no doubt much practice in passing the hands over the strings to get a satisfying result is necessary.

To the would be student the following directions may be given. The instrument is held near the first fret under the neck, with the thumb and lower joint of the first finger of the left hand. It should be lightly held in order that the hand can move freely up and down the neck, nor must it be grasped with the palm of the hand. The fingers must be placed directly over the strings ready for instant use.

The plectrum is held between thumb and forefinger of the right hand, directly over the strings, half way between sound hole and bridge. The foreman is to rest upon the edge of the instrument in order to allow the wrist to move free.

A perfect knowledge of the finger-board ust be obtained this is of the first importance, therefore scales should be assiduously practiced. The position of the player must be easy and free. If standing, a sling may be used, but none is necessary when sitting down. Learn to use the wrist freely in order to get the tremols, the expression of which is the Mandolin's most pleasing feature.

Remember that slurred notes cannot be obtained, but two successive notes upon one string are linked together, as it were, by a sort of echo, the first note is struck, and held, and while the string is vibrating, the finger for the ascending note should quickly fall into position: though on the descending movement the string is plucked by the fingers to produce the lower note without the aid of the plectrum.

After a few months of constant practice of scale playing on various keys and a determination to succeed, with presently a simple air or so, the earnest student will not fail to master a very charming instrument.

H. H. Kinzett.

THAT BALEFUL MUSIC COMMITTEE.

The general attitude of the young musician toward the field of church music may be summed up in the word "organ". For a position he is selected by a music committee, which always judges a choirmaster upon his ability as an organist. And music committees it is regretted are generally composed of men who have no appreciation of church music ecclesiastical style.

THE FIRST TWO NOTES

What would otherwise be good choir singing is frequently spoiled by the failure of some of the singers to attack the first note or two promptly. In the average choir there are from one-fifth to one-half of the members who seem to lack the necessary confidence to come in exactly on time. These parties take the "three days of grace" principle that operates in the business world and apply it to music. About the time the third or fourth note is reached, they fall in and proceed in splendid form to the final chord. Their weakness is in the start.

One of the great choral conductors said that there is nothing in music more thrilling than the confident and unanimous attack of a chord by a body of well-trained singers and there is, he says, nothing more seldom heard. Every choir knows what note he or she is expected to sing. Every member should watch for the signal as keenly as if running a 100-yard dash. Watch the leader. Take the breath. Think of the note and the word to be sung and on the signal "light right into it" as one enthusiastic leader tells his choir. The attack is a pretty accurate barometer of a choir's ability.

THE PHONOGRAPH'S VALUE AS A MUSICAL EDUCATOR.

Much has been said about the educational value of the moving pictures and, unfortunately, much of the latter's talked of value has proved illusory. Little has been said of the phonograph as a factor in musical education and at the present time it seems to lie with the manufacturer of records whether the phonograph remains a toy and a luxury or becomes a real means of musical development. There is not now, and there has never been such a means of teaching music to the general public—and yet it seems that the record makers do not always remember that they have a duty to perform to the public, as well as money to earn.

Why are there not more records of newer and less known works on the market. Why are not some of the ancient miracles made available through the phonographic medium? Must we always confine ourselves to the cheap and the banal? Must eminent violinist, for instance, sewn up in an exclusive contract give us his art via a popular sentimental song that will become stale in a month, when there are so many beautiful works, old and new, clamouring for permanence through histart.

HOW YOU CAN BECOME A LIVE WIRE IN YOUR TOWN.

Are you waiting for some one to push you into success?

Success is in your own hands, if you will only try the experiment of being a live wire.

Branch out in your own initiative. If you do anything musical—organize a musical history class, or sing at a soldiers' benefit, or train a children's chorus — insert the announcement in the local papers. Local news is always welcome. Write and send or take the items there yourself. Don't wait for a good fairy to do it for you.

Should a singer or accompanist be needed at a musical or concert hob up and volunteer. And do not shy at a "thank you" proposition. Every business grows by its free samples. Take example by the grocery trade, and fix yourself in people's minds just as the new soap was fixed in your mind by the gift of a small cake of it.

Identify yourself with the music of your town in every active manner that commends itself to you. Push along other people's good work as well as your own, knowing that in so doing you are helping to raise the standard of things musical in a broader way perhaps, than you realize.

Stand squarely on your own two feet, chest high, and spirit courageous. Be sure of your goods and deliver them in a firm, confident manner that will convince the public of their worth. And remember that, as every bit of steel that goes into construction, work is tested, so is the new teacher tried out. Prepare to stand the test. Be a live wire.

HERE IS SOMETHING EVERY TRUMPETER SHOULD STUDY.

The term "embouchure," refers to a condition of the lips of a performer on a brass instrument. When the lips are tough and offer continuous resistance to the pressure of the mouthpiece, and shape themselves, to it, bandsmen speak of a good embouchure. When, on the other hand, the lips are soft and tender, and some soon become weak and offer little or no resistance to the pressure of the mouthpiece, the embrochure is bad and the performer is of little use to the band while this condition obtains, or, in the case of trumpeter, cannot properly carry out his duties. There is nothing more humiliating than when a performer on a trumpet endeavours to sound a call and his lips give out.

When a trumpeter's lips are inclined to be tender he should, by constant practice, endeavour to get them in good condition, that is to say, get them shaped to the mouthpiece and thus make them tough at the same time. It is not a bad idea to practice with the mouthpiece itself, when in the barracks, by pressing the lips firmly against it and simulating the sounding of calls as though the mouthpiece were attached to the instrument. This practice will help considerably toward obtaining a good embouchure, and will cause him to not encounter that awful give-away feleing of the lips, which makes the performer feel so entirely helpless. For a person may be skilled in sounding calls, or one may be a good cornetist and have a thorough knowledge of music and fully understand how a call should be rendered, yet, when the lips are soft and tender and have reached that stage where they give out, no power in the world can replace that numbness and helpless feleing which may very properly be likened to a nightmare when one is trying to run, but the feet feel as though they were weighted with lead and cannot be moved from the spot.

Bandsmen claim that a good embouchure can be obtained much better by playing sustained notes, slowly going up and down scale, rather than by playing rapid music, because the former method taxes the endurance of the lips to a much greater extent. Of course, it is equally essential to practice rapid scales in order to acquire a skillful rendition of music generally. With the trumpet, however, where the scale cannot be played because there are only open notes possible of production, a judicious combination of the two methods would seem to be more beneficial to the average trumpeter, that is, a succession of slow notes alternating with rapid music so far as they can be produced on the trumpet.

It would be advisable to supply all trumpets with cornet mouthpieces, which are rounded instead of having a rather well defined edge like those of the regulation trumpet, as it will be found that the former gives better results are not so fatiguing to the lips because they adjust themselves more readily to the conformation of the mouthpiece than the one with a flat top surface and edge, and besides, the notes produced can be more advantageously controlled.

The Czecho-Slovak races became our allies. The Czech National Anthem is "Kde domov muy?" or "where is our home?"

It is said that in no other country is dancing so interwoven with folk music as in Spain. Many Spanish songs are used solely as accompaniments for dancing. One who became enthused with Spanish music said that our ignorance of the music of Spain is pathetic.

TIRED AND DISCOURAGED

Mrs. Warren Bandy, Rothesay, Kings County, N.B., "I have three small children and had to stay in the house all winter. So when spring came I was all run down doing all my work and looking after the children. I felt all tired out, and looked on the gloomy side all the time. I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and the results were most satisfactory. I feel fine now, and am recommending the Nerve Food to others."

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but heals them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save over two-fifths of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it really has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, whooping cough or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

A Spring Message To The Canadian Public

THE Signing of the Armistice relieved some of the most pressing demands for shoes. But it did not, and it could not, increase the supply of leather. It released thousands of men from military duty, but only gradually will they find their way back into their old occupations. So, until an actual shortage of leather is turned into a surplus and the supply of labor becomes somewhere near normal, we cannot expect any marked change in conditions, and the price level must continue high.

Leather is not a product of manufacture, but of natural growth. It takes time to produce a skin, and no process of "speeding up" will hasten it. The demands of the war, and the destruction of war, so depleted the world's stock of leather that, as we told you last fall, it was a big problem to produce enough good quality shoes to go around. Now we must simply wait for a new supply of leather to grow.

Labor is another problem which will take time to solve. Many men, fresh from life spent largely out-of-doors, will not go back to factory work again. Many others bear honorable wounds which unfit them for it. Here again, we expect no immediate return to normal conditions. So in this, our Spring message to the Canadian public, we say:—

"Prudence in buying is still necessary. You can help to bring about more normal conditions if you will continue to exercise it. Buy for service and see that you get real value for your money.

"And now especially you should see that the manufacturer's trade-mark is stamped upon the shoes you buy. Unbranded shoes may be reduced in quality to make the price seem low—with the end of the war as a plausible excuse. But no manufacturer will jeopardize his reputation by stamping his trade-mark upon a product which he is ashamed to acknowledge. Remember this, and look for the trade mark. It is the best assurance you can have of real value."

Get This Booklet

We have prepared a booklet "How to Buy Shoes" which we think will help you. It contains advice which you will find of value, whether you buy A.H.M. Shoes or not. We shall be glad to send you a copy with our compliments if you will address our head office at Montreal.

BRONX WATER MAIN BURSTS, HALTS TRAFFIC FOR 12 HOURS

New York March 5—Two hundred feet of the Webster avenue roadway was torn up and trolley traffic halted for twelve hours as the result of a burst in a forty-eight inch water main which supplies the Williamsbridge reservoir in the Bronx with the water from the Kensico reservoir.

The break occurred near the intersection of Webster avenue and Woodlawn road, almost immediately in front of the main entrance to Woodlawn Cemetery.

Workmen labouring at high speed all day were able to shore up the pavement and trolley tracks temporarily so that traffic over the roadway was resumed at the rush hour last night.

The main was laid down in 1908 but had not been in operation for the last two years as the other main which feeds the Williamsbridge reservoir had proved sufficient to supply the needs of the community. It was said that at present the supply of water was more than sufficient to tide the Bronxites over until the necessary repairs shall have been made.

SIR SAM HUGHES DECLARES CANADIANS WERE NEEDLESSLY SLAIN, ETC.

on Mons, knowing that the armistice would be signed four hours later would be tried by court-martial and punished." (Applause from the Opposition.) "You cannot find one returned Canadian soldier who does not curse the officer who ordered that attack. The allies were already eight miles past Mons when the attack on the city was made, and Mons could have been entered a few hours later without the loss of a single life. I have tons of this sort of thing, but I will not detain the House longer," concluded Gen. Hughes.

An Act of Exemption.

General Hughes opened his speech by reading a list of members of the House who had seen service at the front or who had sons with the overseas record. He then referred to his early comments on the Military Service Act. It did not require anyone of great legal sagacity, he said, to see in the act opportunity to every man to stay at home who wanted to.

There were various forms of government, Sir Sam proceeded. But there was only one form which should be encouraged, the form of responsible government — government by the people, through the people and for the people. Sir Sam went on to refer to the composition of the Governments of Sir John A. Macdonald in 1878, of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1896, and of Sir Robert Borden in 1911. These, he said, formed a legitimate coalition as compared with what he termed "this machine-made affair of Sir Joseph Flavelle, and the city of Toronto," a remark which aroused loud cheering from the Opposition.

Referring to the War Measures Act, Sir Sam declared he had yet to see the necessity for any departure from responsible government. He had yet to see where, in any country, a War Measures Act had advanced the interests of the country. He could not see that the food control business was of any use in Canada—it was sometimes a confounded nuisance — or that coal control was of any utility except to add three or five dollars a ton to the cost of coal in many instances.

"Owner of This Government.

If Canada was to have autocracy in war time, then why not autocracy in peace time? "If this is to be so," Sir Sam went on, "let us, in the name of Heaven, send for the Kaiser and establish him in power here." These things were not necessary, and Sir Sam would challenge any man to show him the necessity of one single movement of autocratic government.

There were those who went around saying they took no stock in politics. Sir Sam had never seen such a man but had come to the conclusion that he wanted watching. (Laughter.) He could very well remember when Sir Joseph Flavelle, "the owner of this Government——"

Here Sir Sam was interrupted for several moments by a roar of Opposition laughter.

Sir Sam went on that he had made a careful study of human nature and he had never yet seen one of the gentlemen—preacher or no preacher—who did not need to be watched.

Government Troops Occupy Dusseldorf

Radicals Endeavour to Spread General Strike—Spartacan Editor is Arrested.

(Canadian Press.)

BERLIN, March 5.— Occupation of Dusseldorf by Government forces has been accomplished without opposition. The radicals are endeavouring to extend the general strike movement to South-eastern Saxony. Telegrams carry alarming reports of the situation. In Halle they declare that troops have used machine guns, and that a number of officers and strikers have been killed. Government troops in Berlin on Tuesday occupied the printing plant of the "Red Flag," the Spartacan organ, without fighting. Dr. Hans Meyer, the editor of the paper, was arrested by troops.

Handsome Floral Design Presented To Mr. J. J. Duffus

Employees Take Opportunity of Showing Their Appreciation at Opening Ceremonies

In connection with the opening ceremonies of the Duffus Garage a very pleasing incident took place, when Mr. Duffus, proprietor of the garage, was presented by the employees with a handsome massive floral design in the shape of a horseshoes, as an evidence of their appreciation and good wishes for the future success of the big undertaking in which he has launched. The floral decorations throughout the showroom were exceedingly tasty, and well arranged which is assiting in making the opening week the decided success it is.

New Leader For Liberals

A General Provincial Convention May be Held in the Near Future.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, March 5.— Influential Liberals among the members of the Legislature, are discussing the probability of a general Provincial convention in the near future, to discuss the future programme and the possibility of the appointment of a new leader for the party in Ontario. The present leader, Wm. Proudfoot, K.C., member for Centre Huron, was, in the opinion of many of his following appointed as acting leader only during the party political truce necessitated by the war. Among the names prominently mentioned for leadership should a change be made, are those of Hartley Dewart, South Toronto, Major J. C. Tolmie, Windsor, and Francis Hay, North Perth.

FRUIT EMBARGO

Strawberries and Pineapples can now Come in from the States.

GARAGE IS SITUATED WHERE PETER ROBINSON AND HIS PARTY TIED UP THEIR CANOES IN PETERBORO'

The Duffus Garage is One of the Finest Buildings of its Kind—Has Every Facility for the Sale and Repair of Automobiles.

Situated where Peter Robinson, the pioneer of this city and his party tied up their canoes and landed, stands the Duffus Garage, one of the most up-to-date in the province of Ontario. The official opening took place on Monday evening, and not only the proprietor but the citizens may well feel proud that such a building should be erected in Peterborough to take care of the motor car. It has a central location, and is situated opposite the largest hotel in the city, and one that is recognized by the travelling public as one of the most pretentious hostels in Eastern Ontario. Every lay of the land lends efficiency and economy to the handling of motor cars. Either the basement or the ground floor can be entered by a machine without an elevator. There are ample facilities for shipping, as the C.P.R. line run alongside the building. A siding can be constructed at any time at small cost.

THE BUILDING.

In every way the building is the largest in the line of garages. It is of modern fire-proof construction, made of concrete and steel, with brick side walls and steel sashes, and also fire glass wherever necessary. It is a building 210 feet long with a width of 61 feet. It has a floor space of approximately 25,000 square feet. The building is steam-heated throughout. Arrangements have been made to instal an elevator if it is found necessary. In fact, the whole plant is prepared for first-class service. There is an air compressor for furnishing free air, a re-charging plant for re-charging batteries, overhead tracks and trolley for lifting motors in and out of cars, a first-class washing station on each floor, and every other conceivable kind of machinery that is used in a garage of this calibre. Passers-by have already dubbed the building the day-light building on account of its numerous windows, which give a maximum amount of natural light for the interior.

SHOWROOMS AND OFFICES.

The showrooms and offices are finished in oak, and ample provisions for salesmen, book-keepers and stenographers, as well as the proprietor's private office. The walls are finished in stucco, and the columns and ceilings are white. Marble bases have been placed around the partitions and columns. A first-class and complete accessory and parts department, fitted with silent salesmen, are situated just south of the main office.

THE ELECTRICAL FIXTURES.

The electrical fixtures are the latest and most up-to-date that can be bought to-day. No expense has been spared in connection with this part of the work. Every provision has been made for the comfort and service of customers and visitors.

Mr. Duffus is loud in his praises of the work of the contractor, Mr. H. T. Hickey, a young and enthusiastic worker, with an inexhaustible store of good ideas. The sub-contracts, heating, plumbing, wiring and painting and glazing, were all let on the competitive basis, and in every case the lowest tender was accepted.

Although no expense was spared to make the garage a first-class motor depot, yet economy was practised in a manner little known to the general public. From the excavation made for the foundation, enough first-class gravel was obtained to do half of the work of making the building. Seventy thousand feet of lumber was used by Mr. Hickey, although there is not a board entered in the construction of the building. The lumber was used in constructive work, and was afterwards sold. Both the lumber and steel was bought from the Quaker Oats Company, and had been used by them for the same kind of work. This was made possible by the fact that the new Quaker Oats plant and the Duffus Garage are of the same construction. The steel sash was bought from the Henry Hope Company at a cost which is away below the market value. Mr. Duffus was able to do this because he relieved the Henry Hope Company of all their surplus supplies of cash which they had on hand when they entered into the manufacture of munitions. Before the construction of the garage was commenced, Mr. Duffus had contracted for large supplies of cement and glass, which were, of course, bought at a figure which is very low as compared with the cost of this building material to-day. The bricks were purchased in Peterborough from the Curtis Brick Yards, with the exception of those which went into the construction of the walls of the showrooms and offices, which are tapestry bricks, and were obtained in Toronto.

SEAT SALE FOR FISKE O'HARA

The sale of seats for the engagement of Fiske O'Hara in his new play, "Marry in Haste," at the Grand Opera House, Saturday, March 8th matinee and evening, opens to-morrow morning. The play is a three act romantic farce, and is said to afford the popular star the best opportunity of his career for the display of his especial talents. It tells a story of a young man, Lord Richard Leigh, who makes a hasty marriage in a fit of pique, and bitterly regrets his mad folly when he meets the charming Lady Evelyn O'Connor. An element of mystery adds to the pleasure of the performance, romance, wholesome comedy and bright and witty dialogue tend to make "Marry in Haste" a worthy offering. Mr. O'Hara sings four new songs, "The Kind of a Girl I Mean" "Peggy McVey", "I'm Falling in Love With You Dear" and "There's the Charm of Dear Old Ireland in Your Eyes," and his splendid voice is heard to splendid advantage. A capable cast appears in his support, and the costume and scenic details have been adequately provided for by Manager Augustus Pitou.

Funeral Arranged A Little Too Early

Haileybury Man Was Met at Train by Undertaker, but Declined His Services.

HAILEYBURY, March 4.—As a result of an error in a telegram, relatives of Phillip Gagnon were at the station here in mourning with an undertaker on hand to assume charge of his remains when he stepped off the train from Ottawa. His sons had been notified that their parent had died, and had made preparations accordingly. They were naturally startled when Mr. Gagnon stepped off the train. He had been on a visit to a son in Ottawa, and on leaving a wire was despatched advising that Gagnon, senior, would arrive in Haileybury on Friday. When the message arrived it read: "Father died last night." Relatives across Lake Temiskaming were notified and several were in Haileybury to attend the funeral. Investigation is being instituted to fix responsibility for the error.

Presentation of Chairs to Springville Residents

Mr. Cathcart and daughter, Miss W. Cathcart of Springville, who recently moved to the city residing on George Street, north, were presented with the following address by their many friends in Springville:

To Mr. and Miss Cathcart,

Dear Friends:—

It was with much regret that we, your many friends, and neighbors, learned of your intention of leaving our vicinity. It is now many years since you (Mr. Cathcart) came into our midst and made your home among us. You have raised a family that have grown up to manhood and womanhood in this home. We regret very much that your health of late years has been such as to permit you to have taken that active part in life that it would have been your pleasure to have done. We trust that the evening of your days will be one of calm and sunshine, and that you may often visit this, your home. In token of the sincerity of our interest in you both, we, your friends, now assembled in your home, ask you to accept these chairs accompanied with our best wishes for your every good. Signed on behalf of all,

David Bateer
Harold Baptie.

Adresses were then made by Messrs. Harold Baptie, R. J. Robertson and T. M. Hunter, all expressing pleasure at being present and regretting the removal of Mr. and Miss Cathcart from the home so long and worthily occupied by them. Luncheon was then served and all enjoyed a social hour together.

Muskrat Season Opens With Very High Price Buyer Says

T. E. Curvin Has Quoted $1.50 a Pelt as An Opening Figure and States that the Market is Firm —Trapping Not Yet General.

PETERBOROUGH A PELTRY CENTRE

The fur market has set a high price on the heads, or rather the hides of muskrats, according to Mr. T. E. Curvin, 112 Dublin Street, a local buyer, who states that he has quoted $1.50 a pelt as an initial offering. The market is firm, he added, and may soar to $2 before this spring's catch is disposed of. It is too early yet for general trapping, but under conditions of unemployment this season it is expected that there will be a general roundup of rats in the marshes of the Otonabee and Indian Rivers, Rice and Curve Lakes, and the districts of the upper Kawarthas. Not so many years ago muskrat hides brought only 30 and 15 cents, but at his year's price the veteran trappers should make a "killing" if the season is favorable.

The muskrat seems to have the confidence of the dispenser of the weather. This winter he lived for the most part in the open, some instinctive prescience acquainting him of the extremely cold weather that had been prepared. A year ago he had built his house of rushes and grass, but in many cases failed to protect himself against the long, severe season, for in the shallow marshes the water froze solidly to the mud bed beneath and many of the rats were killed by the frost.

The trapping season is now open, and may attract some of the unemployed, who will find the experience doubly interesting in the holiday afforded and the profits from the pelts. It is likely, however, that the old trappers who know the haunts and the habits of the rats will meet with much opposition from the intruders upon an ancient and primitive occupation. Success requires an equipment of a hundred or more steel traps, and it is usual for trappers to fix their base of operations close to the marsh in which they are working and to camp there until the season closes.

Mr. Curvin remarked that the present price of pelts is a significant indication of the future increase cost of the Hudson Seal coats which have had a great vogue for several winters past.

SIR WILFRID GOOD FRIEND OF INDIAN TRIBES

Our Old Friend Johnston Paudash Pays Tribute to Late Liberal Leader

HIAWATHA, March. 4—Another tribute to Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been paid by L.-Cpl. Johnson Paudash, now in Lindsay, who served for some time overseas with a Canal Ontario battalion. The late Premier, it is stated, presented Cpl. Paudash with a service of silver, and also wrote to him several times while he was on active service in France. Cpl. Paudash had interviewed Sir Wilfrid several times, while he was Premier, on behalf of the different Indian tribes, and states that he at all times found him courteous and kind, and a good friend of the Indian. He and others of his tribe sincerely mourn the passing of the great "White Chief," as they affectionately called the late Sir Wilfriend Laurier.

Presentation To Mr. and Mrs. Allan

A very pleasant event took place at the home of Mrs. Geo. Allan on Saturday night, when their friends of the 8th line of Smith Township gathered to bid her bon voyage to her future home in the city. After an address read by Mrs. J. G. Mann, Mr. W. Fowler presented her with a beautiful chair. The address read as follows:

"We your friends and neighbours have gathered here to-night to bid you bon voyage and to wish you health and happiness and long life in your new home in the city. We feel that we could not let you leave our neighbourhood without in some way expressing our regret at your leaving. You have long been valued and highly respected neighbours and friends. We ask you to accept this chair not for its value but as a slight token of our esteem for you. We hope that you may be long spared to rest and enjoy its comforts in your new home and surroundings.

Signed on behalf of the friends Charlie Robinson, William Fowler, Gordon Mann.

The evening was very pleasantly spent among the friends and then the ladies passed refreshment and then the friends left for their homes.

WIRE TROUBLE ON FIRE ALARM LINES

The ringing of the fire alarm bell this morning caused many people who were down town to think that there was a fire. Trouble on the line was responsible for the impromptu "music."

May Appeal Decision Though Time Lapsed

Mr. Justice Middleton has granted Quinlan & Robertson, contractors of Ottawa, the right to appeal against the judgment of Mr. Justice Lachford at he Cobourg assizes in which he awarded $26,000 damages to Chas. Dawson of Campbellford. The defendants had permitted the time set by the trial-judge for entering an appeal to expire. The judgment not only allowed damages, but also dismissed the defendant's counter-claim for $80,000. Gordon & O'Brien were solicitors for the plaintiff in the original action.

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

The subscription lists for the Y.M.C.A. Minstrels will close on Saturday of this week. There is a decided advantage in placing your name on the list as those who have done so will have the privilege of reserving seats on Monday, March 17th, while the plan opens to others on the following morning. Those who wish to secure the choice seats will at once realize this advantage and should lose no time in subscribing. If you are not canvassed, phone 446, Y.M.C.A., and your name will be placed on one of the lists. Remember Saturday is the last day. Some of the canvassers have had splendid results, one having secured 44 names and another in the same neighborhood; all report the most cordial reception and say that when the object for which the event is being held, namely to place a suitable honor roll in the Y.M.C.A. rooms for members who have served in the war, there is no hesitation in subscribing.

The whole program is being put on by local talent under the direction of one of our most able local musical directors, Mr. Asa Huycke. The program is of the highest class in every way.

Don't let the opportunity of securing the best seats for this big event slip by and suffer regrets when you find only the back rows available. Do it now.

Announcement

Mr. H. W. STOCK announces to his customers that the baking business heretofore carried on as WILLIAM STOCK & SONS, has been incorporated into a Joint Stock Company and MR. STOCK will be President of the Company, MR. JAMES DUTTON will continue his position as Superintendent, and MR. PERCY STOCK, who has been three years overseas, part of the time in the Royal Air Service, and who was wounded and discharged, will act as Assistant General Manager.

On account of the bread business of William Stock and Sons having increased to such large proportions it was found necessary to incorporate it into a Company, which will carry on the business with the same standard of service as given up to the present time. It is not the intention of the Company to carry on any other business except bread making, but to give every attention to increasing its output and the development of the business which has already had a most striking growth.

This Company is a purely Peterborough Company, and Wm. Stock and Sons have been known for the last quarter of a century as being at the front with up-to-date methods, sanitary appliances and large well ventilated bakeries, in which the Company will continue to carry on bread manufacturing.

Six-Months-Old Babe Lay Two Days Beside The Dead Body Of Its Foster Mother

LONDON, March 5.—Crying his little heart out, a 6-month-old baby, without nourishment since Wednesday night was found in bed beside the dead body of his foster mother, Mrs. Marion Crocker, in her ice-cold home at 371 Dundas street, late Friday afternoon, by Frank Howell, a street car conductor.

The little chap, who was born last September and adopted by Mrs. Crocker two weeks after her husband, Harry Crocker, had been killed in action, was in his little nightgown and crying lustily when Mr. Howell looked into the bedroom. He was taken in next door and Dr. F. Schram called. He found the baby suffering from bronchitis, as a result of his exposure to the cold. The little chap was starving hungry, but his tongue was soon appeased via the milk-bottler outer, and Dr. Schragm stated last night that he would be alright. Mrs. J. Robb, a next-door neighbor, will look after the boy until it is decided what to do with him.

Mrs. Crocker, who was 35 years of age, was last seen on Wednesday night, when she appeared to be in good health. It was not until Mrs. Earnest Whitelaw, of 400 York street and her friend, Miss Hazel Pfahler, went to call on Mrs. Crocker that anything wrong was suspected. Mr. Howell went up through Mrs. Robb's house, crossed the roof and down through the attic into Mrs. Crocker's half of the double house. The odor was sickening. The police were notified and Coroner Dr. Robert Ferguson called. The latter stated that an inquest was not necessary, as the unfortunate woman had undoubtedly died from heartfailure. Dr. Schram attended her for heart trouble three months ago, but had not seen her since. Both doctors thought she had died some time during Wednesday night.

Mrs. Crocker was born in Scotland and had no relatives in this country. She was married eight years ago.

Pension For Widow Of Local Soldier

Mrs. Florence Leach Has, For Second Time Been Granted Pension

An unique case and a precedent in the matter of awarding pensions has been unearthed in the case of Mrs. Florence Leach, 391 Shaw Street, Toronto. Mrs. Leach, for the second time, as the widow of a deceased soldier. The pensions regulations state that immediately upon re-marriage the pension is cut off. This was the case with Mrs. Leach when as a widow of Pte. Harold Goodall, she married for the second time.

In marrying a disabled soldier, she again forfeited the right to a second pension in case her husband died. But the Pensions Board decided that as she had shown good faith in forfeiting her first pension to marry a man from whom she could receive no pension in case of his death, she would be made an exception of and awarded a pension for the second for herself and one child. There is no other case of a similar nature on record in the whole Dominion.

Mrs. Leach's first husband, Pte. Goodall, was a soldier in the famous 3rd Battalion, leaving Canada in October of 1914, and making the supreme sacrifice at St. Julien on April 23, 1915. Her second husband was Driver A. Leach of Peterboro better known as "Buster" Leach formerly of the 23rd Battery and was returned to Canada and discharged as totally disabled as a result of having his leg broken by a shell and having contracted tubercular trouble. He died later as a result of his disabilities.

The matter of a second pension was taken up by the Toronto G.W.V.A. last October and a pension of $600 has been secured for Mrs. Leach and her one child.

PRAISE SHOULD BE HEARTY, INTELLIGENT AND INVOLVE OUR BEST MUSICAL TALENTS.

There are those amongst us who apparently think there should not be too much music in our churches, that what we have of it ought to be slow listless and so easy that little or no practice is required. To listen to the average congregational singing hearing some people complaining of too many hymns during a service, to see the number of people who make no attempt to join in congregational singing, to know those who object to violinists, cornetists, cellists and orchestras in the church is enough to indicate that the whole question of church music needs discussion.

If we are contented to go to the one who for unstinted, hearty, intelligent praise is our finest example—the Psalmist David, we can have but one mind in the matter. Among the psalms are some for which it is specfically directed that the accompaniment is for stringed instruments. The accompanists of others are for wind instruments. Dozens of the psalms are "To the chief musician." That frequently appearing term in the psalms "Selah" is accepted by many eminent authorities to mean an instrumental interlude. So that the the psalms have a very definitely musical setting.

What does David directly teach regarding praise? Listen to him. "Rejoice in the Lord, O ye righteous for praise is comely for the upright.

"Praise the Lord with a harp; sing unto him with the psaltery and an instrument of ten strings.

"Sing unto Him a new song; play skilfully with a loud noise."

That urges praise. It accepts the aid of musical instruments. It commands playing with skill which infers also singing with skill which in turn implies good musicianship. It is an exhortation to rousing music. In another place, the importance of praise is presupposed when we are told "Sing praise unto our God; sing ye praises with understanding." There is nothing here to justify numbing over disconnected lines. The word is "Sing with understanding."

The Quality Standard that Produces "Plus Service" Belting

The only sure way to get satisfactory service is to buy products of known worth.

In Dominion Rubber System Belting, the worth is known because every ounce of material—each individual operation and each finished belt must test up to the highest quality standard ever made for belting.

From the time the materials come into our factory until the belt is running on your pulleys, there is no chance of your getting anything but "plus service" belting.

This is the result of over fifty years of belt making experience and research by the oldest, largest and most completely equipped rubber organization in Canada.

The rubber that goes into Dominion Friction Surface Belting is not a mere waterproofing substance—our chemists have given it a far greater value by making it into a friction compound that prevents practically all power wastage on the pulleys.

"Plus service" includes the free technical advice of our belting engineers who are ready to help you with your transmission and conveying problems without placing you under obligation to us.

A phone call, wire or letter to our nearest branch places all of our facilities at your disposal.

Male Admirers More Than Ready To Help Reputed Heiress Out But Police Chief Turns a Deaf Ear

LONDON, March 5.—The reputed heiress from the Northlands, who is languishing in the County Bastile until her parents are heard from, has any amount of male admirers who are only too anxious to come to her assistance.

The young damsel who is a pretty blonde of 21 summers, has apparently run into a tough winter. She was arrested a few days ago as a vagrant by the police, and was remanded to jail for a week. Her father is said to be a millionaire mine owner of Timmins, Ont.

Gay Lochinvars

"This city is full of gay young Lochinvars," stated Chief of Police W. T. T. Williams, yesterday. "Half a dozen young coots and some old ones, too, have been 'round to see me, asking that we let the girl out on bail. They all promised to shield and protect her until her parents arrived."

The husband of the irate female from Woodstock who did her best to pull the blonde tresses of the pretty young thing out of her head when she met her on the street the other day, was one of the petitioners who stood on the threshold of the chief's sanctum and begged for leniency.

One man declared that the little lady was all pure gold,—and that the police in arresting her were making a big mistake that they would likely be sorry for.

Waiter Interested

A waiter from one of the hotels who had fallen prey to the sweet smiles of the girl, appeared after court yesterday and tried to wheedle the chief into allowing him an interview with her, but the chief was all the same as granite.

A militia officer and a private were also inclined in what might be termed her "jail door Johnnies." However, all were treated alike, and there will be no open sesame to the pondorous doors of the county jail, as far as the girl's male admirers are concerned.

Military Funerals Will Be Held On Saturday or Sunday

Important Resolutions Passed by the Local Branch of Great War Veterans

At a meeting of the Peterboro Branch of the Great War Veterans held last evening it was resolved that in the future, no Military Funerals would be held on any days other than Saturday and Sunday, owing to the difficulties of getting a sufficient number of men to take part in this parade, and as these men are expected to lose their time, it was felt, that owing to the present day conditions of the labor market, that it would be an injustice to ask members of the Association and its Band to attend these parades without paying them for the time they lose, and as the funds of this Association will not permit us paying such a large number of men, it was felt that the only possible way to carry out these funerals from a military standpoint would be to hold them on a Saturday or Sunday. The Veterans trust that the Ministerial Association and others, who may be affected, by these funerals will kindly co-operate in order that this may be carried out.

Medical Service

Another solution was passed which reads as follows:

Whereas, there has been made public certain unjust and unfounded statements in one of the local papers and such statements are credited to a local practising physician and surgeon, Dr. A. Moir.

And whereas, such statements reflect grievously on the ability of the surgeons of the Army and Navy and suggest doubt as to their capabilities and their practises while acting as such.

And whereas, a supposed contradiction of these statements was later published in the same paper over the name of the afore-mentioned physician, but such contradiction only caused further doubt upon the abilities of the Army and Navy surgeons.

Therefore, be it resolved that we, Peterborough Branch of the G. W. V. A., as representing the patients who have been and are still under the care of the Army and Navy surgeons, are giving our confidence in the ability and practise of such surgeons, and are forever grateful for their attentions and their loyalty to us and our Empire in coming to the field of battle with us to share its dangers and hardships, and this with the opportunity and satisfaction afforded the rest of us for hitting back at the enemy.

And be it further resolved, that this resolution be forwarded to the local Medical Association and public press for publication.

Claims Settled

The Secretary was also instructed to get in touch with the Military Authorities, asking them to provide a full set of equipment and rifles, also gun-carriage and harness complete for the purpose of holding Military funerals and that this equipment, if so granted, to be under the control of the Peterborough Branch of the Great War Veterans Association.

A letter was also received from St. Paul's Presbyterian church, extending an invitation to the members of the Association to be present in a body at the unveiling of a Tablet to the memory of the fallen, to be held at St. Paul's Church on the 23rd of March 1919. This invitation was accepted and the Secretary directed to notify the Rev. R. Pogue to this effect.

The following claims were settled by the Branch during the month of February:

Pensions	$540.00
Workmen's Compensation Act	300.00
Settlement of War Bonds	350.00
Clothing Allowance	27.00
Settlement of Separation Allowance and Assigned Pay	540.00
Total	$1750.00

All returned Veterans are reminded that Dr. E. H. Woods has been appointed under the Civil Re-establishment Board, as the Medical Officer for the city of Peterborough, and all returned soldiers are requested to note that, if they are suffering from a recurrence of their disability, they should make applications to this Medical Officer for retreatment.

PASTOR WAS A LION IN THE SOUTH SEAS

STRATFORD, March 4. — Rev. R. M. Stevenson, F.R.G.S., who has just returned from missionary work in British Guiana and is going to Watford as pastor of the Congregational church, in telling of his experience in the South Seas, says he had no fewer than five proposals of marriage from women on Tahitian island and twenty-six proposals on a neighboring island. The highest ambition of the Polynesian women, he says, is to secure a white husband.

Prizes For The Lady Curlers

Club Members Were Entertained a Home of Mrs. W. H. Hill

Mrs. W. H. Hill, president of the Ladies Curling Club entertained the members at her home on Saturday afternoon. After an enjoyable social time, Mrs. Hill presented Miss Mina Davidson with the trophy, which had been given the club by Mr. Alex. Gibson. The consolation, four silver pickle forks, was won by Mrs. V. Eastwood's rink. A very pleasing feature of the occasion was the presentation by Mrs. Coulthard to each of the members of her rink of a cream jug, in appreciation of the splendid curling ability they had shown and as an incentive to further effort next year.

One Striking Case of Thrift

By F. H. DOBBIN

It is a cheerful thing in these times of unemployment and general claims that the cost of living and general living expenses for the last two years has been so high that people cannot make ends meet, to find that one comes across a case that stands out as an evidence of what economy and decent application can accomplish.

Talking with a plumber, he told the story. It seemed to him as worthy of attention, and as standing out against the general mass of complaint and with a situation that has come and which so many are unable to meet. He said that the other night a returned soldier walked into his shop, and after greetings, asked what it would cost to put plumbing in a small house. A plain bath, basin and closet. No frills. Something durable and capable.

Quoted a Price.

The plumber made some figures. All plumbers make figures, whether they make use of them or not. People generally think that the plumber guesses and guesses high enough. Anyway the figures come out away up in the costly region of taking a big slice off the estimates. He quoted a price for the work and fixtures.

The soldier considered and said that the price seemed not unreasonable, that the plumber could go ahead and put the fixtures in, and gave the street and number of the house. Now the plumber happened to know of the house, and asked if the soldier was going to put plumbing into a house for which he would be the tenant, and was told that the soldier was the owner, he and his wife having bought the house the day before.

Example of Thrift.

And the soldier added the interesting particulars, and it would seem that there will be few able to duplicate the narrative, that from the amount saved by his wife from her allowances of pay, separation allowance and patriotic fund, and with what he had saved from his share of the pay while abroad, they were able to get together, with a little money he had before he went away, $1,400.00, and settle the house matter on the spot. The owner having other uses for the money, let the house go at a substantial reduction for cash.

And the soldier further added, which showed a decent sense of financing, that from his war gratuity he holed to have enough to straighten up the plumber's bill, build a shed, put down a cement walk and generally fix things up about the house. He had a job to go to the next week and would from his earnings keep the family going in fair shape. In the family were a wife and three children. And the soldier admitted, what might have turned out to be true, that if he had not gone to the war, and made a situation that did come up, had he stayed at home he and his wife might have lived up to the income and would not have been able to secure the house. Which brings up the reflection, and a true state of affairs, that the work of the war has developed that there are two outstanding classes, so far as home economies go, among the men who went. One class where the husband was careless and possibly selfish, so far as personal expenditures are concerned. He personally used for himself more than he should of the family income. The wife never had a chance to show what she could do. Left to herself, in the absence of the husband, and relieved of the expense of his maintenance from the general family income, she buckled to and saved.

The Other Case.

Then the other situation. The husband as the balance wheel of the family machine, steadying the expenditure, holding down a disposition to buy not wisely and well, restraining a desire and willingness to run into debt, living within the family income as best they might. With his discriminating influence removed the wife became careless in money matters. Possibly, as has been the case in many instances, gave way to that feminine fondness and longing for nice things and to buy not matters of utility but expedients. Having a steady income, all in real money, it seemed that things would go on in the same way forever, and that when the husband came home, if it pleased the fortunes of war to so permit, that he would earn quite as much as had been at the disposal of the wife and mother in the interval of his absence. Let us hope that it may be so, that work will come in a plenty and that for his danger and part in the war service he may be ensured work and a living in future.

A Record in Egg Production

Pullets Show a Net Profit of $2.12 Each in Three Months

An amateur Peterboro poultry enthusiast sends in the following record of production and financial statement of a pen of eighteen pullets which he has raised. He is interested in knowing if other poultrymen can show better results from any other strain:

On Dec. 1, 1918, we selected from some 60 odd S. C. White Leghorn pullets, hatched between May 10th and June 2nd, a pen of 18, then averaging in weight about four lbs. each. Six of the pullets were then laying, the first egg coming on Nov. 9th; and the 18th started laying on Dec. 16th.

The record of this pen of pullets for Dec., Jan. and Feb., 1918-19, is as follows:

Total number of eggs laid in three months: 1091, or 90 11-12 dozen, an average of a little over 5 dozen eggs per pullet. We sold these eggs at an average price of 66 1-3c per doz., or $60.31. The cost of feed exclusive of table scraps was as follows:

Mixed grain	$13.95
Bran	1.26
Grit	.45
Oyster shells	.45
Condition powders	1.00
Cabbages	2.00
Ground bone	3.00
Lice powder	.40
Total	$22.07

Or $1.23 per hen.

Total net receipts for eggs sold $60.31
Total expenditure for feed 22.07

Net profit for 3 months $38.24
Net profit per hen $2.12

Greater Production.

Solo, Mrs. Northcott.
Recitation, Mrs. Knott.
Solo, Mr. C. H. Carter.
Duet, Mr. Greenslade and Miss M. Green.

Want Stamp Tax Removed

Retail Merchants' Association of Peterboro' Hold Meeting

At a meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association, held on Monday evening, a resolution was passed to petition the Department to abrogate the Act calling for stamps on drugs, and, if necessary, place a tax which may be dealt with more equality and uniformity by the dealers and public. The Act has caused undue discomfort to the dealers, not only from a standpoint of extra expense in securing extra help to attend to the duty of affixing the stamp, but from the hazy conception of the Department itself as what articles come under the Act. Different big organizations are already working on the petition, including the Ontario Drug Association and the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association.

ENDORSE ACTION.

A resolution endorsing the action taken recently by the Board of Trade to have a greater Peterborough was endorsed by the association.

THRIFT STAMPS.

Mr. Jones, representing the Thrift Stamp Department, outlined the desire of the Government to encourage the sale of thrift stamps. The association agreed to endorse the movement as well.

ENDORSED FAIR BOARD.

The good work of the Fair Board was endorsed by the association, who were unanimously in favour of the Council granting the request made by them. The request was, in the opinion of all members, only just and fair.

British Draft Adopted by International Legislation Commission at Paris—Universal Eight Hour Day

MATERNITY INSURANCE

LONDON, March 4.—The main proposals of the British draft, adopted with minor alterations by the International Legislation Commission at Paris as the new International Charter of Labor, are given in a special despatch from the Labor correspondent of the Daily Telegraph.

The provisions of this draft preclude the employment of children under 15 years of age in industrial occupations and of children between 15 and 19 for more than six hours daily. At least two hours each day must be devoted by these young workers to technical or regular educational classes and they will not be permitted to work at night or on Sundays or holidays.

A Saturday half-holiday will be introduced into all countries, and workers shall be allowed a continuous weekly rest of at least 36 hours, while the hours of work shall not exceed eight or 48 weekly, and even less than this in dangerous trades.

Provisions Regarding Women

Women shall not be employed at night, and employers shall not give women work to do at home after their regular day's work. Women shall not be employed in especially dangerous trades, which it is impossible to make healthy, nor in mines, above or below ground.

Women shall not be allowed to work for ten weeks altogether before and after childbirth, six weeks of which shall be taken after confinement.

In every country a system of maternity insurance shall be introduced providing for compensation at least equal to sickness insurance benefit payable in the country concerned.

Women shall receive the same pay as men for the same job.

The use of poisonous materials shall be prohibited in all cases where it is possible to procure substitutes for them.

Workers shall have the right of free combination and association in all countries. A system of unemployment insurance shall be set up in every country. All workers shall be insured by the state against industrial accidents.

A special code of laws for the protection of seamen shall be established.

Regarding immigration which shall not be prohibited in a general way, the charter, according to the correspondent, recognizes the right of any state to restrict immigration temporarily in a period of economic depression or for the protection of public health, and recognizes the right of a state to require a certain standard of education from immigrants.

BREAKING UP U-BOATS.

Forty-Seven Sold by Admiralty—Others to Go to Allies.

LONDON, March 5. — A number of German submarines lying in a British port are to be handed over to the Allied Governments, some being sent to Italy, Japan and other countries.

Forty-seven of all sizes, up to the big ocean-going submarine, have been sold under condition that they must be broken up. The Admiralty will first remove their engines.

Tunny fish makes an excellent appetizer served in French dressing.

Every child should have one quart of milk a day until it is 8 years old.

Lenten Season Was Commenced To-day

The penetential season of Lent was ushered in by the Ash Wednesday services in the Catholic churches of the city this morning. The Lenten regulations were announced on Sunday. Practically the only variation is the reduction of the period during which the Easter duty of receiving communion shall be made. Instead of extending from Ash Wednesday until Trinity Sunday, this period is now from the fourth Sunday of Lent until Trinity. Devotions will be held every Wednesday and Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, and parents are exhorted to hold special family prayers daily.

Dandelion yellow will be smart for sports clothes.

S. A. HOLINESS SERVICES

Despite the inclement weather last night a splendid crowd gathered at the S. A. Temple and enjoyed the bright and helpful services conducted by Adjutant and Mrs. Buntin. The topic was "Spiritual Decline in the Church and its Cause," and the lesson taken was from the story of David. The Adjutant clearly showed how the tolerance of sin in the individual heart started a gradual decline of holiness and at last led to spiritual death.

To-night, Mrs. Adjutant Buntin will speak, and her talk will be on "A Sound from Heaven." This promises to be of unusual interest, so come along and enjoy an hour of singing and the study of God's Word.

Service commences sharp at eight o'clock.

Peterboro' Couple Celebrate Their 40th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James Healey Were Recipients of Handsome Present

In honor of the fortieth anniversary of their marriage on Friday last, Mr. and Mrs. James Healy, 338 Cameron avenue, were presented with a cabinet of silver from their sons and daughters. The bride and groom of two score years ago were led to the drawing room by their daughter, Miss Laura Healy, and amid showers of confetti thrown by their grandchildren, the cabinet was presented by Miss Nellie Healy, while the following address was read.

Dear Father and Mother:

On the happy occasion of the 40th anniversary of your wedding we your sons and daughters rejoice in the happy opportunity it gives us not only to join with you in the celebration of the event but also to indicate to you our heartfelt gratitude for and appreciation of the loving care which throughout our lives you have shown us.

We ask you to accept this cabinet of silver not as a recompense for your unfailing kindness and love to us, for no gift that money could buy could equal those things but rather as an expression of our feeling towards you. It is our dearest wish that you may have many more years of happiness and that we may all be spared to help you celebrate other anniversaries of your wedding days.

Following the presentation a delightful evening was spent by all present in cards and dancing. Dainty refreshments were served and guests departed wishing the bride and groom many more happy years together.

IN MEMORIAM

In ever loving memory of my beloved husband, Pte. William McKinstry, 93rd Battalion late of the 20th Battalion, Killed in action March 5th, 1917.

Sleep, thy last sleep,
Free from care and sorrow,
Rest where none weep,
Till the eternal morrow,
Through dark waves roll
O'er the silent river
Thy fainting soul
Jesus has delivered.

Life's dream is past
All its sin and sadness
Brightly at last
Dawns a day of gladness
Under the sod
Earth received our treasures
To rest in God
Waiting all His pleasure

Though we may mourn
Those in life the dearest
They shall return
Christ, when thou appearest
Soon shall Thy voice
Comfort those now weeping
Bidding rejoice
All in Jesus sleeping.

—His loving wife and two little sons.

The Colonel's Revenge.

An English major-general appointed his son, a captain, to the divisional staff. The nomination started a sullen fire in each of a hundred bosoms, for the staff captain had some of the manners of a khaki esthete. He was sent to the colonel of a Canadian battalion with an order which he transmitted in the following words: "Colonel Jaggers, father would like you to move your force to the second reserve trenches on the north side of the hill."

The colonel breathed short, for his men were tired after eight hours of extra duty. "Oh," he said, in velvet tnoes, "and what would mother like?"

OBITUARY

DR. EDWARD MCGRATH

The death of Dr. Edward McGrath this morning, in St. Joseph's Hospital, after a short illness, will be deeply regretted by many in the city and surrounding county who knew him well. The deceased came to Peterboro about thirty years ago and was associated with the late Dr. O'Sullivan, subsequently acquiring the practice which he has carried on until his death. He took an active interest in athletics and when Peterboro had a first-class lacrosse team about 20 years ago, he was the president for two years.

As a surgeon and doctor, the deceased had great ability, which was acknowledged by those in his own profession. He was a big hearted, kindly man, and did an immense amount of good to members in this community who have every reason to deplore his death. He was married about seven years ago to Miss Minnie O'Sullivan, who still survives as well as other relatives in Campbellford, from which town he came to Peterboro to reside.

Since graduating from Queen's University, Kingston, in 1888, when he came immediately to the city to practice he has taken a keen interest in St. Joseph's Hospital of which he was Superintendent for a number of years. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, of the Foresters and of the C.M.B.A.

He leaves of the immediate family his wife, his parents, residing in Campbellford and several brothers in Ontario.

The funeral announcement will be made later.

MRS. RICHARD BUCKNELL

The death occurred at Cobourg on Feb. 22, of Catherine O'Sullivan, widow of the late Richard Bucknell, in her 88th year. Mrs. Bucknell was a daughter of Daniel O'Sullivan who came to this country from Bantry, Cork, Ireland, more than 90 years ago.

She is survived by one daughter, Tillie and one son, Corp. Richard Bucknell and one grandson, Pte. Stanley Bucknell, overseas. Mrs. Herbert Meehan, Rink Street, this city, is a grand daughter.

DESIRE BARRETTE

The death occurred last night of Mr. Desire Barrette, at his home on Park street south, in his sixty-fourth year. The deceased has been ill for some time and his death was not entirely unexpected. He leaves to mourn his loss a sorrowing wife, two sons and two daughters, Thomas, Armene and Mrs. Afred Bishop, at home, and Fred of San Francisco. The funeral announcements will be made later.

JAPAN WILL ABOLISH OPIUM MONOPOLY IN CHINA

TOKIO—Premier Hara has announced that the government had decided at the earliest possible moment to abolish the opium monopoly in the provinces of Kwangtung and Tsing-tao, China, and on the Island of Formosa.

The newspapers commend this action as the removal of another source of friction between natives and foreigners in China.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards — Receipts were 90 cars with 1697 cattle, 210 calves, 1390 hogs and 374 sheep and lambs.

There was not quite as much snap to the cattle trade as in the earlier part of the week but prices held practically steady, some of the buyers inclining to think they were if anything even a little firmer. At all events there were not so many choice quality to choose from yet the prices were just as high.

Railroad strikes over the border made a little difference to the demand for export cattle but this is probably only a temporary condition.

Calves are good and strong.

BLISS NATIVE HERB TABLETS

A RUN DOWN SYSTEM is like a run-down clock. Until toned it is of little use. If you are run-down from overwork, don't neglect your condition but take one or two of Bliss Native Herb Tablets at once at bedtime, and you will note an immediate improvement. For over thirty years they have proved a wonderful tonic to men, women and children in maintaining health and vigor. George Grandage, Bonville, Texas writes: "I was all run-down in health, and it seemed nothing would help me. I was induced to try Bliss Native Herb Tablets. I am thankful for this wonderful remedy, because I am enjoying good health." Don't delay taking Bliss Native Herb Tablets. There is nothing to equal them for removing the cause of constipation, liver and kidney trouble, sick headache, rheumatism or disordered stomach. They stimulate the liver, purify the blood and tone up the system, also improve the appetite. Get the genuine. Look for the trade mark and money back guarantee on every box. Sir Sam Hughes Claims That Sir Joseph Flavelle Got Five Million Dollars A Month

Ex-Minister of Militia Traced the Efforts Which Were Made to Form a Union Government—Perley's Part Criticized—The Victory Loan and What It Cost to Float It

OTTAWA, March 5.—In his speech in the House, Sir Sam Hughes said there was a spirit of independence abroad on both sides of the House. The government would have its hands full to cajole butterfoot, pussyfoot down and sidetrack gentlemen on its side.

Sir Sam said that among the difficulties he had to overcome in 1914 in raising the forces were prejudice, envy and jealousy on the part of some of his colleagues, Sir George Perley seemed to think that it was his duty to thwart every movement which General Hughes made. He also found himself badly handicapped by certain newspapers in Montreal and Toronto, one of which was edited by a brother of Sir Thomas White, and who had since been rewarded by being appointed head of the Dominion Public Information Bureau.

Concerning Sir Joseph Flavelle.

He caused a good deal of laughter by referring to the Toronto Empire Club meeting in 1916, at which, he said, it was stated that Borden had no backbone and would have to get out. There were canvassers at the meeting representing financial and insurance organizations, under the auspices of Sir Joseph Flavelle, canvassing against Borden, and demanding that he make way for another man. He said that the agents or friends of these organizations, under the same auspices, had a conspiracy in 1915 to overthrow General Bertram and the Shell Committee, and control munitions in Canada.

General Hughes said that Sir Joseph Flavelle finally became head of the Munitions Department, and then they found this distinguished citizen getting contracts for meat in the United States and in Canada, and making large profits. They had learned about the profits in Canada, but nothing had been heard about the operations in the United States. Sir Sam asserted that Sir Joseph had got five million dollars a month for contracts through his influence as head of the Munitions Board. He declared that Sir Joseph Flavelle had made one hundred million dollars during the four years of war.

Borden to be Thrown Out.

The ex-Minister traced the efforts which were made to form a Union Government. A number of Ontario financial magnates had met Sir Wilfrid Laurier and tried to induce him to join with them in forming a Government. Sir Wilfrid was to be Premier for nine months or a year, and then make way for a friend of theirs, said Sir Sam, "who is not a thousand miles away from the seat occupied by the Finance Minister." However, "the wily old statesman declined to have anything to do with it." Then a speech was made in Ottawa by Sir Joseph Flavelle to the effect that whatever Cabinet was formed, the French must have a voice in it. Next was a speech made by Sir Thomas White in Toronto, and it was understood that the policy to be followed at the meeting was that Borden was to be thrown out, and the mantle would fall on the shoulders of the young and gallant Finance Minister. Sir Sam described the meeting "as one of the deadest shows ever held in the city of Toronto."

"Failing to wheedle Laurier into it," declared Gen. Hughes, "the cry became, Condemn Quebec, she must be ostracized."

The ex-Minister went on to condemn the "chloroform methods" of the Government, said free speech had been suppressed, and Canada was ruled by an oligarchy which ruled by order in Council instead of by legislation. He also condemned what he described as "the petty and useless details of food control and press control by sweetening and by censor." He said Canada was in training for Kaiserism, and the methods used were contrary to the wishes of a free people. He had always favoured responsible government. He thought they could trust the people and trust the members of Parliament. Now no one was responsible in a constituency.

Perley's Part Criticized.

Sir Sam stated that he had been invited by Premier Borden to meet him at the close of the 1918 session, just before the Prime Minister departed for England. Sir Robert, the speaker said, had asked him at this meeting to advise him as to what course should be pursued in the administration of the Canadian army. He declined to give any advice on the matter, telling the Prime Minister that he was no longer one of his advisers, and was, therefore, not in a position to give him counsel. The malignant influence of the Canadian High Commissioner has exercised its power over Sir Robert Borden ever since the war started, said Sir Sam.

The former Minister of Militia then went on to speak of protests which he had made against the waste of Canadian boys' lives in "unnecessary stunts" on the battlefield. He read a letter which he wrote to Sir Robert Borden urging that the Prime Minister demand that the waste of valuable life immediately cease. The letter was as follows:

Letter to the Premier.

Ottawa, Sept., Oct. 1, 1918.

Dear Sir Robert,—Once more I desire to draw your attention to the useless massacre of our Canadian boys as has needlessly occurred at Cambrai. Mark you, I am not one who thinks wars can be won without the loss of human life, but Gen. Foch has shown the world, what I have always claimed, that mind conquers matter.

I have on other occasions drawn your attention to the massacres at Lens, Passchendaele, etc., where the only apparent object was to glorify the General in command and make it impossible, through butchery, to have a fifth and sixth division and two army corps.

In the present case, however, around Cambrai, it seems simply a case of "bull-head" and sending up our gallant lads against positions swarming with machine guns, and without our boys being properly supported by tanks or guns to destroy these machine-gun positions. You may remember I have suggested repeatedly this sort of thing—guns to destroy machine-gun positions — since the outset of the war.

I have no details other than general and special reports, but I know the locality thoroughly, and any General who would undertake to attack Cambrai by its suburbs or street fighting should be tried by court-martial. The only way is to "go around the damn thing," as the American Attache said to General Buller at Colenzo.

I think the time has arrived when you should assert yourself along positive lines, demand the removal of incompetents and have this needless slaughter—for I call it nothing else—of our Canadian lads stopped.

You should secure returns of the losses by brigades and battalions during each year or tenure of command, and what each brigade accomplished, and you will be found that, in many instances, the brigades and battalions that have accomplished the most have suffered the least.

"Bull-head" and incompetency are traceable by the horrible casualties, resulting up into eight and ten times the total force of a battalion or a brigade. Anyone can sit back and simply order battalion after battalion to go forward to certain death. Gen. Foch does not want that sort of thing. Neither do the people of Canada.

Faithfully,
Sam Hughes.

Copies to Foch and Haig.

He had, said Sir Sam, received no reply to this letter from the Prime Minister. The latter was out of town when it reached Ottawa. He had sent copies to Generals Foch and Haig, and it was noticeable that after it was sent the allied armies pursued the policy of surrounding towns and villages in the path of their advance rather than taking them by front attack.

The Acting Prime Minister, said the speaker, had referred to the glorious achievements of the Canadian boys who had set the flag in the town of Mons on the very morning of the signing of the armistice. The officer who had ordered the attack on Mons on the morning of the signing of the armistice, just four hours before hostilities ceased, should have been court-martialled in the opinion of Sir Sam. It was merely a bit of theatrical display, and cost the lives of some fine Canadian boys who could ill be spared. Mons was of no value and there was no reason for throwing away life in capturing it.

No Use for "Coddling."

The demobilization of Canada's army was then taken up by the speaker. He ridiculed the "coddling" which the Government appeared to be offering these soldiers, and declared that 99 per cent. of the boys would demobilize themselves if they were only let alone. All that the Government was called upon to do was to throw opportunities for employment in the way of the returned men, and they would do the rest. Enemy aliens holding positions in the country should be displaced and their jobs given to returned men. The Dominion Government, as a large employer of labour, should take this advice to heart and act upon it.

Sir Sam made a number of suggestions as to lines which the Government might develop in its effort to create opportunities for the soldiers and improve the country as well. Great airplane surveys of the unexplored northern sections of Canada might be instituted. Railways to parts of the country not at present served should be built. Good roads should be run through wherever necessary, and sections of the country needing it should be drained. Railways and roads for carrying coal from the Rocky Mountains and Nova Scotia to the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec should be built. The fish industry might be developed. Timber resources, water powers and minerals should engage the attention of the Government as lines which could stand energetic developing. These were among the numerous suggestions which he made for employing the returned men. These men wanted work and freedom, he said, and they were not looking for "paternalism."

Before adjournment was made for dinner Sir Sam expressed himself as being strongly in favour of all appointments to the outside civil service being made through the members of the constituency in which the vacancy occurred.

The Victory Loan.

At the evening session Sir Sam compared the cost of floating Victory loans in Canada with the cost in the United States. In considering the subject of an issue, there were two viewpoints. The Canadian loan was successful from the investors' viewpoint. Eight dollars on every hundred dollars had gone to a broker or speculator. From the people's viewpoint, however, eight dollars on every hundred dollars had been robbed from the people. The great trouble with Canadian loans was that the Dominion Government fixed both the selling and the buying price. Had the Minister of Finance gone to New York with a seventy million dollar loan at five and a half per cent., people would have grabbed for it at a hundred and two. There were billions of dollars to draw from in Canada out at interest from nothing to three per cent. Why should five and a half per cent. not have been grabbed at? Why did anyone keep his money at three per cent. and no tax exemption, instead of investing at five and a half per cent. with exemption?

"I challenge the history of finance," Sir Sam went on, "to show anywhere, outside the Balkan States or South America, such payment for investment."

Sir Sam proceeded to give the cost of three Canadian loans, as follows:

Five per cent. public service loan in New York, 1916— Seventy-five million dollars, cost $4,098,580, or $5.46 per hundred dollars.

War loan, 1915— $100,000,000, cost $3,408,360, or $3.41 per hundred dollars.

Five per cent. war loan, October, 1916—$100,000,000, cost, $3,539,4410, or $3.54 per hundred dollars.

Four $275,000,000 Canada paid upward of $11,000,000 for the investment.

In the United States the first Liberty loan cost thirteen and nine-tenths cents per hundred dollars; the second Liberty Loan cost fourteen and three-tenths cents per hundred dollars; the third cost nineteen cents per hundred dollars. Total United States loans of $16,974,330,000 cost $25,322,775, or fifteen cents per hundred dollars.

Draws Veil Aside.

"I want to support this Government," Sir Sam declared. "I am just trying to draw aside the camouflage veil, and I can assure them that the veil will be drawn aside unless these members get a move on and see to it that this sort of speculation does not go on under the name of patriotism. It is a camouflage, a propaganda to deceive the people, and as far as I am concerned I shall not be a party to it."

Captain Joseph Read, who followed Sir Sam Hughes, remarked on rising to his feet that he was like Othello — his occupation was gone. The ex-Minister of Militia had conclusively shown that this was the most contemptible Government that had ever sat in the seats of Parliament. The speech of Sir Sam Hughes, he said, would have to be replied to from his own side of the House. All he would say was that this indictment was only too true.

Capt. Read remarked that he believed the men occupying the Government benches were, with a few exceptions, honest men. The Union Government, however, was not suited to the times, and the trouble was that it had to stay in power until the end of this session. There could be no election unless the boys got back from the front, but when they were all home the Government should resign and let us have a new election. He hoped that when the new franchise bill was brought down it would, in the interests of common decency and honesty, be such a measure as to permit people to register their votes fairly. It must not be a mutilated statute like the War Times Election Act.

If there are any enemy aliens in Canada, said the speaker, who were disloyal, they should be deported immediately, but if they were loyal they should be allowed to remain. The Government had coaxed and cajoled these people into the country, and they should not be ill-treated unless with good cause.

Capt. Read, referring to Mr. Calder's recent speech, said that the claim of the Minister of Immigration to still being a Liberal was an outward acknowledgment of inward shame. Mr. Calder was a deserter, and a man who would desert for a price, be it place or power, would desert again for a higher price.

Germany From the Clouds.

"Eddie" Rickenbacker is quoted as saying:

"Germany looks rather peaceful from above and there seems to be little disturbing them back always from the war. That is where an airman's point of view is defective. The German hills and fields look as soft as ours. Probably they are, which is not very soft. Any field covered with grass always looks soft and you think it would make a fine landing place. When you get down lower and are forced to land on any old field that happens to be under you some time when you're enpanne you learn differently."

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Brian Is Decorated For Bravery Under Fire

CHAPTER CXXXVI.

"Just think, Brian has the Croix de Guerre, Aunt Louisa. He is brave, and I am not surprised; but to think of taking so many prisoners all by himself. It is a wonder they didn't kill him." Ruth was so excited, her words fairly tumbled over each other.

"It was a wonderfully brave thing to do," her aunt said after she had read the short account of Lieutenant Hackett's act, and his reward. "He will probably get the Distinguished Service Cross as well. Our own country is as quick to recognize such acts as any other."

Ruth was radiant all the evening. Brian had distinguished himself, and and not been wounded. Her plan for him also took on an added attraction because people would surely give a man with such a war record the preference when he returned to civil life.

She wrote him a long letter telling him how proud she was; how happy that he had not been wounded while doing so marvelous a thing. Then she went to bed to dream of war crosses, of nests filled with Germans whom Brian dragged in prisoners, and of little Brian, who too was a soldier, and who also wore a cross.

"I couldn't sleep without dreaming," Ruth declared at breakfast. "I was too much excited, I guess." Then she explained to Rachel, who had asked what excited her so she couldn't sleep, that Brian, her husband, had been decorated for great bravery. If she expatiated upon the news to the old colored woman, it was not surprising. Her aunt smiled more indulgently than ever she had done when Brian had been the subject of conversation. "There may be something in him, after all," she thought as she, too, became a little enthusiastic because of Ruth's excitement and prideful words.

"Sholy he will come back now." Rachel had said, after listening, open mouthed, to Ruth's description of what had happened "over there". "Ain't he done 'nough fightin' when they gives him all them crosses you tell 'bout?"

"I think he will be back soon, Rachel. The war will not last much longer."

"Miss Clark's girl—that silly black niggar gal o' hearn—said that one of them niggar reg'm'nts had been fightin' somthin' fine. Is that so, Miss Ruth?"

"Yes, Rachel. The colored troops have been wonderful. We are proud of them."

"Glory be, they ain't 'mounted to much befo' some of 'em. I'se glad if they had done sumthin' to be proud on."

"You need feel that way no longer, Rachel. They have proved themselves men." Ruth was so happy herself, that she wanted to say or do something to make every one around her happy also.

When she reached the shop her face was still lighted up with pride, her eyes shone with her happiness.

"I must congratulate you again," Mandel said when she came into his office later on, "It is becoming quite a common occurrence. Mr. Hackett evidently doesn't let us forget him."

"Thank you, and isn't it wonderful? To think he did such a thing unaided! I don't see how he did it. In spite of all the talk of the Germans being such wonderful soldiers, they must have a streak of cowardice to let one man take nine of them prisoners."

"The yellow in them is bound to come out," Mandel returned, not thinking of the Germans, but of Brian Hackett and of Ruth. Who and what was he to think that a woman, who belonged to a man who had shown himself so brave, so much of a soldier, would give him up even if he were lacking in some other qualifications?

For the first time Arthur Mandel lost all hope of ever being more to Ruth Hackett than he then was. He looked at her radiant face, her shining eyes, and his heart sank. Never could a man cause a woman to look like that unless she loved him. Pride alone would not do it. And she must love him devotedly. Slight love never gave that expression to a woman's face, nor brought that light to her eyes.

It is not easy to give up one's cherished dreams And it was not easy for Arthur Mandel to give up the idea he had hugged so closely of some day making Ruth Hackett—the only woman he ever had loved—his wife. But in that few moments that was what he did. And the renunciation left him so pale and so suddenly old, that Ruth, alarmed, asked if he were ill.

To-morrow—Arthur Mandel Renounces Ruth.

Keep the Bowels Regular and You Won't Be Sick

If the bowels do not move regularly they will sooner or later become constipated, and constipation is productive of more ill-health than almost any other trouble.

The sole cause of constipation is an inactive liver, and unless the liver is kept active, you may be sure that headaches, piles, heartburn, biliousness, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, and many other troubles will follow the wrong action of this one of the most important organs of the body.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the bowels so that you will have a free and easy motion every day, and one pill a night for thirty days will cure the worst cases of constipation.

They do this by acting directly on the liver and making the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood, thus causing many stomach and bowel troubles.

Mrs. Jos. Labrec, Louise Apts., Calgary, Alta., writes:—"I have been troubled with constipation for the last two years. I have tried numerous treatments, but have never been relieved by anything until I used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills which are helping me wonderfully."

We do not claim that Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are a "cure-all," but we do claim that there is nothing better for a sluggish liver.

The Deposed Sovereign.

There is disappointment in store for those people who are looking forward to the return of the golden sovereign as soon as the war is over. They will be required, in the national interest, to continue to use "Bradburys" for some time to come.

It is proposed that all the gold coins in the country shall be scooped up, as it were, into the Bank of England; and a body of financial experts appointed by the Government to advise on the after-war problem suggest that all banks shall transfer any gold now held by them to Threadneedle Street.

Before the war the Bank of England had about 38,000,000 in gold in its reserve coffers, and there were another 123,000,000 at the bank and in the hands of the public. It is suggested that for the purposes of foreign trade and for the needs of our reconstruction period an effort should be made to concentrate at least 150,000,000.—Tit-Bits.

The great majority of all buildings in Uruguay is constructed of brick with a cement plaster finish.

A SURE WAY TO END DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this just get about four ounces of plain common liquid arvon from any drug store this is all you will need; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

Russian Vengeance.

The Russian revolutionaries have absolutely no mercy on those who betray them. It is well known that in the year 1903 a traitor caught at Odessa was bricked up alive in a cellar and left to perish.

Regnier, a French spy in the pay of the Russian police, for a long time eluded the vengeance of the revolutionaries. But they caught him at last and that just at the moment when he fancied himself safe. His body was found in his cabin on a ship which reached Antwerp. He had been suffocated by fumes of sulphureted hydrogen. How this was done was never discovered.

A Proud Boast.

A teachers' meeting was in progress, and it was decided that the more difficult subjects should come in the morning and those that required less application later in the day. History was last on the list, and Miss Wheeler, the young teacher, protested.

"But it certainly is easier than science or mathematics," the principal insisted.

"As I teach it," replied the young teacher, "no subject could be more difficult and confusing."

A Big Fish.

A record kingush was caught recently off Cape Brett, New Zealand, by an Aucklander, and landed after a fight which was estimated to have lasted over an hour and a half, and which went a long way towards exhausting the strength of the fortunate angler. The fish measured 5 feet 2 inches in length and 36 inches in girth, and scaled 97 pounds. The capture was made single-handed from a launch.

LOOK AT A CHILD'S TONGUE WHEN CROSS, FEVERISH AND SICK

Takes no chances! Move poisons from liver and bowels at once.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered. When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated; then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it can not cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomach-ache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

Tower Wrecked by Bell.

Chunks of coping and fragments of roofing, which recently fell from the City Hall Tower of Los Angeles, caused local officials to investigate. The tower was found to be apparently ready to collapse at any moment, and was immediately condemned. The engineers who conducted the investigation blame the motion of a huge fire bell, which once hung in the tower, for the weakening of the structure. The building was erected 31 years ago.

The task of razing the tower is now under way. The part to be demolished is 76 feet high, composed of brick and cement with a facing of red sandstone, and weighs in the neighborhood of 750 tons. The walls are three feet thick, except in the upper sections, where they attain a thickness of fifty-four inches to provide for ornamental work. The door of the main entrance has been jammed by the enormous pressure from above which squeezed the casing out of position.—Illustrated World.

Simple Home Treatment To Remove Hairy Growths

(Beauty Culture)

Two or three minutes use of a delatone paste will banish every bit of hair from your face, neck or arms. This paste is made by mixing some water with powdered delatone. After the paste is removed the skin should be washed to free it from the remaining delatone and it will be clear and spotless. You will not be disappointed with this treatment if you are sure to obtain real delatone from your druggist.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Particles in the Eye.

Small substances like cinders, dust or small chips of stone or metal can often be removed from the eye by very simple means. Sometimes the flow of tears washes them out At other times catching the upper lid by the lashes and pulling it away from eyeball and down over the lower lid, then letting it go so that as it recedes the under surface is swept by the edge of the lower lid, will clear it out. If this does not prove successful a loop made of horsehair or of a long human hair can be passed under the lid and swept from the outer side toward the nose and drawn down.

Better than this, however, is the washing of the eye or flushing with the eye dropper. Have the patient catch hold of the lower and upper lids, drawing them away from the eye, and then fill the dropper, which is like a small syringe, with water and flush the eye two or three times. This will always remove the cinder at once. Should lime get into the eye it should be treated in the same manner, first with water and then with vinegar or lemon juice and water—a teaspoonful of vinegar or lemon juice to a teacupful of water—poured over the eyeball.

LITTLE DIFFERENCE IN BOYS

Silly Idea That Those Born in May Are Naturally More Cruel Than Other Youngsters.

What is the origin of the belief that boys born in the month of May are cruel by nature? In Notes and Queries John T. Page says that he was born in May, "and as I look back into the days of my boyhood I am often horrified to recall many acts of cruelty perpetrated by me, and at my instigation, on birds and animals. I seem to have delighted in these acts of cruelty until I was about twelve years old, when they ceased." Mr. Page adds that as a man he is supersensitive. "I cannot now kill a bird or an animal without experiencing most poignant feelings of abhorrence of the act."

"Are not nearly all healthy boys destructive and cruel? They were in our little village, writes Philip Hale in the Boston Herald. One of our favorite amusements was the reckless employment of sling and buckshot. We would lie on the roof of the minister's house on Elm street and plug horses, dogs, farmers in carts or on wood sledges, just to see them jump. Nor were we then aware that surprise was the chief element of wit. That's what makes a man laugh so when he sits down on a bent pin." Rubbing the windows of a schoolhouse was almost as good sport as tearing off the pickets of Deacon Bodman's fence. Hitting little boys' heads with iceballs, not snowballs, was a favorite winter amusement. It was considered a good joke to kidnap a youngster at night, take him far into the Bridge street graveyard and then run away from him. Tormenting cats and dogs was common when a small boy was not easily caught. The slingers, the throwers of other missiles and the tormentors of animals were surely not all born in May. Nor were all boys born in May skilled in rude or ingenious torturing.

Wheat Not a Necessary Food.

Wheat is not necessary. We are accustomed to regard wheat as a more or less indispensable article of diet. It isn't. It is an article of luxury, and absolutely nothing else. Wheat possesses other oats, corn and rice absolutely no nutritional quality for man or beast. It has no more protein, and no better protein. It has no more fat, and no better fat. It has no mineral salt better or in larger amounts. It has no more fuel or better fuel. It is just one of the cereals, and there isn't the slightest evidence that it is the best one, because so far as comparative tests are concerned in animals, it isn't the best one; it is very far from the best one.—A. E. Taylor, M.D., U. S. Food Administrator.

CHILDREN MUST BE PROTECTED

The children must be safeguarded, for, if they do survive the frequent coughs and colds, it is often with the lungs so weakened that they become chronic sufferers from bronchitis or consumption. Being compelled of simple ingredients of undoubted value, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is admirably suited as a treatment for children. It is pleasant to take. So much so that children delight to take it on this account, as well as because of the quick relief it affords them

SUNFLOWERS AND BUTTER

On Albertan fields where they reaped the wheat they will soon be reaping the sunflowers.

NOT many people would associate sunflowers with butter, for, excepting some resemblance in color there is apparently little connection between them. Nevertheless there is another and more important relationship between sunflowers and butter. Sunflowers are playing an important role in the production of butter in many parts of the American continent. They are an excellent fodder for dairy and other cattle, and where they are grown the dairying industry is in a thriving condition. Especially where irrigation is available does the plant seem to grow best, and numerous areas all over the continent are being devoted to its growth. For the fact alone that it is one of the heaviest yielding fodder crops known it would be a very valuable crop, but the manner in which cows seem to relish it in preference to other crops and its high feeding value indicate that it is one of the most profitable crops that can be grown, and explain its growing popularity in those districts where it has been tried.

A Michigan farmer who grew sunflowers for the first time says: "I was agreeably surprised at the way the cows eat this feed. I was apprehensive that the coarse stalks of the sunflowers would be left, but the cows nose the leaves away and search out the coarser parts, seeming to relish the stalks best. We began running this green stuff through the cutter and feeding it three weeks before starting to all the silo, and it has all been cleaned up from the first. Even the large butts, some of them two inches in diameter, when broken up in the cutter are readily eaten.

On the irrigable lands of California, Colorado, Idaho, and other states, more and larger areas are being planted to sunflowers every year to provide fodder for dairy cattle and ample returns are obtainable from them on these high-priced lands. In combination with other crops that can be grown on these farms, they form an ideal ration, enabling the farmer to support a maximum number of cows and produce more butter than the limits of his holdings would otherwise permit.

In Southern Alberta, where there are very large areas of irrigable lands, farmers are beginning to display much interest in the possibilities of this crop. There is every reason to believe that it can be grown very successfully there. On the Demonstration Farm of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Brooks, Alberta, this season, satisfactory results were obtained, the plants growing to a height of from ten to twelve feet and yielded more than fifteen tons of fodder to the acre. They were cut and fed in a raw state to cattle, which, judging from the way they ate them, [illegible] very well. [illegible] the Com[illegible] Russian, and next year these will again be planted, in addition to other varieties. One of the heads of the plants grown at Brooks was fifteen inches in diameter, and was pronounced by men who have had much experience in growing sunflowers farther south to be the largest head they had ever seen. Farmers in Southern Alberta are being urged to give the plant a trial, and judging from their success with other crops there is not much doubt that the crop will prove satisfactory. As they are also able to grow large crops of grain, alfalfa, clover, roots, grasses, etc., year after year, conditions are ideal for a considerable extension of the dairy industry in this section of the country.

The problem of the dairy farmer, sheepman and stockman in the provision of feed during the winter months for their cows, horses, sheep and hogs. By as much as the winter feed question is solved the success of an all-round system of agriculture is measured. Hence anything that promises to help this situation is worthy of earnest consideration. The call to the farmer now is for meat and dairy products. The latest reports from Europe indicate that the shortage there is much greater than was at first anticipated, and the demand for these commodities and for breeding cattle for many years to come will be a considerable one. More livestock and more dairy products mean more fodder, and the farmer who can make his land produce larger quantities will be able to support more livestock, and will thus benefit most from the conditions which lie ahead. Sunflowers, it would seem, will enable many farmers to do this. Yielding as heavily as they do, and being in every way a suitable feed for cattle, they will no doubt become just as profitable, and for this reason, just as popular a crop among the farmers of Southern Alberta [illegible] have already become [illegible] other places.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

At the Complaint Desk

An Interview That Had a Curious Sequel.

By KATE AUSTIN.

For the third time Marian Macren rose from the uncomfortable settee that faced the complaint desk and approached the young woman seated behind the wide window, who was talking to the checker.

"Of course it gave her a good chance to let us all know what nice white arms she has, but my mother'd see me in my grave before she'd let me go to a ball in any such costume as that."

"Will you kindly ascertain whether they have found my parcel yet?" interrupted Marian, tapping the desk lightly with the tips of her gloved fingers.

The young person flung her an impatient look.

"What parcel?"

"The one about which I inquired at intervals for the past half hour."

"What's your name, and what's wrong with the bundle?" inquired the girl in bored tones.

"You took my name twice and telephoned the delivery department, and I am waiting for their report. Why do you not call them again and see whether the parcel has been located?"

"Say, do you think I want to get the delivery boys down on me? If they find it they'll tell me quick enough"—

"If"— echoed Marian, her delicate face flushing under the girl's cool impertinence.

"Well, I'll take your name and address and drop you a postal when we find it."

"Indeed, you will not. I want it now," said Marian, and she walked away from the window with head high and nostrils quivering.

"Wonder if she's going down into the subcellar to get it," giggled the young person to the checker. "It is funny how some swells think they can come in here and run this store. I guess she doesn't know we've got a system here."

Then while the girl continued her account of the fancy dress ball Marian crossed to the main aisle, found a floorwalker and asked to be directed to the superintendent of employees. Five minutes later she was ushered into the presence of a smooth faced, square shouldered chap who looked as if he had received his training on the football gridiron rather than as stock boy in a big department store.

Richard Burnside had risen from the lowest ranks in the store where he was now superintendent, studying practical business methods by day and physical culture and English branches at the Y. M. C. A. rooms by night.

Now he stood beside his desk, Marian Macrea's card bent between his fingers. He looked the slender, graceful figure over with the keen eye of a man accustomed to seeking good material for his staff and decided that she must be a reporter or magazine writer hunting information about the condition of the working girl. He had met many such since he had become superintendent.

"What can we do for you, Miss Macrea?" he inquired, offering her a seat.

"I merely called to ask you whether your complaint department had been organized for the convenience of your customers or to browbeat them so effectually that they will endure almost any inconvenience rather than make complaint?"

Richard Burnside sat down rather suddenly. This was not just what he had expected.

Very deliberately, but convincingly, Marian told her story, from the indifference of the clerk who had first waited on her to the impertinence of the young woman at the complaint desk. When she had finished Burnside leaned forward, his hands clasped between his knees, his face boyish no longer but seamed deeply with lines of anxiety.

"Miss Macrea, you have been treated outrageously, and so have many of our customers, and I, the superintendent of this store, cannot find a remedy, because I cannot handle women employees. I can handle the boys in this line because I know boys, but the indifferent, the insolent woman employee is beyond me."

He glanced up to meet Marian's sympathetic glance. Impulsively he told her of his humble beginning, the pride with which he had accepted his new work and his many vexations and trials with incompetent help.

"I have had five girls at that complaint desk, each less satisfactory than the one before her. If I could just find a girl with judgment, discretion and good manners—but you can't expect to find such a girl for $12 a week, can you?"

His big gray eyes were lifted to Marian's brown ones.

She laughed a clear, chuckling little laugh that seemed to fairly bubble up from her slender white throat.

"Do you think I would fill the bill? I would like to for $12 a week."

"You?" gasped Burnside, his glance traveling from her neat boots to her trim tailored hat.

"Why, yes. When I came in here I never thought of such a thing, though I have been wanting a position of some sort. I believe I would know whether a woman had a just complaint or was trying to cheat the firm, and I have always been complimented on my tact. I know I have patience, because I have been—companion to an invalid for several years. If you would consider the proposition I can furnish references."

"I don't give a fig for references. You're engaged. Can you begin Monday? I'll put that girl back where she belongs—in the mail order department."

And that was how Marian Macrea walked out of the Barnes Bros.' store with a job in her pocket and an odd little smile playing around her lips.

Three months passed. Burnside was no longer worried about the conduct of the complaint department. In fact, he argued that the reason he dropped in to talk complaints over with its presiding head was merely as a relief after other worries. It was a pleasure to see a department run so smoothly. And all over the big store the same atmosphere was beginning to assert itself. There were weekly talks to the women clerks, at which reports from floorwalkers and complaining customers were offered; little lectures on the smoothing out of tangles and the adjustment of differences were given. The sales girls took a new view of selling goods and handling customers, and none knew that these talks were all planned out in a charming little uptown apartment, where the superintendent and the head of the complaint department gravely discussed store problems while the invalid mother forgot her own pains in listening to the news interests of her daughter.

Then came the great day when James Barnes, Sr., returned from his trip around the world. Richard Burnside had no need to give account of his stewardship. Others had done so in letters that encircled the globe, and so one bright spring morning the head of the house sat in his superintendent's office saying the sort of things that warm an employee's heart when there came a tap at the door, and a girl with soft brown hair and eyes entered the office, her hands filled with report slips.

"Mr. Barnes, I want you to know Miss Macrea, the very capable [illegible]"

But Mr. Barnes quite forgot to be disconcerted by the girl's presence in his office, forgot to be startled by her use of his first name, forgot everything but the fact that he was looking for the first time into the eyes of the girl he loved, and that she was looking back at him with a look that told him that the love was returned.

"Marian, what in the world! If you wanted something to do why didn't you go in for settlement work?"

Richard Burnside felt the little office spinning around as Marian crossed the room and patted the apoplectic forehead soothingly with her slender white hand.

"Dear Uncle Jimmy, do not have a stroke. With the head of the firm globe trotting and everything mother and I had in the world in this store, I felt I had a right to come in here and see that our small investment was safe. You couldn't expect Jimmy or Howard to do it when one has a new motor and the other a new yacht."

Ten minutes later Marian laid her reports on Burnside's desk and turned to leave. He held the door open for her, and as she flung him a cheery smile she stopped suddenly. His face looked old. His eyes were heavy, as if they had watched something very lovely and dear pass out of his life. She paused irresolutely and glanced over her shoulder. Mr. Barnes, Sr., was just passing through the opposite doorway into the mail order department.

"You will be up tonight, as usual? I want to talk over the question of a new rest room for the girls."

Richard Burnside's face went a shade paler, and he spoke in a voice he had never used to her before.

"Certainly, if you wish it."

"Of course I wish it." She tried to speak gayly, but her voice trembled. "Don't you understand? I want everything to go on just as it has before. Oh, why do you make it so hard for me?" His face was still stern, but she persisted. "—I want you to tell me—what—what I would not let you say the other night—because now I know it was all for myself—don't you understand?"

She passed out like a flash and drew the door shut behind her. Richard Burnside leaned heavily against it, breathing hard, but the light of youth had come back to his eyes.

Pudgy's Bravery.

"Pudgy" is a Y. M. C. A. man, well known to many American soldiers in France. He recently spent a night in a front-line dugout. While he was there a deafening barrage raised around the dugout for a full half an hour.

Everyone wanted to know afterward how Pudgy liked it.

"I fear," he confessed, and the everlasting smile broadened as he spoke, "that I'm no braver now than before."

Ominous Quiet.

"How do you account for the fact that Crimson Gulch has become so peaceful?"

"It isn't peaceful," replied Broncho Bob. "It only seems so because the boys are saving their ammunition for the Boches instead of wasting it on one another."

HAD SEVERE COLD

AND TICKLING SENSATION IN THE THROAT.

This trouble is most distressing, and is caused from a cold that has settled in the throat.

How many people have lost a good night's sleep by that nasty, tickling, irritating sensation in the throat?

The dry, hard cough keeps you awake, and when you get up in the morning you feel as if you had had no rest at all.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which is composed of the most soothing and healing expectorant herbs and barks, combined with the lung healing virtues of the world-famous Norway pine tree, will give almost instant relief in all cases of this nature.

Mrs. G. C. Routley, Wright, Ont., writes: — "I take great pleasure in writing you of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

For several weeks I was troubled with a severe cold, and a tickling in the throat. I tried numerous remedies, but found no relief until I used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I had heard so much about, and on taking one bottle got instant relief. I highly recommend it to those who need a quick cure."

So great has been the success of "Dr. Wood's" in curing coughs, colds, bronchitis, etc., it is only natural that many imitations have been placed on the market. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Any Woman's Struggle For Good Health Quickly Rewarded

A SIMPLE HOME TREATMENT NOW ADVOCATED THAT GIVES FINE RESULTS.

When a woman's face grows haggard and pale, when she is tired all day and ready to cry when night comes, she ought to know something is wrong.

Putting off only makes matters worse. The best advice that we can give any sickly woman is to test out the following treatment.

At the close of every meal, with a sip or two of water, take two chocolate coated Ferrozone Tablets. This seems to be the best thing going for folks that are tired out, run down, and in need of strengthening, building up medicine.

Ferrozone's action aids the three principal functions of the body—digestion, assimilation, elimination.

By strengthening digestion it forms an abundance of rich, red blood—this gives strength, vim, stability.

Elimination is assured because Ferrozone quickens the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels—this guarantees the maintenace of vigorous health.

Ferrozone puts you on the right road—the one that leads to health.

Not a man, woman or child needing blood, vigor, endurance—not a person who is weak, nervous or sickly, not a person in ill-health who won't receive immediate help from Ferrozone.

As a tonic and restorative, as a health-bringer and a body-builder, Ferrozone is unrivalled. It cures because it feeds and nourishes, because it contains the elements that build up and strengthen. Try it yourself—sold everywhere in 50 cent boxes, six boxes for $2.50, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

COLD FROM ELECTRICITY.

New Thing Science May Have in Store For Us.

If we pass an electrical current through a metallic wire, the latter becomes heated. The thinner the wires and the larger the current, the greater the heat in the wire. All of our incandescent lamps work on this principle, as do our electric irons, toasters, water heaters, etc.

But few people know that electricity can and does produce cold directly merely by passing from one certain metal to another. Nor is it a recent discovery. The device termed "Peltier's Cross," after its French inventor, Peltier, was demonstrated in the middle of the last century. Briefly the apparatus consists of two bars of metal, one being antimony, the other bismuth. The two bars are soldered together at right angles, forming a cross. If we now pass a current through the cross by connecting the positive pole of a battery to the bismuth bar, and the negative pole to the antimony bar, the point of junction between the two metals becomes rapidly cooled. If we drill a shallow hole into the top bar and fill it with water, it soon turns into ice, proving the experiment.

This phenomenon is, of course, well known to the electrical man, but the very surprising fact is that it has never been turned into practical use during all these years. Of course, it goes without saying that the original Peltier's Cross is not an efficient expedient in time as well as money to freeze ice cream this way.

But the principle is certainly there, and it is pretty well understood by the scientist; all it needs is improvement. And right here lies a wonderful gold mine for the man who turns out a commercial electrical apparatus to produce cold commercially. Think of all the iceless refrigerators, iceless ice chests, iceless ice cream freezers and what not, for which we are eagerly waiting. Where is the benefactor who will lift the great American curse—ice water? Ice water is responsible for more ruined stomachs, and for more dyspepsia than all the other causes combined. Water cheaply cooled to near the freezing point is what we need, so our doctors tell us. When will we see the first direct electrically cooled carafe, with its wire covered network, and a plug connecting it with the chandelier above the dining table?

And where is the still greater benefactor who will increase our working capacity 100 per cent. when the thermometer stands over 90 degrees? During torpid spells, even in moderately hot weather, the entire world slows down. You simply can't work your best during the dog days, even if you happen to sit in a bathtub full of cold water, as I am doing just now, trying to write this editorial! (The heat, by the way, furnished the idea for it.)

From late spring to early winter, millions of radiators stand idle all over the world. Why have we not sufficient intelligence to turn these perfectly good heating plants into cooling plants? The system is in the house and waiting, but we are too stupid to circulate freezing water through it, and thus reduce the room temperature to 70 degrees or less. A visitor from Mars would laugh his head off while walking into our offices where the already hot air is made still hotter by fans—which do not cool, by the way, but increase the temperature. (Put your hand on a running fan—if it is not too hot—and you will know why fans do not cool a room.) Our visitor could not possibly understand why our radiators were hot instead of cold.

Cost of Infectious Diseases.

Scarlet fever, measles and diphtheria cost the people of Chicago $7,562,442 during the course of the year. This huge bill represents so much paid out as the price of carelessness and indifference, for much if not all of this disease might have been prevented by precautions, moralizes the Journal of the American Medical Association urging the dollars and cents value of disease prevention.

Famous Soldier Poet of Italy.

Gabriele d'Annunzio, Italy's famous poet, whose flying feats are the admiration of his countrymen, has not the slightest fear of death, and he has a presentiment that he will die in action. To a friend who interviewed him he remarked: "My worldly life is ended. What can I do after the war? I shall write no more. Every time I go on an expedition I hope it will be my last. That is the reason for my fearlessness. The best end I wish for is to die for my country."

Improved Fuel for Airplanes.

That the Germans are using a new and improved fuel for airplane engines was the statement of Leon Cammen before the Aeronautical society. To gasoline is added one per cent of toluol and one and one-half per cent of alcohol. The mixture gives a sharper ignition than simple gasoline, and while it exerts some deteriorating effect upon the metal, the short life of the airplane motor at the war front means that the motor is discarded before the deterioration becomes serious.

Toluol is a coal tar product and is the base of that powerful explosive, trinitrotoluol.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigour and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and sold by McDermid & Jury in Peterboro and most druggists under a guarantee of entire satisfaction or your money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION— Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is Cause of Indigestion.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we belch sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash, or nausea.

All we need do is lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy a few ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

BOARD OF WORKS COMMITTEE DECLINE TO PAY FOR COST OF REMOVING OBSTRUCTION

Mr. John Davey Alleges Unfair Treatment for Stranger—Mayor Duncan Quotes Scripture.

GENERAL BUSINESS

The usual calm and placid atmosphere of the Board of Works was dispelled for a time last night, when Mr. John Davey, 573 Division street, appeared before that body and asked that a bill of $17 which was charged him by the city for the repairing of his sewer be cancelled. Mr. Davey said that he considered the claim unjust.

The facts are that Mr. Davey's sewer line was plugged by the roots of a tree, which it is said, stood on Mr. Davey's property. This state of affairs had existed before Mr. Davey (a newcomer to the town) had moved into the house. He dug the sewer out by the street line himself, and found that everything was in good condition, and he then asked the engineer to find out what was wrong. He did this "more to accommodate him than anything else," said City Engineer Parsons, because the property owner owns all sewer connections out to the main and pays for them in his taxes." He found that the sewer was blocked by the roots of a tree standing on Mr. Davey's property. The line was fixed and a bill for $17 sent to Mr. Davey. He went to the City Solicitor who told him that he thought the charge was unjust. Mr. Davey charged the city men with lagging on the job, and said that they could have done the work in much less time.

"I move into the city, and this is the way you treat me," said Mr. Davey.

"The Scriptures say 'I was a stranger and you took me in,'" said His Worship.

Wanted Bill Reduced.

Ald. Turner moved, supported by Ald. Gainey, that half of the cost of fixing the sewer be paid by Mr. Davey, thus reducing the bill by $8.50.

Ald. Edgar objected and moved an amendment that no action be taken. He saw trouble looming up in the future if such a precedent were established.

"This finishes me with trying to accommodate anybody after this!" commented the City Engineer.

Mr. Davey said he wanted justice, and only justice, and said that he was going to use his power to the very limit. It was an insult. He was willing to do what was honest—but this was an insult.

Ald. Turner tried again to get a motion passed that Mr. Davey be assessed only $8.50, but Ald. Edgar again objected and made the same amendment again that no action be taken.

Then followed the opinions of each of the members of the board:

Ald. Garside—"We should only charge him half. He has just moved into the city, and was not responsible for the state of affairs at the house."

Ald. Edgar—"Why should the citizens pay for this affair. We are not responsible. If you grant this and in the future my sewer is blocked I'll hold you responsible for half of the cost."

Ald. A. A. McIntyre—"The city men took too long on the job and on these grounds I will support Ald. Turner's motion that Mr. Davey be charged only half of the cost of fixing the sewer."

The Mayor—"The Utilities Commission make the citizens pay if the mains are frozen in the winter time."

Ald. Taylor—"It is none of our affair. The line belongs to him."

The motion and the amendment were then put to a vote with the following result:

For the motion—Ald. Gainey, Garside, McIntyre and Turner.

For the amendment—Ald. Edgar, Taylor and the Mayor.

The chairman had just declared that the motion was carried when the Mayor asked Ald. Phelan to vote on the affair, and Mr. Phelan had expressed his intention of standing by the Engineer's department, and voting for the amendment, which would have resulted in no action being taken, when Ald. Morrison sauntered in, and after having the case explained to him, voted for the amendment, and the case stood with no action taken, with the result that the bill of $17 still stands against Mr. Davey.

Ald. Turner—"I will bring it up in the council."

The question of the McDonnel St. sewer to connect Mount St. Joseph with the city sewage system was heard again and a letter was read from Mr. R. R. Hall, Solicitor for Crown Attorney Hatton, stating that he is instructed by his client to take action against the city to quash the bylaw relating to the McDonnel St. sewer.

Promptly Ald. Turner moved that the City Solicitor be instructed to defend the bylaw and take all steps necessary to do so.

The motion was seconded by Ald. McIntyre and passed with no dissenting voices.

LETTER CARRIERS TO STRIKE IN APRIL

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, March 6.—Strike of postal employees on or about April 1 appears inevitable at the present time. Increased pay, promised but not granted, is the chief cause of the trouble. Local postal workers say: Last July when men returned to work on certain promises made by government officials they failed to get these agreements in writing, and they claim that they are no better off to-day than when they went on strike.

Coal Dealers Are Penalized

Made to Reduce Price of Coal and Return Some of the Money

(Special to The Examiner.

TORONTO, March 6.—Ontario people who paid too much for their coal are to get a refund—if the precedent established in the village of Winchester, county of Dundas, is to be followed in other parts of the province.

From Winchester comes the news that people there who paid $13.50 and $14 a ton for their anthracite are to be given a rebate, the excess charged them being on the average about $1.50 a ton. A total of $1,800 is to be handed back in this way. The Ontario Fuel Administration took up the matter, sent an official to investigate the complaints made by Mr. Irwin Hilliard, M.P.P. for Dundas, and secured from the coal jobbers who made the sale to the Winchester dealer, a check to cover the amount of all the rebates.

This is the first case of the kind in Ontario. In other places, such as Kitchener, Niagara Falls, Trenton, Clinton and Millbrook, prices of coal have been reduced by order of the Fuel Administration.

Cannot Obtain Full Indemnity from Germany

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, March 6.—Replying to a debate in the House of Commons on foreign affairs, Bonar Law, the Government leader, said that few people now had any illusions with regard to Bolshevism. The Allies agreed that something must be done for Russia, but none would recommend despatching necessary forces to quell the anarchy there. The Government realised that the country expected to get the best possible indemnities from Germany. He emphasized the point that it was Great Britain's business to get every point it could, but it was useless holding out the hope that the indemnities would wipe out the country's immense war debt. He agreed that it was urgent to get peace quickly because there was a real danger of Germany sinking into Bolshevism. Moreover there was the greatest necessity to get their own trade and industry restarted. Therefore, the sooner the blockade was ended, with the knowledge that they could depend upon another weapon, the better it would be for Britain and the world.

The War Tax Will Remain

Tom McGary Calls It An Amusement Tax

(Special to The Examiner.

PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS, Toronto, March 6.—Whether is a war tax not a war tax That's easy, when it is an amusement tax, or in words to that effect, said Hon. T. W. McGary this morning.

The Provincial Treasurer was asked whether the war tax on theatre tickets was to remain during 1919.

"Of course it is, and it may remain forever," replied Mr. McGarry. "Too many people think that it is a war tax. It is nothing of the kind; it is an amusement tax."

And so theatre-goers must continue to dig down into their wallets and produce an additional two, five, or ten cents with every ticket purchased during the year of grace 1919 and perhaps for many future years.

WANT THE STREET RAILWAY EXTENDED

Will Arrange An Appointment With Sir Adam Beck—Railway to the Lakes.

CARE OF PARKS

The Railway committee of the City Council at last night's meeting were determined that the Street Railway extension in the south end to the De Laval should be started as soon as possible. On motion of Ald. Turner and seconded by Ald. Turner, Chairman Ald. Edgar and Mayor Duncan were authorized to arrange an appointment with Sir Adam Beck and see if he could receive a deputation from the City Council to look into the extensions of the Street Railway which the city have petitioned the Hydro Commissioners for months past to do as soon as possible. The question of extending the Toronto Eastern Railway from Whitby to Cobourg, thence to the Kawartha Lakes will be mooted.

Care of Parks.

Specifications for the care of Victoria and Central Parks were considered and on motion of Ald. McIntyre and seconded by Ald. Taylor, were adopted.

At a meeting of the Special Bridge committee, held yesterday afternoon a bill from Mr. Frank Barber for $4,000 was received and on motion of Ald. Turner and seconded by Ald. Gainey a sum of $1,000 on account was ordered to be paid. The members of the committee were a little apprehensive lest Mr. Barber, if paid the $4,000 now, might ask the city for an extra amount if he were called into consultation again before the contract was let.

WILL BE ADVISED POSITIONS AVAILABLE

Soldiers' Aid Commission in Touch With Employment Situation.

The Soldiers' Aid Commission is giving increased attention with the object of assisting in relieving the state of unemployment in this province, especially.

The Commission advises that they have inaugurated a system, which is now in operation, whereby the several branches in each locality will be notified each week of positions available for returned men throughout the province, and the Commission asks for earnest co-operation.

A complete list of employment opportunities will be mailed to the Peterborough branch every Tuesday morning, that the branch may be in touch with the employment situation in so far as returned soldiers are concerned throughout the Province. It is hoped that by concerted effort and diligence that all returned men in this locality, and out of work, may be absorbed, providing of course, that they are willing to leave their home town or city.

Returned men are asked to communicate at once with the local secretary of the Soldiers' Aid Commission, Mr. F. H. Dobbs, at the city building, when a record will be made and so soon as the list is received of places available, will be placed at the disposal of men who are applying.

Shooting Match On Toronto Streets

Alleged Bootlegger Had Liquor Hid in Life Preserver Arrangement

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, March 6.—Police Constable Holmes has a badly battered face, William Meade, a street cleaner, is in the hospital with a bullet wound in his arm, and Basil Belinski, a Russian, an alleged "boot legger" from Montreal, is under arrest on three charges, following an hour or so of wild west excitement on the downtown Toronto streets this morning. The policeman suspected Belinski when he got off the train at the Union station, and was escorting him to the police station when the prisoner smashed him in the face and made a break for liberty. Meade, who was working on the roadway, tried to trip Belinski with his shovel and the fugitive shot him through the arm. Holmes finally captured and handcuffed Belinski, who was found to have several gallons of liquor on him in a life preserver shaped arrangement around his chest.

Late Mr. J. C. Shook

MR. J. C. SHOOK DIED THIS MORNING AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Was Prominently Identified With St. Paul's Church—The Funeral

James C. Shook, manager of the Dickson Company, died this morning at 5 o'clock at his residence, 176 McDonnel street, after an illness of about five months, aged 66 years.

Born in Toronto township in 1853, he entered the lumbering business in that district when a young man, and soon made a Dominion-wide name for himself in his chosen work. He moved to the west from Toronto and carried on his business in the Kootenay district until coming to Peterborough to accept his position with the Dickson Lumber Company in 1905.

Since coming to the city, Mr. Shook's influence for the good of the city has been felt in many different ways. He took a keen interest in any measure which tended towards the improvement of the town and always made a ready response to any call for assistance either in advice or financial which was made to him by any deserving movement.

In St. Paul's church he was prominently identified with every branch of church work. Shortly after coming to the city he was made an elder, and held the office until his death.

The Survivors.

He leaves of the immediate family his wife and three sons, Driver S. Archie, at present with the 18th Battery in France, for whom every effort to bring him home in time to see his father before he died, proved futile, Kenneth H. of Vancouver, B.C., and Donald of Toronto. Four sisters, Mrs. Snider, (Mrs.) Pollard, Miss D. Shook and Mrs. W. S. Hendry, reside in Toronto, and one brother, David, resides in Tioga.

Mr. Shook's death marks the third bereavement in the family inside of a month. His brother, Henry, died in Clarkson recently, and Mrs. Shook's mother, Mrs. Fagerman, passed away in Toronto a week ago Sunday.

The funeral will take place Saturday afternoon from the family residence to St. Paul's church, thence to Little Lake cemetery. Rev. R. Pogue will officiate.

THE WEATHER

The temperature was down to 1 degree below zero this morning. This is the first occasion since Jan. 12—nearly seven weeks ago—a truly remarkable record for the middle of winter. To-day Dan Whetung, of Chemong, when asked to forecast the future, said that while he was not very positive he was inclined to think the spring would be late in opening and would be cool when it did arrive. He claimed that his forecast last fall for this winter had been fully borne out. The present cold dip would soon pass away and milder conditions would prevail to-morrow. —W. P.

MANY SOLDIERS WERE SACRIFICED

(Special to The Examiner.)

HALIFAX, March 6.— Pte. L. McIntyre, of Toronto, who returned yesterday on the Megantic with a few other Canadians who served three years' imprisonment in Germany up to the signing of the armistice, made the serious charge against his captors that many allied prisoners were sacrificed on the operating tables for the benefit of German medical students, who were not only allowed, but encouraged to perform serious operations on critically wounded men. He said that he himself had seen dozens of good men die where proper medical or surgical treatment would have easily saved their lives.

THE SITUATION HAS IMPROVED

Spartacans Have Failed in Their Attempts to Revive the Revolution —Government in Control.

FEW CASUALTIES

By Frank J. Taylor.
(United Press.)

BERLIN, March 6.— Despite spasmodic attempts of the Spartacans to revive their revolution, the government appeared to have the situation well in hand last night.

Sections of the city where the revolt centred have been isolated by barbed wire entanglements, erected under the direction of officials specially trained in this method of defence during war.

Government troops extended their control until the revolutionaries were forced to limit their activities to sniping.

Plundering Continues.

Another raid was organized against the Lichtenberg police headquarters, but was easily repulsed. Plundering continued in some parts of the city, however, the league against social democracy being robbed of several thousand dollars. Casualties have been extremely light, one report being that not more than a dozen persons had been killed.

Employees of many factories refused to join the general strike, which was to have been the signal for a nation-wide revolution. The telephone system was working as usual to-night and the railway service had not been seriously impaired. The bourgeoisie were threatening to start a counter strike in sympathy with the government. The general opinion seemed to be that radicals were over confident and that they "went off half cocked." Some of their leaders, including Hugo Haase, already were disclaiming connection with the strike.

Not Endangered.

The government so far had not been dangerously endangered. The Cabinet was planning to hurry socialization of certain industries — though it its programme was far short of that demanded by the radicals. All governmental work was to be directed from Weimar until order was completely restored in Berlin.

Commissioner Makes An Explanation

Lists of Soldiers Returning Home Reach the Examiner First

In response to requests to the Head Office of the Soldiers' Aid Commission that early notice should be sent to the several branches of the arrival of men at ports of disembarkation, the following may be of interest to those who are awaiting arrival of members of families from abroad. The information supplied indicates how the names and destination of each man is secured.

"Cards are distributed during the voyage on which men are supposed to tell their home addresses. Many of the men do not fill in these cards, or fill them in and lose them.

"On arrival of the boat at the dock these cards are collected, and the wire messages prepared. With so many as 1,500 men, as was the case of arrival of the "Aquitania" there is no time to check over the cards to find any missing, and if so inquire of the soldier. Again, many men give Toronto as their destination when as a matter of fact, their home are anywhere in Ontario. But they wish to go to Toronto, and to start for home from that city. Again, many men do not wish any one notified of their return."

"In a list of names submitted to the O. C. at Halifax Depot, for explanation, it was found that the circumstances are exactly as he had stated them."

This explanation, coming through the Soldiers' Aid Commission, will not occasion very much concern or interest since the Examiner, with the aid of an up-to-date press service, has devised a means of getting the names of Peterborough soldiers through as soon as they arrive.

Ministers Will Meet Together For Social Evening

The Ministerial Association each year hold one social evening when they invite their wives and a few friends to hear a speaker from some other city and to spend an hour in social intercourse. The Ministers' wives serve refreshments.

This year the gathering will be held on Monday, March 10th. It is the turn of the Presbyterian body to supply the essayist, and Rev. J. A. Mackenzie, the president of the Association, is introducing Rev. Dr. Dyde, the principal of Queen's College, Kingston, who will speak on "The Philosophy of Forgiveness as seen in Shakespeare's Plays."

The ministers are to be congratulated on securing so able an exponent of the subject and also upon the timely topic which is to be discussed.

VON HINDENBURG SEES LITTLE HOPE IN MILITARY SITUATION ON THE EASTERN FRONT

Urges Population to Rally to the Defence of Their Homes—The Strike Situation.

THE RESPONSIBILITY

(Canadian Press.)

BERLIN, March 6.— The military situation on the eastern front is painted in the blackest colours by Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, in an interview printed here. The Field Marshal declares that unless the population generally rallies to the defence of their homes and families it will be impossible to ward off attacks by Bolshevik forces. The expectations of the Poles and Entente that the Poles will succeed to German inheritance in the east will be blasted. He says: "I know the Poles, and the country in the east will belong either to us or to the Bolshevikiki."

Strike Improvement.

Newspapers here appear to be of the opinion that the strike movement has reached a climax and that there are indications that the political issues involved will find early adjustment through negotiations going on at Weimar.

The Independent Socialists seem to be backing away from the movement now and to be endeavouring to unload the responsibility for the outbreak on to the Spartacans, who are accused of having precipitated the strike before organization plans had been perfectly perfected. The slogan, "Down with Scheidemann and Ebert" is no longer given prominence. At the preliminary session Greater Berlin Soviets have rejected a Spartacus resolution aimed at the Majority Socialists and the Government, and declared instead that the strike had been aimed at the Government only, because demands made by workingmen have not been met satisfactorily. The "Vorwaerts," a Socialist organ, states that it believes an understanding will be reached in the course of the day.

(Canadian Press.)

BERNE, March 6.— A German newspaper received here contains a semi-official communication concerning negotiations between Dr. Otto Bauer, Foreign Minister of German Austria and the German Government for the Union between German Austria and Germany. The Union, says the communicant, will be promulgated as soon as the questions of detail now being discussed by various commissions set up for that purpose, are settled. After ratification by the Assembly, Imperial laws will be arranged for the Union of Austria to the Empire. In the preparation of these, Austrian representatives will be asked to collaborate.

Forlorn Hope.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, March 6. —The Spartacans, when a general strike in Berlin was to be the start of a nation-wide revolution, apparently have been reduced to the extremity of a few forlorn stands in isolated sections of the city.

Government Sanction.

(Special to The Examiner.)

COPENHAGEN, March 6.—A Majority Socialist delegation has returned from Weimar with the consent of the German government that Workmen's and Soliders' Councils shall form an organic part of the constitution, it was reported in despatches received from Berlin to-day.

Situation Serious.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, March 6.—The situation in Germany is much more serious than German despatches indicate, according to information received from neutral sources to-day. Chancellor Scheidemann's forces are said to be limited to the 26,000 troops directly under War Minister Noske. Munich is said to be controlled by a few Russian Bolsheviki, who fanatically do not care what becomes of Germany. They are supported by mobs of demobilised soldiers.

The Casualties.

(Canadian Press.)

COPENHAGEN, March 6. — Both Spartacans and Government forces lost a large number of killed in the fighting on Wednesday before police headquarters in Alexander Platz, according to a Berlin despatch. The fighting finally ended by negotiating.

HEAVY LOSSES IN BOGUS RACES

(Special to The Examiner.)

MONTREAL, March 6. — The huge losses incurred by Montrealers in bogus races in Albany, Troy and Buffalo for some years past, are commented on by "La Presse," which says it is informed by a financier of high standing that over twenty citizens of Montreal alone have been victimized, and that their total losses are over $2,000,000.

Labour Asks For Bread Enquiry

Requests City Council to Appoint Fair Price Board to Investigate Prices

A delegate at the Trades and Labour Council meeting last night stated that, according to information he had received, bread which was made and sold in Peterboro for 22 cents a loaf was retailed at only 18 cents in Campbellford and some other nearby towns. Following a discussion on this and other phases of food prices a resolution was passed requesting the City Council to take advantage of the order in Council which empowers the Mayor to hold Fair Price enquiry. Some time ago the Council on its own initiative considered the advisability of appointing a Fair Price Board, but after some investigations it was concluded that this step was unnecessary.

Trade War There

Mr. Harry Stock told the Examiner to-day that bread manufactured by local bakers was selling in Campbellford for 22 cents, as compared with 22 cents in this city. He explained that the retailers of bread in Campbellford were actually selling it without a profit because of the competition of Belleville bakers who were also selling in Campbellford.

Mr. Stock estimated that the whole sale price of bread to outside towns is more favorable to this company than the local retail price, due to the difference in the cost of delivery. It was simply a matter of expressing the bread from the local stations in the one case, and the house to house delivery to local customers represented a very appreciable percentage of the cost of operating. If instead of the trade war the Campbellford grocers obtained the profit to which they were entitled and which was necessary for the success of their business there would not be the difference in price that now obtains.

LABOUR'S CHARTER.

...ours will not have been fought ... if the International Charter ... as adopted by the Inter... Legislative Commission" at ... into effect as a result ... Peace Conference. The re... that are incorporated in the ...greement are: fair-reaching in ... in some countries, in... where the status of labor is not ...advanced a stage as in Canada, ...ions will be about revolu... They include a provision ... hours of work shall not ex... forty-eight, and forty-four ... and even shorter hours are provided in dangerous occupations. Every county shall have a Saturday half holiday, and at least thirty-six hours of continuous weekly rest, shall be allowed. The clause against the employment of minors in factories is even more rigid than in Canada for the minimum age is fixed at 15 years and children between that age of eighteen must not be allowed to work for more than six hours daily and two hours each day must be devoted to technical and regular educational classes. They must not work at night and women will also not be permitted to work at night in factories nor at all in especially dangerous trades.

The agreement provides advanced legislation in the form of a system of maternity insurance which shall at least be equal to the sickness insurance benefit payable in the county concerned. A system of unemployment insurance and insurance against accidents are also included and workers shall have the right to organise in all countries.

TERRIBLE CHARGES

Sir Sam Hughes' sensational indictment of the Overseas Command of the Canadian forces is too serious and staggering to go uninvestigated. The charge that Canadian soldiers were slaughtered by the hundreds in useless attacks at Lens, Passchendaele and Cambrai, as made by the former Minister of Militia, will shake Canada from one end to the other. The only apparent object was to glorify the general in command," declares Sir Sam, who characterized the tactics used at Cambrai as "a case of bull-head strategy." He claims that the Canadian infantry was sent in to attack strong positions, bustling with machine guns and that the attacks were not supported by tanks or guns. Further the ex-minister declared that as a result of the "needless slaughter," Canada was prevented from putting a fifth and sixth division in the field. These are ghastly charges and although the people of Canada are accustomed to hear exaggerated statements from the lips of Sir Sam Hughes, and realize that the member for Victoria and Haliburton always had the ambition to himself lead the Canadian forces at the front, the allegations that he has made before the House of Commons are so serious that they cannot be allowed to pass unnoticed. The investigation into the indictment registered against General Currie should be immediate and searching. General Hughes' attack goes further than the Canadian command, of course, for the charge that Canadians were needlessly slaughtered because they were under the command of an incompetent corps leader reflects upon General Horne, officer commanding the 1st British Army and indirectly upon Field Marshal Haig. The Canadian Corps was only a section of one of the British armies and if General Currie's handling of the troops was such as described by Sir Sam Hughes then his removal from the command should long since have been affected by the Imperial Command.

For the honor of Canada and of General Sir Arthur Currie, there should be no delay in answering the allegations of the ex-Minister of Militia, so Canadians will want to believe that Sir Sam is correct in his charges but his sensational address of Tuesday must not go unchallenged—Canada is awaiting the reply.

THE INCOME TAX

Canada has an enormous war debt, and no definite plan for the payment of it other than direct taxation, which will assess the income of the individual.

Hon. Frank Carvell some days ago announced that the country will need during the coming year $100,000,000 more than the estimate revenue of $195,000,000 and he hints that the income tax will be extended to take in the smaller fellows. At the present time incomes of single men above $1,000 are taxable and of married men above $2,000. The small fellow below $1,000 is likely to have to deliver his share down to $700 if single and down to $1,380 in the case of a married man.

This seems to be about the only fiscal forecast made in anticipation of the budget speech. The tariff is to be let alone, apparently, and even such a supposed free-trader as Hon. Mr. Calder has experienced a change of heart. Certainly the lobby of the manufacturers is active and their propaganda has been carried on with telling effect. They have been using the spectre of national disaster upon the House of Commons, just as the old flag was used in many instances during the last four years to silence criticism as to swollen profits, etc.

The excess profit tax is likely to be done away with. The Government instead of insisting that big business continue to carry an additional share of the burden, will look more to the employees of big business. The burden of the war must be carried for many years, but in the meantime, because there are fears and threats expressed by big business, the farmers are told that they may expect nothing in the way of tariff concessions.

The country never required such economic leadership as at the present time, but as in the case of recruiting, and in the general conduct of war affairs, Canada appears to falter in dealing with any radical policy save one which reaches into the pockets of the people. How much can be raised by lowering the income assessment and including the small incomes is doubtful, but it is not thinkable that the Government expects to make up its $100,000,000 from this source.

Victory Bond purchases will protect many large incomes from taxation. At the present times there is a large traffic in Victory Bonds, and one may venture the opinion that most of the bonds sold are finding their way to the hands of the men with large incomes. Because these bonds are given tax exemption, and because in some instances the possession of them represents an investment returning as high as thirty per cent. in view of the fact that the income tax would take as much as 25 per cent. from some incomes, it is not difficult to understand why the demand is so brisk for these non-taxable securities. Many of the big incomes of the country may escape taxation altogether, for many years to come by gobbling up all the bonds offered, even at a good premium. It is more than possible that the great bulk of Victory Loan holdings will leave the hands of the small investor in the next few years.

Fiscal leadership is lacking in this country. Hon. Mr. White may be able to devise plenty of methods for the raising of money. We took our Victory Loan methods from the United States. The various federal taxes have to be met in some manner. The tariff issue is a ticklish one. Uncle Sam is a powerful trade rival. But this country has abundant natural resources, which may be taxed and made to yield far more revenue than at the present time the country carries a heavy mortgage, yet we have a large equity that is worth trading upon.

It is a curious commentary on our statesmanship that one of the two extremes of tariff and free trade, there is nothing brought forward to meet our financial difficulties excepting increased income taxes with the chances all in favor of the big fortune escaping while the small income is certain to be marked for further inroads.—London Advertiser.

BATHING PLACES

The Playground Association requests to the city council that the city should establish and maintain two new bathing places this year, one in the Southern part of Peterboro and one in East City, as along the lines that the Examiner has been advocating. The matter has been referred to the Property Committee and it is hoped that that Committee will lose no time in dealing with the request and taking action in this question which is important to very many citizens of Peterboro. The council may not be prepared to fully carry out the request of the Association this year, but at least one new bathing place could be provided for the coming summer, with the understanding that if the venture proves successful and there does not seem a doubt of that as other beaches could be arranged. At the same time an appropriation should be made providing for the improving of the conditions at Interlea Park. The Nicholls Park Board has made a splendid start there and it is the least the city can do to assist in the project by a grant. The Park was a source of enjoyment last summer and a great improvement could be made there by the expenditure of a few hundred dollars.

Two Presentations In Downeyville

Downeyville, March 5.—The presentation of a handsome china cabinet to Mr. and Mrs. Robert White took place on Thursday night last. A very large crowd attended. Mr. and Mrs. White thanked the people very much for their generosity. After that supper was served and those present turned to dancing and other amusements.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alger held a dance at their home on Friday night last. A large crowd attended.

A PRESENTATION

A large crowd gathered at the home of Mr. William O'Brien on Tuesday last and presented him and Mr. John Smith with beautiful gold watches, Mr. Thomas Lucas made the presentation, expressing in well-chosen words the regret felt by all at Mr. O'Brien's departure and asking that the gift be accepted as evidence of their friendship and good will that had always existed between them. Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Smith, although taken unawares, thanked the people in an appropriate manner. Among those present were Rev. P. J. McGuire and Rev. J. Carey of Peterboro, and Father Galvin of Downeyville, all of whom made suitable remarks. Lunch was served and the evening spent in music and dancing. Mr. O'Brien leaves shortly for Vancouver, B.C., to visit his son, Rev. Fergus O'Brien. Mr. John Smith, who lives with Mr. O'Brien is staying at the home of Mr. O'Brien's daughter, Mrs. Garvey of Ennismore. Mr. O'Brien has rented his farm to Mr. Neil Brown of Coboconk.

The death of William Shire, which took place in Lindsay was a sudden surprise to everyone. He was a well-known resident of this community and well liked by all who knew him. The funeral took place here on Tuesday to St. Luke's Church for Funeral Mass and then to St. Luke's Cemetery.

Birth.—On Feb. 3rd, to Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Fitzpatrick, a son.

TELEPHONE SYSTEM

The County Municipal Telephone System have got a lot of new subscribers to their phone service, which was just completed in December. Two phones have been put in by their troubleman. The new subscribers are Messrs. John Fox and Robt. Weim.

Miss Alice Gosselin is visiting her mother and other relatives at Victoria Road during the past week.

Mr. Alfred Denan is getting along rapidly at sawing wood. He will be sawing at Downeyville in a few days.

Hastings News Of Interest

Choir of Methodist Church Was Entertained

HASTINGS, March 5th. — Miss Ruth Greenley, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Greenley, late of Hastings, passed away in Toronto. The body was brought to town for interment in the Trent Valley cemetery.

Choir Entertained.

The choir of the Methodist church was entertained at the home of Mr. Albert Brooks on Friday evening. Those who were present report a very enjoyable evening.

Returned Soldiers.

A rousing reception service was held in the town hall on Thursday evening in honour of some of the returned heroes. The names of five were mentioned: Hunt, McQuade, Kerr, Parker and Gould.

The chair was filled by Reeve Hess, who called upon several speakers to address the gathering. Some vocal and instrumental selections were rendered and some patriotic songs given after which an address was read and each presented with an engraved locket on behalf of citizens of Hastings. The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the National anthem.

Pte. G. V. Herrington has returned from a three and a half years of service overseas and has been the guest of his mother, Mrs. Geo. Lynch, for the week-end.

Mr. C. German of Deseronto, is spending a holiday with friends in town.

The young people of the town gave an at home in the town hall on Friday evening, which was well attended.

Mrs. Wm. Baker has been visiting with friends in Toronto.

Mr. Whitting of Toronto, was in town during the week.

Miss Helen Chapman of Peterboro, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Chapman.

Mrs. W. Greenley and Mrs. C. Plant, spent the week end with friends in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Runnels of Peterbogo, spent a few days with Mr. Runnels' parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Runnels.

Mrs. Prentice of Foxboro, has been the guest of her son, Mr. Earl Prentice.

Mr. White of Peterboro, has been engaged by D. Hess to assist in the garage.

The following officers were elected at the monthly meeting of the I.O. D.E., on Monday night:

Regent, Mrs. J. Howard.
1st Vice., Mrs. W. Hill.

New Spring Millinery
Shows Distinct Individualiy

The leading manufacturers of New York, Chicago and our own city of Toronto are contributing to our assemblage of New Hats which show many delightfully new and refreshing touches. Bright new shades are what the fashion lovers are calling for. This new season of victory seems to have created an atmosphere of enthusiasm—never have the Hats been so bewitching, unusual in design and color, and bewildering in variety.

A great deal of attention is given to colour, the prodominating shades being Henna, in the deep browned tone, Rust, Jay Blue, Victory Red, Navy and Brown, Dust and Sand continue important.

The season brings an unlimited range of straws—most important of which are the glossy coarse straws which are here in tremendous variety. They are attractive and suitable for early wear and are wonderfully pretty with satin and georgette in contrasting colours. Pineapple straw seems to hold the highest seat of honor.

When you visit the showroom To-Morrow notice the little Pineapple model with the Glycerine Ostrich ount. It seems to have an originality all its own Every day adds a number of different and entirely new little Hats. Come in and try them on. Our Millinery Department will be very pleased to show all the very newest ideas and we are quite sure you will be delighted with them.

Music & Drama

THE PIERROT PLAYERS

Over in England as many of our citizens who are proud to claim the Motherland as their birth place know troupes of Pierrots, clever entertainers, who gain their name from the costumes they wear, are to be found along the beaches of the favourite seaside resorts delighting the summer visitors with their programmes of songs and sketches. This form of entertainment has been practically unknown to Canadian audiences so that the visit of Eugene Lockhart and his Pierrot Players to the Grand yesterday provided a novel surprise for Peterboro theatre-goers and while the programme may not have pleased those who find enjoyment in the jazz music and slap-stick methods of the average American musical comedy, the freshness and dainty charm of the performance delighted the greater part of the audience.

Mr. Lockhart, who is known in sporting circles because of his prowness as a member of the Argonaut rugby team a few seasons ago, is a Toronto boy, who has made a success in the musical comedy field, playing important parts in a number of well-known hits including "The Riviera Girl". He is a comedian of the Clifton Crawford type, relying upon the manner in which he says his lines and his facial expressions rather than on the old-time rough and ready methods to get a laugh. He was responsible for the greater part of the comedy end of the programme last night and scored heavily in his different numbers. In the old favourite "The Galloping Major" he was decidedly funny and his dumb show political speech was a master-piece. The sermonette "Little Bo Peep" was another gem while his impersonation of a bashful bride groom convulsed the audience. Mr. Lockhart proved a capital fun-maker and will always be a welcome visitor at the Grand.

He was surrounded by a very talented company of entertainers. Mr. Christopher Hives, the possessor of a rich tenor voice admirably controlled, contributed several songs, that were most pleasing. He especially shone in the number "In Your Wedding Gown" in which the entire company assisted successfully. Mr. Forrest, a baritone singer whose voice possessed resonnance as well as volume and who knew how to use it as well, was heard to advantage in several numbers including "Roses of Picardy" which was enthusiastically received. Miss Grace Lang, a lyric soprano whose voice even in the higher registers was sweet and true sang delightfully especially the favourite waltz song "Will You Remember?" from "May-Time". Mr. Sam Sullivan, a jolly little comedian added to the comedy end of the programme by his original methods and his song "Let me Sing" was cleverly executed. Miss Frizzell contributed two enjoyable recitations and Miss Helen Castleton sang "A Modest Little Thing" in the demure yet roguish style that the lyric called for. It is possible to mention all the good things on the programme but a report would not be complete that did not include a reference to the chorus work of the company. The harmony of the ensemble numbers was delightful after the noisy and blatant singing of some of the musical comedy choruses that local audiences have listened to recently. In the chorus of "Roses of Picardy," "A Summertime Moon" and in the operatic finale the voices blended in a most pleasing fashion. An orchestra of three ladies assisted greatly in the programme.

Mr. Lockhart and his Pierrot Players deserve thanks for presenting a performance that was novel, charming and refined.

PILES ENTIRELY CURED.

Mr. Wm. Woodell, 107 St. John St., Carleton, St. John, N.B., writes:—"I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for itching, bleeding piles, and as a result have been entirely cured. For years I was a great sufferer from this distressing ailment and can say that three boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me. You may use this letter for the benefit of others.

Plane Crossed The Boundary

Customs Officials Were Puzzled to Know What to Do Under Circumstances

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Customs authorities have encountered the first case of an airplane imported into the United States under its own motive power. An American bought the Canadian plane and it was flown across the border near Detroit. The question then arose as to whether it was dutiable, particularly since airplanes are not mentioned in Tariff Acts; Customs officials finally decided that if it remains permanently in the United States it should be taxed as a manufactured article at the rate of twenty per cent. And after it flies out of the country again within six months it will be regarded as on tour and will not be taxed. In view of the prospects that international air touring may soon be common, a ruling was regarded as important.

Peterboro' Man Heard From

Weather Has Been Very Mild in Nebraska.

In a letter received from Mr. John Kingsley to the Examiner to-day from Stanton, Nebraska, he states that the weather in his locality has been very mild all Winter, with the exception of the past week which has been cold and stormy, the temperature running about 15 below zero. Up to the past week the people were very much alarmed about a supply of ice for the Summer but the cold spell has made it possible to put in a supply. About the middle of February a blizzard raged over the vicinity, but the weather was not cold. Mr. Kingsley is a subscriber of the Examiner and likes to keep in touch with his old home.

Labour Unions Retain Equal Representation In Their Council

Contentious Question Was Settled Last Night—Annual Tax Increased Two Dollars—Labour Men Protest Against Increased Allowance for Members of Parliament

AUDITORS ARE THANKED

The Trades and Labour Council last night increased from six to eight dollars the annual tax levied upon each Union in its membership, and decided not to change the present representation of five delegates from each local. This action disposed of an agitation begun more than a year ago to establish the Council upon a proportional system of representation and taxation. The advocates of this plan argued that a Union of two or three hundred members should be allotted more delegates and should pay a higher tax than the small Union of fifty members or less. They contended that the old method had become obsolete, that the Council was not receiving the revenue and personal strength which, they were confident, would be gained by the proportional plan.

Their opponents, the delegates from some of the smaller Unions, condemned and combatted the proposal every time it was mentioned, arguing that the control of the Council would pass into the hands of the larger Unions as a result of the increased representation they would receive. And they contended that small Unions had borne the heat and burden of the day when organised Labour in Peterborough was struggling against conditions and obstacles that only a world war could shake up and open the way for removal. Hence they maintained that their rights should continue to be safeguarded in the constitution, and not by the assurance of those Unions which would derive a new power in the Council from the proposed amendment.

This subject was worn to tatters in debate. It began to be a nuisance, monopolizing the time of the Council to the neglect of other questions. It seemed impossible to get rid of it. A year ago a special committee took it in hand, but there was no decision reached then. It cropped up again several months ago, and another committee took up the task. They brought in a report that proposed to fix the following basis of representation and taxation: Unions of less than fifty members, five delegates and $8 a year, fifty and less than one hundred members, six delegates and $12; one hundred and less than two hundred, seven delegates and $18; over two hundred members, eight delegates and $24.

At the meeting two weeks ago, when this report was submitted and seemed about to be accepted, the debate waxed warm until it was decided that the delegates should get the opinions of the locals. Last night two of the big Unions opposed it, one because of the high tax, and the other because the proposed representation was not proportional to the tax. The latter stated that they would pay an additional $18 a year for the privilege of sending three extra members to the Trades Council. Some of the smaller locals were willing to pay the increased tax, but held out for the old basis of representation.

Finally to the motion for the adoption of the report, Mr. J. J. Hartley presented an amendment that the tax be raised to eight dollars and that the delegation from each Union remain at five. The amendment carried with a large majority.

A Credit Balance.

The auditors, Joseph Begley and Thos. Ogilvie reported the Council's financial records correct. A credit balance was carried over from last year. The auditors were given a vote of thanks.

Object to Property Qualifications.

Following the lead of the City Council of Brantford, a resolution was passed urging the Provincial Government to abolish the property qualifications for municipal office. A similar resolution will be forwarded to the local Council requesting them to support this movement.

The reported proposal of the members of Parliament to increase their sessional allowance from $2,500 to $3,500 was the object of another protest, although the mover remarked that generally the Labour Council was in favour of increasing salaries.

"They will make it better for the Labour members when they get there," commented a delegate.

A strong committee was appointed to prepare for the Labour Day celebration this year.

Voice of The People

Editor, Examiner:

Sir,—I see that Mr. Burnham's letter in yesterday's papers has raised the ire of quite a number of people who consider themselves religious.

But, sir, was not Mr. Cunningham's letter to Mr. Burnham a great specimen of impertinence? What it amounted to was, "Do as you are told. You will learn all about it later." Comment is superfluous. Would any self-respecting man take that lying down?

And after all is not Burnham right? He says God could have prohibited all evil and so eliminated hell and death and all the suffering that evil brings. But that was not God's way. Does Mr. Cunningham and those for whom he speaks believe in God's way Surely not. They would crucify the Son of God to-day if He were to go to a marriage feast in Peterborough and manufacture and supply wine to the guests!

So after all to be fair, Mr. Burnham is defending God and His ways against man and his ways. God's promises are to him that overcometh. The modern Pharisee has improved on God's ways. He would take care there was nothing to be overcome, and I suppose wishes he could abolish hell itself that he might not get the deserved punishment awaiting him for his perversion of God's ways.

Yours truly,
ONLOOKER.

DOG NUISANCE

To the Editor:— I see they have had another meeting of the City Council but not a word about the dog nuisance, or the dog by-law. I wonder why aldermen are impracticable and slow. Will they wait until some dog with the rabbies has bitten a child, or until our lawns and gardens are torn up and destroyed before they move in the matter? Do you mind, Mr. Editor if poison is used to destroy the troops of useless curs that infest the streets of our homes and front doors? If will not be a broomstick I will use. Citizen.

Toronto Daily Undergoes Another Reorganization.

(Special to The Examiner.

TORONTO, March 6.—The Toronto Daily News is to-day in process of reorganization. The annual meeting of the directors is to be held and it is said that the forecast changes in the control and management of the paper will be decided on this afternoon and announced in a statement to be issued later.

According to the statements of those interested the News will be taken over by an Independent Company and will have no "entangling alliances." Straight denial is made that the Canadian Manufacturers' Association will have anything to do with the control of the paper.

Double Presentation In Norwood Family

Mr. Donald MacNaughton Will Reside Near Peterborough

The members of the Baptist Chuch congregated at home of Mr. Donald MacNaughton on Tuesday evening, Feb. 18th, to say farewell to Mr. Alex. MacNaughton and Miss Vida MacNaughton prior to the departure of the family for their new home.

After a few hours social time together Mrs. L. Fife read an address to Miss Vida MacNaughton, who for some time had been such a faithful organist of the Church, Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. also a teacher in the Sunday School.

Rev. J. B. McCormack read the address to Mr. Alex. MacNaughton who for the past few years has so successfully filled the office of Church Clerk and President of the B.Y.P. U.

Each address expressed sincere and deep regret that the church was about to lose such willing and efficient co-workers but trusted that the same noble and willing spirit would have greater happiness and a wider and even more active field of usefulness in their new home.

Mr. Geo. Hobble and Mr. Arthur McKay made the presentation, to each of a quarter-cut oak, leather upholstered rocker.

Refreshments were then served, followed by a programme of instrumental solos, readings, etc., and a very happy evening was brought to a close by singing "God Save the King."

Another Presentation

Mr. Donald MacNaughton and family were pleasantly surprised last Friday evening when all their near neighbours assembled at their home to do them honor and to spend a social time together prior to their departure for their new home near Peterboro.

All were participating in games, etc., when Mr. W. T. Buck arrested the mirth for a short time by calling Mr. MacNaughton and family to a prominent place. He spoke of the good-will and kindly feeling existing among the neighbors on the Hastings Road and of the high esteem in which Mr. MacNaughton and each member of family were held. Mr. John Marks then came forward and read a skilfully worded address while Mr. Joseph O'Keefe made the presentation of a mantel clock and a sum of money. The address read as follows:

To Mr. Donald MacNaughton and family:— As the time when you will remove from our midst is fast drawing near, we, your friends and neighbours, have gathered here to express our sincere regret at your leaving our neighborhood and to wish you God-speed in your new home. You have always been deeply interested in matters touching church, state, school and our own community and at all time have stood conscientiously for those things which you believed to be highest and best, and as neighbours you have ever been ready and willingly to help when help was needed. As a token of our esteem we ask you to accept this clock. May it in the years to come prove as faithful to you as you have to your friends and neighbours which you are leaving. It is our earnest prayer that in your new home you shall be blest with health, happiness and prosperity.

Signed on behalf of those present
W. T. Buck.
J. D. O'Keefe,
J. Marks.

Mr. MacNaughton replied feelingly after which refreshments were served followed by music, etc.

Board Of Works Committee Decline To Pay For Cost, etc.

to sound the committee on the sewage disposal question but received only an evasive reply.

Letters were read from Mr. E. G. Patterson, Supt. of the C.G.E., urging good roads for Peterboro County, and a similar one was read from the local branch of the Great War Veterans Association.

The whole question was left over until a meeting can be arranged with a deputation from the County Council.

A circular letter was read from the Kitchener City Council in which they urge this council to take joint action with the other cities in the province to amend the Ontario highways act so that the municipalities may have more power over the expenditures on the roads, and that a more liberal sum be given the municipalities from the money received from the motor licenses.

They also urged that the term of the Highways Commissioners be shortened from five years to three years and that the municipalities have some power in the appointment and dismissing of commissioners.

This was also left over until the County Council could be interviewed.

The Estimates.

The estimates were found to be as conservative as possible and instead of a reduction being made a sum of something over $700 was added. This amount will be spent on a new five passenger Ford car for City Engineer Parsons who has used his own car for city work for the last six years, ever since he has been the engineer of the city. His own car has been practically worn out in the service of the corporation and the board decided to repair the old car at the city's expense.

Following are the estimates of the Board of Works Department which were adopted without change at last night's meeting of the Committee.

Unionist Caucus This Morning

Prohibition Was Discussed at To-day's Meeting

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, March 6.—At the conclusion of this morning's Unionist caucus Sir Thomas White, Acting Prime Minister, stated that the discussion had been very satisfactory. He declared that the tariff question had not been discussed at length, but that it had been decided to leave the question to a further caucus, at which it would have the right of way over other matters.

Prohibition was discussed this morning, and there was varying opinions of the matter, indicating that in Parliament there is a considerable divergence of view as to the degree in which it is advisable for the government to go in validating existing restrictions. There was, it is understood, a considerable body of opinion in favour of increasing the content of alcohol in the manufacture of beer.

The government's highways policy was also under discussion, the Acting Prime Minister declared. In this connection, it is stated there are many members who believed that the Federal government should exercise a pretty close supervision over the money by the various provinces. A further general caucus will be held next week, probably on the same date.

Henry Ford Only Made Few Million During Past Year

(Special to The Examiner.)

DETROIT, Mich., March 6.—Henry Ford only made upwards of a dozen million dollars last year and therefore the income taxes he will pay in a few days will be less than a million or so than last year, it developed here today.

For the past few days a large staff of accountants, attorneys, clerks and stenographers have been hard at work figuring up Ford's debt to the government, and to-day the job was far from completed. It was estimated that Ford's income tax will amount to around $6,000,000.

Commission Has Lakefield Request Under Consideration

Claims Water Powers Are Being Developed as Fast as Possible

(Canadian Press.)

PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS, Toronto, March 6.—"We have been besieged with requests from various interests and municipalities regarding the taking over of water utilities, but we are developing as fast as possible and must accept these undertakings only when we can handle them."

This was the statement of Secretary Pope of the Hydro Commission when asked regarding the communication from Lakefield and Peterborough interests urging the Commission to take over the Lakefield dam for power purposes.

"Is the Commission considering the application?"

"Yes, we have it under consideration, along with a number of other requests, but we can take no action or make no decisions at present."

All Canadians To Be Back in Canada By June

Significant Letter From Gen. Currie Relating to the Capture of Mons

(Canadian Press.)

VICTORIA, B.C., March 6.—In view of Sir Sam Hughes' criticism in the Commons alleging "needless slaughter" of Canadians in the capture of Mons on the day the armistice was signed, a private letter received here yesterday from Gen. Sir Arthur Currie, is an interesting coincidence. He said: "We regard it as a special privilege that we were able to drive the Boche from the historic city of Mons before we knew the armistice was going into effect. I received news of the taking of Mons before I received a wire from General Headquarters telling me hostilities would cease at 11 o'clock."

Gen. Currie mentioned that most of the Third Division was in England Feb. 7th, routed for home, and the First, Second and Fourth Divisions would follow in the order named. All Canadians are to be back in Canada by the end of June.

Merchants Protest The Drug Stamp Tax

A copy of the following resolution passed by the Retail Merchants' Association has been forwarded to Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. P.,:

"Resolved that, we the members of the Retail Merchants' Association of Peterboro, request the Dominion Government to abrogate the stamp act as far as it affects dealers in patent medicines, proprietary medicines and toilet preparations. Owing to the number of technical faetures in the act it is impossible for the dealers to tell what articles should be stamped On this account many unwillfully render themselves liable to a fine for violation of the Act subject to such varied interpretations. Furthermore, as the war is over the public are protesting against the payment of the tax and it leads to unnecessary disputes and misunderstandings between dealer and customer.

"We also condemn the method of the Government in carrying out the Act in seeking convictions by employing detectives who are offered a premium to hound a body of retail merchants who we believe, their veracity and honour to be much superior to the instrument used to obtain convictions."

HAVE GONE OVER TO THE SPARTACANS.

(Canadian Press.)

BERLIN, March 6. — A marine division and a portion of the Republican militia, which have been supporting the government, have gone over to the Spartacans but an attempt by the Spartacans to storm the police headquarters this afternoon, was repulsed.

Dead Men's Shoes

Daniel Donald Mackenzie of Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, is the Joshua-o'-the-pinch who will bridge the gap between until the Liberal party holds its national convention next midsummer. Then the real Saul, will be chosen but meanwhile Mackenzie's the man.

Leader MacKenzie will be assisted by Chief Whip Robb and a committee of four. The main duty of Mr. Robb and his committee will be I take it, to counsel prudence and moderation, for Leader MacKenzie has fighting blood in him and likes nothing better than to slay the Philistines twenty four hours a day. Leader MacKenzie's job is to lead—under advisement—for the next five months or so, to do the rough and tumble, to endure the heat and shoulder the burden, to draw the salary—which is a consideration—but not to occupy the vacant chair which is to be kept sacred for Sir Wilfrid's permanent successor.

The vacant chair by the way, is eyed wistfully by certain Liberal Unionists on the other side of the House who remember what a lovely day it was when the armistice was signed, what a fine day, for example, it was for jumping and how near the vacant chair they could have been now if thye had jumped then. I name no names but I look straight at them. It would have taken a bouquet of Scotch thistles, point upward, on the seat of that chair to keep them out of it, if they had been properly placed. Meanwhile the empty chair is quite safe with MacKenzie who is willing to abide by anything the Liberal party says as to its ultimate disposition. Its very emptiness is an incentive to careful thought on the part of the party captains. It seems to say "Don't lose your heads and this chair will yet be one of power and authority."

For a while I understand the caucus cast glances in the direction of Mr. Fielding who, like the late Mr. Barkiss, was not unwilling if the choice were unanimous. But this was just what the choice could not be. In the opinion of some Mr. Fielding had to come from too far across and though it was admitted that his return to the party would be the signal for Unionist Liberals to follow it was felt that similar opportunities would be offering all the time now and meanwhile that somebody ought to be chosen who had not "gone back on the Old Man." This view was so stoutly held by a Quebec block of twenty young members that they finally brought the Jury over to their side and the job to Daniel Donald MacKenzie—otherwise known as "D. D." and the "Judge"—who has never swerved from the straight party path since he came to Parliament fifteen years ago.

There is every reason to believe that D.D. will be the right man in the right place. The Government is supposed to be "reconstructing" on a large scale and Leader MacKenzie has just the critical spirit required to keep the reconstructors from getting too saucy. Certain timid souls in the Government side who were apprehending a "swing back to Laurier" are now saying that his empty chair will be an apple of discord. But bless their hearts, they don't know D. D. MacKenzie. Any apples of discord he has in stock will never be hurled at that empty chair. He knows a better place to hurl them. Is that the Treasury Bench I see ducking?

Somehow or other I always felt that D. D. MacKenzie would land that temporary leadership. He answered the specifications, so to speak. He was the Old Man's trusted lieutenant last session—also his desk mate which is a strategical position. D.D. had, as it were, his hooks on it. He ran straight—never bolted—and he came from a province where the Grits are granite though the heavens fall. The caucus just naturally couldn't pass D. D. MacKenzie over. He had all the marks that led one to him—like the Grand Llama of Thibet.

What does the old rhyme say? Look to the east— nobody seems to have thought of looking anywhere else—and look to west and chose the very one that you love best. If he's not here to take your part, choose the one that's next your heart. This is the temporary leadership to the smallest detail. D. D. is the one that's next the heart. The other aspirant—for the permanent leadership—are not here to take our part. That is to say they are not at present in the House of Commons. Look to the east and look to the west. Well we have looked to the east and chosen. The west may get its turn when the National Convention takes a look.

I make a guess that this be a brisk session with D.D. MacKenzie in the van. He is full of impetus, but he does not lack discretion. He was a Judge for two years once upon a time, but found the life dull and got back into politics where he could apply his judiciousness to livelier issues. The matter which usually comes up for D.D.'s judgment in the heat of debate is, "Shall I kill him now or simply disable him? Sometimes he does one, sometimes the other, very often both. He comes, as I said before, from Nova Scotia where the parties always run true to form and where it is quite impossible to be a Grit and a Tory at the same time or for any considerable period. This is why Union Government continues to lose ground in Nova Scotia now that the first fine careless rapture is over. In Nova Scotia a man must be either a Grit or a Tory. There are only two sides to the road down there and the middle is not used. This is why Nova Scotia begins to lose faith in her native son, Premier Borden, who was greatly admired when he was a Grit and equally respected when he became a Tory, but who is by way of being misunderstood now that his Government is camouflaged as both.

D.D.'s inflexible orthodoxy is more intelligible to Nova Scotia than Union Government which is like a chameleon on a plaid shawl—unable to burst itself trying to make good. When Unionism invaded Nova Scotia it stopped at Cape Breton which is an island, as George the Third with almost human intelligence, aptly observed. Unionism failed to reach Cape Breton possibly because the devil can not cross water or maybe because D. D. MacKenzie was there to wave it back. At all events it didn't make a ripple. And now having upheld the faith, D.D. gets faith's reward.

The comment of the curious is concerned with the initials D. D. which the new leader might as well wear after his name as before—so much does he know about theology. D. D. was brought up on the Bible and the Westminister Companion—not bad nourishment for the growing mind especially when mixed with Nova Scotia politics, a combination which insures lively interest both here and hereafter. Now that he has become leader of his party D.D. has, of course, a firmer belief in predestination than ever. Indeed it is not often that predestination works out so comfortably. D. D. has read the Bible three times—once as Holy Writ once as the supreme example of English literature and once as a weapon of offence. Many a poor victim has D.D. stunned with Bible quotations. The Bible is to him a sword, a buckler, a big club, and a fencing foil. It takes knowledge to handle the Bible that way! The word of peace, or the trumpet of thunder D. D. has it at his tongue's end. Give him the Bible and a few statistics and D. D. will smite any Amalekite that bobs up—smite him hip and thigh and elsewhere. His wit is full bodied—not delicate and tripping but massive. I recall at the moment one of his many pet phrases when he spoke of "the glacier—like progress of the Trade of Commerce Department."

D.D.'s first name is Daniel which indicates that he has dared to stand alone on more than one occasion. The last time he did it was when he stood up in the House of Commons and gave Sir Joseph Flavelle's profitable pictism what was coming to it. His performance there convinces me that he will handle the political situation with courage and boldness. If he enters any lion's den it will not be the lions alone who will do the after-dinner speaking. Incidentally the bilingual question has no terrors for him. He speaks both the great languages—the English and the Gaelic.

Labour Pleased With The Fair Wage Clause

"The Labour aldermen on Monday night paid for the trouble we took to elect them," said Mr. T. A. Lane at the Trades and Labour Council meeting last night. He had attended the regular meeting of the City Fathers, being the sole auditor in the gallery, and the only representative of the Labour men's municipal committee.

"Ald. Edgar took great credit when the clause was inserted in the specifications providing that only local labour should be employed, other things being equal. If he had left out that last condition the clause might have been worth something, but with that restriction the contractor could have brought in men from Montreal or any other place to work for less than the local scale of wages."

Mr. Lane reported that the fair wage clause had been submitted by Ald. Gainey.

Food Blockade By The Italians Still Continues

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, March 6. — British and French delegates here have been utterly outspoken in the Supreme War Council and Supreme Economic Council in criticism of the food blockade which the Italian Government is maintaining against Dalmatia, Bosnia, Herzegovina, Croatia and Slovenia. These new democracies, built out of the old Austrian Empire, are relied upon by the Entente as a protection against the Bolshevik wave, and the food shortage in them is increasing the chaos. While American delegates are less outspoken than the British and French regarding Italian action, they are concerned over the situation, which is stopping all American relief work.

MATTERS MUSICAL

THE CENTRE OF MUNICIPAL MUSIC IN THE ORCHESTRA

Everywhere one goes to-day, there is found a growing interest in the question of municipal music. For this reason it is profitable to recall that one of the most timely addresses given to Canadians in recent years was that by Mr. Arthur Farwell, supervisor of municipal concerts in New York city to the Canadian Club in Toronto on "Music for the People." When that city launched out on a comprehensive policy of giving the masses music, the matter was given to the charge of a commission instead of the aldermen, the aim being to put the proposition on a musical basis, not a political basis. In outlining their plan of procedure, the commissioners called into consultation a committee of citizens.

One of Mr. Farwell's deductions from his experiences that is noteworthy is contained in this statement he made: "An orchestra is absolutely fundamental; advance must be made through the symphonic orchestra. What the great master music souls have had to say to the world, from Beethoven's day to now, they have said through the symphonic orchestra; it is concentrated there. We have great chamber music and great choral music but the great word for humanity in music has been spoken in the music of the symphony orchestra, from Beethoven to now.

"How then can we bring the greatest in music to the people without doing it through that medium? With the band you give a translation, an adaptation. If you use a band it bears about the same relation to the original thing the composer has to say as a photograph to an oil painting. So I say there is no way except by centering this movement in the symphonic orchestra and bringing up the other organizations as well as possible.

In one season he told of, a million people attended the 500 concerts. Seven hundred concerts were by bands and one hundred by symphony orchestras. Although the orchestra concerts were only one-eighth of the total number they drew one-half of the people.

HIS WAY OF PUTTING IT.

"I do not pose as any musical ajudicator," remarked a gentleman walking down town with a friends who attended the same church, "and I have for long opposed capital punishment on principle but, if there is one crime for which I would allow beheading to remain as the penalty, it would be for the choir singers who show no sense of the fitness of things."

"Explain," commanded his companion laconically.

"Well, I was out of town for a week end," proceeded the first speaker, "and one of the choirs I heard in the course of their morning anthem sang in the meekest, most lifeless, apologetic manner the words 'I fear no foe' as if they were all scared stiff. Then at night they attempted a very fine arrangement of 'Abide with me,' but at the pianissimo passage 'Hold Thou Thy Cross before my closing eyes' the sopranos and basses bellowed it out so loudly that an old gentleman in the pew in front of me, who was almost off in a good snooze, gave a start as if his wife had pinched him. No, sir, people like that are out of their element in a choir. If they are allowed to roam at large they should be taken in hand, taught to read properly, and have the meaning of plain English words explained to them. Am I wrong?"

WHO IS THE JUDGE?

On more than one occasion lately at the weekly practice an observant choir member has heard her neighbour remark quietly to somebody in the next seat that the basses are anticipating a certain note, or that the sopranos are a trifle flat, or that two of the voices in a quartette are not blending as they should. Of course, this is a free country. There is no law against such criticism. But the point is that the person giving expression to these judgments was sitting behind or at the other side of the choir from those deemed to be at fault.

The passing of such remarks is apt to become a bad habit. No one can judge with precision, pitch or time or tone when seated behind the singers, in a large empty auditorium. Nor can one distinguish exactly such qualities if located away off to one side from those upon whom judgment is to be passed. The only person to pronounce upon these matters is the leader out in front. The decision must rest with him. Each member and each section must accept his verdict and act accordingly. If a man were to set his watch afresh every time he ran across someone who had different time, he would be in a poor way to keep appointments. There is only one time standard for watches and that is the sun. When a choir is practicing, there is only one standard to accept and that is the leader's judgment.

There are still those who think it necessary to affect a tremulo when singing to show their friends how well they are progressing. Mozart once hit the nail on the head when he said "nothing can be more odious; besides it is a style of singing quite contrary to nature. The human voice is naturally tremulous, but only so far as to be beautiful. The moment the proper boundary is passed it is no longer beautiful because it becomes unnatural. It seems to me then just like an organ when the bellows are panting."

HUSBAND AND WIFE RECONCILED THROUGH MUSIC.

A Legend of the Origin of Music in Ireland.

It would seem that music has always had a unique place on the home. It may be truthfully said that music always makes for happiness in the home, and this apparently held good even in the earliest days of record. Illustrating this is a beautiful legend that is told of the olden days in Ireland.

Long years ago before music was invented in Ireland a chief named Cool and his wife, Canola, lived together unhappily, in constant quarrelling and disagreements. Cool was hasty, hot-headed and easily displeased. Canola was fretful, impatient, sharp of tongue and temper.

One day, Cool came in tired and hungry from hunting. Perceiving that no fire was made ready for cooking, he became so angry he raised his hand to lay it hard upon her. At that Canola fled and Cool pursued. Now there was never a woman in all Erin so fleet of foot as Canola, and her husband could not overtake her. By the border of Lough Neagh she fled. Over the great, grassy hills of Tyrone, by the border of the swift, sparkling Foyle—on and on she fled till she drew near the bold north coast, where the green mountains stand tall on their buttresses of rock, over the never-resting sea.

There first she stopped her speed; for, suddenly, in that lonely and desolate spot, she heard a strange, sweet sound unlike anything her ears had ever known before. It rose melodiously in a plaintive cry, and then sank gently again to a soft murmur. Many times was this repeated over and over.

Canola drew nearer to the strange sound, till she came at last to the edge of the sea, and there, stranded on the coast, she saw the skeleton of a great fish; and the wind, playing through its dried ribs, was that which made the sweet sounds.

Enraptured, she stood still to listen. Then Cool drew near in his pursuit of her. He, too, heard the melodious sound, and when he saw that his wife was fascinated by what came to her ears, he turned aside into a grove hard by. There he cut down a slim sapling, scooped the wood of it into a bow, and string lengths of deer-gut within. Then he drew his fingers across the strings, and a sound that was still sweeter than that made by the wind in the bones of the great fish issued therefrom.

Now Canola, hearing it, drew nearer the place from which it proceeded. When she came to the edge of the wood her eyes fell upon Cool, but instead of again giving speed to her fleet feet, she let them draw her nearer to where her husband stood, and he, noting her approach, held out his arms, and she entered in between them and fell on his breast. So then they kissed one another and returned to their home hand in hand.

And ever after from that day Cool and Canola lived in concord and harmony together, having eased all their troubles before the gentle pause of music.

ON THE DOWNBEAT.

Make the children's hour a romp, fun, stories and music.

Music in the home evenings keeps children off the streets. Fewer children on the streets at night means better citizens.

With all the new trots and other dance forms of recent years, the old waltz has not nor will it ever be, shoved off the programme.

Palestrina, the great composer of church music in the early days, was really a man named Pierlingi, who took the name Palestrina after the name of his birthplace.

A lady said the other day "I always enjoy Chopin numbers mare when I remember that they are the music of Poland, the land of strange dance rhythms and of peasants who dance to music in minor keys."

A person who wears good clothes has more confidence in himself or herself. For the same reason a little girl, who begins lessons on a cheap second-hand piano because her parents think anything is good enough to practice on, is likely to make nothing but a cheap second-hand progress.

Said a prominent business man to a friend recently: "The music I studied as a boy has never brought me in a dollar directly. But it has been the key that opened many pleasant homes to me and won for me the friendship of many good people—and that's worth more than dollars.

Music in the home means children off the street.

Remember piano playing is a matter of brains, not muscle.

Palo Tosti, whose song "Good-bye" everyone is familiar with, was appointed singing master to the British Royal Family in 1880.

"Music study that begins with mechanics instead of music, puts the cart before the horse," said a piano teacher," and the only time it is safe to do that is when you want to go back."

A Y.M.C.A. song leader at a military camp says: "The elements in the choice of a good song, include a simple melody with good rhythm, within the compass of an octave, repetition of melody, not too many varied phrases, repetition of words, but preferably not starting and ending the chorus with the same expression.

The old idea that composers go abroad and study that a sonata should be constructed so-in-so is getting out of date. As someone said "they get wound up on the bobin of their own over-refinement." The composer today must have originality and be in close touch with his fellow-men and current events.

Advertising Talks By P. E. HAYES

Advertising Benefits Both the Merchant And the Public.

When a Merchant advertises he virtually says: "Buy my Merchandise and see that my claims for it are genuine. I'm behind it because I know it's right. I'm linking my name with it so you'll see how much confidence I have in it."

And when a merchant does that you know what it means. It means that from the moment he takes that stand his store is going to be a more desirable place to trade. It means that he wouldn't invest money in advertising without having resolved to back up every claim. The mere fact of his advertising creates a confidence in the mind of the public—a result of which both the merchant and the public benefits.

The Creamery Factory being the winners of the League they were presented with the beautiful shield by Mr. Breyfogle.

The shield is one and a half feet in diameter consisting of a solid oak backing. The centre of the shield bears a smaller shield in bronze finish and in itself bears the design of a bowler in the act of playing the ball and over this design is engraved the words, "De Laval Bowling League." Grouped around the outside of this shield are name plates on which are to be engraved the names of the winners.

This shield is to be won three times in succession before the winning team permanently holds it.

The teams and the individual players are deeply indebted to Mr. Breyfogle for this shield and the interest and enthusiasm shown as the result of the above prize.

ithout Hefferna the Defease Crumbles and Hamilton Win by 10-3

HAMILTON, March 5.—Although e final game for the O.H.A. senior ampionship is scheduled to be yed in Toronto Saturday night, looks as though the race was de- ed at the local Arena to-night en Hamilton beat the St. Patrick's Toronto by ro goals to 3 in the st game of the final round. As als count on the round, the Ben- ls will carry a seven-goal lead with m to Toronto and on the play of teams to-night it looks as though y would not only be able to ntain it but probably increase it. Even the visiting players and sup- rters had to admit that the Irish- n were completely outclassed, but, y had a legitimate excuse for the ing of the team in the fact that ank Hefferman was not on the de- se. When it was announced that sturdy defense player was still the hospital and would not be able play to-night and possibly not on rday, there was consternation the camp of the Sons of Erin. As sult of Hefferman's absence it was ilsheartened sextette that went on the ice as Toronto's last hope in rael, but while it was thought his absence would make a big ference in the team, it was not ught that it would result in the Being completely outclassed.

Sudden in Hefernan's Place

Rodden essayed to fill ernan's shoes without any prep- ation whatever. So ineffective was that he was used only in the first riod. There was no good excuse for odden, as he was called upon at ort notice, having played only one me previously this season. After e fifth intermission Patterson and een were given the task of prevent- the speedy tigers from getting ose enough to the net to be danger- s. They were fairly successful in e second period, but in the final ssion the Tigers raised shots on ooks, succeeding in putting no less an six of them past the overworked goalkeeper.

St. Patrick's did not look anything the team that put Kitchener out the running last Saturday. They and appear to be able to get go- ing and appeared very backward when stacked up against such speed-merchants as Roach, McCarthy, Green, Matte, et al. Their stick-handling was also defective and their shooting was away off. Very seldom were they able to get through the Tiger defense and all three of their goals were scored at long range. Two of them looked as though they had been stopped, but if Resume did let a pair of easy ones get away from him, he more than redeemed himself at other stages stopping many that looked like sure scores.

Bankers Win From The Lawn Bowlers

In the opening game of the five-pin league at the Water street alleys, the bankers won two games from the Lawn Bowlers. Some good scores were piled up. Walton and Elliott were high for the latter team with 623 and 591 for totals. For the bankers Caulfield and Hayes had 586 and 543 for totals. High singles were: Elliott, 273; Hayes 256.

De Laval Wins—Called

In a Business Men's Ten-Pin League match last night at the Water street Alleys, the De Laval five won two of the three games from the Printers. The games were closely contested, and were witnessed by many enthusiasts.

For the De Lavals A. Fitzgerald had high count of 575, with 237 for a single. Henderson for the Printers had a 3 game total of 574.

Hartwick Was Committed For Trial

(Canadian Press.)

KINGSTON, March 6. — James Hartwick of Parham, was to-day committed for trial on a charge of shooting and killing his own son, while out hunting in the bush. The son's wife to-day swore that her father-in-law had forced her to have improper relations with him, and had told her that he had shot his son accidentally.

The Grenfell Mission Fund

Some days ago an appeal was made on behalf of the Grenfell Mission Fund. The results have not been equal to those of previous years, although it must be apparent to all that the need is even greater this year owing to abnormal conditions created by the war. The saving of human life along the bleak Labrador coast is something that is entrusted to the Mission and no greater or more heroic work is being performed anywhere than in this particular missionary field. The fund still remains open in the expectation that many more subscriptions will be received. Following is a list of those who have responded to the appeal up to the present time:

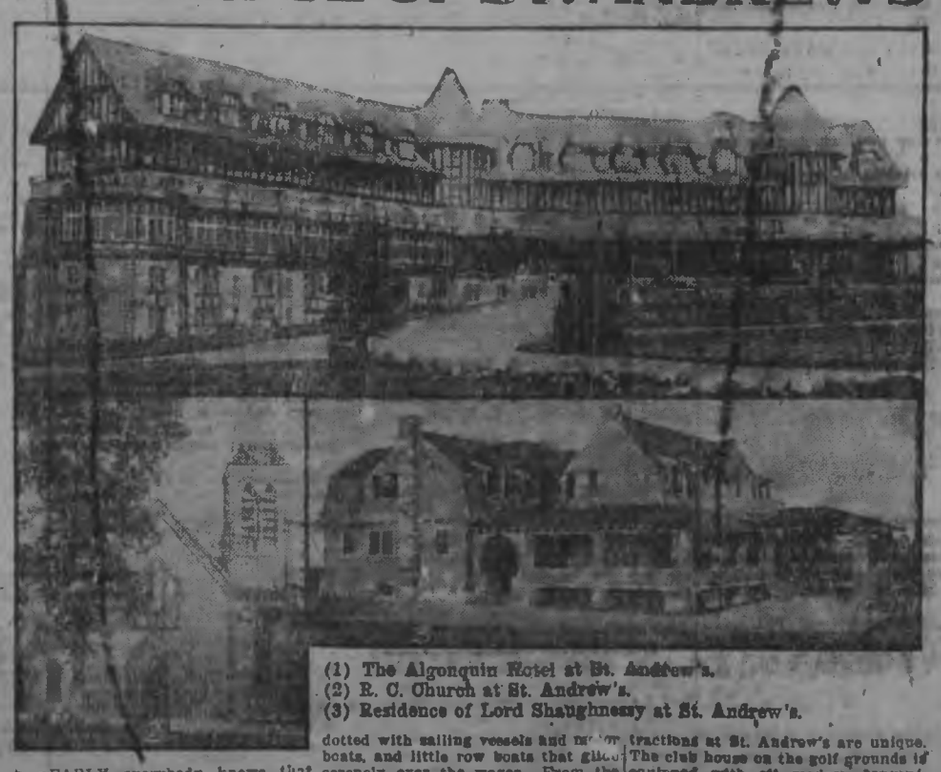
Good Shows For The Grand

Mr. Small to Provide Peterborough With Splendid Programme of Pictures and Road Attractions

The theatre-goers of Peterboro will be delighted to hear that Mr. Small, the new owner of the Grand Opera House, will provide the same big programme of pictures, vaudeville and road attractions that is to be seen in his other theatres in London, Hamilton and other Ontario cities. The fact that Mr. Small owns a series of theatres throughout the province makes it possible for him to secure big feature pictures and other attractions that are out of the reach of the average theatre proprietors and the people of Peterboro will be provided with a programme that will surprise them. Pictures of unusual merit will be shown at the Grand on the open dates between road shows and for the old scale of prices for the pictures will be in operation. Peterboro will get more and better road shows under the new management which was to be expected inasmuch as Mr. Small, who is the booking agent for the province, naturally sees that his own theatres get all the good attractions that are passing through the province.

A GLIMPSE OF ST. ANDREWS



(1) The Algonquin Hotel at St. Andrew's.
(2) R. C. Church at St. Andrew's.
(3) Residence of Lord Shaughnessy at St. Andrew's.

NEARLY everybody knows that golf was first played by the Scotch. A veteran devotee of the game, once said that Scotland's greatest contribution towards the welfare of mankind was the royal and ancient game.

Saint Andrew's By the Sea, New Brunswick, called after the patron saint of Scotland, is the home of many families of Scotch descent, and it is appropriate that the spot thus named should be possessed of golf courses as fine as any in the world. It is not exactly known when golf was first played at St. Andrew's, but the Algonquin Club came into existence in 1890. A club was firmly established here in 1895, and now St. Andrew's has the reputation of being the "Mecca of Golf." Hundreds of visitors from Canada and the United States flock hither annually and enjoy the glorious sport.

Golf is an invigorating game anywhere, but it is most delightful when played along the sea. At St. Andrew's there are two courses, a nine hole course 3,500 yards long and an eighteen hole course 6,000 yards long. Both overlook the sea, and are clad in a firm sward of velvet green. While resting on the course you can enjoy the view of the sea beneath, dotted with sailing vessels and motor boats, and little row boats that glide serenely over the waves. From the golf links you may watch the fishermen catch millions of sardines in their weirs that are set a few hundred yards, or less, from the shore. And old men and old women may often be seen gathering shell fish on the beach. It is a delight to listen to the continuous panting of the waves that expire on the red-tipped land—for the coast line is made of rocks and sand of rich deep red; and looking on it one might fancy that here in prehistoric times some great sea monster was killed and dyed the place with his blood. When a game of golf is ended it is pleasant to sit on one of these red rocks, or gather bunches of the lovely New Brunswick wild roses from the hedges, or rich bouquets of blue lilies in the marshy meadows. In July the fields are laden with a wealth of wild strawberries that tempt many to go berry gathering.

The climate of St. Andrew's makes the place an excellent holiday resort. The skies are seldom clouded, and the heat of the sun is tempered by the cool breezes of Passamaquoddy Bay. The most pleasant golf is not all golf; a congenial atmosphere and environment are half the delights of the game, and the various other attractions at St. Andrew's are unique. The club house on the golf grounds is equipped with all modern conveniences; you may play tennis on the admirable grounds at the Algonquin Hotel. You may ride in a motor boat to Deer Island, you may hire a row boat, or bathe in the tranquil waters of Katie's Cove; and a game of bowling on the bowling green is a joyous pastime.

The late Sir William Van Horne, one of the presidents of the Canadian Pacific Railway, built a beautiful residence on an island in Passamaquoddy Bay, and his family still lives there in the summer season. Lord Shaughnessy, the Chairman of the C. P. R. Board of Directors, makes his summer home at Fort Tipperary, St. Andrew's, and takes a special interest in the progress of the place.

At St. Andrew's there is splendid sea fishing, and a lake near at hand furnishes some of the best bass fishing in Canada. And should the weather ever be rainy the Algonquin Hotel supplies bowling alleys, pool tables, English and French billiard tables, and a beautiful large casino for dancing. Those who make St. Andrew's by the Sea their holiday resort once will go a second time, for when you go away from it there is an interest about the place that brings you back again.

The Home Circle Colvm.

OUR GIRLS

They are just two things that will keep girls straight at the age when they begin to think of longer dresses, and beaux. One is plain clothes and the other is home duties. The girls we see making fools of themselves are almost invariably overdressed. They wear duds that women of thirty should hesitate about wearing.

A little girl with too many and too costly clothes on her back gets self-conscious and vain and loves admiration—and you grown-ups know the next step. A simple, pure-hearted girl who has a place in a home, home work and home duties, has her heart there, and no boy can steal it. Even when maturity comes and a real man comes, and a real affair of the heart comes, will such a girl leave home, and then after a heart rending. But a girl who is at home only at the table and late bed time won't love that home. Work makes things sacred. The child whose home memories are not hallowed by work, who is not needed and does not feel the need, will not love home. And if she does not love the home of her girlhood, she will love no other.

The mothers of this town who are responsible for the girls who gad on the streets should stop and think what they are doing. These girls are no longer children. They are at an impressionable age. Where will you have their impressions come from—from the riff-raff of the streets, or from home? It is for the mothers of this town to settle the question.

We heard of one of our young men making sport of religion in front of a George Street office the other day. His moustache had just begin to sprout and judging from his talk his mental faculties were not as well developed as his moustache. During our brief stay upon earth we have seen many just young men cold in death. We have seen the atheist at rest in his casket, but before being consigned to their last resting place they have all been carried through doors of a church and had prayers said over them. This young man could scoff at religion in his strength and beauty of health, but if the dark angel should get after him he would instinctively regret what he said and look into the future with fear and trembling. When one stands before the open door of eternity his desire to scoff at religion vanishes. We admit there are bad men in church, but even these black sheep in the flock might be blacker if they were outside. No young man or old one either, should condemn the noble efforts, the army of Christian men and women are making to-wards bettering the condition of things, and whether we attend church or not but few of us would desire to live in a community where there was no church. Young man, in the future, if you must scoff at religion, please get a little farther from in the future, if you must scoff at re your name in print.

Mother

There is one form sacred in memory's gallery, one face which time can never erase. It is that of our mother, the dear, gentle, compassionate mother who loved us ere we knew what love was, and taught us the right ere we knew the wrong. She sang us to sleep in the innocence of childhood, and awoke us with loving kisses on the bright mornings of long ago. Her eyes beamed with joy as she blessed us at life's dawning and spoke a tender farewell, as the life-sun went down. She watched us to school in the summer sun and taught us our lessons by the wintry fireside. From childhood's morn to manhood's hour she was ever at hand to soothe and console and when at last we must go forth from the old home and fireside how tenderly and affectionately she caressed us and kissed us good-bye—then waited and hoped and prayed that all would be well. From first to last her love was the same—it knew no bounds. With cheers for the right tears for the wrong, she was happy in our joys, sad in our sorrows and she washed away our errors in the flooded rivulets of the soul. Her conscience was her guide and her family her greatest joy. She loved her home more than glittering fashion and sought honor in the consciousness of doing good.

Your children are apt to think that what you do is right. They have no ideal of truth or righteousness but yourself. Things which you do, knowing at the time to be wrong they take to be right. They reason this way: "Father always does right. Father did this. Therefore this is right." That is good logic but bad premises. No one ever gets over having had a bad example set him. Your conduct more than your teaching makes impression. Your laugh, your frown, your dress, your walk, your greetings, your goodbyes, your comings, your goings, your habits at the table, the tones of your voice are making an impression which will last a million years after you are dead and the sun will be extinguished and the mountains will crumble, and the world will die, and eternity will roll on in perpetual cycles, but there will be no diminution of the force of your conduct upon the young eyes that saw it or the young ears that heard it.

How is your New Year's resolution, does it stick? Now if you happen to slip, jump up instead of giving up. Be on the "try" instead of on the "yield" and the end of the year will find you stronger, better, of light er heart and somewhat imperfect, than if you "declare there's no use," and fall completely back in the old way thick, with bogs of "bad habits."

The voice of duty is never still. It whispers to us morning, noon and night: it reaches us from the roar of the wild tempest, the sigh of the summer winds, the soft, gentle murmur of the wayside brook. That still small voice will not be hushed.

IN TOUCH WITH THE SPARTACANS

(Special to Examiner.)

LONDON, March 6. — The Russian Soviets plan to aid the German Spartacans, according to despatches received here to-day from Helsingfors.

President Sinovieff, of Petrograd Commune, addressing that body on March 1st, is reported to have declared that the Bolshevik "are in direct communication with the Spartacans, and our actions will soon be co-ordinated."

The Moscow Soviets reported that seventeen high Bolshevik officers, including two generals and five colonels, were shot on Feb. 26th by order of a Special Committee alleged to be in charge of wholesale executions of officers in the Ukraine and Don region, suspected of favoring the allies.

CANADA TO HAVE DAYLIGHT SAVING

OTTAWA, March 6.—Although a definite decision has not yet been reached by the Government, it is regarded as practically certain that a bill will be brought down continuing daylight saving for the present year. The bill passed last session empowered the Government to bring summer time into effect for one year only. Another bill will be necessary to ensure its continuance.

Failure of the United States Congress to repeal its daylight saving legislation creates a difficult situation unless Canada again adopts summer time.

DIED

KINGDON.—On Tuesday, Feb. 25, at his late residence, 225 Heath street, Toronto, Gordon Williams, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kingdon, of 228 Carlisle street, Peterborough, aged 43 years 9 months.

Profit of $2.32 Per Hen For The Three Months

"Economy's" Reply to "Greater Production"

In reply to "Greater Production's" challenge in last night's Examiner, we wish to submit the following record made in Dec., Jan. and Feb., 1918-1919, by a pen of 10 White Wyandotte pullets:

The total number of eggs laid in three months was 892, which at 61 1-3c per dozen, would bring $49.29.

The cost of feed was as follows:

Whole oats	$1.44
Mixed grain	5.07
Cracked Corn	1.80
Bran	1.35
Grit	.15
Mangles	.30
Ground bone	2.10
	$12.21
Or 77c per hen.
Value of Eggs laid	$49.29
Cost of feed	12.21
Net profit for 3 months	$37.08
Net profit per hen	$2.32

Sudden Death Of Mr. J. Mann

Had Been Ailing For Some Time —Funeral To-morrow

One of Peterboro's highly respected citizens passed away last evening very suddenly at his home at 217 Westcott street. Mr. James N. Mann was in his sixtieth year at the time of his death and was honoured both for his Christian character and his genial disposition.

He had been ailing for the last three years with heart trouble but never complained and worked up to six weeks ago at the McDonald mill.

Yesterday morning he did not feel well but in the evening about five o'clock he was playing with the baby of his adopted daughter, Mrs. S. Dryland, formerly Miss Sadie Foster. He was alone in the room with the baby lying in the couch when the people in the next room heard a gasp and entering the room saw Mr. Mann lying full length on the couch with his head back. He passed peacefully away within three minutes.

Mr. Mann was born in Smith Town ship and lived there up to 13 years ago. His wife, but no children survive him.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, 217 Westcott street, to Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. Benjamin Greatrix of St. James Methodist Church will officiate.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

The Bachelors' and Benedicts' Club have arranged with Mr. Al. Linton and his four piece orchestra to hold a dance here on Easter Monday, the first big dance after Lent.

Miss J. Horsfield has returned after attending millinery openings in Toronto.

Miss Verna Sealand is back with Miss Horsfield after spending a month in Toronto, preparing for the coming season.

The friends of Mr. Harry Deutsch of the Toronto Jobbing House, George Street, will be glad to learn that his health is likely to be greatly improved by the operation whihc he underwent at the Nicholl's Hospital on Monday last.

Miss Dolby has returned from Toronto and has taken a position, as trimmer, with Miss McGivern, for the coming season.

Mr. Kenneth Shook, Vancouver, B. C., and Mr. Donald Shook, are in the city, called here by the death of their father the late Mr. J. C. Shook.

Miss Flannigan, Kingston, arrived in the city last evening to attend the funeral of the late Dr. McGrath.

Miss Daisy Kingdon of Toronto, is visiting her sister, Mrs. G. Pakenham, 737 Water street.

Mrs. G. Pakenham, 737 Water St., has returned from Toronto after attending the funeral of her brother, the late G. W. Kingdon.

LABOUR PARTY WILL COMPLETE ORGANIZATION

At to-night's meeting of the Independent Labour Party in the Trades and Labour Hall, officers will be elected to carry on during its first year the work begun by the provisional officers. A debate will be held on the subject of the forty hour week and it is expected that an interesting evening will be provided. Workingmen and citizens generally are invited to attend.

Nine Million For Hydro Work In The Province

Hon. T. W. McGarry Presented the Budget Speech This Afternoon —Work For Unemployed

(Special to Examiner.)

Parliament Buildings, Toronto, March 6. — This afternoon's session of the Ontario House will be taken up solely by the Hon. T. W. McGarry, who will present the budget for the fiscal year, which is said to be the largest in the history of the province. This is due to the fact that much-needed public works, which had been postponed until the end of the war, will be proceeded with this year.

The budget is said to include some nine millions for Hydro extensions, and more than five millions for highway improvements in various parts of the province, while further large sums are set aside for public institutions.

These improvements it is said by the government supporters, will provide employment for thousands of men now without work, as well as caring for the returned soldiers.

The opposition will make no comment on the budget, but immediately following its presentation Charles Bowman of West Bruce, will move the adjournment.

LATER DESPATCH.

(Special to Examiner.)

TORONTO, March 6. — Hon. T. W. McGarry presented the budget this afternoon in the Legislature. The financial statement shows a surplus of $1,809,719.66, which surpasses the record of 1917 by over $58,000.

Despite the heavier expenditures on current account, due to the general scale of prices, large increases in revenue are reported. The Ontario Temperance Act brought in over $2,000,000.

Motor Licenses.

The increase from the sale of motor licenses passed $283,000. There was an increase from public institutions of nearly $333,000; and the total succession duties for the year reached $3,15[illegible]566

On education the Government spent more than last year by $260,000. The grant for Agriculture increased by $156,000. On the public institutions there was an increased appropriation of $201,000.

Capital Outlay.

The capital outlay for the year was $14,442,20[illegible]74, bringing the gross debt to $75,64[illegible]917.26. But there has been such a large increase in the provincial assets that the net debt remains as it was last year, in the neighborhood of four millions.

The most striking feature of the statement has to do with the provincial war tax. For the first two years that it was in force the revenue under that tax was larger by $1,843,970, than the sums expended for war purposes. This year the collections were less than the expenditure by $1,[illegible]91,406. Thus the tax has carried all the war outlay of the province.

Bank Clearings For the Week

Clearings for the week ending 6th March, 1919, $796,429.
Same week last month, $638,278.
Same week last year, $747,191.
Same week 2 years ago, $707,247.

Waddell Trophy Games Proceeding

OBITUARY

DR. E. C. CREVIER, V.S.

Word has been received of the death in Montreal on Tuesday of this week of a former well-known resident of Peterborough, in the person of Dr. E. C. Crevier, V.S. Dr. Crevier lived and practised in Peterborough for a number of years and afterwards removed to Detroit, where he was in business for some time, afterwards retiring and going to Montreal.

ALVERT GEORGE ALLPORT

The death occurred yesterday, aged four months of Master Alvert Geo. Allport, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. George Allport, 238 Rubidge St.

The funeral took place this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the family residence to Little Lake Cemetery, Rev. J. A. Mackenzie of Knox Presbyterian Church officiating.

DESIRE BARETTE.

The funeral of the late Desire Barrette will be held on Friday morning at nine o'clock from his residence on Park street south to the Church of the Sacred Heart and thence to St. Peter's cemetery.

The late Mr. Barrette was born in the Province of Quebec sixty-four years ago, but came to Peterborough while still a boy and has resided here ever since. He was highly respected and his death has been received with evident regret. Besides his wife he leaves two sons and two daughters, namely, Thomas, Armene and Mrs. Alfred Bishop of this city, and Fred of San Francisco. He also leaves one brother, Mr. Frederick Barrette and one sister, Mrs. Harry Rishea, both of Peterborough.

Gratuities For The Imperials

Application Should Be Made to Regiment Paymasters.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, March 6.—The scale of gratuities for soldiers who have been in the Imperial service, was announced to-day from Ottawa. Every private who has seen a year's service, provided he has reached an actual theatre of war outside the United Kingdom, will receive a minimum of $25. Lance-Sergeant, Corporal or Bombardier will receive at least $30, while the minimum for Sergeants is $40. For every month over the year's service the man in the ranks will receive an additional $2.50 and if not actually in a theatre of war during that time an additional $1.25 per month.

Imperials resident in Canada and discharged before December 9 of last year should apply by letter to their late regimental paymaster in England. Soldiers discharged later than that will not need to make application.

Important Announcement

FURS at the price we are selling at, are about as shrewd an investment as you can make.

There is no question about prices for next year, they cannot help but be higher, raw skins are costing more than they ever did.

In order to give our customers sufficient warning of this advance in costs we will continue our present reduction sale of Furs until the end of this month of March, after which prices will be based on the new values for next year's selling.

GRAIN MARKET

The removal by the Food Board at Washington of the fixed minimum price on hogs had practically no effect on the markets yesterday. Corn opened easier at a decline of 1c. to 1¼c., but quickly recovered, and the market pursued its course, entirely ignoring hog prices. The fact is that the market is essentially strong, while receipts are light, all offerings being quickly absorbed. Changes at the close varied from 1-8c. lower to easier, May corn closing unchanged at 123 3-8. Cash oats and barley are fractionally easier, while buckwheat is a little firmer. Baled hay is quoted $1 per ton higher.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards—Receitps were 31 cars, with 541 cattle, 98 calves, 900 hogs, and 61 sheep and lambs.

Trade was again not quite as brisk yesterday. A little slowing up on account of some uncertainty as to the outcome of the New Jersey strike, which may have an effect on the export cattle situation here. With an early settlement of the shipping strike, as seems probable according to latest reports, the demand for cattle for export to the United States markets will probably be as strong as it has been of late. In that case there is not much likelihood of prices coming down any from the present high levels. Up to the present there has really been no change, the local demand taking care of all the choice and extra choice steers and heifers offering.

Lambs, sheep and calves are all steady.

The hog situation generally settled down yesterday to the packers' bid price of $16.75 f.o.b. basis.

HAVE YOU NICE HANDS?

You can have if you use Zam-Buk regularly. Women who do their own housework, and constantly have their hands in water, say nothing equals Zam-Buk for keeping the hands in good condition.

Or, if your hands are chapped, one thorough application of Zam-Buk at night will bring ease by morning, and continued use of this balm will heal the cracks and roughness.

Miss Bella Martel, of 25 McKay St., Ottawa, says: "For two winters I suffered terribly from cracked and chapped hands. I tried various salves, which seemed to do them good for a time, but as soon as I went out doors my hands were worse than as bad as ever. A friend advised me to try Zam-Buk, and it has really wonderful how even the first application of this balm stopped the smarting and drew out the soreness. In very short time my hands were quite smooth again. Now I rub Zam-Buk on my hands occasionally throughout the winter, and never have been troubled from cracks or chaps."

For frost-bite, chilblains, cold sores, eczema, boils, ulcers, blood-poisoning, cuts, burns and scalds, Zam-Buk is equally good. All dealers, 50c. box.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Arthur Mandel Renounces Ruth

CHAPTER CXXXVII.

When Ruth, shocked by his appearance, asked Mandel if he were ill, he pulled himself together with an effort and reassured her.

"Just a passing faintness," he explained. "The room is pretty warm." He raised a window. "There, I feel better already." He smiled at her in his old fashion, so dispelling any feeling that she had said or done anything to cause him to look as he had.

But after she had closed the door, Arthur Mandel quietly locked it. Then, in the next half hour, he bade good-by forever to the only dream of married happiness he ever had indulged in; and in manly fashion determined that never would he allow it to interfere with his work, or his friendship for Ruth.

At the same time Ruth was thinking of him. She had not been really sure that she was not learning to care for Arthur Mandel. He had been so considerate, so kind, so much the real friend as well as the employer, that she had not been absolutely certain just what her feelings were toward him. She respected his business acumen; his success. She knew his character was beyond reproach, and she also knew—deny it as she would—that he cared for her. The depth, the strength, of his love she had not—never would—plumb. But she knew he cared. Yet as she thought of him, it was calmly, as she would any good friend who had been so dear to her. Then when her thoughts veered to Brian, they were no longer calm, but she thrilled with love for him—pride in his accomplishments.

"Dear Brian," she murmured as she bent to her work, "I do love you."

Ruth had found a location that she thought ideal for a lawyer's office. The rooms were light and airy, overlooking the bay, and were newly decorated. Almost she felt like engaging them. But common sense came to the rescue and she simply took the refusal of them; explaining that she was Mrs. Hackett. When the real-estate agent asked:

"Not the wife of that Lieutenant Hackett who bagged those Huns unaided?" she had answered with such pride as she never before had felt in any one.

He had given her the refusal of the rooms, and had agreed in her opinion that the war would soon end. But he also had said as had her aunt:

"They will keep a standing army over there for some time."

But some way Ruth felt that Brian would be allowed to return to her, and so expressed herself.

"A woman's intuition is often right. I hope sincerely that yours is," the agent had answered smilingly.

While Ruth told her plan to no one, that is no one who could understand, she did not quite keep it entirely to herself. She would whisper what she hoped to do for his father to Brian, Jr., as she held him in her arms, and crooned over him.

"You have a very brave daddie," she would whisper. "He's coming home soon to get acquainted with you. You'll love him just as mother does. We will be very happy, you and daddie and I. I am going to fix up a lovely place for him, and he will make a lot of money—you see if he doesn't." Some way, when she referred to Brian's business ability, she always hesitated.

"You see, baby mine, we have to be very good, you and me. Daddie is a big man now, and we're two crosses. That means he was very brave, very wonderful. We must be wonderful, too, in some way, to keep up with him. Your daddie looks awfully handsome in his uniform, baby. I wonder if you will ever be as handsome as he is? You look like him now, but there may be enough of me in you to spoil your looks when you grow older. I hope not, I'd love to have you look just like your 'dad.'" All this and much more did Ruth confide to her tiny boy.

Somehow, since Ruth had decided that Brian was so superior to anyone else even in manly—she had loved him in a different way. The old feeling, not that he was inferior personally, but that he possessed business inferiority, had given way to the pride in his accomplishments in the army, and forgotten she had his former failures.

She seldom thought of Mollie in the days after the news of Brian's bravery came to her. If she did, it was to think that she, Mollie, couldn't be with him while he was fighting; and that if the papers were right in their reports, the war would soon be over and he would return to her.

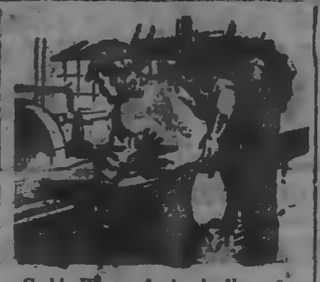
"I'd like to see Mollie King, or anyone else, get him away from me!" she muttered to herself.

To-morrow—A False—Then a True—Peace Proclamation.

LAUGH AND GROW FAT.

"Laugh and grow fat," is an old saying laden with value for nervous people in particular. Drop the worry habit and use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and you will soon get the nervous system restored to good condition. Digestion will improve, appetite will return, and you will find such symptoms as headache and sleeplessness fast disappearing.

Remove the core of a tight curly head of lettuce with a sharp knife and let water run in and the leaves will loosen easily.



Gosh! How my back aches!"

After influenza or colds the kidneys and bladder are often affected—called "nephritis," or inflammation of the kidneys.

This is the red-flag of danger—better be wise and check the further inroads of kidney disease by obtaining that wonderful new discovery of Dr. Pierce's known as "Anuric" (anti-uric), because "Anuric" expels the uric acid poison from the body and cures those pains, such as backache, rheumatism in muscles and joints.

Naturally when the kidneys are deranged the blood is filled with poisonous waste matter, which settles in the feet, ankles and wrists; or under the eyes in baggy-like formations.

Dr. Pierce's Anuric is six times more potent than lithia and often eliminates uric acid as hot water melts sugar.

Four Hours Only—Dr. Pierce's Anuric is the best Kidney remedy I have ever taken. For many years I suffered with my kidneys. I would have backaches, my eyes would puff, and I would have dizzy spells. I also suffered with my bladder, would have sediment, and secretion would be weak and full of sediment. I have taken nearly every well-known kidney remedy on the market, but I have received more relief since taking Anuric than ever before. My back does not bother me any, the secretion has cleared and does not upset me here. I am better in every way than I have been for years.—Chas. Scott, Bexley.

How to Mail Cut Flowers.

You have some lovely forget-me-nots in your garden. You would like Mary to have some, but she is so awkwardly far away. Didn't it occur to you that you could mail them satisfactorily, if you only knew how? Here's how.

Separate the large bunch into smaller bunches of perhaps four or five flowers. Now wring out a wad of absorbent cotton in salt water—a teaspoonful to a pint will be sufficient. Break the damp wad into smaller pieces and wrap firmly about the ends of the stems. Finally wrap flower, stems and all, loosely in newspaper, wax paper if you have it. It is a good plan, too, to line the box with the dampened cotton.

Famine in Cherry Stones.

Scarcity of fruit in Great Britain has interfered with the movement for collecting cherry stones and hard nutshells, in which the boy scouts are taking part. Hundreds of tons are needed every year to make charcoal for gas masks; charcoal from these substances having many times more absorptivity than charcoal made from wood.—Springfield Republican.

Good Rubbers Mean Foot Comfort, Shoe Economy and Health Protection

Why are they comfortable? Because if the Dominion Rubber System brands, you can get just the size and shape of rubbers to perfectly fit every pair of shoes.

That is one advantage of having a great organization like the Dominion Rubber System to study your needs. With factories and service branches all over Canada; and with experts in constant touch with the leading shoe manufacturers, the Dominion Rubber System is able to make and supply your dealer with every style of rubbers required.

How do Rubbers economize on shoes? They protect shoes against slush and rain—make shoes wear longer and hold their shape better—and enable you to wear old shoes in bad weather.

Is it necessary to speak of health protection? With the epidemic of "Flu" so vividly in mind, and the warning of physicians to keep the feet dry, surely no one will run the risk of going without rubbers on wet days!

When you choose rubbers, ask for one of these brands:

"Jacques Cartier" "Merchants" "Maple Leaf"
"Granby" "Dominion" "Daisy"

These trademarks guarantee quality; and behind these trademarks is the Dominion Rubber System, a power of protection to every pair of these guaranteed rubbers.

Horses Used During War Must Be Demobilized.

Another Large Problem

SIR W. B. BIRKBECK, director of remounts of the British army, recently said demobilization involved the dispersal of three-quarters of a million horses. When Sir J. Cowans came to the War Office he had to raise 135,000 horses within fourteen days. In August, 1914, they watched with anxiety the start of that machine, and for two years it was on trial. It grew with the good will of the public, so that the British expeditionary force left England horsed as no army ever had been. Those horses were supplied by the business people of England, and included the best of Leicestershire.

The Kitchener divisions required the bringing to this country of some 700,000 animals; they came from America, Spain, the Argentine, China, Australia, Tunis, Algiers and Somaliland; even Cyprus supplied the useful ass. The horse strength in 1917 was 400,000. The British army establishment had been kept up to full strength until the armistice found it mobile all over the world.

All this was the result of Britain's command of the sea and of her mercantile marine; but the country gentlemen of England also helped the country in the work of buying horses and in manning remount depots. There was not a name well known on the turf, in the hunting field, or in the show ring that was not known in their department. And it was not the sons, but the fathers, who had done all that.

They had also the help of the civil practitioner in the veterinary services, and of the women who had labored hard in order that they should not go short of grooms. In one depot twenty-five women had done all the work in the last two years and had turned out 700 young Irish chargers, losing only two.

Now that they were talking of breaking it all up, and dispersing these horses, they would like the public to see the kind of horses they were offering. During the last four months of 1914 the armies in France lost 12 per cent., or about 3 per cent. per month, during a period that included the retreat from Mons, the battle of the Marne and the first battle of Ypres. In the following year they lost just 14½ per cent. for the whole year, and the following year just over 14 per cent. In 1917 the losses rose to 28 per cent., 10 per cent. of which were in the last three months of the year, the balance of the losses being chiefly owing to the heavy fighting at Vimy Ridge and Passchendaele and the beginning of night bombing. During the last two months they had lost only 2½ per cent., despite some very heavy fighting.

In commercial firms there were generally about 20 per cent. sick or resting but the veterinary returns showed that with the British army in France the highest percentage of the sick and resting was 12½ per cent. Our army had produced an unexampled veterinary service, and their preventive hygiene had been beyond all criticism.

Enumerating some of the difficulties of dispersal, the speaker said there were conflicting interests to be considered. They wanted to sell the horses as quickly as they could, to save expense and to release men, but if they flooded the market they would not get a tenth of the value. There were the conflicting interests of the horse user, the horse breeder, and those who wanted the horses either to be destroyed or brought back to this country to escape slavery in foreign lands.

To meet the difficulty, they were dividing the horses into groups according to their ages and standard. They proposed to bring back to this country for sale only sound horses, not over 12 years old, and to bring them up as near as they could to the numbers wanted. They had taken 17 per cent. of the horses from Great Britain, and reckoned to bring that percentage back, to restore the pre-war situation.

Failing a demand at home, there was a good market in Belgium and Northern France, and they proposed to let Belgians and others have the horses they did not want to bring back to England.

There was an unaccountable prejudice in some places against mules, but not in the army in France. At present they have about 10,000 mules in England, many of which they wanted to sell, though at present people were not inclined to buy. The mule was much more economical than the horse, and had a lower sickness rate. Mule sickness was less than 50 per cent. of horse sickness.

The case of animals in the eastern theatres would give rise to discussion. They had something like 100,000 horses and mules in Egypt. There were three alternatives — repatriation, destruction, or sale. Repatriation was out of the question, as every ship was wanted for more necessary purposes. Destruction was impracticable. Selling was the only course.

The instruction was that animals in the eastern theatres of war were to be disposed of to the best advantage "by sale or otherwise." At the same time commanding officers were instructed to use a liberal discretion in destroying animals, especially those that were of British origin, which could not be repatriated and for which good homes could not be found on the spot.

Sir William Birkbeck concluded by asking what greater expression of good will and comfort could be given than to place unreservedly the whole problem before the public, asking them to hold an even balance between the conflicting interests.

A floor 14 feet square might be covered with a single ounce of gold leaf.

All sour milk should be made into cottage cheese or used in cooking.

Be sure that the children are getting the proper lunches at school.

THE "AGONY" COLUMN.

London Newspaper Advertisements That Make You Smile.

"I have watched you very closely for many weeks. I have now come to the conclusion that it is my fortune only that keeps you silent. May I tell you, in all maiden modesty, that if this is so my fortune will have proved my worst enemy?"

What delightful romance lies behind this delicate appeal to the young Romeo, who apparently fears to woo because of the obstacle of wealth! Let us hope that it has met with all the success it deserves, and that today two fond hearts beat as one in blissful contemplation of Hymen's realms.

A well-known novelist once informed the writer that he had found a hint for many a plot and story in the personal columns of the daily press, which abound in romance, tragedy, pathos, and comedy. What must, however, have impressed many people who read day by day the personal column of The Times, from which the aforementioned advertisement is taken, is the self-assurance and sublime audacity of some of the advertisers, who are evidently convinced that one gets nothing in this world without asking for it.

"Breezy Bill," for instance, thus advertises his wants—not to mention his wonderful qualifications:—

"Refined Englishman, 28, who has super-satiated a cursed wander-lust by adventure, toil, and peril in many lands, seeks position at salary sufficient to enable him to marry the dear little English girl who has been unwaveringly true. Our wants are small. Our happiness will be infinite. Eight years Continent, South America, Far East, South Africa, etc. Experience—accounts, correspondence, tresorial, literary, salesmanship, publicity, three languages; genuine battler, never gets tired; gourmand for work, demon for organization; seeks no sinecure, but will do anything honorable and do it well for £150 p.a."

And surely the world was not quite so hard-hearted as to resist the appeal of the advertiser who thus voiced his troubles and requirements some time ago in The Thunderer:—

"To the Rich.—A gentleman, 27, good-looking six feet, very musical and artistic, good voice, sportsman, whose life since the age of 17 has been a lonely struggle for bare necessaries against insistent ill-luck and disappointments, asks someone who may take an interest, and who would not even miss the means, to give him one year of full, real life, to see the beautiful places and things in the world, and to have funds and carte blanche to gratify his own tastes, and show what the happiness that money gives really is. Address——"

He Did Not Forget.

More than two years ago, Charlie, an old fire department horse at Greencastle, left the station, his place there having been taken by a new motor-truck. Since that time Charlie has been doing heavy hauling for his present owner.

The other day Charley and his working mate were stopped near the fire department station, and one of the firemen ventured the statement that Charlie would still make a good fire horse if the old equipment should have to be resorted to. To prove his contention the fireman unhitched Charlie, led him to his old stall, adjusted the harness above the old wagon and sounded the alarm. The door opened and just as of old Charlie trotted out and ran under the harness ready to make a run. In two years he had not forgotten his lesson. —Indianapolis News.

Mount Rubber.

"Remember Mount Rubber when you come to Newton," urges the Kansan. Mount Rubber is a heap of rubber rubbish on East Broadway, near Main street, which when it assumes the desired proportions, will be sold to old rubber collectors and the proceeds turned over to the Red Cross. The nation needs the rubber, the Red Cross needs the money and the public needs its riddance. "Anything like an old auto tire, bicycle tire, rubber boots, old garden hose, rubber out of your neck—in fact, anything in the form of rubber—can be chucked into the pile and it will be a jolt for the kaiser," says the Kansan.

Overstocked.

Madge as the oldest of a family of girls has evidently heard and taken to heart the disappointment of her parents over the excessive femininity allotted by the generous fates to the family quiver.

When recently the fifth little daughter was born Madge was playing in the garden with one of her sisters and, as a neighbor considered, was decidedly rough with the child.

"Madge, don't treat your little sister so," remonstrated the neighbor. "You might kill her."

"Well, if I did," was the cool response, "there's plenty more in the house."

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus so equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing rambling, hissing sounds in the ears, should give this recipe a trial.

Father of Forty-One.

A laborer's remarkable record surprised the Baltinglass (County Wicklow, Ireland,) Rural Council when applications for cottages were being discussed. It was stated that one of the applicants, John Murphy, had been married five times and has forty-one children. Murphy proudly asserted that his eldest "child" was aged fifty and the youngest a baby, and all the family were fed on rabbits.

Wireless Help Signal.

The symbol "S O S" as used in wireless telegraphy simply means "Hurry up! Drop everything else and get help to me at the earliest possible moment!" Apart from this there is nothing to the call. The letters were selected because they are the best calculated to carry the hurry-up call.

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

"Cleans" Crowd of Cash.

Vacuum gleaning money from street crowds was the striking scheme employed in one of the large cities some weeks ago for the benefit of the Red Cross, says Popular Science Magazine.

A suction pipe was held over the heads of persons congregated on the sidewalk, and contributions solicited by a leather-lunged seaman who shouted through a megaphone. Crisp dollar bills and worn greenbacks, it mattered not which, were drawn in by strong suction force when inserted in the mouth of the tube.

The novelty of the plan attracted passers-by and drew forth many donations.

Bandages Now Made Quickly.

A recent invention which has not been marketed as yet, but is reported to be a great success, is an electric roller for use in making the much needed five-yard rolls of bandages. This new device is not only a great time and labor saver, but requires little practice to learn to operate. The rollers operated by hand, as they have been heretofore, require skill and training to operate them successfully, and the work is strenuous. By rolling electrically the operator is able to keep both hands on the bandage, while in hand operation one hand guides the roll of bandage and the other operates the roller.

Swamp a War Garden.

Too old to be taken into the service, George Hoy, a Japanese resident of Juneau, Alaska, has turned a mosquito swamp into a patriotic garden that has become the admiration of the city.

Radishes in this unique garden send their green tops upward to form the word "Liberty," and near by is formed a bell.

To one side a cross blooms in red sweet peas, while tiny walks, wriggly fences and rocks with flowers wandering over them add to the attractions of the place.

ALWAYS LAND OF TROUBLE

Barbaric Invasion and Czarism Have Molded Russian History, to People's Sorrow.

The backwardness of the Russians can be pretty adequately accounted for by three historical factors. There is, first, the Mongol yoke which rested upon them for nearly two and a half centuries. During the wonderful thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, while England was establishing her parliament and democratic models were being worked out in the free self-governing city states of Italy and the low countries, the Russians lay flattened under an alien Asiatic despotism. By the time they had rid themselves of the Mongols all legal rights of individuals, local communities and social classes had disappeared, leaving the power of the czars unlimited.

In the second place, for a long time after the Muscovites had freed themselves from the Mongols, their settlements in the rich treeless steppes to the south of them—the famous "black soil" destined to become the granary of Russia and, indeed, of Europe—were exposed to raids by the nomad Tartars hemming them on the east and south. Until the days of Peter the Great the Russians were for the most part confined to the less fertile forested region of the North, where they were safe from the incursions of the nomads. Let one imagine how our economic development would have suffered had our ancestors been confined to the wooded region of the upper Ohio and the Great Lakes because the fertile prairies from Indiana to the Rocky mountains lay open to the raids of barbarian horsemen welling up from the great populated area in the Southwest!

Then there was the Romanoff autocracy, which in Shakespeare's day crushed the bulk of the people down into serfdom—which later became slavery—and kept them there for two and a half centuries.—Edward Alsworth Ross in Asia Magazine.

APPEALED TO GIRL'S VANITY

Department Store Clerk Proved That He Had Some Little Knowledge of Human Nature.

Among nonessential citizens, a place must be given to the summer girl who does all her swimming on the beach, in silken togs which never could stand the cruel ocean waves. Whether this type is still in existence or not is a question, but at any rate a conversation overheard recently in a department store gives ground for suspicion.

The ambitious clerk was selling a high-priced bathing suit and was managing the operation in a masterful way. She finally pinned her victim, a fluffy girl, down to a choice between two: one was blue with green trimmings, the other purple with white.

"Do you ever have photos taken in your bathing suit?" asked the clerk.

"Why, sometimes," said the girl, mystified.

"Well," said the inspired clerk, "the reason I ask is because often girls have said that they want suits with contrasting colors because they show up so much better in the pictures. That's why you might like this purple with the white border better than the other, which wouldn't show up nearly so well. I didn't know whether you had thought about it or not, but often girls do have their pictures taken on the beach, you know."—Indianapolis News.

Surely a "Real Lidy."

The cabby was brought before the magistrate for using violent language to a lady.

"But she ain't no lidy," he protested fiercely.

"Indeed!" quoth his worship. "And do you know a lady when you see one?"

"Of course I do!" indignantly answered the man. "Why, only the other day I saw one; she give me a parnd note for a shillin' fare and walked away. 'Hi, mum,' I calls, 'what about yer change?' 'Don't be a blinkin' old fool!' sez she; 'keep it, and git drunk enough to kiss yer mother-in-law.'

"Now, yer worship," he ended, triumphantly, "that's what I call a real lidy."—London Tit-Bits.

Shock Left Her Weak and Nervous

COULD NOT SLEEP

When the system receives a shock of any kind, the heart becomes weakened, the nerves unstrung, the appetite poor, faint and weak feelings come over you, you can't sleep at night, and you wonder if life is worth living.

To all those who suffer from nervous shock we would recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as the best remedy to tone up the entire system and strengthen the weakened organs.

Mrs. J. J. Banyan, Pilot Butte, Sask., writes: "I have used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills after having suffered from a terrible shock to my whole system. I was so utterly weak, and nervous I could not sleep at night, and my appetite was very poor. I could not walk across the floor without trembling all over.

I had hot flushes and fainting spells. When I was on the second box of your Heart and Nerve Pills, I began to feel that they were doing me good, so I kept it until I had used six boxes, when I felt like a different person.

I am never without them in the house, and highly recommend them to all who suffer with their heart."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

BOVRIL

CUSTOM OF COLONIAL DAYS.

"Beating the Bounds" Was Enjoyed by the Boys More in America Than in England.

I believe that, in earliest colonial days, boys also took part in a joyful outing, a public custom known as perambulating or beating the bounds, writes Alice Morse Earle, in her "Child Life in Colonial Days." The memory of boundaries and division lines, of commons, public highways, etc., was kept fresh in the minds of the inhabitants by an old-time Aryan custom,—the walking around them once a year, noting lines of boundary and impressing these on the notice and memory of young people. To produce English boys to accompany these perambulations, it was customary to distribute some little gratuity; this was usually a willow wand, tied at the end with a bunch of points which were bits of string about eight inches long, consisting of strands of cotton or woolen yarn, braided or twisted together, ended by a tag of a bit of metal or wood. These points were used to tie the hose to the linings of the breeches, the waistband of the breeches to the jacket, etc. Long after points were abandoned as a portion of dress, the wands, with their large knot of points, were given. Pepys wrote in 1661, that he heard that, in certain boundaries, the boys were smartly whipped to impress the bounds upon their memories.

Big Oaks For Little Ones.

Years ago there lived a certain backwoods farmer who had a singular faculty for overlooking the most obvious things. Once he swam his horse across a river and stopped at a house near by to borrow a bucket.

"I want to water my hoss down here at the river," he explained.

On another occasion he approached a neighbor and surprised him with the offer of a trade.

"I'd like to swap my three big pigs," he said, "for three little pigs."

"What's that?" demanded the astonished neighbor.

"Well, you see," answered the other, "my pigs have got too big for their pen."

Mining Output Declines.

The Ontario Bureau of Mines reports a decrease in general output for the half year ending June 30. Gold, silver, iron ore and pig iron fell off considerably, and the period now under way promises little better, because of the serious depression in all the metal markets of the world at the present time. There was a slight increase in the mining of copper, nickel, cobalt and their oxides, and there is a likelihood of the gold production rising in the near future. It is the experience of the bureau officials that trade depression does not affect the market for this metal.

Not Worth a Rush.

The expression "Not worth a rush" is as a popular saying the predecessor of the now more common simile "Not worth a straw." In precarpet days it was the custom to strew the floors of dwelling houses. When guests of rank were entertained fresh rushes were spread for them, but folk of lower degree had to be content with rushes that had already been used, while still humbler persons had none, as not even being "worth a rush."—London Standard.

Overstrained.

Hubby was evidently worried and wifey was trying to cheer him up.

"Cheer up, John, and don't worry," she said. "It doesn't do any good to borrow trouble."

"Borrow trouble," echoed her husband. "Great Caesar's ghost! I ain't borrowing trouble; I've got it to lend!"

Nearer to Her Soldier.

Almost one of the first to receive relief from the Patriotic Fund in North Toronto, was Mrs. Frank Sutton, whose husband, a reservist, in the Army Service Corps, went to the war. The fund paid her fare and her child's to England, where she has rejoined her people.

Why, Indeed.

The Doting Mamma (after the brilliant piano solo—My daughter has been practicing for six years. The Grouchy Caller—But why should she practice in public?

Sanitary Troughs.

A new sanitary drinking cup for the exclusive use of cows is now on the market, and its advantages are numerous. First, it is claimed that it will turn many an unprofitable cow into a profitable one by increasing her milk supply. It is obviously also a preventive of disease, and, as a labor saver for the farmer, there is no doubt concerning it.

The cow actually controls the supply of water by lifting, or closing, the lid of the fountain herself. When the lid is raised the supply valve is opened and the drain outlet is closed, while lowering or closing the lid closes the supply valve and opens the drain outlet. No water remains in the cup, as it is at all times empty, except when the cow is actually drinking from it.

Each fountain is attached to the water pipe just the same as an ordinary cock or other plumbing fixture, and no separate or float tank is required. The cover also keeps hay and trash out of the water.

Experiments have shown that a cow will refuse water that is stale and filthy with the miscellaneous debris of the barn lot, and, therefore, her milk supply suffers. This fountain is a stimulant for her to drink large quantities of fresh, clean water.

The modern dairyman cannot fail to appreciate the advantage of this cup and desire to have it installed in his barns.

No up-to-date dairyman can afford to let his animals or business suffer for the sake of saving the original outlay in an investment which will prove more and more profitable as time goes on.—J. Hewitt, in Illustrated World.

Peculiarities of Flight.

If a man falls out of a rising aeroplane or balloon he will not go towards the earth, but will continue rising into the air for an appreciable time. If the air-machine were stopped in its ascent at the time it could catch the man as he came down. If the airship were ascending at the rate of 32 feet a second the man would rise 16 feet before beginning to fall towards the earth. Thus, by reducing the speed of its ascent, the vessel might keep by the side of the man and rescue him.

The reason why the man rises is the same as the reason for a bullet's rising when shot from a gun into the air—both the man and the bullet are given a velocity upwards, and it takes some time for gravity to negative that velocity.—Glasgow News.

Practical Jimmy.

My little cousin went away with his mother to visit his aunt in the country. His mother went in fear and trembling at the thought of how he would misbehave. But to her surprise he was angelic during the whole visit—always did as he was told and never misbehaved. As soon as he entered his own home, however, he was his natural self again.

"Why, Jimmy," she said, "you were so good while you were away, why do you start acting badly now?"

"What's home for?" asked Jimmy.—Chicago Tribune.

Novel Contribution Box.

A Minnesota man has invented a novel contribution box for churches. If a person drops in a quarter or more there is silence; if he contributes a dime a bell rings; a nickel sounds a whistle. If an unfortunate pretends to be asleep when the box is passed, it wakens him with a watchman's rattle. It is said that a Nebraska man has perfected an invention which enables the user of a party telephone to identify any other subscriber who may be listening to his conversation. Even the milder transgressions are becoming impossible.

Kidding.

A buck was hauled up before the C. O. for missing, reveille and asked why he failed to get out of the hay.

"Why, sir," says the buck, "I told Greer sleeping on one side of me. Brown on the other, White above me and I am red-headed, so I figgered I was camouflaged and that the top wouldn't see me."—Plane News.

Literally.

"Did you see where a big bombing plane to show its capacity carried a piano from Paris to London?"

"Well, that was music in the air."

CLAIMS CENTURY-OLD FUND

Chilean Government Asks Return of Unexpended Portion of Indemnity Paid in 1821.

The full bench of the Massachusetts supreme court has been called upon to determine the ownership of a fund nearly a century old, which is claimed by the commonwealth of Massachusetts on one hand and the Chilean government on the other.

In 1821 an American ship returning from China to Boston was seized by Chilean revolutionists and its cargo confiscated. When normal conditions prevailed in Chile the United States demanded indemnity and Chile paid $70,400.

William H. Gardiner of Brookline, Mass., was selected to distribute the money among those entitled to it. He executed the trust except as to two Chinese—known only as Paqua and Moqua, merchants—and Thomas Furber of Boston. Mr. Gardiner failed to locate these persons or their representatives. When he died the trust was transmitted to his son and upon the latter's death to the grandson and great-grandson, Robert H. Gardiner and Robert H. Gardiner, Jr., who are now its custodians.

The present holders of the fund have searched through the records of the state department, through the American consular service at Canton China, and through various other sources, for the heirs of Paqua, Moqua and Thomas Furber, without success.

SURELY SOME CRAP SHOOTER

Dusky Stevedore in France Was Rapidly Getting Rich at Expense of His Comrades.

They used to shoot some craps in stevedore company No. ——, but they don't any more. This as a consequence of a stern company order issued after a prolonged argument with the dice which followed the first payday on this side.

The was a game at every opportunity for about a week, and then came a lull. Simultaneously with the lull the men began to turn up shy of apparel and equipment. Investigation disclosed that one dusky private with a pair of dice that behaved particularly well had made a sensational clean-up.

He had gathered most of the francs in the company in the first three days and then started on personal effects. At the conclusion of the series he had nearly enough francs to finance a war of his own and more clothes than the supply sergeant, not to speak of 36 identification tags, seven boxes of C.C. pills, a bottle of castor oil, 11 towels, most of the soap in the company and a packing case full of other articles. At the suggestion of the captain he returned all of the belongings and most of the francs.

"Ah learned dat game in de old Tenth cavalry," he exclaimed, "and Ah just want'd to show dese new soldiers dat dey didn't know nuffin' 'bout it."

FARMING IN FRANCE

HOW IT LOOKS TO CANADIAN AGRICULTURIST.

Soldier Who Was Formerly an Expert In Such Matters, Tells His Impression of the French Methods—Orchards Destroyed by the Hun Invaders Are Very Sad Sight.

ONE of the best accounts of agriculture, as practiced in the vicinity of the fighting front in France, is given by A. B. Cutting, formerly an editor of several Toronto agricultural periodicals, who enlisted with a Canadian battalion at Winnipeg, and, as Sergt. Cutting, saw considerable service with the colors. His article appears in a recent number of "The Farmer," St. Paul, of which his brother, M. C. Cutting, an Ontario College graduate, is an associate editor. Sergt. A. B. Cutting, who is also a graduate of the O. A. C., is now lecturing on horticulture in the Khaki University.

The following are extracts from Sergt. Cutting's article, which is under the heading, "Agriculture in and Near No Man's Land":

"The agriculture of No Man's Land is mostly non-existent. By 'No Man's Land' I refer to all France that has been the scene of battle. Every foot of such land has been a No Man's Land at one time or another.

"Farming was carried on there in some sections that remained quiet long enough for preparing the soil and sowing the seed, but the swaying of offensives from March to September so trampled under foot or blew to smithereens' the promise of crops that the harvest was infinitesimal, compared with what might have been. Sufficient was salvaged, however, to make the work of harvesting worth while. Everyone knows which side did the harvesting after the middle of July!

"To agriculture in No Man's Land the 'unkindest cut of all' is the wanton destruction of orchards everywhere that the Hun has been. Nearly every tree not ruined already by shell fire has been felled or irreparably damaged by axe or saw. To me these orchards are among the saddest sights of the battlefields.

"In definite and delightful contrast to the desolation of No Man's Land lie the fields of France behind the lines. Every effort to make increased production help win the war is being put forth by the people. And the wonder of it all is, to me, how they manage to till such large areas and produce the fine qualities, heavy crops that they do by the practice of almost primitive methods—practices and implements like those of pioneer days in America — even on their poorest land, clayey, shaley, some of it hard chalk. Everything is done intensively, to be sure; extensive farming, as known in America, is not practiced. Farming methods in central and southern France are more modern, I am told. I write here only what I have actually seen in the northern and northwestern parts of the country.

"Three things attract the eye forcibly when viewing the farming landscapes outside the villages. First is the terraced hillsides. Apparently, the Frenchman does not like working up and down hills, even moderate slopes. Instead, by terracing, which must be a long, laborious job, he turns the hillside into a series of level fields that look like broad steps ascending from earth to sky-line. Even if the farmer does not cultivate the rises of the steps, he has increased the surface area of his farm. Make a drawing and figure it out! Note that I did not say 'tillable' area! Most farmers, however, do cultivate the rises as well as the treads, wherever practicable.

"The second thing that attracts specially is the 'patch work' appearance of the farms. A number of various sized, shaped and colored little plots, all unfenced, appear sewn (not sown) together into a gigantic crazy quilt. The scenic effect is pleasing; but one cannot help wondering if the practical effect on production and one pocket-book of having, say, a half-dozen one- or two-acre patches of wheat separated by a similar number of like areas of potatoes or barley or rye on the same farm, is satisfactory.

"Very few modern implements are used. I have seen a few antiquated reapers and binders, and a mower or two, but these are exceptions. It may be that better kinds of implements were used before the war than are in use to-day. Better kinds surely will be used after the war, if the people heed the demonstrations of efficiency given by agricultural implements imported from the United States and Canada into France by military authority for purposes connected with the war.

"One thing among the many that the French farmer does know is that land will not produce good crops year after year without being fertilized. Every pound of manure that his stables produce and that he can beg or buy (in trade) goes on the land. None is wasted, except by exposure and leaching in barnyards.

"Among the interesting sights of the harvest field are clover in cocks so small that a child could lift one; hay of all kinds in cocks tied with thongs at the top; grain in shocks much larger than made in America; and hay, straw and unthreshed grain in symmetrical, many shaped stacks, of which the French and also the English and Scottish farmers are master builders.

"Every farmer seems to have plenty of horses, such as they are. All the good horses in the country have been commandeered for army purposes, except a number of pure-breds left in selected localities for breeding. Those left for working the farms are mostly the culls. The predominating type is heavy draught, showing Percheron blood, mostly grey in color, massive in bone and conformation, and poor in quality.

"I hoped to see the kind of stallions that were offered for service throughout the country, but managed to see only two, both of which would be disqualified in an American show ring for sheer audacity alone. Let us consider them exceptions, which probably they were. Most farmers have at least one or two mares of good breeding qualities even though they may be old and blemished. There are also lots of really good colts, too young as yet for work either on the farm or at the front.

"Cattle in this part of the country are all red in color. While I have been in France, at rest or training in various villages and on the move in train or bus or on foot over many miles of farming country, I have seen no more than a dozen head of cattle that were other than red in color. This characteristic coupled with comparison with breeds that I know or have read about makes me think that these cattle originated in Normandy. I have asked a dozen farmers, by means of my 'pidgin' French or through interpreters, what breed their cows were, and not one could tell me. To them they were 'just cows.' At any rate, they are good general purpose cattle for general purpose farmers.

"The cows are milked very early in the morning and often not again until about nine o'clock at night. Some farmers milk three times a day. English and Scottish soldiers can buy this milk at eight or ten cents a quart, even less sometimes; but the Canadians and the Yanks, all of whom are considered millionaires by most peasants, are hondred with a special price that ranges anywhere from twelve to twenty cents, according to the man, the maid and the moment.

"Goats also are raised extensively for milk, meat and work. Of sheep and swine, I can say very little. The few of the former that I have seen were poor specimens, and the many of the latter were worse. There are lots of good live stock in France, pure-bred and grade, but that kind is not prevalent in districts near the war zone.

"Poultry are plentiful. Every village housewife keeps a large flock of hens, usually scrubs, to which she attends with great care and solicitude."

Stomach Troubles Are Due To Acidity

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief For Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antacid, such as bisurated magnesia which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

probably not a month's supply left. I rejoiced. You see, I don't own an automobile, and, what is more, my nerves must be sensitive, because they worry me.

"If I had my way I'd restrict the use of automobiles from nine o'clock in the morning to six o'clock at night. But—well, when I thought the gasoline was giving out, I must confess I rejoiced. Selfish? Maybe. But I had no sooner rejoiced than I thought —"

The mournful man smiled sorrowfully.

"I thought," he said, "that with all the automobiles out of business, there would be just that many more people to ride on the street cars."—Washington Star.

Was Troubled With BOILS FOR SIX MONTHS.

From the days of Job to the present time, boils have been one of the greatest afflictions of the human race.

Very few people escape from having them at some time.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do won't cure them and stop more coming.

Boils are caused by bad blood bursting out, and the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.

Burdock Blood Bitters is the greatest blood purifier known. It cleanses the system, and purifies the blood by removing every particle of foul material from the system, and when this is done, never another boil comes and health and strength are permanently restored.

Mr. C. K. Bridges, 470 Barton St. E., Hamilton, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with boils for about six months and tried several remedies without any relief until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters, and the effect has been wonderful. After using two bottles, I got rid of them all. I feel like a new man; my appetite is better, and I sleep better than I have for years. I can highly recommend B. B. B. to all who are troubled as I was."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for the past 40 years, and manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ALL HAVE THEIR FAVORITES

Most Novelists Admit Decided Preference for Certain Children of Their Brain.

It is no secret that Mowgli, the wolf boy of the "Jungle Books," is Mr. Kipling's prime favorite, or that Rodney Stone, that fine fighter and gallant Englishman, takes precedence even of Sherlock Holmes in the affections of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

Thomas Hardy much prefers to consider himself a poet rather than a story writer, but among the many characters he has created he loves Tess best of all, and it is rumored that H. G. Wells has a sneaking affection for his Tono Bungay.

It is often difficult to account for prejudices, for likes and dislikes. The mother often loves her least worthy lad best. Mark Twain doted on Huckleberry Finn. Dickens had a soft place in his heart for the Artful Dodger, and it is said that W. W. Jacobs loves best his sly, diplomatic, cool poacher and general scapegrace, Bob Pretty.

Jerome K. Jerome has never lost his first love for "Three Men in a Boat." It made his name known in two hemispheres, and he feels he owes it a debt of gratitude.

Allan Quartermain is an easy first in the heart of Sir H. Rider Haggard; Marie Corelli's favorite among her own works is "Thelma," and Sir Hall Caine's "The Manxman;" while nobody else can ever take the place of Bobbie, the gipsy lass of "The Little Minister," in the love of Sir James Barrie.

"Kaiser Wilhelm Land" Worthless

THE Kaiser, it must be confessed, has earned immortality in history. His "rep" can no more pass away than that of Nero or Attila the Hun. But his name will soon vanish forever from the map of the world.

The largest territorial area with which it is associated is Kaiser Wilhelm Land, which may be roughly described as the northeast one-fourth of the island of New Guinea. It was German property before the war, but was promptly seized by New Zealand troops.

When the question of the disposal of German colonies comes up before the Peace Conference, Australia and New Zealand will declare in the most emphatic way that Kaiser Wilhelm Land must under no circumstances be given back. New Guinea is just across the way from the north coast of Australia, being separated from the latter by a mere channel called Torres Strait, and possession of the territory in question by Germany would constitute a chronic menace.

Australia being reckoned as a small continent, New Guinea is the largest island in the world, being equal in area to France and the British Isles combined. The western half is owned by Holland; the southeast one-fourth was already British before the war.

Kaiser Wilhelm Land (which will no longer bear that malodorous name) is very interesting if only for the reason that it is the least-known region on the habitable globe. It has never been explored, and only a narrow strip along the coast has been mapped. Its inhabitants are sooty-black negroes of formidable physique, who are ferocious cannibals, their favorite outdoor sport being head-hunting—the acquisition, that is to say, of skulls for trophies and of human meat for feasts.

Their hair is worn in a kinky fuzz the size of half a bushel basket. Dwelling nearly on the line of the equator, they are able to dispense almost entirely with clothes. The teeth of the men are laboriously chipped to points, and often they wear crowns of bird-of-paradise feathers attached to bands of plaited grass encircling the head. Sometimes they are adorned with halos, the rays of which are many pieces of cane plaited into the hair and standing out at right angles.

For further ornament, the warrior who affects dandyism may split the beak of a hornbill into two pieces and pass them through a hole in the septum of his nose, so that the thin white blades, five or six inches long, curve upward like the former Kaiser's moustache.

The reason why Kaiser Wilhelm Land is to-day almost a terra incognita is that its climate is next door to impossible for white folks. It is a country of vast swamps beset by deadly fevers. Nearly everywhere save the lofty mountain chain that, running from west to east, forms the backbone of the island, there is wet and torrid heat and noxious insects and deadly reptiles.

Hence it is that Kaiser Wilhelm Land does not invite settlement and discourages exploration. Strangers are not welcomed, except for meals, and then only to furnish the piece de resistance. The natives are constantly fighting, and much of the time drunk on a fermented liquor derived from the sugar cane.

They live in long communal houses without partitions, each family having its own fireplace, and its own doorway, outside of which are stacked the owner's spears and stone clubs, for use against enemies or in settling domestic differences. Skulls and bones of defunct relatives hang from the rafters blackened with smoke. Wives are cheap, the price of a fairly good-looking one being a yard of calico.

Such Women Just Have to "Give Up"

"Man may work from sun to sun, but woman's work is never done." That's why women are overworked, nervous, all run down, no appetite, and can "hardly drag around." Vinol creates a hearty appetite, strengthens the digestive organs, induces sound sleep, invigorates the nerves, and in this natural manner creates working strength.

Narragansett Pier, R.I.

"I was all run-down, back ached, and tired all the time. I keep house for my husband and four children and could hardly keep around. Finally I tried Vinol and it has restored my health and helped me wonderfully, so I recommend it to others who are in this condition." Mrs. Hannah Randall.

Jacksonville, Ill.

"I have house for my little family, but got into a weak, nervous, run-down condition, could do but little and no sewing. My doctor told me to try Vinol, and in a week I felt like a new person. I can now attend to my work, and do all my sewing for my family, and do it with ease." Mrs. O. F. Lawson.

For all run-down, nervous, anaemic conditions, and for weak, feeble old people and delicate children, there is no remedy like Vinol.

STRUCTURE BUILT OF HAY

Alfalfa Growers of the Yakima Valley Used Novel Method to Advertise Their Product.

To advertise their agricultural products the folks of the Sunnyside reclamation project, in the state of Washington, built last summer a brand-new kind of structure. They called it a hay palace.

It was built wholly of baled hay—alfalfa hay of the best quality, 6,000 tons of it, contributed by the farmers of Yakima valley. Some house! Well, yes. It was 150 feet long, 100 feet wide and 25 feet high, with an exterior effect somewhat resembling that of a medieval fortress.

Inside of it were exhibits of every imaginable kind relating to the field and garden products of the valley. Also an auditorium, with a stage for speakers, music and vaudeville acts. The palace was illuminated by electricity and cooled by electric fans.

But, although the Yakima valley produces wonderful fruits and vegetables, its big money-getting crop is alfalfa. The celebration at the hay palace (which was, incidentally, a sort of carnival) was planned mainly for the purpose of bringing together the grower and consumer of alfalfa hay, with elimination of the much-objurgated middleman.

On the last day of the fair the hay from which the palace was constructed was sold at auction to the highest bidders and the proceeds were distributed pro rata among the farmers who had contributed the material.

STATUES FOR POETS.

Scotland's Great Monument to Sir Walter Scott.

London has not many outdoor statues to poets. Shakespeare appears twice—in Leicester Square and Hamilton Place. Within a stone's throw of the latter site Byron, with his famous dog, Boatswain, by his side. Facing the crowded street behind the railings of St. Giles', Cripplegate, stands a beautiful statue of Milton, who was buried in the church, and on the Thames Embankment, pen in hand and gazing across old Father Thames, sits the "immortal peasant," Bobbie Burns.

At Rochdale, the Lancashire cotton town, may be seen the statue of Edwin Waugh, who has been called the "Lancashire Burns," and at Colchester there is a beautiful statue erected to William Barnes, who, although a man of great culture and learning, wrote exclusively in the Dorset dialect—a dialect which, next to the Scottish, has probably had most literary exponents.

An admirable statue of Tennyson adorns the town of Louth, where the Poet Laureate was a schoolboy, and where he and his brother had their earliest poems printed, and, as far as the present writer is aware, these are the only statues to poets in the provinces. Probably readers will supply others.

One of the finest memorials in the world commemorates a poet, the author of "The Lady of the Lake" and "Marmion." This is the Scott monument, the chief ornament of Princes street, Edinburgh. The statue is seated under a magnificent canopy, and by his side is his favorite collie, Maida. This remarkable memorial also shows the correct likeness of sixteen other Scottish poets and statuettes of sixty-four of Scott's "characters."

Scotland has another beautiful statue to a poet, but very few people see this in comparison with the crowds who view the Scott monument, for it stands—or rather, sits—beside St. Mary's Loch in Ettrick Forest. It commemorates James Hogg, who was called "The Ettrick Shepherd," and, as in Scott's case, his dog, too, enjoys a twin immortality—the faithful sheep-dog Lutham, which was the poet's constant companion for many years.

A Valuable Fish.

The island of Barbados is said to be kept free from malaria by the tiny fish known as "millions," which devour the larvae in the early stages of development.

WHEN MAKING OUT A CHECK

Take Time Enough to Write Legibly and Be Sure Amount is Indicated Clearly in Writing.

Do you know how to write a check so that it cannot be successfully tampered with? Experts declare that carelessness in that small matter is responsible for the loss of millions of dollars annually, the loss falling sometimes on the individual and sometimes on the bank. There are mechanical devices to prevent the raising of checks, but their use is not general, partly because of the expense, but more particularly, probably, because it adds one more to the multitude of things to be done.

For those who are daily taking chances William G. Pengelly, handwriting expert in a recent paper, offers some valuable advice in the drawing of checks. His first suggestion is to take enough time for the process to be sure of doing a good job. In filling in the space for the amount in numerals, write in legible figures, beginning close to the printed dollar mark; don't leave space for the insertion of another figure. Then write the amount in words, preferably beginning with a capital, at the left-hand end of the line; don't write so that the amount stands in the middle of the line; having written the amount properly, draw a heavy line from the last letter to the word "Dollars" at the right. As he says, "block the words in" so that additions cannot be easily made either at the beginning or at the end. When the words are written clearly and with an initial of unmistakable identity, the check-raiser has little opportunity for his work.

Another safeguard Mr. Pengelly suggests is the writing of the amount of the check, either in figures or words, in red ink, above or within the signature at the bottom. In his experience he has found this to be a successful safeguard against fraud. But the all-important things are legibility of handwriting and proper location of the written amounts. Don't be in a hurry in writing a check. It is a haste that makes trouble.—Columbus Dispatch.

TRIED TO ROOF SEA.

Desperate German Plan Proved a Failure.

The Germans built great "train sheds" in the water to shelter their submarines at Bruges, Belgium, from bombs dropped from the air.

The sheds have concrete roofs 11 feet thick, and are of massive proportions. From early in 1917 until the Huns were forced to abandon Bruges altogether, 4,000 workmen were employed in building the great sheds for the underseas boats.

Hundreds of concrete pillars, each two feet thick and 25 feet high, supported the heavy roof. Eight of the shelters had been completed and the ninth was being built when the Germans decided to run along home.

In the very early days of the war the Germans clearly planned the harbors of Zeebrugge and Ostend as permanent bases and repair stations for their submarines, the original boats being built at Hoboken works, near Antwerp. The first large repair works appear to have been situated at the Atelier de la Marine at Ostend, but it is probable that the docks at Bruges, which are connected with Zeebrugge by a ship canal, were being developed at an early period of the war.

Largely owing to offensive naval operations off the Belgian coast, assisted by aircraft, the two harbors became exceedingly unhealthy shelters for such comparatively fragile craft as submarines, and after the bombardment of May, 1916, the large floating docks at Ostend were towed around to Zeebrugge, and so up to Bruges.

Following up this initial victory with great vigor, British airmen commenced, in January, 1917, an intensive bombing campaign, directed chiefly against the docks at Bruges, the lock-gates and harbor at Zeebrugge, and the ship canal itself, which was, of course, the only outlet by which the submarines could gain access to the sea.

Some idea of the severity of these attacks may be gained from the fact that no fewer than 6,193 bombs were dropped upon Bruges docks alone, while a similarly large number were dropped upon Zeebrugge and Ostend.

Apart from the immense and continuous damage caused to the Mole, sidings, quays, railways and shipping at Zeebrugge, the lock-gates themselves — a singularly difficult target to hit, even from a low height—were kept practically always under repair. Indeed, on several occasions, as the result of direct hits by British airmen, one of the gates had to be removed by immense floating cranes, and a spare gate fitted, the damaged gate being towed laboriously to Bruges for repair in dryrock.

Owing to the great damage which was caused by the Germans on their evacuation of the docks, it is difficult to differentiate between their deliberate work and the destruction resulting from the terrific bombing from the air during the last few months of the war. Information from various sources, however, makes it abundantly clear that the enemy's decision to give up the port of Bruges, as a repair base for submarines, was in the main due to his inability to defend it against the increasingly powerful attacks from the air.

The biggest explosion ever experienced in Bruges was caused by British airmen at La Brouqueise works, May 31, 1918. The concussion was felt all over the city, and the flames lit up the sky for many miles around. It is said that the explosion wrought so much destruction of valuable machinery that work was never properly resumed in these extensive factories.

Psalms Not Barred.

The other evening Miss Y., a maiden lady of uncertain years, suspecting the cook was entertaining her beau downstairs, called Martha and inquired whether she did not hear some one talking with her.

"Oh, no, ma'am!" cried the quick witted Martha. "It was of me singing a psalm."

"Very good," returned Miss Y. significantly. "You may amuse yourself with psalms, but let's have no hims."

For Baby's Bath.

If the baby is afraid of the water and cries and screams when taking his bath buy several pretty colored cork "bobbers" such as fishermen use. Throw these in the bathtub and baby will be so busy trying to catch them that he will forget to be afraid of his morning bath and will even learn to like it.—Mother's Magazine.

Bush Rangers Laid Off.

All the bush rangers who have been employed by the Ontario Government in the north country during the summer months, have been released for the balance of the year. The heavy rains of late have made it unnecessary to keep them any longer.

Insects and Flowers.

Experiments on showy flowers like the poppy tend to show that insects are not always attracted to flowers by the brightly colored petals, but rather by the perception doubtless by means of smell that there is honey or pollen. In these experiments the unopened flower bud is inclosed in a gauze net so as to protect it from insects, and when it expands the petals are carefully removed without touching the remaining parts with the fingers (for bees avoid a flower if the smell of human fingers is left on it) and the petalless flowers receive practically as many insect visits as untouched flowers do.

How To Kill Dandruff So It Won't Return

By A Specialist

That the dandruff germ is responsible for nearly all the diseases to which the scalp is heir, as well as for baldness and premature gray hair, is a well known fact, but when we realize that it is also indirectly responsible for many other diseases as well, we appreciate the importance of any agent that will destroy its power. We are therefore, particularly pleased to give herewith the prescription which a famous scalp specialist states he has found after repeated tests, to completely destroy the dandruff germs in from one to three applications. It will also almost immediately stop falling hair and it has in numerous cases produced a new hair-growth after years of partial baldness. This prescription can be made up at home, or any druggist will put it up for you; 3 ounces Bay Rum, 2 ounces Lavona de Composee, one-half dracham Menthol Crystals. Mix thoroughly, and after standing an hour it is ready for use. Apply night and morning, rubbing into the scalp with the finger tips. If you wish it perfumed, add 1 dracham of your favourite perfume. While this preparation is not a dye it is unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original colour.

Tobacconists' Selling Snuff.

What has become of the good old-fashioned persons who used to take out their fancy snuff-boxes and indulge in this form of the weed in private or in public? The fact that the use of snuff is now no longer manifest, however, is not an indication that the habit has disappeared, for it hasn't. In fact, from what the manager of a cigar store says there is more snuff used now than ever before known. This statement amazed the reporter who heard it.

"Gracious, who uses it anyhow?" said a customer. "I swear I have not seen a man with a snuffbox in twenty years."

"Perhaps you haven't, and I suppose there is not much snuff used in the city itself as was the case twenty-five years ago, but we sell large quantities of it to out of town customers. People in the country districts still use it as they did years ago. However, while we still use a great deal here in the city, it is no longer snuffed up the nose but is used as a chewing tobacco. We sell as much as five pound boxes of it, and you will be surprised how many men, when they once try it prefer it to any other kind of chewing tobacco. What has become of the snuff boxes? I really don't know, except that I have heard that most of the snuffboxes are now in the hands of collectors of that kind of curios. Some of the fancy and bejewelled snuffboxes made in France in the last century bring big prices and are considered of great value."

GIRLS! LEMON JUICE IS SKIN WHITENER

How to make a creamy beauty lotion for a few cents

The juice of two fresh Lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quarter pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal softener, whitener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any drug store and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands.

MRS. BROWN A WELL WOMAN ONCE MORE

Was Confined to Her Bed and Chair For Over Two Years Before Taking Tanlac.

"Some strange things happen in this world and the change Tanlac has brought about in my wife's condition is one of them," said J. L. Brown, a resident of College Park, Ga.

"For over two years," he continued, "my wife had so much trouble with her stomach that she could hardly take any nourishment at all but a milk diet, and she fell off till she was little more than a living skeleton. She got little rest or sleep at night, had no energy at all and was so weak and rundown that most of her time was spent in bed or in her chair. Her skin was sallow and unhealthy looking and she didn't seem to take interest in anything.

"In fact she was about as bad off as she could be to be alive when she started taking Tanlac, and just a few bottles of this wonderful medicine have made her a well woman once more. She now eats anything she wants, sleeps like a child has gained twenty pounds and is able to do all her housework as well as she ever did."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Keene by Rogers by W. A. Hunter, in Gilbert by J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Prindle & Son.

SPLENDID WORK OF DIVER

Feat of Underwater Repairing on Wrecked Steamer Is Given High Praise by Shipping Men.

One of the most remarkable feats in the history of American labor, according to Capt. Louis Turner, representing marine underwriters, was the submarine repairing of a steamer salvaged off the California coast by a diver named Theodore Wicks. The success of this man in his perilous work made it possible to raise the vessel for further important service in the government's war program, where shipping is so urgently needed.

There were fully 100 patches of temporary nature to be put on the shattered sides of the vessel while it was bumping about on the rocks, making it by all odds the biggest job of the kind ever attempted on the Pacific coast. The biggest patch was ten feet wide and 16 feet long. Three layers of inch plank, with canvas between, were used in patching. This kept the water out while the ship was being pumped.

Large numbers of shipping men visited the dry dock where the ship went after Diver Wick's exploits, and were astonished that it had been possible to salvage the vessel at all. The diver's work is viewed all along the coast as an inspiration to labor in its great task of winning the war.

The Thimble.

The thimble was originally called a thumbell by the English, because worn on the thumb, then a thumble, and finally its present name. It was a Dutch invention, and was first glass and pearl. In China beautiful carved pearl thimbles are seen. Brought to England in 1695, thimbles were formerly made only of iron and brass, but in comparatively late years they have been made of gold, silver, steel, horn, ivory, and even glass and pearl thimbles are seen, bound with gold and with the end of gold.

FORESAW RAPACITY OF HUNS

Many Years Ago Charles Dickens Looked Into the Future With Vision Remarkably Prophetic.

There is something almost uncanny about the accuracy with which Charles Dickens foresaw the Hun and his aims as we know them today. Not long ago there was quoted part of Dickens' reply to an invitation to become a member of a peace society that a number of persons were endeavoring to form in 1849. The words written then by the great English author are worth repeating:

"Look out toward Austria, look out toward Germany," he counseled. "Do you see nothing there?

"I tell you that it is because there are the wild beasts of the forest . . . because I would not be soldier ridden, nor have other men so, because I dread and hate the miseries and tyranny of war, that I am not for the disarming of England, nor can I be a member of your peace society."

Every reader of "Little Dorrit" will remember the landlady of the "Break of Day Inn" of Chalons. Words of this French character of his have a peculiarly prophetic ring. Hese they are.

"And I tell you this my friend . . . That there are people whom it is necessary to detect without compromise. That there are people who must be dealt with as enemies of the human race. That there are people who have no human heart, and who must be crushed like savage beasts, and cleared out of the way."

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous days poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a slight, pungent twinge which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real crank on the subject shortly.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Right Girl

By EUNICE WARRINGTON

(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Loraine hotel."

"Yes, madam."

Icily, regular in tone, poise and face, Miss Norma Deere bestowed a cure glance upon the young man in the chauffeur's seat of the machine drawn up by the side of the little country depot. The young man in question who had a pipe between his teeth and wore a careless negligee suit, slipped upon the rear door of the automobile promptly.

Miss Deere swept into the rear seat with the queenly air that was her own solely. Her companion and cousin, Elva Morris, who followed her, was her direct opposite.

Miss Deere made a distinctive exit as the breeze wafted a tiny current of smoke from the pipe of the chauffeur in her direction. Promptly she removed the offending, cherished and almost constant object.

"Oh, no!" interrupted Elva brightly. "My brother smokes most of the time, and I like it," but she was too late, for the young man had tapped out the contents of the offending pipe. "The hotel is only a mile distant," he said, "but they are fixing the regular road. A two-mile detour will give us more comfortable travel."

"No," dissented Miss Deere incisively. "I am wearied with the rail journey. Get to the hotel the short

Mr. Chauffeur shrugged his shoulders tiredly. At a side glance he caught a mischievous twinkle in the eye of the of dainty grace. He started down the road under repair. Something over half a mile accomplished, there was a jangle. The auto stopped and short.

"These countryside autos!" scolded Miss Deere. "We might have known! Chauffeur, how far is the hotel?"

"You can see it through the trees, over yonder—possibly a quarter of a mile."

"Very well," I will walk it, if you will carry my suitcase. Come, Elva."

"Not I," retorted the little elf. "I dote on mishaps and breakdowns. Besides, I am afraid of snakes in that long grass, and frogs, and—and all kinds of dreadful things. Besides, too, it is our fault, compelling this gentleman to take a bad road. I shall wait and help him out of his trouble.

"Elva!" uttered Miss Deere in a chilling tone.

"There—there, dear; each to her liking," and Elva showed her independence by leaping out of the machine and glancing underneath it, while Miss Deere proceeded on her way, the obliging chauffeur lugging her suit case. She handed him half a dollar as they reached the hotel. He tipped his cap and started back for the stalled machine, a queer expression on his face.

Its queerness changed to marveling wonder as, nearing it, he came to an astounded halt. Just creeping out from under it was a dainty, agile form encased in jumpers twice too big for her. Face splotched with oil, hands black with grime, Elva Morris smiled up at him oddly.

"I declare!" he uttered, and with fervent admiration.

"Don't!" disbanded the tireless Elva. "I found the old suit under the seat. I often help brother do his repairs. I love the work. It's fixed—only some crossed wires. If you will show me to retire to yonder woodland dressing room, I will restore the working suit. Oh, dear! I'm all daubed up, I suppose I can fix that at the hotel."

"I can help a little here and now," submitted the chauffeur, and seemed to enjoy delicately removing the spots from hands and face.

"Won't you come in and clean up, Mr. Burt?" she invited, as the auto halted in front of the hotel. He gave quite a start.

"How did you know my name?" he questioned in wonderment, and she pointed to his card case that had slipped from his pocket onto the driving seat. "I've heard of you before, too. Arnold Morris, who went with you to Columbia, is my brother."

"You don't say, it!" cried Walter Burt fervently. "Then you will explain to your friend that I am a sort of accommodating fellow, and sustained my role of chauffeur because her magnificence stunned me, I shall be obliged."

Miss Norma Deere had come down to the pleasant summer resort at the hint of a maneuvering friend that he was the catch of the season. She nearly fainted away when Elva apprised her of the identity of the chauffeur. There were formal introductions next day, but Miss Deere, jealously regarding Elva and realizing the bad impression she had made, knew that she had lost out.

"Don't scold me," pleaded Elva in her pretty, innocent way one day, after a long automobile spin with Walter. "Of course, I'm sort of under your guardianship, and all that, but you weren't around to consult, and it was so sudden, and I had never been kissed before. And he did it so prettily!"

"What in the world are you talking about?" demanded Miss Deere, half suspecting, and with her characteristic snappiness of temper.

"Only this," faltered Elva meekly, as I showed her an engagement ring, "from Walter."

A Massif.

The war continues to enrich our vocabulary. News from France that the allies have captured the entire "massif" of Lassigny will cause another searching of dictionaries, by which it will be revealed that a massif is a mountainous group of connecting heights, sometimes isolated and sometimes forming part of a larger mountain system, more or less clearly marked off by valleys. The word is French in origin, but has been adopted without change by English and American geologists and physical geographers.—Ottawa Citizen.

"We Want Candy Cascarets"

Resolved: That when our tongues turn white, breath feverish, stomach sour and bowels constipated, that our mothers give us Cascarets, the nice candy cathartic, and not nasty castor oil, mineral oil, calomel or pills. Cascarets "work" without griping and never hurt us kids. Cost only 10 cents.

TO MOTHERS! Learn to give harmless Cascarets to your cross, sick, bilious, constipated pets and save coaxing, worry and money. Children love this candy cathartic. Nothing else cleanses the little liver and bowels so effectively. Each 10 cent box of Cascarets contains directions for dosage for children aged one year old and upwards.

Eat more Candy

"CANDIES are among the attractive and useful forms in which sugar is used as a food."
—Canada Lancet.

Have you eaten your share of candy to-day?

There is a certain amount due to you, you know—for your system requires it to supply bodily needs.

Eminent authorities on food state that about 4 ounces of sugar are required by an adult every twenty-four hours.

Besides sugar, candy contains nuts, fruits, corn syrup, chocolate, some fats such as butter, and flavoring. All these ingredients are recognized as useful foods and essential to the maintenance of good health.

Candy has established itself as a wonderful food product. It is no longer considered a luxury. Men and women everywhere have found it to be an excellent food.

Because of its food value, candy was classified as a necessity for both soldiers and sailors.

While at the front, General Pershing cabled: "Send candy if you have to omit oatmeal."

There are times each day when you feel the need for something to tone you up and restore your vigor—candy.

Eat candy in rational quantities and nothing but good can result.

Serve Candy as a Dessert.
It is a Splendid Food.

Something Like a Beard!

Mistakes of military signalers are sometimes amusing. A German prisoner escaped from an internment camp, and to facilitate recapture a description of the man was circulated. The description contained a succession of sibilant sounds, which rendered its reception by telephone somewhat difficult. One signaler, after struggling valiantly with the prisoner's name, appearance, etc., finished the message with "height 5 foot 6 all beard and moustache." The possibility of a 5-foot-6 beard wandering about on its lonesome was questioned, with the result that the following correction was circulated—"Please read 'small' for 'all.'"

Japanese Airmen for Italy.

Japanese military flyers accompanied by mechanical workmen, will soon be sent to Italy. The question of sending Japanese airmen to that country has long been considered by the war office. All negotiations concerning the question with the Italian government having recently been concluded, the war office has issued a note to the airmen and workmen who have volunteered, assuring them of the decision. At first twenty airmen were expected to be sent, but the number has been reduced to fourteen or fifteen.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

DANDRUFF MAKES HAIR FALL OUT

A small bottle of "Danderine" keeps hair thick, strong, beautiful.

Girls! Try this! Double beauty of your hair in a few moments.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find one trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most, will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine for a few cents at any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment. Then you surely will be delighted with the effect, and lots of it for only 35 cents. Be sure and get genuine Knowlton's Danderine.

Sunday School Lesson Questions

(March 9, 1919.)

Joshua, Patriot and Leader. —Joshua 1:9.

Golden Text: Be strong and of good courage. Joshua 1:9.

1. Verses 1, 2. What qualities did Joshua have to fit him to be the successor of such a distinguished leader as Moses?

2. Would you say or not, and why, that God speaks with the same certainty to all really Christian rulers to-day as he did to Joshua?

3. Why is it that Christian men and women of to-day rarely testify to God speaking to them?

4. Verses 1, 2. When God selects a man by his providence or by his Spirit to fill an important position, what are the motives which govern him in the selection?

5. If we fit ourselves for a certain sphere what are the chances that God will call us to do it?

6. Does God ever depend upon any certain man to carry it on? Give your reasons.

7. Verses 3, and 4. — When and to whom did God first promise the land of Canaan to the Hebrews?

8. How many years did it take for God's promise to be actually realized?

9. Why would you say or not that it was God's original intention for Joshua long a time to intervene before the Israelites would have possession of the promised land? What delayed them?

10. What Bible promises are there, if any, which have not been fulfilled?

11. Verse 5. What reason is there to believe that every man has the ability and the opportunity to accomplish well and truly all the work which God has given him to do?

12. Would you say or not, and why, that a man is immortal until his work is done?

13. Every true man is doubtless in the position to which God has called him; may he therefore depend with certainty that God will neither "fail" nor "forsake" him but cause him to be successful? Why?

14. Verses 6, 7. Why would you say or not, that courage and moral strength are under our own control?

15. Are dread, fear, anxious care, and other forms of cowardice actually sinful or not, and why?

16. In how many respects do we need to be strong and courageous, if we would enter into possession of the good things that God has promised us? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by the members of the club.)

17. Why would you say or not that God expects everybody to be prosperous?

18. Verses 6, 7. — What are the arguments for and against the proposition that the land belongs to all the people and that no person has any private "rights" not shared by the rest?

19. Verses 8, 9.—If we are devoted students of God's laws, so that we understand and do them, what power or cause can prevent our success?

20. Is it possible or not and why for every man to always have an actual realization of the presence of God?

MADE BAD LANDING

Young Boche Airman Really Deserved Better Luck.

As It Was, the Youth Probably Only Escaped Ignominious Personal Chastisement by Being Made a Prisoner of War.

Although he was a boche we admired his audacity. He came humming out of the summer blue on a sultry afternoon, swooping from nowhere right in the inner guard of half a dozen of our unsuspecting kite balloons. Swift and straight as a falcon he dived, and at the rattle of his machine gun and the flash of his tracer bullets pigmy figures strangely agitated came bobbing and gyrating earthward under their spreading parachutes.

Whirr! went his gun, and biff, went the first balloon, a thin train of fire leading to a scarlet blaze and a gossamer wreckage. Before one could count twelve a second sausage had shriveled into skin and the Hun plane was making tracks for home.

The "Archies" had been taken by surprise. For a moment it looked as if the unwelcome visitor would reach his lines. But suddenly the "Archies" ceased firing, and it was then we saw a British plane pursuing at a pace that could only have one result. The German "sideslipped" twice by intention and once involuntarily. He smashed into a cottage like a goat butting through a fence, his propellers going through the thatched roof and his rudder sticking up in the air. The solitary pilot was pitched into a corner of the long orchard, little the worse for his fall. He was a small, thin, rather mean-looking young man, and he blinked stupidly at the remains of what had once been an airplane. A little dog barked at him, half a dozen fussy hens scolded him, and a very angry and very determined old lady came out of the cottage to investigate him.

She was a typical Flemish dame, massive of build, tenacious in character and practical in all things. Deliberately and of set purpose she advanced on the dazed airman. She caught him by the collar of his tunic. She shook her fist in his face, and she asked him in the incisive vernacular of the Flemish peasant what he meant by smashing up her house. She ordered him to look at the mess he had made, calculated the cost and demanded payment, all in a breath. She heaped insults on him, his parents and his airplane.

As she talked all the glory of war and the spirit of conquest evaporated from the flying Hun. He shrank till he looked like a small boy caught in a mean theft; his airplane, with its gaudy splashes, resembled a broken toy, and he tugged ruefully at his hair, and flushed and stammered and edged cautiously away.

As he retired the old woman advanced, and I am convinced that but for the prompt arrival of a guard of grinning Tommies she would have spanked that unhappy Teuton youth. Never did a man surrender so eagerly.

When he and his escort had departed the dame "shooed" away the hens and then industriously picked up the assorted fragments of the airplane for firewood.—Montreal Herald.

Tunes for Tanks.

Probably no more unique donation has ever been made for the amusement of soldiers than one of $50 recently given by a charitably disposed lady for gramophone records to equip a tank.

Other donations which have come to light from time to time have not lacked an element of the picturesque, as, for instance, the supplying of a hospital in Paris which was filled with African troops with 700 fans. They were so appreciated during the summer months that the hospital appealed for more. Not long ago a French officer issued an appeal for games for his men. In one regiment in which most of the soldiers were fathers of families the preference was for bowling. The trench does not make a bad alley.

Women's Club Markets Own Products.

The women of a Tennessee home demonstration club are marketing their own vegetables, small fruits, eggs, poultry, butter and cottage cheese with the help of the local home demonstration agent. A table has been secured for them at the entrance to the market house, where the products are attractively displayed. Since none of the women had experience in dressing fowls for market, the agent called a meeting at one of the homes and showed them the proper way to kill and dress poultry. The club members are making a specialty of week-end baskets. Ordinary peck baskets are used and are filled to order to meet the tastes of the purchasers.

Cub Bear Caused Excitement.

A cub bear, about ten months old, caused much excitement at Moose Lake, Minn., the other day when it walked into town and scratched at the back door of a local restaurant. The cook thought it was the owner's dog. Her discovery that it was not began a series of activities in the kitchen which could have been equaled only by the bursting of a high explosive shell. When the cause of the disturbance was learned the men of the town formed an escort and drove the cub back to its haunts. Bears are protected by law and for that reason it was not killed.

Good schools, good churches and good roads never fail to make a good town.

DESPERATE LEAP FOR LIFE

Parachute the Only Hope of Occupants of Observation Balloon Destroyed at the Front.

A British observation balloon, anchored at the western front, had its cables cut by enemy airplanes, and the balloon soared thousands of feet upward into the clouds. A writer in London Mail, who witnessed the incident, describes what followed. From the point where it vanished, he says, we presently saw one small speck, then another, dropping from the clouds. For some hundreds of feet they fell like dead weights, then parachutes opened, and the specks, now revealed as men, were steadied in their earthward course, floating rapidly, but safely, to the ground.

After the balloon got free, they had destroyed their papers and instruments, clambered over the side of the basket, and leaped for life into the great void beneath them, trusting that the parachutes strapped round their waists would open when they should.

Think of that desperate spring into the vast, gray vapory nothingness beneath the balloon; the feelings of the men as they made it, uncertain of what would happen; the awful sensation of casting yourself blindly from such an appalling height with the knowledge that only a flimsy piece of material, which might act rightly and might not, intervened between yourself and a crash into the earth many thousands of feet below; the tense strain of the stone-like drop through two hundred feet of the void before the parachute opened, and then the anxious mental query, through the later stages of the descent: "What shall I light upon?"—a matter of supreme consequence that chance governs absolutely. In this case, the man made a safe landing.

Sugar Crop Reduction.

It is estimated that rats destroy every year at least a twentieth part of the sugar canes in Jamaica, amounting in value to little short of two hundred thousand pounds. The sugar cane is their favorite food; but they also enjoy Indian corn, all the fruits that are accessible to them, and many of the roots. Some idea can be formed of the immense swarms of these destructive animals that infest this island from the fact that on a single plantation thirty thousand were destroyed in one year. Traps of various kinds are set to catch them, poison is resorted to, and terriers and sometimes ferrets are employed. They are of a much larger size than the European rat.—Family Herald.

Unionists Are Beginning to Look Around For a Jumping Off Place

Present Tendency is Towards Consolidation of Unionists into a More Permanent Organization.

THE "GINGER GROUP"

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, March 7. —There is evidence here that not only yesterday's Unionist caucus, but the whole trend of events this session is towards a consolidation of the Unionist into a more permanent organization. The problem will be up in a definite form when Sir Robert Borden returns, but meanwhile progress, it is said, is being made in that direction.

H. M. Mowat, M.P. for Parkdale, would not discuss what happened in the caucus, but this morning he was perfectly willing to express his belief not only that there should be a Unionist party, but that such a party was coming rapidly.

"Ginger Group."

Corridor gossip is to the effect that the "ginger group" realises the futility of a constant fillibuster against the government and that the old line Conservatives are forced to admit they cannot get along without the Liberals' support that came to them in 1917. It is a general feeling that the Conservative party as such has already passed off the screen.

It is also said that the Liberals on the Unionist side are feeling more at home than any time during the session.

The Policy.

If a definite Unionist party does emerge the question is asked whether its dominating outlook and policy will be Conservative, Liberal or a compromise. Hardly anyone seems to think it will be Conservative. Not only is the general trend of public opinion towards a liberal or radical point of view, but any Unionist party would be so much influenced by its western wing that any avowed Conservative would not be possible.

Certain observers fear that a compromise, of necessity, would be the guiding star of the Unionist party, and they do not think such an attitude would make for a vigorous decision of policy in the party's interests.

Meanwhile, in spite of all this talk about the birth of a definite Unionist party, there is still the enigma of the tariff which bears within itself seeds of possible trouble and disruption for the whole political edifice.

Finest Skating of the Season

Excellent Ice Assured, for To-day and To-morrow.

Last night the rink had the best ice in two months and it was due to the zero weather. For to-night the ice is just as good and another big crowd is expected.

Big Night To-morrow

For to-morrow night which might be the last Saturday night this rink will be open, there will be a big band and skating until 10:30 o'clock. If the season did not begin well it has surely provided good ice for the finish.

Horticulturists Met Last Night

Tenders to Be Asked for Spring and Fall Options.

The executive of the Horticultural Society met in the Council Chamber last night and drew up the list of options for Spring and Fall delivery, and the tenders will be asked for at once.

It was decided to had over the equipment of the Society for the taking care of the parks to the city, which is to undertake the work this year.

In addition to the regular Lawn Competition, the following additions were made:

Best kept church grounds, prize $5.00.

Best kept School grounds, prize $10.00.

Best kept Factory grounds, prize $10.00.

For the best flower bed looked after by boy or girl, 16 years or under:

First prize	$5.00
Second prize	3.00
Third prize	2.00

Just as soon as the tenders for the options are let the option sheets and members' tickets will be issued, when it is hoped there will be a larger enrollment of members than ever.

STREET FIGHTING HAS BROKEN OUT THROUGHOUT BERLIN

The General Strike Which Almost Flickered Out, Appears to be Gaining Strength—Outcome Uncertain.

By Frank J. Taylor.
(United Press.)

BERLIN, March 7.— Street fighting has broken out with renewed violence.

After the rebels appeared to have been crushed and radical leaders admitted defeat, the Spartacan rallied.

The general strike, which almost flickered out, seemed to be gaining strength to-day. Many Republican guards were wounded in the street fighting in various parts of the city. The scenes of disorder, however, were still widely scattered.

Some radical chiefs changed their attitude of pessimism and threatened to develop a revolution which would accomplish what the first Spartacan outbreak failed to accomplish.

Government mastery of the situation, so evident a few hours ago, appeared at the time of cabling, to be precarious. The fighting continues.

In earlier despatch by Frank Taylor it was stated that the Radical leaders admitted the failure of the new revolutionary movement. The government appeared to be master of the situation.

Ruthless methods were used in dispersing crowds during the disorders. In the Alexander Platz yesterday afternoon several persons were killed and wounded when government troops used gas and machine guns and tanks to break up a meeting.

With the attempted general strike dragging uncertainly, radical leaders Haase, Barth and several others also, pessimistically admitted the movement had collapsed through lack of support. They said the revolt was not properly organized and that railroad employes and office workers had refused to participate in it. A large number of radicals, disclaiming responsibility for the disorders, assert that bandits and terrorists took advantage of the opportunity to go on the rampage and that they caused the riots and street fighting.

Running to Government.

Radicals are sending Kaleski, the author, to Weimar, to work in behalf of the passage of their legislation. Weimar sessions will be continued for the remainder of the week, it is stated in despatches received here, to complete the government's programme for socialization of the coal and potash mines as a concession to the Spartacan demands.

The fortunes of the revolutionists started to decline Tuesday night, when a score were killed, including several women, during hand grenades and machine gun fighting, in which the rebels were everywhere defeated.

Tide is Turning.

Government troops stormed the Spartacan barricade in the Weinberg strasse. They cleared the Alexander Platz several times, the revolutionists returning frequently. On every hand the tide turned steadily against the Spartacans, as government soldiers, constantly reinforced, swept through the city, storming and clearing out the rebel nests.

The situation in Bremen is being closely watched. This, next to Berlin, is considered the most important centre likely to be the scene of an uprising. A strike there would tie up vital industries and communications and necessitate extreme military measures.

Independent socialists, who did not encourage violence, nevertheless predict that the Soviet Congress will be meeting in Berlin by the end of this month.

Meeting in Murray Street This Evening

A meeting of unusual interest will be held in Murray Street Baptist Church to-night when Rev. D. Brown and Rev. Dan Gak will assist the pastor in giving the people some facts and impressions from the union conference held in Toronto, covering two days of last week.

The most remarkable gathering held in many years was convened in Jarvis Street Baptist Church on Tuesday and Wednesday. Over five hundred out-of-town persons went up to the spiritual feast.

Three meetings were arranged for this week, covering the three Baptist churches of Peterborough, and already the contagion of the spiritual atmosphere has been felt.

All will be heartily welcomed at the Murray Street meeting to-night.

HOUSE ADOPTS BILL PROVIDING FOR COMPULSORY SERVICES FOR THE BRITISH ARMY OF OCCUPATION

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, March 7. — Captain E. E. Guest introduced a bill in the House of Commons yesterday which proposes compulsory service for the British army of occupation. This army, according to the bill, would be composed of 900,000 men, and the enlistment period would expire on April 20, 1920. Alexander Shaw, a Laborite, moved a rejection of the measure because the Labor Party is opposed to a continuance of Conscription. Colonel Winston Spencer Churchill, defending the bill, argued that the government in providing for an army to insure peace was pursuing a path towards universal voluntary service. The bill passed on the second reading by a vote of 304 to 71.

"There is not the slightest truth in the suggestion that this bill is designed to raise troops to be sent into Russia," said Churchill.

"No one would be so foolish as to suggest intervention in Russia with conscription troops. Our army along the Rhine and on the approaches leading to that river, numbers about 50,000 men, which is no larger than the United States army there and much smaller than the forces France is maintaining in the occupied area."

Organization of the Labour Party Completed Last Night

Lodge Wants the Measure Discussed

(Canadian Press.)

BOSTON, March 7.—The position of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge on the proposed League of Nations and its constitution, was outlined in a signed statement made public here to-day.

"My desires," Senator Lodge said, "is simply to have the constitution for the League proposed by a Commission of the Peace Conference, thoroughly and carefully discussed and considered. If it will not bear discussion it is not fit for adoption. If it is what it ought to be, discussion will only strengthen it. There must be no haste and no rashness in determining the most momentous question ever presented to the people of the United States or to the world."

Mr. Peter McArthur Elected President for the First Year—Interesting Debate on Question of Forty-Hour Week and Minimum Wage.

The Independent Labour Party last night completed its organization and launched upon its first year's work with a membership that has been built up to encouraging proportions under the direction of the provisional officers. The interest and effort thrown into the work by the leaders who has been temporarily appointed so commended them to the members that they were renominated, and with the exception of Mr. J. A. Sharpe, who has been acting as Financial-Secretary they accepted the responsibility of leading the party through the first year of what is expected to be a continuous and fruitful history. Other officers were then created and the directing Board was constituted as follows:

President—Mr. Peter McArthur.
Vice-President—Mr. T. McMurray.
Rec.-Sec.—Mr. T. Tooms.
Fin.-Sec.—Mr. F. Asti[illegible]
Treasurer—Mr. Alex. Harris.
Executive committee — Messrs. Parliament, Jos. Begley, Perkins Lloyd, Fred Brown, J. A. Sharpe, Thos. Lane, Chas. Saunders, Fred Smith, E. Marchand, R. Cruikshanks A. McLaren, T. McCabe.

Interesting Debate.

A debate on a resolution that the forty hour week and minimum wage of five dollars should be adopted was conducted by Mr. Tooms for the affirmative and Mr. Begley opposing him.

Mr. Tooms singled out the woodworking trade and traced its evolution from the days of manual labour to the first changes that accompanied the introduction of machinery, and from that stage of individual effort to the present system of incorporated companies, factories and monopolies. Steam and electric power harnassed to new machinery marked the beginning of the conditions that are experienced to-day. Mr. Tooms stated that the work which five used to do by hand in five days was now easily accomplished by machine in one day. Hence four men were thrown out of employment, and the fact that they were not employed was used as a threat upon the men who were tending the machine. Honest and sympathetic manufacturers among those who inaugurated the new and labour saving devices were forced out of business or absorbed by more powerful interests until the industry was controlled by a few men.

Although the improvements made a saving of four hundred per cent in this industry the people received no share of the profit that flowed toward the little group of owners. In this case four men were deprived of the work for which they had been trained, the price of the product did not decline although a great saving had been made in the cost of production and the labour market was oversupplied.

Under such conditions, Mr. Tooms contended that the only solution of the resulting unemployment was a reduction of the working day, and the fixation of a minimum fair wage, thereby giving the worker some share of the benefits from the time and labour saving machinery. He also pointed out that the shorter day would provide the relaxation required by men who has been spending long hours operating machinery that was often delicate and dangerous, and the increased hours of rest would afford an opportunity of self-education and both study and participation in the affairs of the community and its people. Distressful and periodic depression would be largely avoided, and not only should the conditions of the worker be improved but also the well-being of the public should

Not Worrying the Premier

Will Introduce a Bill to Amend the Assessment Act.

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO (Parliament Buildings), March 7.—Labour's opposition to the Government's plan to create a Department of Labour under the jurisdiction of Dr. Riddell as Deputy Minister is not worrying the Premier to any appreciable extent. Looking over the top of some correspondence he was reading when interviewed to-day, the Prime Minister said: "The Government has received no communication from Labour in this matter, but when we do of course it will receive our earnest consideration."

"You know that the District Labour Council dislikes the Government's plans, and demand the right to nominate the head of a new Labour Department?"

"Only what I have read in the papers."

"Would it not have the effect of consolidating Labour behind the Government if their demands were heeded?"

"I am venturing no opinion in that regard, only to say that the Government will consider any proposition that Labour places before us."

Sam Carter (South Wellington) gives notice that he will move to introduce a bill entitled "An Act to amend the Assessment Act," when the House assembles this afternoon.

"BIG FIVE" IN SESSION

Will Consider Problem of Sending Food Into Bohemia and German Austria.

FRENCH SENTIMENT

By Fred S. Ferguson.
(United Press.)

PARIS, March 7.—The "Big Five" of the peace conference, today took up the proposition of sending food into Bohemia and German-Austria.

Means of getting supplies into the districts which mostly urgently needed them were to be discussed. The population of these territories, it is felt, must be kept from going hungry if the spread of Bolshevism is to be prevented.

Naval Terms.

Naval terms which will be incorporated in the final peace treaty have been thoroughly gone over by the "Big Five" and, it was learned, the decision to destroy the German submarines stands. Decision was reserved, however, in regard to the proposal that the Kiel canal be destroyed and the fortifications of Heligoland reduced. The fate of the German fleet is also still undecided.

Premier Lloyd George since his return to Paris, has added his weight to speeding up proceedings not only toward an early signing of the peace treaty, but also toward quickly meeting the food situation in Central Europe. British reports regarding conditions in Germany and German-Austria are similar to reports reaching Americans. Conditions in Austria are described as being most critical, the people being on the verge of starvation. The delegates appreciate that this situation may become so serious that Germany will break up, making the signing of any kind of peace impossible.

Objection Raised.

Le Temps has raised an objection the Allies feeding German Austria, voicing a widespread French sentiment against it. However, it is generally looked on by the peace delegates as a necessary step in bringing about world peace and tranquility. It is pointed out that the work of the food administration in rushing supplies to Poland, under the greatest difficulties, is all that saved situation there and prevented the country from disintegrating. Incidentally the feeding of Poland was carried out in spite of persistent obstructive tactics by the German authorities at Danzig.

Peterboro Men Reach St. John

Lieut. Walter Miller Was Among the Number.

(Special to The Examiner)

ST. JOHN, March 7.—The Cassandra, the first Donaldson liner to arrive here with troops, docked at this port yesterday afternoon, bringing 1,456 officers and men and sixty-nine civilian passengers as well. There were no serious "kicks" on the voyage over and there was a general air of satisfaction. This was due it was pointed out to the fact that there were no soldiers dependents travelling with the men. The voyage was uneventful, a few days of rough weather being experienced. The Peterborough men on the ship were Lieut. Walter Miller, 315 Bethune street, Sergt. M. J. Clancy, and Driver Orville H. Wilson.

Spartacans Besiege Police Headquarters

Canadian Press:

COPENHAGEN, March 7. — The police headquarters in Berlin, which has been besieged by the Spartacans for two days, was cut off from all communication with other Government forces. The forces in the German capital late Thursday when the Spartacans cut the telephone wires. The police headquarters building has been damaged severely in heavy fighting, the Spartacans having used machine guns and artillery against it.

"NICKEL LOAF" PLANS TO STAGE A COMEBACK

Government Will Take Care of Loss of $2.00 a Barrel on Flour.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, March 7. — The "nickel loaf" may soon return to the market basket of the housewife, food administration officials said to-day.

They are working on a plan, said to be nearly ready for submission to Herbert Hoover and President Wilson, to utilize a billion dollar wheat price guarantee fund for decreasing the price of flour makers and still keep wheat prices at $2.26 for the farmer.

The tentative plan, according to officials, embraces taking over of flour supply of the country at a nominal profit to millers and selling it to the public at a loss of $2 a barrel. They express no doubt that foreign demand for wheat will be sufficient to keep the wheat price up to the government's guaranteed figure.

Officials state that with wheat at $2.26 a bushel the flour can be bought fairly by the government for $8 a barrel, after allowance has been made for all bi-products saved in making flour for a fair profit, but in order to insure a five cent loaf, flour must not cost more than $6 a barrel to the bread maker.

Government Plans.

The government plans to absorb this loss of $2 a barrel at a total cost of $500,000,000. Thus the consumer would get five cent bread, the farmer the $2.26 price.

The food administration and the department of agriculture estimating this year's stimulated wheat crop, place the figure at about 1,200,000,000 bushels. Of this probably 650,000,000 bushels will be needed for domestic use, allowing about 250,000,000 bushels for export and carry over. About 300,000,000 bushels can be safely exported, it is believed, leaving the rest for seed and other carry over needs.

Where Reserves.

The world wheat reserve of 400,000,000 bushels, which was unavailable because of shipping needs, and which has been pouring into hungry Europe, will be exhausted long before present crop is marketed, officials say. In addition about 200,000,000 bushels in various localities which has been held as a carry over is already used up. Many of the large wheat districts in Russia, Roumania, Austria, Germany and parts of Italy and France this year will produce only a small portion of their normal crop.

So officials have no doubt that American export supply can be sold at any figure asked for it. Great Britain is now buying some wheat at about $1.25, but this is on contracts which have been held up because of lack of shipping. The Liverpool market cannot again control the world wheat price until there is a world surplus of wheat, officials state.

If the plan contemplated is approved, all the export will be handled by the United States Grain Corporation, which handled the food supply from the United States to the Allies during the war. Through them the Allies agreed to accept the wheat at the New York price, which is now about $2.40.

Export Trade.

Officials point out that the wheat now being raised for export was to be sent to Europe at this price had the war continued, and believed there would be little objection to buying the wheat at the high figure now.

The price of bread, food administration figures show, has not increased in proportion with the price of wheat, but the government is anxious to bring bread down as the first and most vital step in decreasing the cost of living.

For five years before the war the average price of wheat was 87 cents, with the average thirteen ounce loaf selling for five cents. With wheat at $2.26, bread should be selling for fourteen cents to maintain the proportion, but the average price of bread is only ten cents. Out of every $1 worth of bread the farmer before the war received 35 cents. Now years is now 46 cents, officials point.

Tariff Issue May be a Live Question at the Present Session of the House.

VOICE FROM THE WEST

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, March 7.— If anyone thought that the tariff issue after all might be postponed or slurred over at this session, recent events must tend to convince him to the contrary.

The telegrams sent by H. H. Woods, president of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, in which he declares: "The feeling of western farmers on the tariff is very intense. They will not stand for any temporizing," is having a very real effect on western members. It isn't that these members take any direct orders from the council of agriculture or any other body, but they know the powers of the farmers' organizations and, what is more, they know the almost solid public opinion they represent.

One prominent westerner this morning said that such a message meant far more and would have much more influence here even than such a resolution as the one recently passed by the Manitoba Legislature, asking for the same thing.

"In the west," he said, "governments are of secondary importance to farmers' organizations. It is the latter that lead, and the governments that follow."

Surprise Is Expressed.

Surprise is expressed in some quarters at the delay in the discussion of the tariff in the Unionist caucus. There is probably a good reason for this, from the standpoint both of government and the westerners. This reason revolves around the question, will the Opposition make a tariff amendment of the debate on the address? If it does, technically the western members would be embarrassed, but practically they will not be if, at the time, they and the government can both say they don't know what the tariff policy will be.

On such an amendment, therefore, the westerners could, and they think justifiably, vote with the government and against the Opposition's amendment, whatever that may be, on the grounds that this was not the time for a vote on the tariff, and that one must wait for the budget debate.

Changes to the Grafton Store

Improvements Will Add Many Advantages to the Big Store.

Grafton & Co. are making important alterations in the rear of their double store. The floor, which was raised in this part of the store is being levelled, the brick wall dividing the two sections is being removed and replaced by steel framework. A more convenient stairway will lead to the second flat that accommodates the premium department, and the central office will be moved back. The changes will greatly improve the facilities of the big store, not the least of which will be the adding of a basement entrance to a roomy marking-off department. While quite extensive in themselves, the present changes are only a preliminary to more elaborate modernizing that is to follow later on in the year.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

FRIDAY, MARCH 7TH, 1919.

A BREAD ENQUIRY

The Trades and Labour Council has asked the city council to appoint a Fair Price Board under the order in council passed last year which gives municipalities the power to choose such a board for the study of food prices in their community. The investigation that the Trades Council desires to have made is in connection with the sale of bread in Peterboro and is the result of reports that bread made in Peterboro is being shipped to Campbellford and sold there for several cents a loaf cheaper than in this city.

There can be no harm done by granting the request of the Trades and Labour Council and having a Fair Price Board appointed to look into this matter. The local bakers have a perfectly logical explanation of the difference in prices and when so many different reports are being circulated should welcome an opportunity to have the facts of the case brought officially before the public. On the other hand it is to the interest of the customers of Peterboro bakers to know that they are not paying more for their bread than a legitimate margin of profit would call for. An investigation by an impartial committee in which the citizens have confidence would clear the air. Very few cities have taken advantage of the powers conferred upon them by the Government to investigate the prices of foodstuffs but the request of the local Trades and Labour Council gives the city council an opportunity to test the value of the measure.

THE HUGHES ATTACK

The newspaper comment upon the charges made by General Sir Sam Hughes against Sir Arthur Currie and the Canadian overseas command has generally taken the ground that there is no necessity of taking what General Hughes says seriously. Sir Sam has always fancied himself a Napoleon, a military strategist par excellence and several journals point out that his attack on General Currie was actuated by jealousy and chagrin over the fact that the British Columbia soldier was chosen in preference to the military genius from Dundas whose patent shovels, paper boots and fondness for the Ross rifle have brought him more notoriety than his military triumphs will ever bring him fame.

But making all allowances for the ex-minister's egotism and for his well known propensity for exaggeration, there is a danger that his charges, if they are not followed by an investigation and a denial so complete and decisive that there will be no mistaking the facts, may be believed by many Canadians who have lost dear ones during the war and whose sense of loss will be increased by this terrible suggestion that the lives so sacrificed were thrown away through the incompetent handling of the Canadian corps.

This is a matter that transcends in importance any mere political issue. The name of the commander of the Canadian forces and those of the officers under him have been besmirched by charges of the most serious character. It is true that these charges have been made by a man in whose judgment the majority of Canadians possess little faith and in whose genius as a military leader they have absolutely no confidence but at the same time the attack has been made and those whose reputation is at stake should be given an opportunity to vindicate themselves in the eyes of the Canadian people.

AN EXPLANATION (?)

The following letter received by The Examiner from Captain J. H. Burnham, M. P., is a perfect example of an explanatory message that explains nothing.

"Sir: As you seem a little perplexed in your remarks upon my letter to Mr. Cunningham, let me add this one word. God established a natural and a moral order and 'prohibition' nothing. He punishes. For us to seek to improve upon His plan is to attempt to cast reproach upon Him, and no matter how much we are pleased with our own superior schemes for the uplift of mankind, they can only end in disaster. We are bidden to rely upon Him—not to substitute our own order for His order. Many are carried away with their own conceit, but underlying it is atheism and nothing less. It is as tempting as any other toy of the devil and more dangerous.

"J. H. Burnham."

Captain Burnham's letter, we must confess, has left us just as perplexed as we were before. Mr. Cunningham's communication to the Federal Member, which was the beginning of the present controversy, merely asked Capt. Burnham to support the prohibition measure when it came before the House of Commons, and in reply the Member for West Peterboro penned one of his mysterious letters in which he talked of "bone-dry prohibition" as "a rebuke to God." As in the same epistle he expressed his approval of the strictest possible regulation, his reply left the question of what attitude he would take in the House considerably beclouded, which may have been the purpose in Captain Burnham's mind. At all events the latest communication on the subject leaves the fog just as thick as ever. The vote on the prohibition question when it finally comes before Parliament appears to be the only thing that will settle the argument and Mr. Burnham may choose to adopt the same tactics as he did in the controversy over titles and be numbered among the missing when the division bells ring.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is announced that J. W. Defoe, editor of the Manitoba Free Press is returning from the Peace Conference With his chief, press agent leaving for Canada the early arrival home of Premier Borden may be looked for.

Patronage ought not to be handed back to the members of Parliament merely because some of them feel that they need it in their business remarks the Toronto Globe.

Sir Sam Hughes is still defending the Ross Rifle. He can hear the reverse side of the argument by talking to the first returned soldier he meets.

RECITAL WAS A BIG SUCCESS

The seating capacity of the lecture hall of Trinity Methodist Church, was not sufficient to hold the audience who came to hear Mrs. George King's recital assisted by Harold Jarvis, last evening. Owing to a severe attack of bronchitis, however, Mrs. King to the sincere regret of all was unable to take part in the programme. Though keenly disappointed at not hearing the singer who has become so popular with all music lovers, the audience enjoyed a programme of rare merit and excellent talent was substituted at the last moment when Miss Florence Scott and Miss Winnifred Parker very kindly consented to appear in several numbers.

During the past few weeks the city has been privileged in hearing some splendid out of town talent through the Chautauqua and Lyceum course which has been brought here also some of the foremost singers of the Dominion but few if any have received the warm applause accorded to Harold Jarvis, the celebrated tenor, of Toronto. In a solo "Crossing the Bar", sung in an appealingly reverential style he made a splendid impression and a solo "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere", which he has sung for his records and which was sung by him by special request carried his audience to great enthusiasm. All his numbers were sung with splendid expression and were insistently encored. To each encore Mr. Jarvis made a graceful response.

Ten Hours Notice

Although prepared at a few hours notice Miss Florence Scott's numbers on the programme were presented with such success her audience compelled her to return after each number. Her programme on account of the absence of Mrs. King for whom she substituted, was an exacting one but was presented in a manner gratifying to all who heard it. In a pure clear voice produced without effort she sang several solos which were beautifully shaded, gracefully phrased and revealed well developed talent.

Miss Winnifred Parker in some heartily appreciated recitations lent a pleasing variation to the programme Her clear enunciation and picturesque portrayal of the characters included in the selections she gave proved beyond doubt her ability as an elocutionist.

At the conclusion of the programme Miss Scott and Miss Parker were presented with beautiful bouquets of roses.

Stephen Failed as a Ladies' Man

Fell Into the Cozy Embrace of Patrol Sergeant Deannard— Was Fined $10.00.

Stephen Ytzikon thought himself a great ladies' man and tried to break into the game in the Strand theatre last evening. Two young ladies in the theatre alarmed at the amorous glances cast by Stephen changed their seats and finally left the building.

Stephen then attempted to put his arms around one of the girls but received a tongue lashing in reply. On the streets he spoke to the girls again and "dearie" and other nice things were addressed to the girls. Finally the girls stopped Patrol Serg. Deannard on the street and Stephen was taken into the toils.

Too Prevalent

The Chief congratulated the girls on the course they took in having the man arrested and coming to court to testify. Stopping young girls on the street is all too prevalent and the chief said he was going to make an end of it.

The prisoner pretended that he was not acquainted with the English tongue and also that he did not know the girls. His actions towards them in the theatre was reciprocal but speaking to them on the street just reached as far as "Good Night."

Justice of the Peace Rush informed the prisoner that he must contribute $10 and costs to the police court treasury which he did with reluctance.

Collins Paid Heavy Fine

Pleaded Guilty to a Charge of Being a Defaulter Under the M.S.A.

Perhaps the first case under the new order-in-council whereby the minimum fine of a defaulter shall be $250, was tried in the city police court last evening, with Justices of the Peace H. Rush and F. Adams on the bench.

Thomas James Collins, who pleaded guilty to being a defaulter under the M.S.A., was fined $250.00 and costs, or in default a year at the Guelph Jail Farm.

Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for the defence and Mr. Fordyce Strickland conducted the prosecution. The fine was paid.

Several witnesses produced by the defence gave character evidence that the prisoner never at any time tried to hide but went to Lindsay on market days as usual and transacted business on the farm seemingly without fear of the law. These witnesses admitted that the farmers in Emily and Ops townships had not the correct conception of the Military Service Act, and that the idea was prevalent in the district that as long as the farmers tilled their ground and remained at home that they could not be disturbed. One of the circulars issued by a Union Government candidate, produced by Mr. Kerr, showed the farmers that their sons would not be forced into the army as long as they remained on the land and did their duty in the meantime, which these gentlemen interpreted as voting for the Union Government.

The acting Crown Attorney, Mr. Fordyce Strickland, received grudging answers from the witnesses who admitted that the locality in question was not interested generally in the course of the war and the time that the offensive on the western front had so reduced the Union government, that they thought it their duty to break their promises to the farmers and take their sons to bolster up the front lines in France and Flanders.

Partly Illiterate.

Collins is now 22 years old. He is partly illiterate. He admitted he could not read although he could write his own name fairly legible. He has seven brothers, of whom he is the third oldest, and two sisters, all living close to the farm in Omemee. The brothers secured exemption as farmers, and Collins also received exemption until late in 1918 on the same grounds. He was living alone on the farm he was working. He had "batched" it for some time on his rented farm with one of his brothers, but finding the routine of housekeeping too laborous and tedious he took unto himself a wife with the expectation that he would not be called out for military duty.

Then came the cancellation of farm exemptions and Collins received an order to report at Kingston. He stated that if he had been refused exemption at the outset he would not have married and undoubtedly would have enlisted. With the emphatic promise of exemption in his mind, and because of the fact that his wife was in a delicate condition, he decided to continue his work on the farm until the authorities came for him.

Mr. Kerr made an eloquent appeal for leniency. He admitted that Collins was guilty under the M. S. A., but he was almost totally illiterate, and had not, because of lack of education, that sense of patriotism that stirs the heart of red-blooded citizens of the British Empire. Mr. Kerr then raised a point which fairly took the breath away from the prosecution.

"No Proof."

"The information and the complaint charged have not been proved," he submitted; "there is no proof that the Governor-General in Council had ordered or had caused to order the class to which Collins belonged (between 20 and 22 years) to report for duty."

Mr. Strickland contended that the stand taken by the defence was ridiculous. The government were not put to the necessity of proving that every proclamation had been issued in such a way as to be understood by everyone.

"A heavy fine might beget a contempt for the law," said Mr. Kerr, citing the attenuating circumstances, illiteracy, being married to a delicate wife, the general interpretation of the M.S.A. in the district surrounding Collins' farm, and the fact that the prisoner did not go in hiding or attempt any resistance.

Mr. Kerr went back into history. He cited the reaction that occurred at the close of the Boer war when the conquered states were agreeably surprised at the treatment afforded them by the British government and the large measure of self government accorded them.

He concluded by asking that the prisoner be not sent to the penitentiary or imprisoned, and that he be fined but that their Worships take into consideration the financial standing of the accused.

Simplicity should be the first consideration in the luncheon meal.

Search to Be Made of No Man's Land To Discover Fate of Missing Man

Nearly Seventeen Thousand Square Miles of Ground to be Explored —"Plains of Silence."

PARIS, March 7.— On the casualty lists of the French army, the word missing is written opposite the names of 314,000 men. Investigations have established the fact that, of this number, all hope for approximately 120,000 must be abandoned.

A minute examination of No Man's Land, it is hoped, may still yield indications by which it is possible to trace the fate of at least some of the missing men. An army of 12,000 searchers will subject all the trenches and dugouts along the whole battleline to a most careful scrutiny for any evidence that may lead to identification. Nearly 17,000 square miles of ground must be explored. In all cases approaching definite identification, a proper burial certificate will be issued to the families of the fallen.

There is talk of cemeteries being laid out on the battlefields, to the "plains of silence." Others prefer that the fields should be planted with trees to grow into mighty forests, as an everlasting monument to the dead of the great war.

Teachers Have Received Circulars

Hon. H. J. Cody, Minister of Education, has sent out a circular to Ontario teachers, giving an outline for the teaching to be given about the great war. It includes:

(1) The remote causes of the war, which include a brief study of the geographical and historical background.

(2) The immediate causes of the war.

(3) A brief account of the events of the war which will take in the various fronts and theatres of action —western, eastern, the Balkans, Western Asia, Austro-Italian front, the colonies' part and the naval war.

(4) The overseas dominions and the war.

(5) Entry of United States and other powers into the war.

(6) The Peace Conference at Versailles.

An adequate knowledge of this subject must be obtained before promotions can be made, and the mid-summer examinations of this year will contain at least one question on the Great War.

Funeral of Dr. E. McGrath

The funeral of the late Dr. Edward McGrath took place this morning at 8.30 from the family residence, 539 George street, to St. Peter's Cathedral and St. Peter's cemetery. The celebrant of requiem mass was Rev. Father O'Sullivan of Victoria Road, and Rev. Father Phelan officiated at the grave. Both the Hibernians and the Knights of Columbus were represented at the funeral. The pallbearers were all members of the medical profession:

Dr. F. P. McNulty, Dr. J. V. Gallivan, Dr. A. W. McPherson, Dr. M. McClelland, Dr. J. A. Morgan and Dr. D. C. King.

Satisfaction in Clothes

A SUIT is either an expenditure or an investment. If the suit wears exceptionally well, keeps its shape and looks distinctive up to the last days you consider it an investment. If it loses its shape quickly, wears out before it should and has that "fits where it touches" appearance, then you consider it an expenditure.

The workmanship, style and quality that must go into every Crown suit before it passes our inspectors is a guarantee of a dividend-producing investment. Be sure that your next suit is Made-to-your-measure by

ployment For Disabled Soldiers

May Be Submitted to Soldiers' Aid Commission.

Soldiers' Aid Commission is to be advised of particulars of all in this district, discharged soldiers who, owing to disabling condition are unable to obtain employment, or having employment are unable to fill positions, and as a consequence are continually out of work. This feature has been found to be the case in other localities, and may be the same in and about Peterborough.

It has developed that many men, although on their discharge to pension their disabilities did not appear to be of such a nature as to prevent them from following their previous vocations or from securing employment. In order to prevent any injustice to these men it is intended that their cases be reviewed, and the occupations of the branches of the Soldiers' Aid has been asked in connection.

It is particularly asked that information be obtained of such who are unable to hold employment to which they had been obtained, and also the class of work at which he had been employed, together with a list of those who find it difficult to obtain employment by reason of disability.

It will be helpful if any coming under the above provisions will report at the office of the Branch, in Peterborough, to Mr. F. H. Dobbin, who will forward particulars.

GUNNER BURKE IS STILL IN FRANCE

Mr. Patrick Burke, Townsend St., has received the following letter from his son, Gunner F. P. Burke, who was transferred from the trench mortar batteries with the Second Division to the 15th battery of artillery. He has returned from Germany to France and expects to arrive home in May:

France, Feb. 10, '19.

Dear Father and Mother:—Just a few lines to let you know that I am quite well and enjoying the best of health, hoping these few lines will find you all the same. I received two letters from you yesterday and was glad to hear from you, as it was the first in about a month. Well, we are in France now and expect to be here until the end of March and then are supposed to go to Wales to be demobilized. I supose that means about the middle of May before I will get home.

Frocks, Reflecting the Joy and Gladness of Springtime

And breathing the spirit of the mode in every line, fold and frill, proving that in the first flush of victory Fashion has achieved greater fascination than ever.

The material may be what you will — either shimmering Satins, soft and filmy Georgettes, clinging Tricolettes, Jerseys or Taffetas, so smart and so decisiveof line. Inspired by the simplicity of the Mediaeval is a wondrous creation of Amethyst Georgette over purple silk. The plain box-pleated bodice runs down under a soft sash girdle to form a yoke on the skirt. Applied bands of colored beads finish the round neck and the bottom of the yoke. The skirt is paneled at the back and drawn in closely about the feet by graceful drapings at each side.
The price $59.50

A charming example of what the handsome Astrican embroidery can do for a gown, is shown on a dress of Beige—deep sand—pussy willow, where it is used on both back and front of bodice and the sleeves. It has, too, a wide crushed girdle from which a one-sided and draped overskirt falls in soft folds, reaching on one side nearly to the hem of the tight underskirt. The price is $59.00

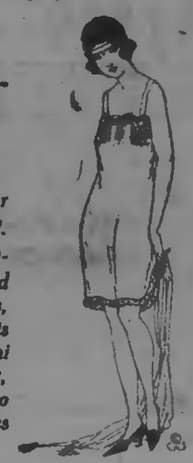
Fashion's fondness for the Apron is exemplified in a Blouse of American Beauty Georgette, with wide apron panels, both front and back, of navy blue georgette. The front panel is beautifully embroidered with beads of green, American beauty shade and black jet. The panel at the back is finished with a tie sash. Priced at ... $19.50

'Tis sign of the very smart now-a-days to wear one's blouse buttoned high to the chin, and here we describe a model that will certainly win your approval. It is fashioned of taupe Georgette, and there is a turn over collar, turn back cuffs, and narrow band down front of maize Georgette. Trimmed with maize beads and taupe silk embroidery. The price— $13.00

For a more practical Blouse, there's a model of lovely quality Crepe de Chine, in a pale peach shade, and in a semi-tailored design. The trim consists of pin tucks running around and lengthwise to form small squares. The price, ... $[illegible]

Of the new Poilus blue shade, is another Georgette model. Made with V-shaped neck, finished with wide band of Champagne Georgette, and similar bands on the square collar at the back. Side fastening and front embroidered with silk and beads.
Priced at ... $13.75

Little Meccas of Daintiness in the Lingerie World



If you love fine lingerie, the Whitewear department will delight your heart. You'll find French lingerie with teeny-weeny embroidery stitches, cunning and practical "Dove" muslin undies, and in their soft fluffiness undergarments of Crepe de Chine, Satin and Habutai Silk. Frilly laces, little knots of color, demure tucks and frills, all these go to make nighties, chemises and camisoles just the things women adore.

Dainty, delightful and altogether desirable—one may exhaust one's supply of adjectives and then not convey the charms of this envelope Chemise. Of lovely quality white Crepe de Chine with deep yoke of real bobbin lace and narrow lace shoulder straps.
Priced at ... $10.00

Practically indispensable in the modern women's wardrobe are knickers in some form or other. And what more serviceable or dainty than these of habutai silk. There are white ones, with a tiny lace edging, at $3.95, and flesh color ones with plain band at the knee.
Priced at ... $3.50

White Crepe de Chine with a plain band of fillet lace around the top and blue satin shoulder straps, makes such a pretty little chemise.
Priced at ... $3.95

The Allure of the New Suits

Their Coats either Bloused or Made with Vests a la Directoire or Cut upon the Lines of the Louis Seize Surtout, with Something of a Redingote Effect.

Countless are the variations that Fashion plays upon these three themes, not forgetting the claims of the severely simple, tailor made, with notched collar, braid bound edges and smart flare from the waist. The skirts are, for the most part plain, though in some cases a cuff button strikes a remarkably new note. One and all, they retain the narrow lissome look to which we are growing accustomed. Navy blue remains the color of first favor, then tan and brown shades with an occasional midnight blue, taupe or pewter grey shade.
To describe just one of the many—It's fashioned of beautiful, fine quality Botany serge, in navy blue. Long plain back in coat, with a deep shaped yoke, set on at the bottom, elegantly embroidered with black silk braid. Slit at the sides, showing short and rounded lines in front with corresponding braid embroidery. Collar and vest combined is of white corded silk.
The price.... $62.00

In the Informal Display of Spring Suitings, Coatings and Skirtings

WE FEATURE VELOURS AND BROADCLOTHS, PARTICULARLY, BECAUSE THESE TWO FINE, SUPPLE MATERIALS ARE HELD BY "LA MODE" IN HIGHEST ESTEEM FOR MAINTAINING THE LISSOME YOUTHFUL SILHOUETTE OF SPRING.

Favored Spring Shades.
Navy,
Foch Blue,
Bronze,
Nigger Brown,
Powter Grey,
Taupe,
Amethyst.

The new 1919 silhouette calls for, in fact, demands, long, clinging, soft and graceful lines. This must be taken in the choosing of materials for the new suit, wrap or gown. We are now showing a special line of broadcloths, really elegant fabrics: also a lovely quality in velours. The broadcloths come in colors of bronze, nigger brown, taupe, navy, burgundy, amethyst and black; and are 54 inches wide.

The price is yard $8.95
The Velours come in the following shades: Reindeer, Beige—deep sand—castor, taupe and Foch blue. They are all 54 inches wide and priced at $8.75 Yard
Very new are the plaid skirtings, 40 inches wide. Large and small check patterns, with grey, green and navy shades predominating. Priced at—
Per yard ..... $2.25 and $2.50

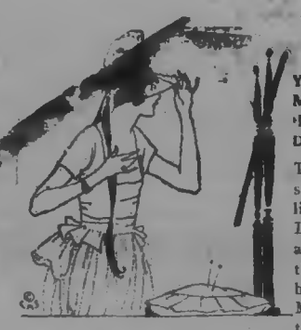
Millinery a la Mode



Your Spring Bonnet Awaits you Madam, and never, surely, in all the Chronicles of Fashion was such Diversity in Modish Shapes.

The brims turn up and down; scarcely a model is without some little unexpected line. There's the Directoire poke, the Bicornes and Tricornes, exact copies of those worn in the 1790's; the Turban, the quaint little close fitting. Mid-Victorian hat; the big picture hat, frequently of transparent horsehair, braid or lace, and ever so many other forms are to be seen. Among the new straws pineapple braid and metallic braids may be noticed, while lisere, Milans and Leghorns are well represented and the first favorite in the fabric hat is Georgette, with silks and satins being much to the fore. As for colorings—they are many indeed and the brightest we have seen for a long while. Perhaps the most favored are: Tete de nigre, the New Blues, Victory Red, Navy, Dust and Apple Greens.

Curled Ostrich Feathers nod from the fronts of the Directoire hats, or curve along the brims of the Victorian, while no fantasies can be too strange to adorn any kind of shape. Big flat flowers, little bunches of fruit, large piquant bows and wings, all have a part to play in the modish scheme.

Salary Increases For Some Civic Employees

Largest Increase Goes to the Tax Collector—City Grants Endorsed by Committee of Whole—The Housing Problem.

QUALIFICATIONS

A committee of the whole council met last night and took up among other matters the question of raising the salaries of some of the city officials. Present were Mayor G. H. Duncan (chairman), Ald. J. Garside, H. Gainey, Edgar R. Morrison, J. Hamilton and A. A. McIntyre.

After considerable discussion the following wages were agreed upon and passed:

Increases Made in the Salaries of City Officials.

Official	Salary	Increase	New Stipend
Tax Collector Greene	$1400	$1500	$1550
Judge Haycke of Police Commission	100	100	200
Chairman of the Court of Revision	50	50	100
James Finney of Court of Revision	50	25	75
B. Morrow of Court of Revision	50	25	75
Engineer's Office, Miss Jackson	480	120	600
City Clerk's office, Miss Mabel Young	540	60	600
Miss Florence Johnston	480	60	540
Total	$1350	$590	$1940

City Grants

The Exhibition Board were given $500 last year by the City Council but this year the grant was doubled and an even $1000 granted. Ald. Hamilton thought that $1000 wasn't enough and that a more substantial grant should be made but Ald. Gainey objected on the ground that the city couldn't afford it.

Ald. Gainey asked for a grant of $100 towards the Trades and Labour Council to cover expenses of Labour Day. He stated that other councils were in the habit of granting this sum and that the Labour Council would have to face a deficit if the grant from the City Council had not been forthcoming.

Ald. Hamilton—"You should wait and see if the Trades and Labour Council have a deficit this year and if they do you could then ask the council for a grant. Ald. McIntyre ended the discussion by moving that a grant of $100 be paid to the Trades and Labour Council towards meeting expenses on Labour Day. Ald. Phelan seconded the motion and it was carried.

The question of Band grants came into special prominence and all of the aldermen seemed anxious to eliminate the trouble that surrounded the granting of money to the bands in former years.

Last year the 57th Regimental Band was granted $300 and the Salvation Army Band $150. This year an appropriation of $600 was made and a motion made by Ald. Edgar and fathered by Ald. Morrison provided that each band that plays thirteen nights in the park designated by the city would receive a grant of $300. The motion was carried.

The Housing Problem.

The Government Bill re the Housing Problem which will be submitted to the Ontario Legislature in the near future, was sent to the Committee by Mr. George Gillespie M. P. P. but no action was taken as the housing condition in Peterboro was not as yet a clear issue. At the request of the Mayor, Mr. J. Edgar, the local postmaster, the postmen on their rounds contact the empty houses in the city and a total of 45 residences in the city were found to be untenanted.

Property Qualifications

A circular letter was read from the Brantford City Council asking that the action of that council be endorsed when they propose to ask the Ontario Government to amend the Ontario Municipal Act so that all property qualifications for those running for municipal office would be abolished.

Ald. Gainey—"I move that we go on record as favoring it."

The Mayor—"I don't see why a man who has nothing at stake should come in and help run the city. he man with no property does not care how much is spent by the city. It doesn't make any difference to him."

Ald. Garside supported Ald. Gainey and Aldermen Hamilton and Phelan favoured the contentions of the mayor. Ald. Phelan made an amendment to Ald. Gainey's move that no action be taken. Put to a vote the result was a tie.

For the motion—Aldermen, McIntyre, Morrison, Gainey, and Garside.

For the amendment—The Mayor, Aldermen, Phelan, Hamilton, and Edgar.

ORGANIZATION OF THE LABOR PARTY

be promoted by the assistance of a more contented, happier and more intelligent body of workers.

The Case for the Negative.

Observing that he was handicapped by preconceptions, Mr. Begley said that under present conditions it would be unwise to advocate the forty hour week and minimum wage of five dollars. In some countries Labour had attained strong positions only to fall into mistakes and lose much of the ground it had gained. It had come to grief by being too hasty, by introducing ill-considered and drastic measures that had proved wrong or that had been submitted at the wrong time.

"Senator Robertson advised us that the present was inopportune for the broadest movements, and expressed the opinion that Labour would lose more than it would gain by being too anxious now. Perhaps the eight-hour day is being encouraged for a purpose that is not for our good."

Mr. Begley referred to the existing inactivity in industry, and whether it was factitious or not, Labour should ask itself whether it was going to assist in tieing up trade and business by demanding the changes it desired. Proceeding he said that the farmer is of the opinion that he has not been considered and is hostile. He opposes the Daylight Savings Act for one reason that it tends to reduce the working hours of hired men. Economic conditions should also be taken into account, Mr. Begley advised, and especially during the present trying period of readjustment.

Are Not Hasty.

Replying, Mr. Tooms explained that Labour was not hasty in its efforts to-day. It wants the eight hour day, but plans to secure it only by legislation and by the least inconvenience to the worker.

"Why should we not have the six hour day at this time, and give more men a chance to earn some money, instead of many being thrown out of work while others are employed a full ten hours", he suggested, and added that it was under such conditions that now prevail that the greatest effort should be put forth to secure the relief that was required by the working class.

Diverging from the subject, Mr. Tooms remarked that thoughtful employees were convinced that the success of some shops would be promoted if the management would begin its reconstruction in the so-called professional men in their employ.

At the conclusion of the debate Mr. McArthur referred to the reports he had received from the headquarters of the Party of the encouraging signs that had been discovered in the St. Catharines election. Labour had surprised itself and the electorate by the latent strength it disclosed. It was also known that a well-defined movement toward union was growing between Labour and the United farmers. This trend had already been indicated in this riding, and he hoped that it would soon materialize into an effective co-operation.

Last night's meeting was well attended, the membership roll was lengthened, and an interesting evening was promised for the next session on Thursday March 20th.

Read Resolution From Peterboro'

HAMILTON, March 5.—The regular meeting of the East End Veterans was held at their club house in the the Scott barracks.

A resolution from the Peterborough branch, G.W.V.A., was read by the secretary, asking that the attention of the provincial government be drawn to an article in the Canadian Engineer of Feb. 6, 1919, to the effect that two representatives of the Hydro-Electric Power commission of Ontario would visit England, Sweden and other countries to let them know just what class of electrical material is required in Ontario.

Will Enter Protest.

Owing to the fact that the G.W.V.A. expect the manufactures to find employment for returned men, it is only right that they should help and protect them by protesting against any foreign goods being imported to this country unless the time may arrive that all factories in Canada are fully employed, and cannot produce such materials, the meeting decided.

A strong resolution to this effect will be forwarded to the provincial government.

Elite of Old German Army Join Forces With Radical Socialists—Strike Might End To-day.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, March 7. — A German wireless message just received here states in addition to the volunteer marine division and a division of the Republicans' militia, parts of the Second Guards Regiment and the Guards Fusiliers Regiment went over to the Spartacans on Wednesday. Owing to the strike of printers and compositors, the Wolff Bureau is said to be unable to circulate its printed bulletins. A Berlin despatch to the "Mail," sent from there Wednesday midnight, asserted that it was reported in government circles that as a result of a compromise reached at Weimar, the strike might end to-day.

A Unique Event at Turnbull's

THE WEEK BEGINNING MONDAY, MARCH 10th

The Fifth Floor Given Over to a "Better Bedding Exhibition," One of the First of its Kind in Canada

The outstanding event of our merchandising program for March will be "Better Bedding Exhibition," which will open on our Fifth Floor on Monday, March 10th, at 2.30 p.m.

This is not exactly a selling event, but really what the name implies, an EXHIBITION OF BEDDING, and to which the leading Canadian manufacturers contribute their best and most desirable lines.

The object of the Exhibition is to allow the people of Peterboro and its surrounding country, to become acquainted with modern bedding in all of its phases. The manufacturers have forwarded large consignments of Beds, Springs, Mattresses, Pillows, etc., which will be arranged on the Fifth Floor for convenient and easy inspection.

Representatives from the factories will be on hand to explain the good points of their respective lines.

Each day there will be a prominent window display as well, but the best place to see the Bedding will undoubtedly be on the large, roomy Fifth Floor.

More and more people are demanding definite assurance from the manufacturers that their Bedding is clean, pure and sanitary. One reason that manufacturers co-operate in this Exhibition, is that they may demonstrate direct to the public, the absolute purity and the cleanliness of their product to-day.

We wish to emphasize the fact that it is an "Exhibition," not a selling campaign, and that you are cordially invited to visit it any day and every day of next week. You will find everybody ready to give you all the information you desire, but you will not be asked to make a purchase.

This Exhibition provides an opportunity that should not be missed to get an insight into the manufacture of modern Bedding, that cannot be had in any other way.

A visit to the Exhibition will be as good as a visit to the factory, and can be made without any expense and much less inconvenience. There will be Mattresses, Beds and Bedding in the various stages of manufacture, from the raw material to the finished article.

A New and Exclusive Bedding Department

With the "Better Bedding Exhibition," we will open what will be one of the largest exclusive Bedding Departments in Ontario, or in Canada for that matter, in the roomy Fifth Floor of our big store. The entire floor, with the exception of the stock room, will be used for the display and sale of Bedding of all kinds. The Department is unique, for very few stores, even in the larger centres, carry a department confined to Bedding alone, as a rule, it being combined with other lines.

In devoting this much floor space to the sale of Bedding, we are following the example of the larger American stores, which all the time are giving a more prominent place to Bedding in all its branches.

Entertainment Provided

We have provided for your entertainment, while visiting the Exhibition, with a first-class Orchestra of five pieces, from the Local Federation of Musicians of Peterboro, which will render a select program each afternoon from 2:30 to 5 o'clock. This music, in itself, will make a visit to the Exhibition worth your while.

The programme for each afternoon will be announced in the papers the preceeding day.

FREE PRIZES

One prominent feature of the Exhibition is that a large number of Prizes have been donated and are to be given away the various days in which the is in progress.

These range from the Babies Mattress up to the beautiful Brass Bed, which is donated by one of the leading manufacturers of Canada.

The method of awarding these prizes will be announced on Monday and at the Exhibition.

Motor Show Dates April 9th, 10th and 11th

Affair to be Conducted by Advisory Board of Red Cross—Proceeds for Health Association.

A meeting of the Advisory Board of the Peterborough Red Cross Association was held last evening at which Dr. Cameron of the Health Association attended for the purpose of setting the dates for the Greatest Motor Show Peterborough has held.

Permission has been kindly given for the use of the Armouries and the dates have been set for Wednesday Thursday and Friday, April 9th, 10th and 11th.

Applications for space will exceed all other local shows the programme to be given in main hall will receive special consideration and the special attractions to be put on will be organized from the standpoint of full value in every instance.

The most important matter of business transacted was the changing of the price of admission from 25c as in former years to 50c, Children 10c. Strip tickets will be sold seven for a dollar and the different organizations of the city which have been so active in war work will be asked to take hold of the advance sale of tickets.

The ladies of the Peterborough Health Association will have charge of affairs inside shows and will meet the Attraction Committee in a few days to complete arrangements.

Fifty Stores Will Sell War Stamps

Campaign in Peterboro is Making Good Progress.

The National War Savings Committee under the leadership of Mr. W. H. Bradburn reports gratifying success in Peterboro.

The chairman reports that out of about fifty stores who have so far been asked to serve the country by becoming vendors of Thrift Stamps only two have refused, those with grievances fancied or real, will be conspicuous by the absence of W. S. S. signs. A district organizer who was in town to-day tells us that Peterboro so far heads the list throughout Ontario as having the greatest percentage of stores to come forward and offer their services to further the savings stamps cause.

Savings Societies.

Savings Societies are to be a feature of the campaign, several of the larger retail organizations are forming these Societies members of which pledge themselves to save so much per week or month as the case may be, in some instances employees anxious that their store shall avail themselves of the opportunity to save at a good rate of interest and become the backbone of the Dominions finances have presented each with a small Thrift account.

Steadily increasing sales are reported from all the Banks and Post Office.

Mr. C. C. Jones of the War Savings Stamp Organization, has been in the city for the past few days and will return on Wednesday next to continue the campaign.

Provincial War Tax of One Mill Will Soon Be Collected.

The Provincial [illegible] war tax imposed by special legislation upon all property in Ontario will not be collected again. An announcement that the special Act authorizing the Government, as a war measure, to impose a direct tax upon property would be repealed, was made in the House yesterday by Hon. T. W. McGarry toward the close of one of the finest budget statements ever delivered in the Ontario Legislature.

This means a saving to the City of Peterborough of approximately fourteen thousand dollars and to the County of Peterborough, exclusive of the city, of a little over nine thousand dollars. The actual amount paid out by the city last year for the Provincial war tax was $13,230 and by the county $9,257.

Waddell Trophy and Silver Tea Sets Won by Jack Fitzgerald

Defeated Tom Brightman's Rink in Final Game Last Night Runners-up Received Silver Thermos Bottles—Results of Scheduled Games.

J. E. A. Fitzgerald's rink last night won the handsome silver trophy presented by Mr. R. M. Waddell for annual competition at the Peterborough bonspiel, defeating Tom Brightman by 15-13. It was a close, interesting game, replete with fine points of generalship and curling the veteran skips displayed. The rinks and scores were as follows:

G. S. Matthews	Geo. Metcalfe
J. Brightman	F. Brownscombe
W. R. Widdes	F. Fox
T. Brightman	J. E. A. Fitzgerald
Skip 13	Skip 15

Score by ends—

Brightman .....1010[illegible]00[illegible]—13
Fitzgerald .....0[illegible]02140100—15

Both rinks gave their best, and the skips were given good support, although in spots there were lapses. Skip Fitzgerald indicated the fact that the game was running warm and close and undecided by throwing off his coat and playing in his sweater coat, one of the signs recognized by the gallery that the veteran was put on his mettle. He proved that he had not lost any of the art of the game, despite his comparative inactivity during the past two winters.

Mr. Brightman played a steady game that put him in the running and gave him his seconds helping to the silverware. He was runner-up against Keene for the Peterborough cup.

After the game the prizes were presented by Mr. Waddell. The Club's prizes to the winners were three piece silver tea sets, and to the runners-up silver thermos bottles.

The Semi-Finals.

Fitzgerald defeated W. T. Hall by 24-5 yesterday afternoon, and Brightman put Archibald out by 13-9 in an extra end. Brightman was handicapped three points on account of the absence of his vice-skip, W. R. Widdes, John Brightman playing two pairs of stones. Allowing for this handicap the rinks were actually tied on the last end, with nine all, but Brightman came through in the extra and clinched the game.

Scheduled Games.

The end of the scheduled games was brought into view last night when the group winners were decided. In group one, Ray Best and Lou Bowes were tied up coming home. Best won with his last stone, and Bowes who followed him, also grabbed the game with a stone that was just a "half a pound" too light according to the minute calculations of the experts. The score was 15 to 12.

Alex. Kay was the winner of group two, but his unaffected game with McDermid last night was another of the events of the evening. McDermid won by 12-10 with last stone. R. Hicks stands at the head of group three and W. D. Campbell has won the fourth group. The final games are set down for to-day.

Turnbull's Won From Matthews

Last night in the Five Pin League at the Water Street Alleys, Turnbull's took two games from Matthews-Blackwell, and rolling a total of 2580. Matthews-Blackwell took the first game with a nice score of 968 for Turnbull's. Schleffer was high man with 612, Perry 576 for the packers, Moncrief was high with 565, Stanfield 558. The series:

Employees Have Formed a War Stamp Society

The employees of Robert Fair & Co., Ltd., remained at the close of business last evening and formed a society, to be known as the "We're In It" War Savings Society. The officers were duly elected:

President—Miss B. Thompson.
Secretary—Miss Alma Morrison.

Mr. Jones of the National War Savings Society, and organizer for this district, addressed the staff, outlining the objects. He stated this was the first of many individual societies that would be formed in Peterborough. The movement is national, but only in its infancy here. The staff of this company are to be commended for the initiative in taking up so enthusiastically this commendable patriotic undertaking.

Best Play Fisk O'Hara Has Presented

Fiske O'Hara comes to the Grand Opera House Saturday matinee and evening. This popular romantic actor is this season appearing in a new romantic farce called "Marry in Haste", by Anna Nichols, and is declared to be the best play he has ever presented. It has all the ingredients of a popular success, romance, mystery, witty dialogue and amusing situations in addition to which the star sings a number of delightful new songs, among which are "The Kind of a Girl I Am," "Peggy O'Vey," "I'm Falling in Love With You, Dear," and "There's A Charm of Dear Old Ireland in Your Eyes." O'Hara plays Lord Richard Leigh, a young scion of a titled Irish family, who contracts a hasty marriage with the first woman he meets, after his father has insisted that he renounce his bachelorhood in order to perpetuate the family name. When he meets Lady Evelyn O'Connor he regrets his rashness, but is in honor bound to refrain from declaring his love. But the drama works out to a happy ending, and Dick's love affair as well as that of his cousin Charles with the delightful young hoyden, Lady Peggy, ends happily.

Negotiations Are Broken Off at Spa

Allies Demand Whole German Merchant Shipping—German Delegates Are Delegated Only to Consider Shipping Finance and Food Supply As One Question.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, March 7.—Negotiations at the Spa relating to shipping questions have been temporarily broken off, according to a German wireless message received here to-day.

The Allies, the message says, demanded that all remaining German merchant ships be handed over unconditionally, without the Allies being willing to undertake the obligation of supplying Germany with food stuffs. The German delegates, it is added, received instructions from their Government that questions of shipping, finance and food supply must be dealt with only as a whole.

The Local Labour Situation May Become Worse Before Getting Better

Many Applicants for Work at the Local Labour Bureau—Applicants Find it Hard to Meet the Farmers.

To a great extent the working man in the city seems to have provided against the present labour situation, said Captain Morrison, the soldiers' representative at the Labour Bureau. While the situation is still acute and likely to develop into a more congested state before any real relief comes, there so far has been no real distress caused by men being out of work. As the time wears on and no work has been obtained by the men however, they are growing daily more restless and beginning to grumble.

Farmers Ask Aid.

At present for twenty-five applications from farmers for help, the Bureau has twenty-five men signed up desirous of securing farm work. The applicants, however, find it pretty hard to connect with the farmers, as when they arrive at the farm, in many cases the would-be employer is out. On Saturday the Bureau hopes to settle some of the cases. The general wage offered by the farmer is $40 a month.

"In the matter of wages the farmer is fairly generous," Mr. H. Robertson, manager of the Bureau, said today. "One man he placed last week, although only sixteen years of age, is to receive $25 a month, with a promise of a raise to $30 if he makes good in the light work he will be required to do.

Eleven Men Placed.

This week already, of twenty-two applications for work, Captain Morrison has placed eleven of the applicants, three of whom were absorbed by the Fire Hall, where the platoon system called for extra men. The manufacturers are doing nothing so far in co-operating with the bureau.

For the most part the men who apply are not skilled but mechanics form about one-third of the applicants. The list of men available includes some brass finishers and metal polishers. Only one foreigner, an Italian, has so far been listed.

Some mistaken idea has led a number of men to believe that a fee attaches an application to the Bureau for work of for help. This is quite wrong, and the Bureau is, as advertised, free to all.

Following an announcement in the Examiner, made some days ago, that a cook was needed, so many applicants arrived to apply that Mr. Robertson was advised by an onlooker to start a matrimonial bureau. "It would pay better than this, I guess," he said.

Fifteen minutes' boiling is enough to sterilize the clothes.

Oysters and celery can be combined in many a tasty dish.

President Ebert Refuses Resignation

Chancellor and Cabinet Will Stay—Spartacans Are Said to Be Cause of Cabinet's Action.

Canadian Press:

AMSTERDAM, March 7.—Chancellor Scheidmann has handed his resignation to President Ebert to enable the President to have a free hand to deal with the present Spartacan troubles. Ebert declined to accept the resignation, and requested Scheidmann and the Cabinet to remain in office.

The interest which has been shown in the special meetings at the Temple still continues to hold, and the crowds nightly are getting better.
Last night, on account of the absence in Toronto of Adjutant Buntin, Mrs. Buntin conducted the service, and it proved to be one of real inspiration and help. The service took the form of a fellowship gathering, and although there was no address the short talks of different members was very interesting and helpful.
To-night the Adjutant will speak on "The light that Went out, and Why." If you have not yet attended a service come along to-night for this will be one of the best.
The week-end services will be conducted by Envoy Award of Toronto, and a treat is in store for those who hear him. Watch the papers to-morrow for further announcements.

DIFFERENCES OF OPINION OVER PRELIMINERY TERMS

Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Colonel House Hold an Informal Conference—Military and Naval Officers Cannot Agree.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, March 7.—Premier Lloyd George, Premier Clemenceau and Col. E. M. House conferred for an hour before the meeting of the Supreme Council to-day in an effort to try to iron out the differences of three nations over military, naval and economic questions connected with the preliminary peace terms. The army and navy experts of several countries, it is said, have been unable to agree on terms.

Presentation to Mr. M. N. Clark

The Recipient is Superintendent of Knox Church Sunday School.

On Tuesday evening last the teachers and friends of Knox Sunday school met in the church parlours, partly to spend a social hour, but also to give a pleasant surprise to the superintendent, Mr. M. N. Clark. A short but excellent programme was carried out under the direction of Mr. Thos. Carpenter, assistant superintendent, at the close of which Mr. Clark was presented with an appreciative address and a handsome arm chair, the presentation being made by Mr. A. McKenzie and Mrs. Hunter.

Mr. Clark replied in suitable terms, disclaiming the credit which in their kindnesses they were ascribing to him, and thanking them for their handsome gift and for the kindly spirit of which it was an expression.

The pastor, Rev. J. A. MacKenzie, and other gentlemen added their expressions of good will and then after partaking of dainty refreshments, the gathering was closed with the benediction.

The Address.

The address is as follows:
Mr. Malcolm Clark, Superintendent of Knox Church Sunday School:

Dear Mr. Clark,—There are occasions in a man's life when acquaintances and even friends will essay to tel him candidly what they think of him. We have at some time been manoeuvring to get you in a corner, to run our finger through the button hole of your lapel, and pointing at you with our other finger for emphasis, to tell you certain things that have been on our minds for some time.

You have acted as our superintendent for seven years. We cannot adorn the greatness of this service by any words of compliment and appreciation. We shall not attempt it. We beg leave, however, to tell you of a few of the many good qualities you have revealed in the conduct of our Sunday school work.

First in order we place your faithfulness. Sunday after Sunday you are at your post. Hot weather or cold, wet weather or dry, is all the same to you as far as your attendance is concerned. Our Lord in one of His parables teaches us that faithfulness is a quality singled out for special reward and honour. We wish you to know that your faithfulness to this task has won our unanimous admiration and, in not a few cases, our earnest emulation. We wish also to say that we esteem very highly your good judgment. You bring to the work of our school that judicial poise that inspires confidence in the justice of your administration, while your genial good humour excludes the atmosphere of the law courts. We always feel that we can freely consult you about the various problems that crop up, and be certain of sound advice and kindly justice. We are reminded of the old professor who told his class that they required grace, grit and gumption, and who went on to say that the Lord could give them grace, and they could develop grit, but if they didn't have gumption there was no source where they could make that plant good. We congratulate ourselves that you have gumption. We attribute your marked success in this work, however, to the fact that in all things you are a Christian gentleman. Your great desire is to link up our boys and girls and our grown folk too, with the Lord. For the diffusion of this spiritual atmosphere we feel deeply indebted to the Father in Heaven.

Much more could be said by way of genuine appreciation, but we feel somewhat awed by your Scotch personality. We are not as talkative as we might be with others. But our silence is filled with thoughts that are golden. We ask you to accept this gift from your staff of teachers, officers and other friends as a visible token of your services and personality. As one teacher happily expresses it, "it is not for retirement but for rest." We picture you on your return from Sunday school sitting down in comfort to enjoy a quiet hour with your family. May we ever be welcome guests of our memories in such hours, and may the happy and blessed associations between yourself and our school continue by God's grace through many years yet to be. Signed on behalf of the school.

GRAIN MARKET

There was a sharp advance in cash Manitoba oats and barley, C.W. oats quoting 3c. to 3 3-8c. higher, and barley 1 7-8c. higher. In the options the whole market was extremely bullish, March corn closing 3 1-2c. up from Thursday's close, May 4 3-4c. up, and July 4 5-8c. up. After the close of the market the Government crop report came out, and it was seen that the exports had guessed entirely wrong, or the report was decidedly bearish, showing nearly one-third of the crop still in the farmers' hands, while conditions showed a good high percentage at 92.5. The subsequent bids and calls showed the effect of the report in a general decline.

May Relax Now the President Has Departed for Paris

(By Gandt, United Press.)

PARIS, March 7. — A distinct impression prevailed here to-day that American opposition to the League of Nations covenant would show considerable relaxation after President Wilson actually resumes his work in Paris.

His speech in New York just before sailing was the subject of most favorable comment among the French. Some officials here apparently now hope that the desired French amendments to the covenant will be more acceptable to Wilson. They believe that the President appreciates that the terms of the peace treaty can only be put into execution through the medium of the League of Nations with continued American collaboration.

Fingerprints on Whisky Bottle Only Clue to Mrs. Wilkins' Slayer

Burglars Who Attacked Physician and Wife at Home in Long Beach Are Believed to Have Arrived and Left in Boat or to Be Still Hiding in Neighborhood—Husband Tells Details of Assault.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Finger prints left on a whiskey bottle and three glasses constitute the only possible clew to the mystery surrounding the murder of Mrs. Julia Wilkins, wife of Dr. Walter Wilkins, in the driveway of their home, in Olive street, Long Beach, L. I., shortly after nine o'clock Thursday night. Aside from that the police of Long Beach and the authorities of Nassau county, operating with finger print experts from the New York Police Department, have evolved no theory that calls for definite action.

This much has been positively established, however:—The men who robbed Dr. Wilkins after hitting him on head with a lead pipe and slew Mrs Wilkins by hitting her on the head with a hammer, either arrived and left in a boat or are still hiding somewhere on Long Beach. It was thought at first that they may have escaped in an automobile, but provost guards stationed at the bridge leading over Reynolds Channel, the only bridge by which an automobile could have left Long Beach, declared yesterday that no automobile had passed the bridge between nine o'clock and the time they were ordered to stop all vehicles and search for the fugitives.

No Escape By Train.

Neither could the culprits have escaped by train. The train on which Dr. and Mrs. Wilkins reached Long Beach from New York arrived at six minutes past nine o'clock. The next train out left at a quarter past nine. It is a good fifteen minutes' walk from the station to the Wilkins home. Sergeant Harry Snyder, in charge of the Long Beach police station, received the first news of the crime at seven minutes to ten o'clock. The next train from Long Beach leaves at twenty-six minutes past eleven o'clock.

Long before that guards had been set to watching everyone who got on the train. Thus every avenue of escape except by water had been closed.

Inquiries among boat house owners along the water front revealed that no boat was missing, had been missing or was rented. Obviously the men did not swim across the channel, which seems to narrow their hidding place down to Long Beach itself. Yet at a late hour last night the thorough search to which Long Beach was being subjected had produced nothing.

Another strange feature of the case and perhaps the most puzzling of all, is the manner in which the robbers got into the house. There are four entrances, one on either side of the house and one on each side of a glassed-in sun parlor at the front. None of these doors nor any of the windows in the house showed any signs of having been forced.

Tells of the Attack.

The entrance from the driveway through which Dr. Wilkins entered when he was attacked is provided with two doors. Dr. Wilkins said they were not in the habit of locking the outer door, but the inner door is provided with an unusually good latch lock. His explanation is that Mrs. Wilkins may not have closed the door securely enough when she left the house. Yet last August the Wilkinses had had a burglar scare when they found a ladder against their house on returning home.

Dr. Wilkins told a Herald reporter that he could not recall distinctly whether he had unlocked the inner door or found it open.

"I saw a figure darting past in the hall," he said, "and turning to my wife, I said, 'Stay out here, there are burglars in the house.' With that I went in and closed the door. The next thing I knew I felt a blow over the head and sank to the floor. My derby is the only thing that saved me from a fractured skull."

Dr. Wilkins pointed to a badly battered black hat hanging on a hat tree.

Patrick Tracy, chief of police of Long Beach, who achieved distinction during the Tong wars in 1905 while in charge of the Elizabeth Street Station in New York, said it was his theory that two of the robbers were novices acquainted with Long Beach and the habits of Dr. and Mrs. Wilkins who had called in a professional criminal to engineer the deed for them.

Overlooked $400 in Wallet.

It was probably the professional who attacked Dr. Wilkins and took care not to kill him and to throw away the physician's pocketbook after the money had been extracted. Yet this professional robber overlooked a wallet with $400 in the hip pocket of the physician's trousers.

Sergeant Schneider said that immediately on giving orders that the bridges and all trains be watched he got in the patrol wagon with Policeman White and rushed to the house. He found Dr. Wilkins bathing the face of his wife who was lying on the brick driveway with her head on a pillow.

Mrs. Wilkins, who was quickly taken to the Nassau Base Hospital, was the first patient to die in that institution. An autopsy performed by Lieutenant Colonel Morehouse and Major Neff revealed ten scalp wounds and two fractures of the skull. The hammer used to kill Mrs. Wilkins was of the type used by machinists and the end of it was padded with a piece of paper fastened with a cord.

The police learned that a few minutes before Dr. Wilkins rang the doorbell of the house occupied by Max Mayer, a glove manufacturer; Clara, the fourteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Rudolph Duisberg, who lives there, saw a light flashing in an unoccupied house next door which is being remodelled. Workman had left a ladder leading to a second storey porch. No evidence of occupation were found by the police, however, when they searched the house.

The home of Dr. and Mrs. Wilkins is known as "Birds Paradise." Mrs. Wilkins had erected a fountain in the front yard so birds could drink, and more than a dozen nooks for nests were provided on the grounds. Besides the two collie dogs, one of which was beaten by the robbers, there were two monkeys and a parrot in the household. The robbers had taken the precaution of putting a cloth over the parrot's cage to stop its chatter.

Neighbours and friends of Dr. Wilkins were astounded at the remarkable fortitude displayed by the physician, who is sixty-one years old. Despite the blow he had received and the terrible experience he had gone through, he was up and around all day. He denied the report that he had offered a reward for the arrest of the burglars, and also discounted a rumour that a housekeeper in the house he maintains at No. 164 West Sixty-fifth Street, Manhattan, had to be ejected with the aid of the police.

CATTLE MARKET

Cattle prices have this week been easily maintained at the high levels of all recent advances. In consequence of the shipping and railway strikes at New Jersey there was a hold-up the latter end of the week of the export business. But even without this business receipts were light and easily taken care of by a good local demand. Trading was inevitably a little slower, as buyers were inclined to await developments, but in the end they found they must take the cattle offering at the prices going or go without. Apparently that was not convenient, so they came across and paid prices which averaged as high as the best of the earlier part of the week. In the event of an early settlement of the New Jersey strike, and with receipts no heavier than they have been of late, there is little chance of lower markets for some weeks to come yet. Should the strike continue and the New York business be cut off there is still the probability of a good business for the Buffalo market, where prices have of late been high.

The hog situation has been rendered uncertain for the present owing to the changed conditions which have come about by the removal of all trade restrictions on pork and pork products in the States and Great Britain.

THAT'S the result of the shave you get with an AutoStrop Razor. Its clean, sure stroke, adjustable for light or close shaving, removes the beard quickly and thoroughly, leaving the face soft and smooth.

Such comfort is possible only with the AutoStrop Razor. Why the AutoStrop Razor in particular? Because with its stropping feature there's always a sharp blade ready for use. A few turns on the strop removes the saw-like edge that results from shaving, it keeps the blade free from rust and gives you for each day's shave a keen-edged blade. You do not need to take the blade out to sharpen it; nor do you have to take the AutoStrop Razor apart to clean it.

Self-stropping, shaving and cleaning are all done without removing the blade from the razor.

Everywhere—razor, strop and 12 blades, complete for $5.00.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Brought Quick and Permanent Relief

MR. P. H. McHUGH
108 Church Street, Montreal.

December 10th, 1917.

"I was a great sufferer from Rheumatism for over 16 years, I consulted specialists, took medicines, used lotions; but nothing did me good.

Then, I began to use "Fruit-a-tives"; and in 15 days, the pain was easier and the Rheumatism was better. Gradually, "Fruit-a-tives" overcame my Rheumatism; and now, for five years, I have had no return of the trouble. Also, I had severe Eczema and Constipation and "Fruit-a-tives" relieved me of these complaints; and gave me a good appetite; and in every way restored me to health". P. H. McHUGH.

Black-Headed Grosbeak.

The black-headed grosbeak of the west takes the place of the rosebreast in the east and, like it, is a fine songster. It feeds on cherries, apricots and other fruits and does some damage to green peas and beans, but it is so active a foe of certain horticultural pests that we can afford to overlook its faults. For each quart of fruit consumed it destroys in actual bulk more than one and a half quarts of black olive scales and one quart of flower beetles, besides a generous quantity of codling moth pupae and canker worms.

NOTHING CAN COMPARE WITH IT

Mr. Fred Adams, New Ross N.S., writes—"I have tried many medicines for coughs and colds but never found anything to compare to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. We have had the greatest never fails to relieve a cough and loosen satisfaction with this medicine for it it up."

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

A False---Then a True---Peace Proclamation

CHAPTER CXXXVIII.

Ruth was quietly working, one morning, not long after Brian had been decorated, when the sirens and tug whistles began to blow; when all the bells in New York pealed out the news which quickly spread to all the business houses: that peace had come. War was over!

Like the other houses, Mandel closed his store for the day. He and Ruth called up Mrs. Clayborne, asked her to meet them, and then went to one of the gay restaurants to watch the hilarity, and to join in the gladness the news had brought.

All of them put aside all personal feeling save that of happiness for country; and for the lives which would be saved for this early peace. (Early as far as America was concerned.)

Mandel took them home in his car when they tired of the confusion in the restaurant, driving them through the streets where the crowds had not made going impossible. All that evening Ruth and her aunt talked of the wonderful news, of what it would mean to the country, to them, and to others.

"We will have to go right on giving and working for some time," Mrs. Clayborne remarked, "It will cost a lot to bring the wounded home and care for them; and for ships to bring the troops back. We must not think that we have done enough because there will be peace, after a little; we will have to keep right on for a year or two at least."

"We will be willing, too!" Ruth informed, her voice gay with happiness. Brian was coming. That thought had been with her every moment since she first understood what the sirens were trying to tell the people. That Brian was coming had added to her gladness that the horrible war was over, that the murder of brave men, innocent women and children, would stop.

Then came a doubt of the authenticity of the news. Then it was denied. People who had exhausted their emotions when the false news came, went about depressed, some almost discouraged. Ruth could scarcely keep still a moment. She bought every paper she could get so that she might read the latest news. Never had days seemed so long. The Sunday following was interminable.

Monday came, and with it also came the ratified news of peace. Accompanys were to be the first to come other wild wave of enthusiasm swept the country. Yet something of the spontaniety of the first celebration was missing. But a quiet happiness had taken its place in the hearts of the more reserved of the population.

Ruth was one of these. She and her aunt. They talked quietly together at home; refusing to join Mr. and Mrs. Curtiss who were dining out to celebrate.

"I don't feel in the mood to-night," had been Ruth's remark, when her aunt left the decision with her. "Unless you care to go, I would far rather remain quietly at home. I seem to have exhausted my desire for noise on the false report."

"Aunt Louisa," Ruth continued, after a time, "I wonder if you have forgiven me for marrying Brian?"

"Why—of course," Mrs. Clayborne had flushed a little, and hesitated. Not that she still felt as at first toward him, but that Ruth had referred to it.

"I hope so. It would make me happier than anything (except having him back) to know you two were good friends. You will stay with us?"

Ruth had put the question calmly, but her heart was beating fast. She would know by her aunt's reply whether she had really forgiven her.

"Yes — and no. There don't look so disappointed. I will promise to spend half my time with you. I shall expect you and Brian to come to me occasionally, and to let me have the baby often."

Ruth was content. Her aunt had said "You and Brian." That she included him showed that she was at least resigned.

How Ruth scanned the papers, now, for news of which regiments and back. She longed inexpressibly for her husband; she wanted her boy's father. Then, one day, she heard. He was to come soon; just how soon he could not tell, but within the month.

Now her song was always a lilting one. But the words were ever the same: "Brian is coming! Brian is coming!"

Her aunt, hearing, smiled and declared that if he didn't hurry, Ruth would look so young he wouldn't know her. Happiness had brought back the youthfulness, the smiles, the dimples.

Then there came word he had sailed. This time, not "over there" but "over here."

Blind Boys on Joy Ride.

A little engineering ingenuity has made dozens of blind and deaf children in Manila happier.

Deaf and blind children are sometimes hard to amuse. A man who fashions some plaything that can make perpetual darkness and silence a little easier to endure adds a jewel to his heavenly crown.

The merry-go-round that has been placed at the disposal of the children in the Deaf and Blind school in Manila is simple enough for the handicapped boys and girls to operate without assistance.

The whirling structure comprises a triangular framework of wood scantlings pivoted on a stout wood post in the center. At each point of the triangle is a seat and a wheel. The wheels travel on a circular iron track. Legs and arms supply the motive power.—Popular Science Monthly.

St. Mihiel Party.

One infantry company at the end of several hours' advance found that it had cut off several score of Germans in a wood. The Germans didn't show any fight. Most of them didn't even exhibit enough nerve to come out and surrender. When it came time for the captain to make his periodical report to his battalion P. C., this sentence concluded the message he sent back:

"Have about a hundred friendly troops in woods on my right."—Paris Stars and Stripes.

FOUND HIS PLACE

Youngster Who Made Good as Food Producer.

Factory Hand Lost, but a Massachusetts Community is Richer Because Boy Decided That He Would Take to Gardening.

Four years ago a garden-club boy in Massachusetts faced what would have seemed even to an adult a hard problem. Born in Italy, but thoroughly inoculated with American ideas of the necessity of education, James was told by his father while in the eighth grade that no longer could he be kept in school. His future path was to lie toward the near-by factory.

Believing, because of his garden-club experience under the auspices of the local leader for the United States department of agriculture, that he could earn as much by potato raising outside of school hours as he could in a factory, by devoting his whole time, he finally obtained permission from his father to try it. So successful was he that his father was willing he should enter the ninth grade in the fall.

The next spring the superintendent let him have land to use for a large garden. To ten boys he had selected from the upper grammar grades he made the proposition to pay so much an hour and to give each a garden plot. The following excellent advice he offered them in addition: "If you are going to quit, quit now while it is cool and not when it is hot next August."

By fall he had decided that enough could be earned in the summers to enable him to attend high school and the agricultural college later. Now a junior in high school, he has a good-sized hothouse under lease, where he raises cabbage, cauliflower and tomato plants; he owns an auto truck to handle his produce; has a bank account and pays his bills by check, and owns at least one government bond.

With all the school and business cares, he still has time to look after the school welfare of his younger brothers and sisters, visiting their teachers and watching their progress.

A factory hand, probably only a mediocre one, has been lost, but a good food producer has been gained through the vision given James by his boy's agricultural club leader.

Powerful Explosive.

The liquid oxygen explosive appears, from notices in the German technical press, to have been developed as a mining substitute for nitric explosives, which had been all taken for military purposes. It was discovered a score of years ago that when a carbonaceous material is saturated with liquid oxygen and ignited by a fuse or electricity, the carbon and oxygen combine violently, and successful trials were made in blasting. This explosive, called "oxyliquit," is now doing duty quite extensively in breaking up coal and potash. In seeking a combustible, experiments were made with a mixture of gasoline and infusorial earth, pulverized cork, dry wood pulp and dried peat, but the best results were obtained with lamp black. This is placed in a suitable cartridge. In the preferred method the filled cartridge is immersed for half an hour in liquid oxygen in a special container, and then, with an ignition system quickly attached, is placed in the borehole, tamped and exploded. The effects are nearly equal to those from the same weight of dynamite. The serious disadvantage of the method is the necessity of liquefying the oxygen at the place where used, but a very great advantage is safety in transportation, and especially complete lack of danger from unexploded cartridges. The oxygen evaporates in about ten minutes, leaving simply inert lampblack.

Monster Devil Fish.

The announcement is made that a monster devil fish weighing 1,700 pounds, and measuring 12 feet from tip to tip, has been captured three miles out from Deer Island, near Biloxi, Miss., by local fishermen, who brought the fish to Biloxi and placed it on exhibition. The fish, a species which is seldom seen so close to shore, was caught in a trawl net by Pat Moran, and it took three power boats to haul the fish into port. It had a mouth measuring four feet across, and in order to pass a rope through it, fishermen had to use an immense oar.

When one vessel attempted to bring the fish ashore it played with the boat as with a toy, and two other power boats came to its assistance. Many people viewed the monster.

Blank Check in Bird's Nest.

A bird's nest that had fallen from a tree in a park near Baltimore, Md., after it had withstood many a hard wind, has just been placed in the North Carolina hall of history in Raleigh alongside war relics and other exhibits because the bird used local building material. In the form of a blank check of a Raleigh bank, in making its home safe and snug. The distance between Raleigh and Baltimore is about 325 miles by rail, but it is much shorter as the crow flies. Ornithologists says the nest is either that of a robin or a thrush.

Economy

The difference in cost between an ordinary baking powder and the pure, strong, double-acting

EGG-O Baking Powder

is trivial. It amounts to only a fraction of a cent on each cake you bake. Against this you risk your high-priced flour, butter, sugar, eggs and milk, and your reputation as a cook.

Spoiled bakings not only cost you money, but they waste food. With the heavy Government Standard flours to use to-day, the selection of a strong baking powder is absolutely necessary.

The double-acting strength of Egg-O is needed to make a baking of a light cake from heavy flour. Try a can and watch your bakings improve. You can use sweet milk, sour milk, buttermilk or water with Egg-O —a different and better baking powder.

THE DAYS OF RECONSTRUCTION
FOR ALL PALE, THIN PEOPLE

This is the Season it is Most Necessary to Tone Up the System and Build Up the Blood and Nerves.

Applied to health the expression "run down" means a condition in which some, or all, of the bodily functions are enfeebled. This is a condition which only too frequently follows the long indoor months of winter when people live and work in imperfectly ventilated houses, shops, offices and schools. If you find yourself at this season easily tired by slight exertion you need a tonic. If the appetite is poor or fickle, the digestion impaired, the nerves shaky or impoverished, if you are pale and easily worried, winter has left its mark upon you. No particular organ being affected, you must look for relief to the blood. It is only by enriching and toning up the blood that you can regain what you have lost during the past winter and at the same time put yourself in shape to stand the trying heat of coming summer. To build up the blood, tone and strengthen the nerves, increase the appetite and bring vigorous strength to weakened bodies, there is no medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills actually make new, rich, red blood which will make you feel better, eat better, sleep better, and work more cheerfully. If you are in need of a tonic, and most people are at this season, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will not disappoint you.

COULD HARDLY WALK.

Mrs. J. McDonald, Jr., Hay, Ont., says: "Some years ago I suffered greatly from anaemia and as I did not realize the seriousness of the trouble I soon became a complete wreck. I got so weak I could hardly walk. I neither ate nor slept well and could not go upstairs without stopping to rest. At times I had an almost unbearable pain in my back and would have to remain in bed. I suffered almost constantly from a dull headache and when sweeping if I would stoop to pick up anything I would get so dizzy that I would have to catch hold of something to keep from falling. My eyes were sunken and my hands and limbs would be swollen in the mornings. I tried several kinds of medicine without benefit and my friends thought I would not recover. Then I began taking Dr. William's Pink Pills, and before long could see and feel that they were helping me. I gladly continued the use of the pills until I was completely cured and I cannot say enough in their praise, and I strongly recommend them to all run down girls and women."

SOME GOOD ADVICE

Miss. Alice Black, Amherst Beach, N.S., says: "I have received much benefit from the use of Dr. Williams Pink Pills, and would advise all who need a medicine for a run down system to make use of them. In my own case I have found the pills do all you claim for them, and shall always have a good word to say for this medicine."

RUN DOWN AND NERVOUS.

Mrs. B. Wamlott, Beaver Bank, N. S., says: "I was sick, run down and awfully nervous. The slightest noise would disturb and annoy me. I suffered pains around the heart and every particle of color left my face and hands. I always felt tired, and slept poorly at night. I was so poorly that my friends thought I would not recover. I tried many medicines but they did not help me. Then I read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to try all other medicine and try them. It was unfortunate I did for in the course of a few weeks I found they were helping me. I continued taking the pills for some weeks longer and they completely cured me. I earnestly advise every weak woman and girl to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial, and I am sure they will not be disappointed."

AFTER THE GRIPPE

Mrs. Thos. Covert, R. R. No. 2 Bancroft, Ont., says: "Following an attack of grippe I was left very weak and miserable. My appetite was poor. I suffered from headaches, my skin was sallow, and two boils broke out. I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and had only used a few boxes when I felt as well as ever. They drove all the impurities from my blood, gave me a good appetite, and I have since enjoyed the best of health. I can recommend the pills to anyone suffering from impure blood or skin disease."

STOMACH TROUBLE

Mrs. James Martin, R. F. D. No. 1, Perth, Ont., says, "I suffered greatly from stomach trouble, which was accompanied by severe pains in the side and around the heart. At times I was so bad that I vomited everything I ate, and even the medicine the doctor gave me grew weaker every day and would frequently have to lie down, and as the doctor was not helping me I was about discouraged. Then I saw Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advertised to cure the trouble and decided to try them. In a few weeks the pain had left and I could eat a little. I continued until I had used six boxes when I felt myself fully cured. In fact my friends tell me I am a living advertisement as to what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can do."

A SERIOUS CONDITION

Mr. Wilfrid Donald, West Flamboro, Ont., says: "Before I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was in a serious condition. I was not only badly run down, but my nerves seemed to be completely shattered. I slept badly at night, and got up in the morning tired as when I went to bed. I seemed to be on the verge of a nervous breakdown. At this stage I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In the course of a few weeks I felt much relief, and continuing the use of the pills they completely restored my health. I can now sleep soundly, eat well, and am enjoying complete freedom from the old nervous troubles."

Do not be persuaded to take a substitute. See that the full trade mark name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," is printed on the wrapper around the box. If you cannot get these Pills through your dealer they will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

EVER READY.

Canada Came Through the War Gloriously and Safely.

Conditions obtaining in Canada before the outbreak of war in 1914 were such as to make it harder for the public in general to stand the test and strain for the four years of trial to come.

We were a peace-loving people inured to the softer experiences and comforts of life. Thrift, for instance, was not an outstanding characteristic of Canadians. Interest in public affairs, as was shown always on election days, was confined to a small minority.

Practically nothing had been done or had happened to prepare us for war.

And yet, Canada came through the war gloriously and safely, with cruel losses of men, but without the distress at home that might have been expected from the unreadiness of 1914.

Five years after 1914, we come face to face with the tasks, problems and duties of reconstruction. Without minimizing their magnitude, it may be affirmed confidentially that we are better prepared for reconstruction than we were for war.

If our war service has been successful, then, why should we not triumph in the contests of peace?

Canadians come up to peace with a very remarkable training in steadiness, thoroughness and thrift.

Those returned soldiers appearing here in new crowds daily represent the stuff of victory over the Hun.

Every officer noted on the streets has undergone severe, exact and methodical training.

All the people of Canada have had good reason to learn something of value to the country since July, 1914.

War has prepared us for reconstruction infinitely better than peace prepared us for war.

The new era opens to find Canada steady and with good courage.

Hydraulic Cartridges.

It is often difficult and sometimes dangerous to use ordinary explosives for mining and excavating in confined spaces, a fact that has led to the development of the hydraulic mining cartridge.

The cartridge consists of a steel cylinder containing numerous small pistons that move at right angles to the axis of the cylinder and expand when water is injected into them with a hand pump. After drilling a deep enough hole the workmen insert the cylinder and then set to work at the hand pump.

The tiny pistons expand until their free extremities bear against the mass of rock with constantly increasing force and the rock is gradually fractured under tremendous pressure. The operation, it is said, is not only cheaper than the ordinary blast but dislocates a larger area of rock.

CITY'S HIGH TITLE

Cuban Capital Given Long Name, by Royal Decree.

Has Been Considerately Shortened to Habana, but That Was Not Its Appellation in 1634—Place Had Remarkable Growth.

The full name of the capital of Cuba is San Cristobal de la Habana. In 1634 a royal decree conferred upon the city the sounding title, "Llave del Nuevo Mundo y Antemural de las Indias Occidentales" which signifies "Key of the New World and Bulwark of the West Indies." In consequence the coat of arms of the municipality bears a symbolic key and representations of the fortresses of Morro, Punta and Fuerza.

Habana is one of the several towns founded by the governor, Diego Velasques. He planted it upon the south coast, where the town of Batabano now stands. It was shortly removed to its present position and rapidly it grew to be the chief center of the island and one of the most important places in the new world. La Fuerza, the oldest fortification in the city, was erected near the close of the sixteenth century. Shortly afterward, Philip the Second of Spain ordered the construction of the Punta and Morro forts, for the protection of the harbor, and at about the same time the official residence of the governor of the island was transferred from Santiago de Cuba to Habana.

In 1555 the population of Habana was hardly more than three thousand, but in the following two or three decades it doubled, owing to a large immigration of Spaniards from Jamaica. During this period, the city rose to be the commercial center of the Spanish-American possessions, and the principal rendezvous of the royal fleets that carried on the trade monopoly between Spain and America. The walls inclosing the city were commenced in 1671 and finished 30 years later.

A map of the city at the beginning of the nineteenth century strikingly illustrates its rapid growth. Then the residences were almost all intramural, or within the walls. Large estancias and huertas occupied ground which is now intersected by paved streets and covered with substantial buildings.

The first impression made upon the visitor is of the massive character of the architecture. This characteristic is more pronounced than in any other Latin-American city. The building material generally used is a conglomerate of marine material, which hardens on exposure to the air. It is hewn into great blocks and so used in construction. Walls are usually covered with stucco or plaster, and colored in a variety of tints. Roofs are either flat, or built of the old Spanish tiles. The effect, which is enhanced by the presence almost everywhere of trees and shrubs, is pleasing in the extreme.

The most interesting portion of Habana is that which formerly lay within the walls. The houses here have for the most part been converted into business purposes, but a few persons still cling to their old homes.—Forbes Lindsay in "Cuba and Her People of Today."

Spot to Be Avoided.

It happened in Paris. He was black, a Yank soldier, and from New Orleans. He was heading toward the Seine, when an on-coming comrade, same color, halted him. Said the comrade: "I'd be advisin' you, Lestah, not to go too nigah that river; they's likely to be lookin' foh a molasses detail."

A Good Catch.

"You ask for my daughter? What are your prospects, young man? Do you own the house you live in?"

"No, I rent it, but I have five tons of coal in the cellar."

"Take her." — Louisville Courier-Journal.

BLEND FAR FROM COMPLETE

Expert Finds Descendants of First American Families Little Affected by the Melting Pot.

Through an extensive study of members of some of the oldest American families, America as the "melting pot of the nations" proves to be but a convenient expression for writers and orators—merely a picture drawn by those who do not trouble themselves about the precision of their figures of speech, a myth without foundation of fact.

For four years Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, a curator of the division of physical anthropology of the United States National museum, has had under way an investigation of the blending of the various types of humanity in America, which, though not yet fully completed, has resulted in the inevitable conclusion that the force of heredity is too strong to be radically altered in a century or two and that we must wait centuries longer to find a type which will justify the statement that America is in reality a "melting pot" of the nations. Doctor Hrdlicka finds that even the first material that went into the "pot" has not melted yet.

Several hundred members of the old white American stock have been measured most carefully and examined in many ways to find if the people making up this stock are tending to become alike—if a new subtype of the human race is being formed here in America with intermarriage, environment and under the pressure of outward circumstances. Doctor Hrdlicka finds definitely that, as yet, such is not the case. His investigation shows that the descendants of the Pilgrim fathers, the Virginia cavaliers, the Pennsylvania Dutch and the Huguenots, while possibly not as much alike as their ancestors probably were, are still far from a real blend.—Philadelphia Record.

LIKE NOSTRUMS OF PACIFISTS

African King's Advice About as Helpful as the Vaporings of So-Called "Lovers of Peace."

Senator Smith said in a Y. M. C. A. address in Washington:

"Germany must be crushed. Peace, otherwise, will behold the world drilling and arming for another and more terrible war. An inconclusive peace would make things worse instead of better.

"When a pacifist offers me his nostrums, I tell him that his advice is worse than the African king's.

"A missionary once visited an African king. The king was well pleased with the young man and ordered that 500 of the most beautiful maidens in his kingdom be brought before him.

"When the maidens—a very fine lot indeed—were gathered together, the king presented them to the missionary.

"'These 500 girls,' he said, 'are the flower of my kingdom. Choose a wife from among them.'

"The missionary, very much embarrassed, answered:

"'Oh, your majesty, if I took one, think how jealous the other 499 would be!'

"'That,' said the king, 'is easily remedied. Take all.'"

Americans and Tanks.

By inventing the caterpillar device for motors, American ingenuity has played a vital part in the war, says Boys' Life, the boy scouts' magazine.

The success of the tank lies in the fact that it lays its own track, so to speak, and after rolling over it, picks it up. Now the track is merely a belt made of flat links of steel. This belt fits over large wheels at either end of the tank, much as the chain is stretched around the wheels of an automobile. On the outside of the belt are fixed a series of broad links called track plates, which take a firm grip on the earth. The tank itself rests on rollers which in turn rest on the inside of the belt. It is equipped with two belts on either side of the car, both of which are connected with the driving machinery. When the tank moves straight ahead, both these belts are driven at the same speed. It is possible, however, to drive the belts independently. It usually travels at a speed of about half a mile an hour.

Speed in Making Grenades.

The core shop of an old British iron foundry is cited as a revelation in speed in turning out war work. Young girls are producing cores there for hand grenades at the rate of 180 an hour, the cores, the making of which takes 31 movements of the hand, being turned out in 16 seconds. The foundry itself is old and by no means convenient, but by a system of standardisation of the work and by encouraging employees to take an intelligent interest in their work, the output has been actually trebled. Every 1,000 feet of floor space in the foundry now produces 6.5 tons of light castings a week, working day shift only. It is the only foundry in that particular town working a 48-hour week. Besides, the girls and women, who form 60 per cent of the employees, are allowed ten minutes for lunch and ten minutes' interval in the afternoon.

Dog Material Pet of Soldier.

Dogs are a source of great comfort and satisfaction to the young fighting men from America who find in them a devotion and companionship many crave. They are amused by the antics of lively dogs but they are given much deeper pleasure by the absolute loyalty and complete unselfishness of their pets. If there is one place in the world where entire devotion to a comrade is more prized than it is anywhere else that place is an army of brave and true soldiers.

GRATEFUL FOR COLD WATER

Thirsty Fighters Went on Their Way Blessing the Thoughtfulness of That Red Cross Worker.

There was plenty of water in X, but a tin mug of it was more deadly than a German machine gun. It's impossible to push two or three hundred thousand soldiers back and forth over a locality, especially when half of them are Germans and there isn't time to clean up after they have been defeated, and keep the water supply unaffected. And when, as is the case often, the water wasn't very pure to begin with, it's not at all wise to dally with the idea of drinking it. But what can you do when you've been out all day fighting and pursuing Germans and your canteen's empty and the roof of your mouth feels like a vulcanized scrubbing board?

That's the thought that came to a Red Cross field service man during the hottest fighting in August. It was hot in two senses. The bullets flew and the sun melted. And the Red Cross man took out his largest marmite and filled it with water that was cool and purified. He kept it full all day and every soldier that passed that way had a drink of water. It was water they wanted just then. A little initiative on the part of one man made the soldiers all be himself put it "absurdly grateful." But after struggling across fields and roads all day in the hot sun, well—well men do become absurdly grateful for a drink of cool water.—From a Red Cross Scrapbook.

Smashing All Records.

The knell of such musical German propaganda as "Die Wacht am Rhein" and "Deutschland Uber Alles" was sounded the other day when more than 1,500 phonograph records embracing these and similar airs were destroyed by a committee of women acting under the auspices of the National Phonograph Records Recruiting corps. The records were reduced to fragments with hammers at the corps headquarters. Aside from ridding the country of all German records that savor of propaganda, the primal purpose of the organization is the gathering up of all "slacker records" in the country for the entertainment of American boys in the front-line trenches. To this end a slacker drive for records will be launched next week.—New York Sun.

Lookouts Develop New Disease.

"Eye work is perhaps the biggest part of submarine hunting," writes William G. Shepherd in Everybody's, "and it has its evils and penalties. Woe to the man on a destroyer who is gifted with that strange, unexplainable talent of being able to see by night. There he sits. His is almost a 24-hour-a-day task. And he finally gets the 'periscope eye' and is sent ashore to get well, if he can. His eyes weep tears of pus by day and, after sleep, his lids are glued together with granulation. It is a new disease of this mad century.

"'You keep looking through those high-powered binoculars like an old lady reading through her spectacles,' one of the boys explained to me, 'until finally they seem to be pulling your eyes out of their sockets.'"

"Canada's Golgotha."

A great deal of interest is being taken just now in London in a work of art that must appeal to Canadians. It is Derwent Wood's big bronze group, "Canada's Golgotha," representing a Canadian soldier crucified by the Germans, while they are standing, in careless attitude, jeering below the figure of the tortured man. It is a wonderfully powerful piece of work enhancing the brilliant sculptor's great reputation.

Horsemen Knew Their Business.

The value of having practical horsemen in charge of remount camps is shown in provisions made for shelter. When it came to building the great depots required at each of the camps they ordered open sheds instead of barns—or for the severe northern climate, sheds closed on one side. To the city-bred humanitarian who saw thousands of Uncle Sam's horses and mules standing out in the cold, this seemed cruel, and complaint was entered. But by practical test it was shown that the horsemen were right. Those animals which were housed up did not thrive as well as the ones which were kept in the open. When talking with the head of the remount division the thing he was most proud of was the fact that our horses were kept in better condition with fewer losses, than the horses of England or France, and that we did this with a much smaller man force, largely because we give them open-air treatment.

NATIONAL ANTHEMS

SONGS WHICH THE NATIONS ARE SINGING THESE DAYS.

Austria Has the Only Hymn Which Was Composed by a Musician of the First Rank—Russia's Is a Stately Anthem, While France Possesses the Most Warlike—Britain's Widely Known.

The Austrian National Anthem is being sung and played in every city and village in the dual empire at this moment, and it is one of the finest in existence. It was composed in 1797 by that great national composer, Haydn, who is chiefly known to concert-goers in this country by his magnificent oratorio, "The Creation," in which occurs the splendid and florid chorus "The Heavens are Telling." The anthem was based upon an old national song, but Haydn made it a thing of beauty. It is the only National Anthem composed by a musician of the foremost rank.

But the song which is sung in cities by civilians is not always, or indeed generally, the one sung by the soldiers who have to bear the brunt of battle and siege and march. At present the most popular song in Vienna—shouted every night in theatre and music hall as well as by recruits going to the front—is "Prinz Eugen der edle Ritter," which tells how the "noble cavalier," Prince Eugene of Savoy, who was the ally of the great Marlborough, the ancestor of our present First Lord of the Admiralty, laid siege to and captured Belgrade from the Turks in 1717. It ought to be a good song for its present purpose, for it was actually written in the trenches before the very city which is now again occupied by the Austrians.

Probably the most stately National Anthem is the Russian. Its very title, "God, the All Terrible," seems to strike an heroic strain. Sung by a great mass of peasant soldiers with simple fervor its effect is grand in the extreme. Played upon the great organ in the cathedral at Moscow it sounds like a prayer. Not only are the words very poetical, but the tune is forceful and haunting.

Of course the greatest of all war songs pure and simple is unquestionably "The Marseillaise." What memories it has clinging to its fervidly patriotic words! It was the song of the French Revolution, and did more to bring down the dynasty of the Bourbons than half-a-dozen army corps. It was called by the name which still is universally applied to it, because the men—and women—of Marseilles, the port of the Mediterranean, marched all the way to Paris singing it as they went. Its first fruits were reaped a few days after their arrival when the hated Bastille fell to its strains. It is now the National Anthem of Republican France, and it will be heard all over that fair country as the French army goes marching on to victory.

In Germany no patriotic song has been sung with such fervor as the famous battle hymn of the Germans, "Die Wacht am Rhein" ("The Watch on the Rhine"). It was written in 1840, but remained practically unknown until the outbreak of the war with France, when it was sung by every soldier, and every man, woman, and child throughout the German Empire. "The Watch on the Rhine" was to Germany at that time what "The Marseillaise" was to France—a soul-stirring composition, which made them eager to take up arms and fight for the cause which they thought was right.

Our own National Anthem is a Georgian product and originally opened with the words "God bless Great George our King." It has been honored by Beethoven with seven variations for the piano, and it is introduced into his Battle Symphony. On the whole, perhaps, the tune to which we sing—all the words we can remember—"God Save the King" has probably the largest circulation of any tune in the world.

Then there is "Rule Britannia," perhaps the finest national song possessed by an nation, and which was composed by Dr. Arne, the English musician, who wrote several operas. "Rule Britannia," was included in the "Masque of Alfred," a musical farce produced in 1740.

Just as the Austrian National Anthem is the only one set to music by a great composer, so the Norwegian Anthem is the only one whose words were written by a real poet. This was Bjornstjerne Bjornson. On one occasion he was asked when he got the greatest pleasure out of his fame as a national poet. He replied, "It was when a delegation from the Riksthing came to my house in Christiania and smashed all my windows. Because when they had done all the damage they could and were starting home again they felt they ought to do something. So they began to sing 'Yes, We Love This Land of Ours.' They could do nothing else. They were obliged to sing the song of the man whom they had attacked!"

HER FIVE CHILDREN

Had Whooping Cough At the Same Time

Whooping cough is one of the most dangerous diseases of children, especially to those under five years of age. It first starts with a fever and cough, sneezing, watering of the eyes and an irritation of the throat. Later the coughing increases, the child becomes livid in the face, the eyes appear as if they would burst from their sockets and suffocations seems imminent till relief is brought by the "whoop."

On the first sign of whooping cough we would advise the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. This famous remedy will clear the bronchial tubes of the collected mucous and phlegm, and in this way ease the racking cough and in short time make it disappear entirely.

Mrs. Walter McGauchey, North Battleford, Sask., writes: "I have five children, the eldest thirteen and the baby two years old. They all had the whooping cough at the same time. I tried two or three cough remedies but none gave the same satisfaction as Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. A home where there are young children should never be without it. I will highly recommend it to those who want a good cough cure."

There are many imitations of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so be sure you get the genuine by insisting that the package is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. and manufactured by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

General Townshend's Triumphs.

Like a palm tree in the arid stretches through which he fought stands out the selection of Gen. Charles V. F. Townshend to bear to the agents of the allies the Turkish offer of surrender, observed the New York Herald recently. Two years and a half ago, almost to a day, General Townshend and 6,000 men, the remnant of his army of 50,000, ran up the white flag in Kut-el-Amara after a siege of 143 days and surrendered to the Turks, while 40,000 other British soldiers 16 miles away battled ineffectually to break through the Turkish ring to the beleaguered force.

Now General Townshend has obtained his satisfaction. That he, a prisoner of war, should have been selected to carry this fateful message, fateful to all Christendom, as well as to what remains of the Turkish empire, is a unique tribute to a gallant soldier from the government he and those under his command served so faithfully.

New Soldier.

Gen. Leonard Wood said at a dinner in Washington:

"A new soldier is apt to be nervous, apt to make mistakes, but this is no sign of cowardice. It soon wears off.

"A new soldier was having his first experience of night duty. The password was 'discount.'

"As the soldier paced back and forth in the darkness, a black figure suddenly loomed up before him.

"'Halt! Who goes there?' he challenged.

"'A friend,' was the reply.

"'Advance friend,' said the new soldier. Advance and give the discount.'"

WOULD LET BABY DIE.

Dr. Haiselden, of Baby Bollinger Fame, Won't Operate.

CHICAGO, March 7.—Dr. Harry J. Haiselden, of Baby Bollinger fame, has again declined to operate in the case of a defective infant, believing it better that the little life should be allowed to go out in order that the world may not be burdened later with a defective adult.

The baby is Mary Saliza, of 1843 South Fisk street. While an operation would save the child's life, Dr. Haiselden declared he will not perform it.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! Is tongue coated, breath feverish and stomach sour?

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels.

A laxative to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleaning" is sometimes all that is necessary, should be the first treatment given, and it is best.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the California Fig Syrup Company."

Eagle Is Pershing's Mascot.

General Pershing's personal mascot is a large golden eagle which the people of his native state sent him and which is now in the Bronx Zoological park, New York. There is a rule against soldiers or regiments taking their living mascots "over there" with them.

BEST WAR POEMS.

Canadian Writers Have Penned Some Beautiful Verses.

What were the best poems written by Canadians during the war? That question is being asked by school teachers and the reading public these days. The literary editor of the Toronto Mail and Empire makes the following selection, and gives his reasons:

"In Flanders Fields," by Lt.-Col. John McCrae.

"New Year's Eve," by Norah M. Holland.

"Wind—and the Dust of Death," by Main Johnson.

"Ici Repose," by Bernard Freeman Trotter.

"The Man from Athabaska," by Robert W. Service.

"Kitchener," by J. G. Stead.

"Home Thoughts," by Norah M. Holland.

"The Fifes of Valcartier," by Capt. T. G. Roberts.

"Over the Hills of Home," by Lillian Leveridge.

"The Shell," by A. C. Stewart.

In this very mixed company, the first place is naturally given to "In Flanders' Fields" on account of the fame that it has achieved. In writing this poem, the late Lt.-Col. McCrae made use of the rondeau form, which is a form that generally sounds artificial and precise unless handled by a master like Austin Dobson. A rondeau is usually too obviously decorative to strike a deep note, and that is one reason why the emotional power of "In Flanders' Fields" seems so remarkable to any person familiar with poems of a similar outline. The thought fits perfectly into the mould. The poet conjures up a picture that finds a response in every heart. There is the secret of its success. It has been used as an election appeal and in many other ways that might have cheapened it, and the fact that its beauty has not been dulled, indicates the vitality of this unusually perfect rondeau. The two next poems on the list are highly imaginative and dramatic, although the subjects are treated in a strongly contrasted manner. In our opinion no more earnest and thoughtful poem has been written about the noble dead than "Ici Repose." There is deep and moving tragedy in the words that the poet addressed from the fighters who survive to the fighters who die:

Oblivion cannot claim you; our heroic
War-lustre moment, as our youth, will pale
To swell the dusty hoard of Time the Stoic,
That gathers cobwebs in the nether glass.

We shall grow old, and tainted with the rotten
Effluvia of the peace we fought to win,
The bright deeds of our youth will be forgotten,
Effaced by later failure, sloth or sin;

But you have conquered Time, and sleep forever.
Like gods with a white halo on your brows—
Your souls our lode-stars, your death-crowned endeavor.
The spur that holds the nations to their vows.

We liked the Service poem because it was thoroughly Canadian in scene and spirit, and "Kitchener" appealed as an unusually dignified piece of memorial verse. Capt. Roberts wrote what seemed to us the best piece of Canadian recruiting poetry, and "The Shell" had a certain rude force that compelled attention. Some persons may consider the lilting "Over the Hills of Home" a little too sentimental, but it found a place in the ten because the pathos in the verses has a genuine ring. In its own way, it awakens a response just as surely as "In Flanders' Fields."

Composers Want a Chance.

A number of composers and lyric writers met in Toronto recently to consider conditions regarding Canadian music. It was felt that there was no distinct type of song typical of Canada. They will endeavor to raise the standard of Canadian compositions, so seek means of bringing these compositions before the Canadian public, and will agitate for an up-to-date copyright act for Canada.

"One scarcely ever hears a Canadian song at any of our theatres," remarked the president-elect, G. V. Thompson. The reason is that theatres are mostly in American circuits, and consequently feature the songs published in New York and Chicago."

Development of the community chorus, co-operation with schools and churches as well as concert singers is part of the policy outlined. Some thought the Canadian National Exhibition should open a music hall similar to the art gallery, and arrange all-Canadian concerts that would give Canadians a chance to show what they could do in composition.

The crest adopted by the association was a plain maple leaf with the words "Alexander Muir," and the initials A.C.A.C. It was felt that the Maple Leaf was the first really popular Canadian song, and its author will be remembered in this way.

That Canadians can write popular songs and lyrics is evidenced by the products of the war. Capt. McCrae's "In Flanders' Fields"; Robert Service's "It's a Mighty Good World After All"; "Keep Your Head Down, Fritzie Boy," and numerous other hits by Lieut. Gitz Rice, of Montreal, are among the popular songs in the United States to-day.

FORTUNINU, ITCHING ECZEMA

Mrs. Jos. B. Horth, Paspebiac, Bonaventure Co., Que., writes:—"Thanks to Dr. Chase's Ointment I have been completely cured of that horrible disease eczema. I was held as if in prison from going among other people, for I was ashamed of the raw, flaming sores. Doctors could do nothing for me and I was almost desperate with suffering when I began to use Dr. Chase's Ointment. In one month I was completely cured and think that this was little short of a miracle."

Odors and Germs.

The odor of cloves has been known to destroy microbes in thirty-five minutes; cinnamon will kill some species in twelve minutes, thyme in thirty-five minutes. In forty-five minutes common wild herbena is found effective, while the odor of some geranium flowers has destroyed various forms of microbes in fifty minutes. The essence of cinnamon is said to destroy the typhoid fever microbe in twelve minutes and is recorded as the most effective of all odors as an antiseptic. It is now believed that flowers which are found in Egyptian mummies were placed there more for their antiseptic properties than for merely ornamental or sentimental purposes.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Recompense

By ATHEA WARREN HALL

(Copyright, 1919, Western Newspaper Union.)

The town was the same, the stores old and toppling as ever. There were still oil lamps at the street corners. After ten years, to Adrian Barth, the wanderer returned, Rushville seemed to have been asleep all that time and was a little grayer, a trifle further "way-back" than when he had left it.

"Father dead and mother still living at the old home, I've learned that much," soliloquized Adrian. "I wonder if she has aged, I wonder what hard, loveless life has done for her. Poor soul! Mother? Yes, she was that to me, and I hope—oh! I hope I have not come back too late."

His own mother had died when he was a tiny child. It was ten years later when hard-fisted, harder-hearted John Barth had married again. Adrian could recall now the timid, half-frightened being who had come into his young life. She had become an inspiration to him. She repressed all outward manifestation of affection, but in a hundred ways secretly tried to show him that she cherished him as the one bright element in a dreary existence, haunted always by the sour visage and stern, stilled ways of the man who ruled his home with a rod of iron.

She had shielded him for a mere boyish fault, magnified to a hideous crime by John Barth. She had stepped between the furious tyrant armed with a horsewhip and his youthful prey, had taken the lashes herself and was glad when Adrian, bursting forth into bitter condemnation of the father who had never given him a gentle word or a kind look, had dashed from the spot declaring the roof should never shelter him again.

And later that night she had sought him out, sleeping in an old barn, bringing him a bundle of his clothing, some food, a small sum of money, all she had, and wept over him and bade him Godspeed, wherever he might go.

He came to a halt before the old home at last. Little had been done in the way of improvement, nothing as to decoration, but everywhere there showed the thrift of constant care and repair. The garden was trim and neatly kept, the windows glistening, the curtains faded and old, but clean and primly starched. Glancing into a lighted room the curious observer saw only order and neatness, the threadbare nicety of a hand urged by some innate sense of comeliness and comfort. The door was open. Adrian Barth stepped across the threshold.

"Mother!"

She turned her thin, faded face toward him, her eyes unbelieving. She stood rigid, like a being spellbound and not knowing what next to do. He interrupted her hesitancy with a brusque rapid forward movement. His great sheltering arms inclosed her. She fairly wilted there, a delirium of extravagant joy in her seamed, worn face.

"You—you have not forgotten me!" she voiced, and her tones fluttered weakly.

"Not for a day, not for an hour," he declared, and his voice rang like joy bells within her hungering soul. "Oh, the hard, hard life!

"He blamed me always for driving you away."

"After he had cramped my young life, all servitude, all thankless effort! Mother, he is dead. We will not speak of him. I started home as soon as I heard that you were alone in the world. Are you glad?"

She sank to a chair weeping softly. "I hoped you would come," she sobbed brokenly, "for I have been warden of a trust. He left me only the use of the home until you returned. I have tried to keep it up. I am glad to deliver it to you free of debt. I can go away content, knowing I have been true to my trust."

Amid the infinite pathos of the moment the man could not speak. He gazed at the woman before him, a being transformed into angelic sublimity, amid her simple humble devotion to the duty of life as she understood it.

"We will not speak of the old home, which is yours forever, if you wish it," he spoke with deep feeling. "Mother, it is not too late to bring you peace and happiness. I have had a dream. Oh, help me fulfill it! May I bring some friends to see you—friends who know all about you, and how I love you, friends who will ask the privilege of bringing into your life that which may make amends for the hard, cruel past!"

He had picked up his cap. He waved it cheerily. He came up to her and brought the blood to her cheek with the fervent kiss he bestowed. She sat as one in a trance after he was gone. She swayed amid the excess of an emotion she had believed forever foreign to her tired, wornout soul. Oh, heaven was very near! It was worth all the weary years of waiting to be thus greeted with remembrance, devotion and love!

And then—a bustle at the door, and half-subdued voices alive with suppressed excitement, the tones of little children, and three of them burst into the room. And their mother, following, wound a loving arm about the neck of she who read the oracle aright, and knew that Adrian Barth had brought to her threshold messengers of love and joy who were not to depart.

SEE NEED OF CITY PLANNING

Japanese Municipal Authorities Awake to Dangers Connected With Congested Centers of Population.

The remarkable expansion of Japanese cities during the last few years has accentuated the urgent necessity of city planning. With this end in view a conference of the mayors of the leading Japanese cities has occurred at Tokyo. Among those present were the mayors of Osaka, Yokohama, Nagoya, Kyoto and Kobe, while Tokyo municipality was represented by Messrs. Kabashima and Ogino.

"In Tokyo, city planning was set on foot twenty years ago, about the same time the question of city planning was receiving attention in Europe and America," said Doctor Seki, mayor of Osaka, in an interview with a Tokyo Yomiuri representative. "In Osaka, however, it is only a few years since the problem began to claim serious attention, although the necessity of city planning in Osaka is perhaps more urgent than in other cities. The density of population in Osaka is certainly greater than in other places and improvement in sanitary and other matters is urgently needed. It is estimated that the population of Osaka twenty years hence will be 2,650,000 and that of the two neighboring districts 2,350,000, making a total of 5,000,000. This estimate is based on the present rate of increase, but it is possible the rate of increase may be larger. Herein lies the urgent nature of city planning for Osaka."

FISH AFFECTED BY WARFARE

Explosion of Mines Off British Coast Has Resulted in Great Diminution of Catches, Is Report.

Wilfred Busley, who is on the way to his tea plantation in Assam, India, said on his arrival in this city that the frequent explosions of mines off the British coast had caused a great scarcity of fish, according to New York Times. This was especially the case along the east coast of England and Scotland, and had also affected the coast of Holland. Herring, which formerly were plentiful at this season of the year off the coast of Scotland, selling at a cent apiece retail, now bring 16 cents, he said, and were scarce. Flounders and cod, formerly eight to ten cents a pound, are now worth 50 cents at retail. It was only at rare intervals, Mr. Busley said, that the poor were able to purchase fish.

"The only fish in British waters that appeared to defy the mines and torpedoes," Mr. Busley continued, "is the hardy halibut. Just before I sailed from England one of the steam trawlers off the coast was about to haul in the lines when the captain noticed a giant halibut following close behind a cod that was impaled on one of the hooks. The halibut made several attempts to swallow the cod and was eventually hauled up onto the deck of the trawler. The skipper told me that the big fish weighed 198 pounds, and was sold in the market for $60."

Franglais a New Tongue.

"Franglais" is a new language that you hear in France today. The word is made out of Francaise and Anglais, the French words for French and English—and the language itself is made out of a fearful jumble of words that were perfectly good when they played by themselves, but don't always mix.

Franglais is what you hear where Americans and English men and women without a very good knowledge of their hosts' own speech find themselves at work alongside of French men and French women—soldiers, nurses, relief workers, shopkeepers and all sorts of folk.

American Red Cross workers say that when you gather up several hundred little French babies who have hardly begun to speak any language at all and several hundred little ones who are speaking the universal and universally incomprehensible language of babyhood, the results are one degree harder to understand than grown-up Franglais.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush the Kidneys at once when Backachy or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder [illegible].

Jad Salts [illegible] cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then and thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

Standard Value

MOTORISTS judge all light cars from the standard which the Gray-Dort has established. Some other cars are lower-priced—but against this they balance Gray-Dort quality.

Higher-priced light cars give nothing that warrants more than the Gray-Dort price.

You will recognize the balanced value of the Gray-Dort—a price well within reason, but not one desirable feature sacrificed. A quiet, powerful motor; standard equipment; comfort in riding and driving; economy; long service; proud appearance.

The touring car is $1245; the Gray-Dort Special—the car with added refinements and extra equipment, is $135 extra. There are also a coupe and a sedan. All prices f.o.b. Chatham and are subject to change without notice.

SICK HEADACHE and CONSTIPATION

CURED BY

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

When your liver becomes sluggish and inactive, the bowels become constipated, the tongue becomes coated, the breath bad, and the stomach all out of order.

Then come those terrible sick headaches. They take out every bit of life and ambition, bring on depression, and often end in complete mental and physical prostration.

To keep the liver active, and your bowels moving regularly, is the only way to get rid of the constipation and the distressing sick headaches. Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will do this for you by stimulating the sluggish liver into manufacturing sufficient bile to act properly on the bowels, thus making them active and regular.

Mrs. Winslow McKay, Jordan Branch, N.S., writes: "I have been sick for a number of years with sick headache and constipation. I tried all kinds of doctors' medicines, but none did me any good. I tried Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and after using four vials I am completely cured. I would heartily recommend them to all sufferers."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are small and easy to take; and do not gripe, weaken or sicken as so many pills do. Price 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

VICTOR OVER CHINESE DRAGON

American-Made Motortrucks Are Winning Way to Popularity in Land of Conservatism.

Way back before the year 1 they used to build high stone walls around the cities in China to keep out the exponents of civilization. Today they are tearing down these walls, breaking them up into fine pieces, and using them to build highways that will enable their now progressive government to make the best use of the American-made motortrucks which China is beginning to utilize.

This is, perhaps, as striking a comment on the economic and political changes that are taking place within this interesting country as has come out of China in a long time. The credit for such progressive policies is given in the main to Dr. George E. Morris, famous explorer and political adviser to the Chinese republic, an exchange states. Doctor Morris has succeeded in substituting a lot of new American ideas for the superstitions and conservatism of the one-time "heathen Chinee." And now it is the motortruck that has gained his championship.

A considerable number of trucks are now in use in China and they are doing everything required of them with remarkable efficiency, in spite of the difficulty of securing skilled drivers and competent mechanics in that part of the world.

YOUR FRECKLES

Need Attention in March or Face May Tan Covered

Now is the time to take special care of the complexion if you wish to look well the rest of the year. The March winds have a strong tendency to bring out freckles that may stay all Summer unless removed. Now is the time to use Othine—double strength.

This preparation for the removal of freckles is usually so successful that it is sold by druggists under guarantee to refund the money if it fails. Get an ounce of Othine—double strength, and even a few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the smaller freckles even vanishing entirely.

A crowning creative triumph in medicine is now given to the world, and all who have been sufferers from stomach ailments, indigestion and headache can be cured by a purely vegetable remedy.

Calomel, salts and such like are no longer necessary. They are harsh and disagreeable. Science has devised something far superior than you can go to-day with 25c to any druggist and buy a box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are considered the very quickest and safest cure for the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys.

Half sick men and women, who scarcely know what ails them, will be given a new lease of life, when Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Depressed spirits disappear, headaches are forgotten, appetite increases, blood is purified and enriched, pains at the base of the spine are cured, the nerves are toned up, ambition to work is increased and day by day the old-time health and vigor return.

A trial only is necessary to prove how beneficial Dr. Hamilton's Pills are to all who are weak, nervous, thin, depressed or in failing health.

IN ODD ALLIANCE

Old Bull Gnu, Driven From Herd, Found Other Companions.

Wart-Hog and Outcast Ostrich Allowed to Travel With Deposed King—Old Bachelors Henceforth. All of Them.

There was some trouble out in the glare of the sun on the bare plain, and the dust was rising in clouds, T. St. Maris writes in London Answers. A single vulture hung over the scene, as if expecting profit from the inspection, and a little black-backed jackal, prick eared and doglike, was watching attentively from an unsuspected hole under a wait-a-bit thorn.

Presently forms began to loom up among the dust as the cloud itself began to move. Beasts, extraordinarily strange and odd beasts, with shaggy heads and curved horns, like buffaloes, long, horselike tails, and sturdy but graceful, somewhat antelope-like bodies, began to loom up indistinctly.

One heavy, massive, very shaggy beast was fighting with the rest. But always the heavy, shaggy fellow, whose very massiveness spelt age, gave back slowly on the whole, though often master in the single contests. He could not fight the whole herd, and that, in fact, was what he was being asked to do then. In other words, a piece of wild justice was taking place, which is to say that, because of his "crustiness," jealousy, lack of chivalry, or for some other, or all these reasons, that old shaggy brute was being kicked out of the herd.

As they drew nearer, one saw that they were blue gnus, which are brindled gnus, which are bearded gnus, which are wild beasts, and devilish wild beasts, too. If you did not know they were antelope, you would have said they were buffalo, musk ox, horse and antelope mixed in one beast. The result, anyway, was a queer customer.

At last the old bull gnu—perhaps he had been lord of the herd till then—acknowledged defeat, and, realizing that he could not do the impossible, cleared himself cleverly from a terrible mixup among three other bulls, and set off at a gallop alone.

Then at length he remembered that it was sundown, and time for all good wild beasts to take the evening drink, and he walked to one of those well-worn paths which all his kind make toward water, and slowly plodded his heavy way to the river.

It was not a great distance, in and out among the shattered clumps of thorny acacias, and he was not alone, for as he drew into the river he met many herds of antelopes and of zebra, going to or coming from the water.

Coming up the bank behind a herd of gaudy zebra he was the first to sight, over a ridge not far off, the two great, tawny, heavy, giant dog forms, seen and gone in an instant, dead ahead. They were lions, and his instant, loud warning snorts said so, and drew the zebras' attention to the danger, so that they broke away, and stampeded thunderously in the opposite direction. And again it was he, galloping clumsily with them, who shied suddenly at a clump of acacias and began zigzagging and swerving wildly in and out at top speed, snorting madly, so that the zebras scattered, and the lioness that had been told off from her companions to lie in wait for the stampeded herds, could only come out and growl her disappointment at them.

That night he kept with the zebras, feeding with them wherever they went, and they did not drive him off. Perhaps they realized that as a sentry he was an asset. And next day an old wart-hog, as ugly as sin, came and struck up acquaintance with him, and later a cock ostrich—all, perhaps, old, bad-tempered outcasts.

Anyway, when the day dawned they were still together, and the zebra had gone, and, for all I know, they are together to this day, surely as strange an alliance as ever faced the battle of life—bird, pig and antelope—old bachelors all.

A World's Record.

What is said to be the world's record production of marketable potatoes on one acre—19,531 pounds, or 325 bushels—has been made on an acre of land near Kanab, in the southeastern section of Utah, a few miles from the Arizona state line. The record yield was made in response to a competition fostered by the Mormon church, and the church authorities drew a check for $1,000 payable to a representative of Kanab ward of the Kanab stake of the church, which is responsible for the production. This yield is certified to by more than 50 farmers.

Extracting Salt From Ocean.

Experiments in Norway with a view to extracting salt from ocean water by means of electricity have been successful, and two salt factories will be started for this purpose in the near future. In recent years it has been difficult to get salt from abroad and sometimes it has been impossible to salt down the fish. The new salt works should greatly improve the situation.

HERRING FISHERS DO WELL

Splendid Catches and High Prices Have Been the Rule Among Them for Many Years Now.

The herring fisher works always on the night shift, not because the fish feed at night—herring take no known bait—but because they can be seen at night.

Taking their cue from the whale or seagull as to the location of the herring, the boats go off two by two (for they work always in couples) late in the evening to the fishing ground. Arrived there, they stop their motors, and gliding silently over the dark waters they look for the fish.

One of the men bumps the anchor two or three times on the bow of the boat, and instantly a patch of water lights up with a bright phosphorescent gleam. It is the herring, and the ring-net (now more generally used in the west of Scotland than the driftnet) is lowered. It is held up by corks and has a small light at one end. This the partner boat picks up; they circle around the herring until the two boats come together, when most of the men climb into one boat, where they draw the net, with the herring, on board.

In this little Highland village the men of the last two generations have done well with the fishing. Their boats, complete with nets and motor, cost between £800 and £400, but only the other night a couple of boats, owned by brothers, divided £750 between them for one night's catch.—London Mail.

COMFORT BAGS PLEASE ALL

Nothing Given Out by the Red Cross Is More Appreciated by the Soldiers on Service.

The following is an extract from a letter of a Red Cross hospital representative:

"The men like the comfort kits better than anything the Red Cross gives them. We have asked dozens of them what they like best of all that is given them—tobacco, magazines, amusements, etc.—and they all say at once the comfort kits and toilet articles. They come in from the front without even a toothbrush, and when I send the bags around by the other patients, they come back and say: 'Say, you oughter see how pleased those guys were—they said it was just like Christmas. They were all sitting up in bed looking at the things in their bags.'

"The other day one man who had lost his right hand, called me over to him and said: 'Here, I'll donate my sewing-kit. My wife has got to do mine after this. I'm out of it. You can give this to some other fellow who needs it.' He had heard the others asking for sewing-kits all down the ward. They are in great demand and very hard to get."

Gift From French Republic.

Three phrases from President Wilson's war messages will be woven in a costly Gobelin tapestry France is having made as a gift to the city of Philadelphia. The tapestry is to be hung in the museum in the Quaker city and is about to be placed in the hands of the workers at the famous Gobelin factory for completion, according to an exchange.

The tapestry will be 21 feet by 15 feet. It will be full of life and color and will have an atmosphere of enthusiasm and patriotism in portraying troops departing from Philadelphia for Europe to participate in the war of justice.

Below are three panels containing these phrases from President Wilson's messages:

"Right is more precious than peace."

"We have no selfish end to serve and desire no conquest and no domination."

"We shall fight for democracy."

TELL-TALE TELEPHONE.

The Loud Speaking Machine Is Now With Us For Keeps.

Modern science has added a new terror to the lives of office employes. The Turner loud-speaking telephone might well be termed "The Invisible Boss." Should Miss Smith, of the shipping department, ring up young Mr. Robinson, the salesman, and arrange a little dinner in Soho and a visit to the theatre, there is no knowing, with this new telephone whether their employer himself is not listening.

There is no need to take the receiver off its handle or do any work at all. The employer merely presses a button, lolls back in his armchair and a small box on his desk begins to retail the gossip of the establishment in a high-pitched, ventriloquist voice.

There is no possibility of making a mistake. The tones of the speaker are perfectly recognizable, and even the noisiest typewriter cannot drown the stentorian bellow of conversation that issues whenever any of the office lines are in use.

The employer's conversations, on the other hand, cannot be overheard by others.

The principle of the invention is very similar to that of the dictograph. In fact, Mr. Turner invented both instruments. The transmitter depends for its extraordinary clearness on a special microphone, which uses minute hollow balls of carbon in place of the usual graphite crystals. The receiver is connected with a sound-box similar to that used in gramophones. The combination of the two instruments and a special system of wiring produce one of the most efficient of modern inter-communication sets.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is very easily prepared and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a 16-ounce bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth); then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, this mixture saves about four-fifths of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Riots Break Out in a Camp Containing Twenty-five Thousand Canadian Troops And Many Are Killed and Wounded

A Major of New Brunswick Who Had Won the Victoria Cross is Said to Have Been Trampled to Death—Men Who Caused Trouble Were War Casualties Who Had Served for Three Years or More in France—Troops From Chester and Cavalry Called Out—Officers Quarters Were Fired On—Men Allege Delayed Demobilization and Non-Receipt of Back Pay.

THE SOLDIERS RETURN TO THEIR QUARTERS AND NO FURTHER TROUBLE IS ANTICIPATED

London, March 8. (United Press)—Official investigation was being made to-day of the riot of Canadian soldiers at Rhyl in Wales in which from five to seven were killed and twenty to thirty wounded. The disturbances began on Tuesday night and continued through until Thursday night. Several of the 25,000 soldiers awaiting transportation home at Rhyl decided to hold a demonstration to air their grievances over delayed demobilization and non-receipt of back pay. The outbreak is said to have started on a shouted signal "Come on Bolsheviks!" The rioters seized stores, fired on the officers' quarters and soon gained control of the camp. They also invaded the barracks of the Womens Auxiliary Corps and looted it of clothes. A Major of New Brunswick, who had won the Victoria Cross, is said to have been trampled to death in a fruitless atempt to defend the officers' quarters.

Cavalry Was Called To The Camp on Wednesday

Cavalry was called to the camp on Wednesday, but it did not use arms. That afternoon a large number of the rioters started to march to Abergele, three miles southwest of Rhyl, but were cut off and turned back by troops from Chester.

The Disturbers apparently were suppressed on Thursday, but the rioting was renewed that night. Friday morning a major general who arrived at the camp from the War Office in an airplane, addressed the men and assured them their grievances would be adjusted immediately. He promised they would be demoralized at the rate of ten thousand a week, and said the next four transports would be placed at their disposal.

The soldiers returned to their quarters and no further trouble had been reported to-day.

Twenty Of The Ring Leaders Have Been Arrested

Twenty of the ring leaders alleged to be of foreign character, were said to be under arrest. Owing to the lack of official information, no definite report had been received of the casualties. One report said twelve officers had been killed. The damage was estimated at $250,000.

Other dispatches describing the riot, filed Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday were received by the United Press during the night, apparently having been held up by the british censor.

Rhyl is on the Irish Sea, twenty miles southwest of Liverpool.

Ottawa Claims Shortage Of Accomodation

Ottawa, March 8. (Special to Examiner)—Neither General Mewburn, the Minister of Militia, nor Major General G. Watkin, through whose hands pass all cables with reference to soldiers overseas, had received any word of the riot at Kinmel Park, Wales on account of delay in being shipped home to Canada. General Mewburn stated that every effort was being made to bring the soldiers home as fast as it was possible to bring them. The dearth of ships prevented them proceeding as quickly as they desired and the coal strike made unavoidable delays in getting the vessels away when they were secured.

The Minister of Militia said that one vessel had been held up a week for lack of coal and the same condition, no doubt, affected detrimentally the movement of all vessels.

Lieut. Col. Smart was in charge at Kinmel Park until his return to Canada when he was followed by Lieut. Col. Thackeray. Kinmel Park is one of the largest camps in Great Britain, being capable of accomodating 20,000 soldiers. It is what he soldiers call a "tin town," being composed of temporary shacks for the purpose of accommodating soldiers and it will end its existence when demobilization is finally accomplished.

Kinmel Camp is situated about four and a half miles from the town of Rhyl, in Wales, and covers some 200 acres on the rising ground at the southwestern mouth of a valley, of which the town is the centre. The surrounding country is mostly rolling agricultural land and wooded hills, from which in winter, pours down a considerable amount of water into the camp rendering many of the soldiers' huts exceedingly uncomfortable by reason of the mud which accumulates. Close by is situated the historical pile known as Bodelwyddann Castle, the seat of Sir Herbert William. The estates surrounding the castle were recently cut up and sold to the tenants and are now being cultivated by them. There are several smaller towns and villages in the vicinity besides Rhyl among which are nearest to the camp of Abegele. These are all out of bounds to the soldiers. The camp is reached from Rhyl by a railway line, a spur from the London Northwestern Railway by which the town is connected with the main line by way of Chester.

Returned Toronto soldiers who were located at Rhyl describe the camp as very uncomfortable. The ground was exceedingly muddy and the huts where they were housed none too warm. Eight weeks ago when the men interviewed last night, left camp, there was, they say, developing among the troops a spirit of impatience. The soldiers wanted to get home and could not understand why they were being held so long.

VETERANS HAD HEARD NOTHING OF RIOTS

Toronto, March 8. (Special to Examiner) Many of the Veterans who returned this morning from troopship Cassandra, had heard nothing of riots which have occurred at the Rhyl camp, but practically all of them said they wer not surprised to hear that there had been trouble. They state that a good deal of dissatisfaction exists among older service men in England. Men of first contingents are incensed over the fact that draftees are being sent back to Canada first.

The conditions at Rhyl camp are described as bad. The camp is said to be devoid of all organization and sleeping accomodation is "Unfit for Human Beings."

The food was described by many of the men as being unfit to eat. They were compelled to go into town and spend their own money to satisfy their hunger. "And we had none too much money, either," said one veteran, "because we were not allowed to draw any pay while at Rhyl camp."

As many as 42 men were compelled to sleep in one hut, according to one of the men and general conditions at camp were intolerable. Some of the veterans are inclined to put the whole cause of the trouble down to the fact that every one is impatient to get home.

Official Statement Explains Little.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, March 8. — An official statement issued by Canadian Military Headquarters in regard to the rioting at Kinmel Park, says it is regretted that some of the accounts of the fighting in which Canadian soldiers took part, exaggerate the seriousness of the incident, but gives no details of what happened. It is explained that the lack of shipping facilities to take Canadian soldiers each home is due partly to strikes, and it is said that dissatisfaction of the soldiers over alleged preferential treatment in demobilizations may be attributed to the fact that may have been divided into sections according to Canadian military districts from which they came. By this means some shorter service men were sent home ahead of some who had been under arms for a longer period. A special court of inquiry has been ordered to conduct an investigation.

Canadian Press:

OTTAWA, March 8.—In an official statement to-day from the Ministry of Canada's Overseas Military Forces, the riots of Canadian soldiers at Kinmel Park, Wales, are attributed to the shipping situation. The statement admits that owing to the system adopted of sending troops home by units, many men who have seen years of service and are concentrated at Kinmel Park, and who were to go home in February, had to step aside because ships were withdrawn, and such as were available were needed for complete units.

The statement says, it is not attempted in the slightest degree to excuse the conduct of the men who took part in the disturbance. Many officers are under arrest and will be vigorously dealt with. It is hoped there will be no recurrance of the delays which have hitherto taken place. Five were killed and twenty-one wounded, including two officers. There is no foundation for the report that a New Brunswick Major and V.C. was either killed or injured.

Brigadier-General McBrien is President of the Court of Enquiry.

A Wide Open Referendum

People Will be Given a Chance to Settle the Temperance Issue in September Next.

(Special to The Examiner)

TORONTO, March 8.— Hon. T. W. McGarry, Provincial Treasurer, speaking at a meeting of ward three Conservative Association, St. George's Hall, last night, said:

"A wide open referendum of the prohibition question will be taken in Ontario, possibly in September next, or possibly sooner, for the people to determine what measure they want. I believe the people will be able to vote on the question in a very open fashion. When the boys come home, possibly in September or before, or it may be a little later, the people will decide the question for themselves, and the matter will be wide open, as is desired by the temperance people and the liquor interests. Whatever the verdict of the people may be, it will be upheld by the government.

Not a Factor.

The people will be given every opportunity of expressing in the fullest possible manner their desires on this important question," Mr. G. A. Warburton and the Committee of One Hundred were not a factor in the passing of the Ontario Temperance Act, and they will not be a factor, so far as the government is concerned, in determining the issue of permanent prohibition. We are not going to have Prussianism in Ontario; the people will rule. In the course of his address Hon. Mr. McGarry further said:

"The member of government who fears to discuss dangerous subjects, is in danger. I refer to the temperance questions. I am not a prohibitionist," he continued, "I voted for the Ontario Temperance Act because it was purely a war measure."

"Mr. G. A. Warburton and his forces and the liquor interests say they are not afraid to trust the people, so the government is going to gratify the desires of both sides."

Mr. McGarry closed by saying that the Conservative party in Ontario was never in a stronger position than at the present time, and that when the time came for the government to appeal to the people it would secure a renewal of the confidence of the people, which it richly deserved.

Another $250 Fine For Failing to Report

Leo A. Forbert, of Lindsay, was sentenced to a fine of $250 and costs, or one year at the prison farm for failure to obey the Military Service Act, when he appeared before Messrs. Rush and Adams, Justices of the Peace, in the local police court yesterday afternoon. For his defence, Dr. Blanchard stated that Forbert was mentally deficient. Mr. Joseph Wearing was solicitor for the accused, who was in a lumber camp near Lindsay from May to Oct. last year.

"Kiddies in the Ruins" At The Grand

An all-British film production "Kiddies in the Ruins," which scored a tremendous hit when shown in London recently, opens a three day engagement at the Grand on Thursday, with a matinee daily.

This is the initial release of British Films, Ltd., a Canadian company under the direction of Jule and J. J. Allen, and the second release of the English manufacturers, Welsh-Pearson Films, Ltd.

"Kiddies in the Ruins" is a delightful comedy of child life in the devastated section of France. It was written by Paul Hervieu and Paul Gavault, and was made as a successor to "The Better 'Ole" being an answer to Alf's question of the latter play, "What is this fighting we're about?" It brings the people of Canada in direct contact with the unbearable conditions imposed upon the women and children who were forced to live in the northern sections of France, under the domination of the Hun. "Kiddies in the Ruins" is a forceful drama, principally of the little children, and the production is sure to be enjoyed by the theatre-goers of Peterborough just as much as it was enjoyed throughout England, Scotland and France.

Peterboro Men On Hospital Ship

The "Essequibo" Docked at Portland After an Uneventful Voyage —A Big Reception.

THE LOCAL LIST

(Special to The Examiner)

PORTLAND, Maine, March 8.—Following an unexplained delay of nearly twenty-four hours in the original schedule time of arrival, the S. S. Essequibo, with over five hundred Canadian wounded, arrived here yesterday afternoon, docking at the Grand Trunk pier number five, at 4.2[illegible] p.m. Owing to the announcement made at noon of her expected arrival at midnight last night, there was hardly a hundred people on hand to greet her.

Shortly after four o'clock the screeching of the harbor whistles announced her coming through quarantine to the city, and within one hour a crowd of nearly a thousand people had gathered at the pier.

The local Red Cross and other welfare organizations with the official committee and brass band, was likewise late, but upon arrival all joined in making up for the lost time.

Following are those on board for Peterborough:

Pte. R. Jolliffe.
Pte. H. Montgomery.
Sgt. N. J. Withers.
Sgt. T. Young.

On Way Home.

(Canadian Press.)

PORTLAND, Me., March 8. — Wounded Canadian soldiers who arrived here on the hospital ship Essequido late yesterday, were on their way home to all points in Canada today. Ontario contingents were the last to leave the ship, leaving for home at ten o'clock this morning. The men were in much better condition physically, than those on the first ship to arrive here two weeks ago. There were only four serious cases, less than a score were confined to cots, and there were no deaths on the trip across.

COLLINS WAS GIVEN MINIMUM FINE

Arguments Adduced by His Solicitor, Mr. F. D. Kerr, Result in the Lighest Possible Sentence.

In the report of this case in yesterday's Examiner it was stated that Collins had received a heavy fine, but a defaulter found guilty under the Military Service Act must be fined $250, and may have a fine imposed on him up to $5,000, or a term of 5 years in the penitentiary. Thomas J. Collins received the smallest fine against him that it was possible to receive.

The arguments of his solicitor, Mr. F. D. Kerr, before the two Justices of the Peace, Mr. Adams and Mr. Rush, by whom he was tried, no doubt convinced them of the fact that the circumstances and conditions surrounding this case entitled the young man to the imposition of the smallest possible penalty.

Armistice Commission Will Continue Conferences—Another Matter

United Press:

BERNE, March 8.—The rupture of negotiations between the German and Allied Economic Commissions will not affect the work of the Armistice Commission, which will continue their conferences, it was announced in a despatch received from Berlin to-day.

The Germans broke off negotiations with the Allied Economic Commission after insisting that the latter must guarantee to furnish Germany with enough food to last until the next harvest before Germany would consent to surrender her merchant fleet. This conference was entirely distinct from the Armistice Commissions, which deal with military problems.

THE SITUATION IN SIBERIA

Trouble is Looked for in the Spring

(By W. E. Playfair.)

(Canadian Press.)

VLADIVOSTOCK (delayed.) — A careful review of the situation in Siberia now in the possession of the Canadian Intelligence Officers predicts much trouble in the spring and early summer due to the fact that the masses of the people are unsympathetic to the present Omsk government. The foreign elements supporting the Omsk government share in unpopularity; also nations approving the proposed Princes Island conference have lost prestige among the Russians.

It is suggested that proper allied attitude would be to assist the various Russian parties to reach an agreement leaving sufficient troops here meanwhile to maintain stability.

The leading newspaper of Vladivostok was suppressed Feb. 24th for criticizing the Omsk regime.

BOY FELL OVER PRECIPICE

(Special to The Examiner)

NIAGARA FALLS, March 8. — Twelve year old Morris Knight fell over a precipice across the river last night while playing with companions. He landed on the Gorge railway tracks, two hundred feet below, but though picked up unconscious, the doctor says to-day he will probably live, as they think he was not badly injured. Firemen and hundreds of other rescuers were working from the top of the bank with ropes and ladders, thinking the lad may have been caught by a tree or crevice in the fall over the cliff, when a motorman on a gorge car discovered the boy lying on the tracks just in time to avoid running over him.

Revolutionists Still On Defensive

The Battle Has Become One of Guerilla Warfare—Soldiers Won Over by Government.

STRIKE GAINING

By Frank J. Taylor.
(United Press.)

BERLIN, March 8.—The Spartacans determined yesterday afternoon to break off all negotiations with the government and settle the issue by fighting. This action was taken despite the fact that government forces were extending their control of the city and apparently had broken the revolution.

After a day of comparative success, the revolutionists were again on the defensive last night and the battle had become one of guerilla warfare. The tide turned when government airplanes began dropping huge bombs on the roof of the royal stables, occupied by revolting soldiers. The buildings were practically demolished and scores of sailors were killed or wounded. The remainder surrendered.

Shortly afterward the Alexander Platz, which had changed hands several times, and where the chief Spartacan resistance was centred, was taken by storm by government troops. More than a hundred revolutionists were captured there.

Strike Gaining.

While the Spartacans were losing their hard won military advantage, the general strike was gaining. Workmen adopted resolutions endorsing the Spartacans' latest demands, which included the abolition of all war loans and debts. At the same time the workmen decided to call out the electric, gas and waterworkers employees.

The radicals have taken steps toward formation of their own cabinet to-night and were boasting that, in spite of the government's present strength, they would soon win complete control of the city.

As the workers inclined toward the side of the radicals, the soldiers were being won over by the government. It is estimated that 25,000 loyal troops are now patrolling the streets, whereas the Spartacans have only 4,000 well armed effectives.

Revolt Suppressed, Says Late Despatch.

(Canadian Press.)

BASLE, March 8.—German Government troops have suppressed the armed revolt at Berlin, according to a despatch from that city and are now assigned to the task of protecting workmen who want to return to their labours. The popular marine division and two detachments of Republican Guards have been disbanded, it is reported.

Little Building Activity in City

Big Local Demand for Small Homes With Low Rental Value.

Since the signing of the armistice and the subsequent return of the soldiers to civil life, the real estate dealers report an active time finding homes for them. As yet few have made any attempt to buy property, and the real estate market, so far as sales go, is fairly quiet, but the demand for small homes with a rental of between $15 and $18 is such that for three months listed one land agent has 85 applications.

Only one returned soldier has made any attempt to buy his home, and many appear to want to farm. In a few cases the demand for city property has come from a farmer who has handed over his property to his returned son and decided to retire and live in the city.

There is no activity in business circles as far as property changing hands goes and building operations will not be on a large scale in the Spring.

Potatoes Still Coming Down

Few Price Changes in This Morning's Market.

Potatoes sold as low as $1.25 this morning at the market while all other market produce was about as high as last week.

Butter sold at 58 and 60 cents.

Eggs were slightly higher on account of the scarcity, due to the cold weather and sold form 40 to 43 cents.

Chicken sold at 35 cents a pound.

Apples sold at 55 cents a peck.

Meat was slightly lower this morning selling at, beef 18 to 20 cents a pound, and pork at 27 and 29 cents.

READJUST THE TARIFF

Hon. G. P. Graham Discusses Some of the Issues Affecting Canada —The Election of 1911.

IN THE WEST

Special to the Examiner:

DETROIT, March 8.—Hon. George P. Graham, former Minister of Railways and Canals, stopped over in Detroit for a few hours yesterday on business, and while here, spoke optimistically of Canada's political future, laying much stress, however, upon a thorough readjustment of the tariff which he believes will shortly be outlined in the budget speech to be delivered by Sir Thomas White.

"Canada has never really had a completed survey made of the factors entering into the tariff questions," said Mr. Graham.

"The United States has a regularly constituted tariff commission that supervises this important matter, but Canada has neglected this duty. In 1897 a committee of merchants inquired into the situation, but since that time no readjustments based upon an intelligent understanding of the circumstances had been made.

Will Get a Hearing.

"In dealing with this question, which affects every class of people in the Dominion, all must be considered. Views of the farmers, manufacturers, merchants, working men and, in fact, of every section of the people, will probably be heard and the findings based of the greatest leeway possible consistent with the greatest good to all.

"The farmer is an important [illegible] that must be considered. Canada essentially an agricultural country, and if we are to provide for immigration and settlement of our untilled land in the north-west, we must provide some inducement to settlers from the Old Country. Then, too, if implements are made cheaper the cost of production will be lowered, and this, in turn, will ultimately affect the consumer to his advantage.

Three Markets.

"In the election of 1911, when the tariff question was the issue, strong objections were made to the liberal policy of free interchange of wheat with the United States. We were defeated, but during the war the Union Government, realizing the advantages of this arrangement, provided necessary legislation to bring it about. They gave the Western farmer three markets instead of two for his products, and we in the Eastern section of the Dominion did not know that any change had been made. It was a wise policy, and, in the stress of war time, the Union Government was brought to a realization of its fundamental benefits."

Mr. Graham was reluctant to discuss the possibility of his candidacy as a successor to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, declaring that a permanent leader would be selected at a conference of the members of the Liberal party, perhaps within the next two or three months.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING.

The improvements announced in the system of vocational training for Canadian soldiers will undoubtedly be approved of by returned soldiers generally as forward steps that will be of much benefit. In the first place, the increase in the pay and allowances makes it possible for ex-service men to support themselves and their families during the period of training. A single man is now being paid $60 a month instead of $50 as formerly, while the married soldiers' allowances are proportionately increased. For instance under the new scale a married man with three children will receive $110.00 a month as contrasted with the old allowance of $88.00. Another important change is that the provision whereby a man undergoing treatment had his pension cancelled until his course was completed, has been done away with. From now on the pension in such cases will continue and the amount will be deducted from his vocational training allowance.

The benefit of this change is that as soon as the vocational training course is through the soldiers' pension will automatically continue and there will be no hiatus such as existed under the former method.

There is another reform that should be included. At present there is considerable delay in handling the applications for training. After the soldier is examined by the Medical Board of the district where he belongs, the report is forwarded to Ottawa, where another Board has to deal with the application. It sometimes is a matter of months before the Dominion board makes its decision and in the meantime the returned man has to wait. Often he loses patience and decides not to have anything to do with the scheme. It is the belief of many veterans that the delays could be eliminated by having the decision of the District Medical Board settle the matter without having to refer the matter to another Board at Ottawa.

THE PENSIONS QUESTION

The debate on the speech from the Throne in the House of Commons would be of more interest to returned soldiers if there were more frequent references to the question of an improvement in the pension system. The subject has not occupied the place in the debate that might have been expected in view of the general impression throughout the country that the present scale is not adequate. There is no value in the Government's reply that the Canadian pensions are the highest paid in any country in the world. They may be, but that does not alter the fact that there is room for improvement. Even the chief Government organ, the Ontario Mail and Empire, calls the present pension system absurd. Here is what the Mail has to say:

It is the general feeling of the public that the pensions granted wounded soldiers and the families of those who have fallen in action are by no means a full measure of the payable part of the debt the people of Canada owe their defenders. The pensions are too low. The pension scheme is subject to criticism on other grounds. For example, in a democratic country it would be rather difficult to justify the disparity that exists between the grants made to private soldiers or the widow and those made to officers and their dependents. In the average case it may be presumed that a brigadier-general in private life was better circumstanced than a lance-corporal and had more opportunities to provide for his family. Yet the full pension of one is $2,700 a year and of the other $600. There cannot be a shadow of doubt that a plebiscite on the matter would show that the Canadian people are prepared to make a more equitable pension distribution.

Apart from their rank those entitled to draw pensions are divided into twenty classes, according as the disability is complete or is of this or that percentage. The discriminations must strike the average person as absurd, as though the grades had been established by someone whose fondness for mathematics and logic had caused him to lose sight of common sense. For instance, we note that a sergeant in the twentieth class is entitled to draw $31.88 a year or $2.66 a month. Why not $31.93, or $2.63½? What can a man do with $2.66 a month, with the cost of living as at present? It surely will not keep him from starving. And what man's services to his country, which have resulted in any disability, are to be requited at the rate of $2.66 a month? It should be possible to divide those deserving of pensions into four or five classes at most and to increase the grants.

WHY A STATEMENT IS NEEDED.

Our contemporary waxes sarcastic because the Examiner has expressed the opinion that the very nature of the charges made by General Hughes against the Canadian command in France requires that those accused shall be defended in the place where the attack was made—in the House of Commons. It is not sufficient to dismiss them as the ravings of an egotist for the reason that unless there is an official statement refuting the allegations that have been made, there is the risk that some of the mud so wildly thrown by the Lindsay Napoleon may stick.

"That speech of Sir Sam. Hughes makes one wonder why we sent our sons over to be slaughtered," was the remark made to the Examiner yesterday by a Peterborough woman, whose son died of wounds received at Passchendeale, and her words show the necessity of an authoritative denial of the charges.

General Hughes' attack, it may undoubtedly be said, was based on a certain amount of resentment that exists among many of the rank and file in regard to the battle of Passchendeale. Sooner or later there would have been something heard publicly about this episode in the history of the Canadian corps, and now that the ex-Minister has dragged the whole affair out in the open, it might as well be dealt with. Rightly or wrongly, among returned men who were with the Canadians in the autumn and early part of the winter of 1917, there exists a feeling that General Currie was responsible for the Canadian corps being engaged in the terrific struggle at Passchendeale, where casualties totalling over 24,000 were sustained. The impression of the rank and file, as can be verified by asking local returned men who were there at the time, was that the Canadians who had captured Vimy Ridge in the spring and had had hard fighting at Hill 70 near Lens in August, were not to take part in the Passchendeale show, but that after the Imperials and Australians had sustained terrible casualties and had not completed the capture of the famous ridge, General Currie went to general headquarters and volunteered to take the position with the Canadian corps. The Canadians succeeded in taking all their objectives, but their losses were heavy, and the idea has been prevalent among those who came through safely that the attacks on the ridge would have been postponed and that the Canadians would not have been engaged at all had it not been for General Currie's action.

An investigation into the Hughes' charges would settle this widely spread report. It may be that the soldiers are mistaken, and that the fact that the Canadians were called upon to go over the top at Passchendeale was a matter that was entirely out of the control of General Currie. An official statement to this effect would set at rest these rumours, and in justice to himself the Commander of the Canadian Corps should have a chance to state his position or to have it stated for him by an authority who knows all the facts in the case.

"SHOCKING CONDITIONS"

"Under any but Government ownership the sheriff would have long ago closed the door of this plant", is one of the significant sentences in the report of the committee appointed by the Government in November of last year to investigate the Government Printing Bureau. The committee declared that the conditions "viewed from the standpoint of commercial efficiency may be truly described as shocking."

The report reveals a story of extravagance and mismanagement, the story of a department that is ridiculously over-manned and handicapped by inefficient employees and antiquated methods. For instance Hon. Mr. Rowell's pet publication, the official record issued by the Department of Public Information was found to have cost $1512 for its first four issues in English and the committee estimates that $1192 would have been sufficient to give an outside printer a fair profit upon the work. This weekly pamphlet which contains nothing but a rehash of the Government news from at daily papers and lengthy official announcements the substance of which could be given in a few sentences, is a sheer waste of the people's money at any price and the announcement that it is being produced at a cost that is at least twenty-five per cent. higher than it should be will not make the public any fonder of Mr. Rowell's weekly.

The Examiner has just received a copy of the Repatriation Committee's booklet "From War to Peace". There is little new information in this book which deals with the Government's plans for the repatriation of Canada's army and is made up for the most part of the articles that have recently appeared in the daily press in the form of advertisements. It is lavishly and extravagantly printed on high quality paper and with cost apparently the last consideration in connection with it. There is nothing to indicate where this elaborate booklet was printed but it is evident that if it is the work of the Government Printing Department it is ppreparad at a cost that is not justified by the benefit that will be achieved by the issuing of this propaganda pamphlet.

The investigating committee point out that although the editorial committee appointed last session was able to make a saving in the amount of printing issued by doing away with many of the unnecessary publications yet the staff of the department has not been reduced to correspond with the decrease in work. When Parliament is not in session there are far more employees than are needed and many of them, the report says, should be pensioned. They have out lived their usefulness.

The people of Canada will expect to find the report followed by some definite action. The present condition of affairs cannot be allowed to go on.

EDITORIAL NOTES

If there any Canadians who are inclined to favour the Bolshevist policy the stories of thousands dying of starvation daily in Russia because of the reign of anarchy and terror instituted by Lenine and Trotsky will give them an opportunity to compare the conditions in god old Canada with those in the land of the Reds.

The announcement of the abolishing of the Ontario Municipal War Tax is the most pleasant feature about the budget speech of Hon. T. W. McGarry.

The Review evidently does not possess much faith in the unionism of the Government. At least it refers to the Globe and Star as "opposition" papers, which would lead to the conclusion that our local contemporary considers only the Conservative element in the Government. Journals which have been supporting the Union administration ever since its creation are surely not to be considered as "opposition" papers.

A Trail Across the Rockies

(1) In the Sinclair Canyon at the Red Gate.

(2) Fording the Vermillion River.

The first trip over the Simpson Pass through the Canadian Pacific Rockies was made by Sir George Simpson, Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, in 1841, and formed part of the first recorded overland tour round the world, that is to say across the North American Continent, and by way of Siberia and Russia, occupying about nine months, and the subject of considerable literature. Jim Brewster, the famous guide and outfitter at Banff, discovered the fallen tree on the summit of the Pass on which the travellers left their record.

Fired by the ambition to cross this pass, I set out one day this summer, with two guides, ten ponies and camping outfit and supplies for ix or seven days. Jim Brewster se t these over from Banff to Invermere at the headwaters of the Columbia Valley, where I had promised to wait for them. Close to Invermere are the remains of Kootenai House, an outpost of the Nor' West Trading Company established by David Thompson in 1808. Now there is a comfortable little tourist hotel, much appreciated by motorists who use the excellent Government road through the Upper Columbia Valley.

On our first day's ride we stopped off for a swim at the hot radium-water springs of Sinclair Canyon, where St. John Harmsworth, brother of the famous Lord Northcliffe, and himself proprietor of the still more famous Perrier water, built a concrete bathing pool under the springs which pours its naturally warm water out of the rock. At night we found shelter in a homesteader's cabin, the owner of which was away at the war and hospitable enough to leave the latch loose. Next day we were in the forests of the Kootenay—a wonderful resort for big game judging by the tracks we saw and the animals we even met—two black bear and a deer on the trail with moose paths worn deep like small Devonshire lanes along the meadows beside the river.

The Kootenay River has a rather bad reputation. Two parties were drowned in the attempt to make the crossing at the same time last year, and we ourselves had been warned to postpone our trip. However, we found a ford where we did not even have to swim our horses, and next day were on the banks of the Vermillion River. Into the Vermillion pours the raging torrent of the Simpson, which itself is fed from the melting glaciers of the snow-clad Rockies high above. At least one cyclone seemed to have swept down its valley, and the river itself had washed away several corners so that our trail had to be made, or found anew on many a mile.

Once while Ed. Dawson, the leading guide was hacking a trail through a deadfall, his saddle pony took it into its head to cross the torrent. The packponies followed suit, and before we could stop them, our camp, and most of all our food supplies were on the wrong side of the most vicious looking water I ever care to see. There was nothing to do but follow, and evidently we got across—else how could this tale have ever been told? As we approached the Summit of the Pass, one grizzly left a visiting card such as grizzlies do leave—scented—upon the trail and again we saw deer.

The Summit, according to the guides, should be ten feet deep in snow, and the description given by Sir George Simpson gave the same anticipation:—"We were surrounded by peaks and crags on whose summits lay perpetual snow; and the only sounds which disturbed the solitude were the crackling of prostrate branches under the tread of our horses and the roaring of the stream as it leaped down its rocky course.

"About seven hours of hard work brought us to the height of land, the hinge as it were between the eastern and western waters. We breakfasted on the level isthmus, which did not exceed fourteen paces in width, filling our kettles for the one lonely meal at once from the crystal sources of the Columbia and the Saskatchewan, while these willing feeders of two opposite oceans, murmuring over their beds of mossy stones, as if to bid each other a long farewell, could hardly fail to attune our minds to the sublimity of the scene.

"But between these kindred fountains, the common progeny of the same snow wreaths, there was this remarkable difference of temperature that the source of the Columbia showed 40°, while that of the Saskatchewan raised the mercury to 53½°, the thermometer meanwhile striking as high as 71° in the shade.

"From the vicinity of perpetual snow, we estimated the elevation of the height of land to be seven or eight thousand feet above the level of the sea, while the surrounding peaks appeared to rise nearly half that altitude above our heads."

We ourselves found the snow all gone and our horses found sweet and ample pasture on an Alpine meadow. As we looked back from the Great Divide upon the mountains of the Selkirks, we had as fine a panorama as any artist could desire—rugged outlines capped and fringed with perpetual snow.

The Banff side of the Summit comes within the jurisdiction of the Dominion Government, and its Superintendent of Parks was good enough to provide us with a trail which really was a trail. To the right up Healy Creek we had a glimpse of Mount Assiniboine, the giant of these giant mountains—only a glimpse however, for in a minute his head was caught in a turban of clouds. Thence without adventure except for a plague of mosquitoes we reached the C.P.R. Hotel at Banff, alive with summer tourists who found in our cavalcade a fitting subject for innumerable snap-shots.

The fishing, I may say in passing, which one gets on such a trip, is of the very best. Every creek, every pool seems to be stocked with trout, all inquisitive about the nature of the fly. Brown Hackle and Grey Hackle are always deadly. The cod flies such as Parmachene Belle do not seem to take so well in these waters. There were both Dolly Varden and Steelhead to our credit on the Simpson, averaging a little over a pound. In the Kootenay the trout ran up to two and three pounds and were very game, though shy in the middle of the day.—J. M. G.

MAN'S ATTITUDE TO NATURE

An Essay on Nature by Mr. Frank Morris, Classics Master at the Peterboro Collegiate Institute.

FORWARD

When I was asked to give an address to the Teachers' Association, I very gladly caught at a hint from the Committee that my paper need not be of a technical character, but might give the audience a chance to unbend from pedagogical labours in order to sit at ease or take a forty-minute nap. That was why I chose a subject having nothing to do with my work as a teacher, but simply a hobby or holiday recreation.

My friends—that is the inner circle who are privileged to tell me unpleasant home-truths—often explain this hobby of mine as a case of arrested development, like playing marbles, reading fairy tales, or dabbling in money after one is grown up. I have no doubt they are quite right, but all their ridicule has never given me a single qualm of conscience or led me for more than a moment to doubt my sanity. That of course is the way with all lunatics, they think it's the other fellow who is wrong; they'll cheerfully agree with you that it's a mad world, but they think you are barking up the wrong tree and had better come to heel and keep your charity at home.

Ages before Aesop fabled Dan Reynard losing his brush in a trap and trying to create a bob-tailed vogue among his brother foxes, men have desired to whitewash their foibles and faults and make a virtue of necessity. This paper is a sort of apology or justification for my way of life.

Those who think I take my hobby horse too seriously are quite mistaken; they've got hold of the wrong end of the stick; it's my hobby that takes me too seriously, and when it runs away with me I'm as helpless as John Gilpin.

It's nearly 50 years ago now since we first became acquainted, and the better I came to know my hobby the more I learned to trust its wisdom and guidance. That's usually the way with horses; their silence as you might suspect is in itself a proof how thoughtful they are, and their actions are even more eloquent of sagacity than any human tongue could be.

There are several examples in the world's history of wise horses that have given counsel to men; there was Pegasus, the famous winged horse, and Cheiron the Centaur, (though he was only half a horse); there were the Houyhnhnms that Lemuel Gulliver tells of meeting in his travels, and there was the horse little Diamond was named after in George Macdonald's story "At the Back of the North Wind."

You mustn't of course think of a hobby horse as a piece of dead wood like a towel horse or a saw horse. I assure you mine is a real live hobby full of horse sense and ripe experience. For years I have made a practice of sharing my troubles with it and consulting it in all my difficulties; it always looks on the bright side of things and that is one reason why it has always been so helpful.

A great part of this very paper is not mine, but what my hobby has told me confidentially in answer to a whole string of questions I put to it only last week.

The questions were asked at random and that is why my paper is more a series of topics loosely strung together than a single essay of orderly form. It's really a breezy jaunt in the open, just enough to blow some of the cobwebs away, a scamper with my hobby over the moorlands of fancy; for, though this horse of mine is in the main a slow-paced ambling pad—warranted safe for ladies and children—it will not keep to a uniform speed, and has a nasty bad habit of getting over fences into ditches and swamps and fields and woods when you want it to jog along the turnpike road.

What is Nature Study?

Nature Study, as I take it, means just studying through eye and ear to gratify the divine curiosity inborn in the human heart about the rest of God's creatures, especially those fellow-creatures who share with us the mysterious heritage of life, be they rooted in the ground like plants or free to roam the earth like ourselves; be they insects that creep or fly, be they birds of the air or beasts of the field, fish, flesh, fowl, or good red herring.

As to whether it is a science or just a recreation depends entirely on how much curiosity we have; and the direction in which our interest lies will determine the kind of Science or Recreation that Nature Study will mean for us. One point at least is worth noting; this definition practically restricts the subject to living things. I don't mean to ignore the inanimate and inorganic parts of creation; I merely mean that in my own experience things without life have attracted me very little, and I believe this limit of interest will be found common among both children and adults.

With the question whether Nature Study should be taught in schools, I have nothing to do; this cobbler sticks to his last. One thing I know is, that all the years I was a boy at school I never took a lesson in Science, and since I became a teacher I have never taught a lesson in Science. But before I was three years old—so my elders and betters have assured me—this same curiosity about Nature got going at a furious pace, and it's going strong still, like Johnny Walker, with me after it.

It's an interesting question how much in the education of any adult is acquired at school; no doubt the amount varies considerably, but I fancy it would be a generous concession if we allowed about one-tenth to the class-room; the rest comes to us outside, and in all the best of our culture- and character-building we are entirely self-taught. You may lead a horse to the water, but you can't make him drink; just as moral reform or improvement must be built up on a foundation of self-respect, so in things intellectual we cannot be taught unless we are willing to learn. However all this is neither here nor there; the point I wish to emphasize is that not one jot or tittle of Natural History came to me from Teachers or from School Studies.

And now, if you please, I'll just mount my hobby and put him through some of his paces before you; it's quite certain he won't stick to either highway or bridle path, and more than likely he'll run away with me before we're through.

MAN'S ATTITUDE TO NATURE

In the days when men were first learning to brush their hair and trim their nails, to wash and dress, and send themselves to school, we find them living a very simple life, and if we observe their ways we cannot help remarking how much more closely they lived in contact with Nature and in obedience to Natural laws than we do in these great black blotches on the face of Mother Earth that we honour with the name of cities. By Natural laws at this early epoch I mean physical laws rather than moral or spiritual.

The struggle for existence was a combat with Nature, and man appears early to have seen that there were two methods of fighting, the direct and the indirect; natural forces must be resisted, or controlled; it is this latter method, in which the powers of nature are compelled to serve man that I would ask you to consider.

Man's power of taming living creatures to help him in his struggle for existence is almost unique; certainly none but social animals (the ant is a case in point) seem intelligent enough to make others help them; though many creatures have learned how to live at the expense of their fellows, that degenerate things we term parasites.

If we could pay a visit to one of our primitive ancestors, he would no doubt be surprised to see us with our new-fangled war paint and glad rags, but I doubt if his surprise would be a patch upon ours. As we drew up to his one-roomed mansion of mud, we'd see no pasture, no orchard, no stables, stalls, pens, coops, dovecots, kennels or cages, no sound or sight or sign of domestic animals, for everything at present was wild, even the old gentleman himself. You might perhaps catch a glimpse of a creature like a jackal or a coyote sneaking off into the edge of the clearing; for the dog, man's earliest conquest, probably first came prowling like a fox about human habitations, to see what he could pick up. If he did first come like a thief or a tramp to our back door, we soon made him work for his living by fetching and carrying, and helping us in our earliest callings of hunter, herdsman and farmer.

The things man has tamed are, chiefly, four-footed animals, birds, and—plants, for we must not forget that once there were no gardens and no plants but wild ones. In this truth lies much food for thought; for some of man's first tame things were evidently sought because they were pretty or playful; in other words man had very early an aesthetic sense, a love of beauty and of other things that cannot be taken to market and bartered for money. In most books of science we are taught to regard our far-off ancestors as hard, selfish creatures with a super-Scottish quasi-Aberdonian eye to the main chance. But there's another side to that; it's quite likely, for instance, that the first puppies were brought home by man from the chase because (as we should say) they were so 'cute, and these proved so attractible that they became man's trusted companion and friend. Believe me, it was no economic venture. Browning somewhat doubtfully represents the primitive savage in Caliban taming creatures from his love of power. Far more probably, Julius Caesar, the first Roman of a scientific habit of mind, tells us a curious thing about our British forbears: he says they kept geese and hares (he probably means ducks and rabbits) for pleasure' sake—that is, as pets. Certainly if many of our quadrupeds were kept for profit, the same cannot be said of most of our tame birds, which were caught for delight in their bright plumage or sweetness of song; nor will it begin to explain the mystery of the garden, for you must remember that the flower garden is older than the kitchen garden, and even in this dreary economic age of ours, civilized man—if his garden is very small—makes sure of his flower-beds first, and then his cabbages, onions and carrots.

Man's first garden was certainly a pleasure ground, a little space beside his hut where the bright and curious flowers he met in the woods might be brought to live beside him. The things that persist most stubbornly in the teeth of adverse circumstance are surely the things that came first; I take it, man's desire to-day to have parks and flower-beds in the heart of his modern cities, and the slum-dweller's carefully watered window-pots of geraniums and fuchsias hark back to the dawn of human life. You remember Tim Linkinwater's account to Nicholas Nickleby of his poor neighbour, his story of the tulips in the old blacking-bottles; and surely no other theory can explain the miracle that happened to Poor Susan, Wordsworth's peasant in London, when she heard the song of a caged thrush.

'Tis a note of enchantment; what ails her? She sees
A mountain ascending, a vision of trees;
Bright volumes of vapour through Lothbury glide,
And a river flows on through the vale of Cheapside.
Green pastures she views in the midst of the dale,
Down which she so often has tripped with her pail;
And a single small cottage, a nest like a dove's,
The one only dwelling on earth that she loves.
She looks, and her heart is in heaven: but they fade,
The mist and the river, the hill and the shade;
The stream will not flow, and the hill will not rise,
And the colours have all passed away from her eyes.

Stone walls do not a prison make, and all the masonry of modern Babylon cannot thwart the homing instinct of the human heart. This of course was the reverie of a country-bred peasant; what of the city merchant?

Behold the vision of a business man just back from his holiday:—

Tangled in stars and spirit-steeped in dew,
The city worker to his desk returns,
While 'mid the stony street remembrance burns,
Like honeysuckle running through and through
A barren hedge. He lifts his load anew,
And carries it amid the thronging ferns,
And crowding leaves of memory, while yearns
Above him once again the open blue.
His letter-littered desk goes up in flowers;
The world recedes, and backward dreamily
Come days and nights, like jewels rare and few,
And while the consciousness of those bright hours
Abides with him, we know him yet to be
Tangled in stars and spirit-steeped in dew.

So long as these miracles befall in the wilderness of our industrial centres, all's right with the world, and we have strong proof besides that it has been so from the beginning.

All living creatures delight in their own activities; man, more observant still, takes pleasure in the rest of created things as well as in himself, and further, as I firmly believe, when the primeval savage felt his heart go out in sympathy with the beasts of the field, the fowls of the air and the flowers of the wayside he bore unconscious testimony to the universal kinship of Nature.

Perhaps to many of you it seems a far cry to the life of primitive man thousands of years ago, or at least, thousands of miles away in equatorial Africa or the tropics of America. But don't forget that here too as in most other things, the past is right at our door. The ways of the young barbarians in our midst are a living proof of savage life and nature. An often-quoted line of Wordsworth declares the child the father to the man, but modern science maintains something far more wonderful than this: that the child is not only father to the man, but actually man's primitive ancestor. The student of Embryology knows that in its earlier stages the human organism shows man's kinship with lower forms of life; and we know ourselves by simple observation that a child passes only by painful progress from all-fours to the erect attitude, from infancy to articulate speech; and still more painfully does he learn to count, to read and to write. If the child has to learn all these things, they cannot be instincts, but must have been discovered or invented by primitive man; in short, the child's development is an epitome of man's history from brutish barbarism to 20th century civilization.

Just consider the ways of these little ones, and see if we can't get an answer to our question how primitive man lived and whether he took delight in the world of Nature.

The question has sometimes been debated whether our earliest adventurers turned towards the pole or towards the equator, northward or into the tropics; in point of fact, the first voyage of discovery is a child crawling across the nursery floor; this is soon followed by the more daring feat of exploring some passage that opens — miles away — into the kitchen, say; or of climbing a staircase into the attic; some of the most momentous discoveries made on these travels, as I seem to remember, were various insects like spiders and cockroaches, centipedes and sow-bugs, or house-flies on the window pane that lead a somewhat precarious existence in our midst.

We used to hear much, in the newspapers, of the open door as affording us westerners easy access to the Orient—with the view, I suppose, of outwitting the Orientals, to the mutual advantage of our pocket and his experience; but the open door of magic import is that by which we first escaped from the house to the garden—that paradise of wonders, unsurpassed till we were admitted to fairyland itself, and allowed to go at large in the world of God's out-of-doors, wandering at will through lanes and woods and fields.

Primitive man knows little of the doctrine of altruism; Caliban seldom cudgelled his brains about his neighbour's welfare; on the other hand, what phrenologists would call his bump of acquisitiveness is very prominent; and so, in the child, the selfish desire to possess the objects of attraction is very strong; the child must have domestic animals of his own, he must have pets, he will even tame wild creatures for himself; he must have a little garden of his own; he makes collections of things; whatever he sees, he covets;—sometimes, it is said, these childish traits or character have been found in the adult. Grown men have been known to collect butterflies and beetles and ferns and things of that sort.

German Government Gives 600,000 Marks to Wilhelm As He Pleads Being Broke

WEIMAR, March 5.—The fugitive German Emperor, it was learned from competent sources, recently appealed to the German revolutionary government for money. It was said in his behalf that it was impossible for the fugitive Emperor to continue to live upon the bounty and good will of the Dutch nobleman in whose castle he now resides.

Herr Hohenzollern, it is said, declared he already had been forced to borrow 40,000 guilders from his host and could not continue as a debtor. He asked that he be allowed at least a portion of his private fortune.

The government after considering the matter, agreed to the fugitive ruler's request and began a detailed investigation to determine what portion of the one-time Emperor's supposed fortune really was his and what portion belonged to the government. Investigation showed that the one-time ruler might legally claim 600,000 marks as his own, but the government decided to allow him temporarily only 600,000 marks to meet present indebtedness and future expenses.

The correspondent's informant, in calling attention to this development declared it put an end to rumors that the one-time Emperor had been able to take large sums of money with him when he fled into Holland.

Police Court Case Reveals Union Government's Guilt in Misleading Farmers in M.S.A.

Election Handbill Distributed in the Interests of Sir Sam Hughes Promised Exemption to Victoria County Farmers—Created Impression That Food Production Should Not Be Disturbed by Military Tribunals.

ASSURANCE FROM GOVERNMENT

The Union Government's promises of exemption to farmers in the election campaign of 1917, were recalled in the trial at the local police court on Thursday of T. J. Collins, a young farmer of Victoria County, who was fined $250 and costs, amounting to $276, for failing to report for military service when his exemption was summarily cancelled last spring.

Mr. F. D. Kerr, solicitor for the accused, submitted as an exhibit a "dodger" that had been widely circulated throughout the townships of Victoria county with the design of assuring the farmers that their sons if drafted would be relieved from military service by General Mewburn, the Minister of Militia. This same pre-election handbill reproduced a letter from the acting Minister of Agriculture to Sir Sam Hughes, the candidate of the Union Government in Victoria, announcing the appointment of representatives of the Department of Agriculture who were to "guard the national interests in connection with the production of food stuffs" and to appeal from the decisions of tribunals that had not "given due weight to the urgency of maintaining our food supplies."

Collins is illiterate but he stated that this bill had been read to him. Moreover, he had already received a temporary exemption as a farmer, and feeling confident that he would not be drafted but would continue to serve "the national interests by producing food," he married. With the German advance in the Spring of 1918, the exemptions granted to farmers on the condition that they remain on their farms were annuled. Collins received an order to report, and for reasons prompted by the promises of the Minister of Militia, and the acting Minister of Agriculture, and also by a delicate condition that had overtaken his wife, he did not comply with the order, but continued to live and work on the farm. As a matter of fact he was guilty of an infraction of the Military Service Act.

In this case, and there are probably many of the same character and features throughout the country, the Union Government cannot escape a degree of culpability, arising out of the rash and reprehensible promises made by the Ministers in their unprincipled campaign to secure votes. They did not hesitate to promise the exemption of a numerous agricultural class without a thought of the consequences. They cruelly deceived these citizens, who did not realize until the Government had been placed in power, that they had been exploited, that their sentiments had been played upon without a qualm and without a thought of military necessity. The guilt of the Government lies in these promises, and the proof that the farmers have adjudged them guilty of insincere, immoral and ruthless practices is found to-day in the sullen antagonism that is shown toward the Government at every opportunity.

The growth of the United Farmers' movement during the last year is an expression of their condemnation of the unscrupulous tactics of a government that stooped to unspeakable tricks to secure control. "Dodgers," and the name has peculiarly fitting thing to it, were distributed in the rural parts of Victoria county, appealing at one and the same time to the patriotic and selfish motives of the community, and all this devious work in the interest of the ex-Minister of Militia, and the recognized candidate of the Union Government. The farmers are giving conclusive proofs that they have neither forgiven nor forgotten the guile and duplicity that was concealed in the Union Government election campaign in the rural ridings. The broken promises have left a bitterness that will not soon fade, and not only did these intemperate assurances throw the farmers back upon themselves when their class spirit was hurt, thereby creating a new division between the rural and urban sections of the community, but there was also created in the minds of many farmers of military age a senose of security from the draft that failed to reckon with the peremptory summons that followed close upon the supposedly imperative cancellation of the exemptions.

The following is a copy of the wiley appeal Sir Sam Hughes made throughout the rural sections of his constituency through the medium of the artful dodgers:

TH FAFMERS WILL BE PROTECTED

Union Ministers Issue Statements.

Ottawa, Dec. 3, 1917.

General Mewburn, Minister of Militia, states:

"Farmers coming within Class A, called out for military service, who are actually employed on a farm in the production of food stuffs for Canada and her allies, and whose services are necessary in the work of such farm will be exempted from military services. If their claims for exemption is not allowed by a tribunal an immediate appeal should be made. Arrangements are being made to extend the tin for such appeals.

The Minister of Militia further states that if a farmer so called out for military service who is now honestly employed in the production of food stuffs, should be drafted into the army, General Mewburn feels it will be his duty to relieve him from military service on the condition that he returns to the farm and continues to be so employed.

AGRICULTURAL DUPES. . .

OTTAWA, Dec. 3, '17.

Sir Sam Hughes, Lindsay, Ont:

It having been brought to the attention of the government by Hon. Mr. Crerar, Minister of Agriculture, that in some counties tribunals appointed under the Military Service Act, have not given sufficient weight to the importance of the production of food stuffs and have therefore refused exemption to men whose work is essential to continue production on the farms on which they are now working, the Government has decided on the recommendation of the Minister of Agriculture to take immediate action in order to prevent any unnecessary interruption of farm work.

In order that the Militia Department and the Department of Agriculture may be empowered to have the necessary pawer to act, the following Order-in-council has been passed.

His Excellency the Governor-General in Council, upon the recommendation of the Acting Minister of Agriculture, and by virtue of the provisions of the War Measures Act, 1914, and the Military Service Act, 1917, the Minister of Agriculture is hereby authorized to appoint a Representative of the Department of Agriculture in such counties or districts in any province of Canada as he may determine.

First—To attend the sittings of the tribunals appointed under the Military Service Act, to guard the national interests in connection with the production of food stuffs;

Second—To appeal from the decision of the tribunals in any case where in his opinion the tribunal has not given due weight to the urgency of maintaining our food supplies;

Third—To investigate and report upon appeals or applications for exemption where the ground of appeal or application is that the party seeking exemption should in the national interests be retained in food production rather than be enrolled in the expeditionary force.

Acting Minister of Agriculture.

Mr. H. J. Zacks Has Returned From Fashion Centres

Has Newest Fashion Creations From Boston and New York—New Cape Coats.

Mr. H. J. Zacks has just returned from a tour of several weeks among the wholesale fashion centres of New York and Boston. While there he made a lengthy study of the latest decrees of the rulers of style for Women for 1919, and came back loaded up with new ideas and better still with the newest of new garments for his rapidly growing high-class trade. The trip was as much educational as profitable and Mr. Zacks feels satisfied that the knowledge gained is bound to be as valuable to his customers as to himself. Some of the season's most marked novelties, are the spring Capes and Cape Coats. Mr. Zacks reports that the sales of Cape Coats are in the proportion of eight to one old-style coat. The new Creations are made of nice wool poplins and velours and the predominating colour is Victory Blue, a rather light bright shade that is in itself a novelty. Some are made plain and some are in Dolman style, a combination of cape and coat that represents the really correct thing in spring outer wrap.

Blouses are in several new shades, including Victory Blue, and Victory Red, and the prevailing style is the round, collarless neck. A novel feature on some blouses is the apron effect, and hand embroidery is largely used for both front and back decoration.

Skirts are principally silk poplins, panamas and serges, made in the new long style and very narrow at the bottom, some of them less than a yard around.

In suits the braid trimming is prominently seen, and the leading style is the box fitting or loose back, and this in combination with the long narrow skirt, embodies the very latest mode in street wear.

In all these new fashion garments Mr. Zacks has secured a nice assortment for his trade, and is quite certain he can give his patrons something distinctive, that will put them on a par with them best dressed ladies of the greatest fashion centres of America.

There are dozens of other new ideas in ready-to-wear that Mr. Zacks has brought home with him, and these will be all available for his Peterboro patrons and will doubtless be greatly appreciated by them.

Budget Estimate Already Exceeded

Huge Sums Pour Into the Dominion Treasury—Interesting Figures.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, March 7.—Heavy revenues continue to roll into the Finance Department. For eleven months concluding with the end of February the current revenues totalled two hundred and seventy-two millions, being an increase over the previous year with the corresponding number of months of forty-two millions. February's revenue was twenty-one and a half millions over February, 1918. The Dominion's budget estimate for this of two hundred and seventy millions has already been exceeded.

Finest Thing Ever For Chronic Catarrh!

Gets Away From the Medicine Habit, Cures By Novel Method.

With the many remedies you have tried you surely know that no liquid medicine can cure your throat or nose. Even a gargle only bathes the entrance of the throat—it can't really get inside, nor can it reach the inflamed bronchial tubes.

With Catarrhozone it's all different from medicine taking—you simply breathe its healing vapor, inhale its balsamic fumes which carry cure and relief to the inmost cells in the lungs, nose, throat, and bronchial tubes.

In a scientific way the soreness and inflammation is rapidly allayed, relaxed chords are toned up, the entire nucous membrane invigorated. Every trace of catarrh disappears, the disagreeable dropping of mucus in the throat, hawking, spitting, and signs of catarrh and bronchitis are permanently cured by Catarrhozone. Large outfit lasts two months, costs $1.00; small size, 50c, trial size 25c, at dealers everywhere.

And Now Fashion Dons Her 1919 Gown

She is sumptuously garbed for the evening, picturesquely for the afternoon, and with a distinctive smartness and chic when she walks or shops.

A feeling of classicism is seen in certain drape gowns — in the tunics, in the rounded or Greek necklines, in the bloused or wrapped bodice and in the short and full or long pendant sleeves. Others come via the Directoire modes, copied from the Greek and Roman styles. Sumptuous or simple, they have at least two things in common—the re-appearance of the waistline and the narrow silhouette of the skirt.

Embroidery is an obsession, and there are many forms—silk, wool, metal, thread, beads and braid. It is noteworthy, too, that many of the hard necklines are softened with a touch of white, bands of lace or a frill, and vestees of various colors and shapes are delightfully pretty.

Mordore—a dead leaf brown—is one of the new shades. Every sort of brown is popular, shading up to Beige (sand) with henna, crushed rose, Victory red, flag and Foch blues, to add to the gaiety of the scene. Dust shades are ultra smart, while navy blue is assured its wonted popularity.

POUNDS, SHILLINGS AND PENCE

(By F. H. Dobbin.)

Expressions of interest taken in the article in these columns of two weeks ago, dealing with a sketch of the financial position of the town in the year 1858, have been made. Many, especially older residents, enjoyed having recalled the facts and the names of people associated in the affairs of the city at the time indicated. No doubt from the galleries of memory could be drawn equally interesting reviews of matters which were at one time pertinent and of absorbing interest to the citizens of years ago.

Side by side with incidents in the town as a town, there is the equally interesting period when the town was, for municipal purposes, joined up with the county, and until 1858 formed part of the then called Colborne District. Prior to 1850 this was the case, but by an Act passed in [illegible] it was provided that a Council should be established in each county composed of the reeves and deputy reeves of the several townships, and accordingly on the 25th of January, 1850, at 12 o'clock noon (to be quite precise), there assembled at what was called the Town Council Chamber of the newly incorporated town of Peterborough, reeves and deputy reeves, representing the townships in the county of Peterborough, (then including what is now the County of Victoria and the County of Haliburton) and formed the first Council of the County of Peterborough. The town was then, and so remained until 1859, a part of the county for municipal purposes, and was represented in the County Council with the following present: Reeves Langton, Benson, Short, Bawbell, Bell, McDonnel, Clarke, Cottingham, Fortye, Jacobs, Ferguson and Forsythe. After the Council was called to order the members took the oath of office and John Langton was elected the first Warden. Some years afterwards Mr. Langton was appointed Auditor-General for the Dominion of Canada.

Remained United.

The counties remained united until the end of 1858, when a petition from the municipalities in the County of Victoria, asking for separation, was presented to the Council and on a vote being taken, was accorded to, and separation ensued.

The proceedings of the Council of the United Counties are interesting, looking backward from the years that have intervened. Nothing was too large to gain attention, and the most scrupulous attention was given to matters that would now seem trifling, especially to those looking in the direction of economy of expenditure. Apparently open-handed and venturesome when some bonus or appropriation for a railroad was before the Council, again chalking and fighting at the proposed expenditure of a some trifle that was not of real consequence as affecting the mass of municipal expenditure. So we will extract a few notes from the record of formal proceedings, items that were passed with all gravity and seriousness. The English, or rather British coinage was still in use and all sums are noted in pounds, shillings and pence.

The Town Clerk.

One of the first things to do was to get properly going as a municipal concern, so the Clerk was ordered to furnish to the town a full set of books and an adequate supply of stationery, all to cost not more than £2.10. As this represented a sum not exceeding $12.50 of cash, the clerk could not be be said to have been recklessly extravagant. The County Treasurer was given £75 per year as his salary. The County Clerk, Mr. Walter Sheridan, was to be paid £100 per year, but the County Surveyor, Mr. John Reid, was engaged at ten shillings per day, when employed. The legal adviser to be paid fees when required and to present his account once every year.

The Sheriff was authorized to charge in his account, yearly, for 100 pounds of candles, to supply the courts and other purposes. In these days of the brilliant electric light we can appreciate the general gloom of the court room illuminated with a few "short sixes." Candles were graded so many to the pound. Six long tallows weighed one pound and twelve half size, the same weight. As a matter of decorum "no member of the Council was to leave the Council Chamber during the sitting of the Council without turning to the chair, as he retired, and making a bow to the Warden."

High Finance.

Some idea of financing, in those days, can be seen when the matter of insuring the stone court house came up for settlement. After prolonged discussion the Warden was authorized so to do, and to offer his own note for the premium, the Council agreeing to indemnify him for such a sum as he might have to pay. This extraordinary action is explained by the fact that the Finance committee had reported that the treasury was empty and that the funds must be procured to meet liabilities of £300.

It is interesting to note that a census just taken (1850), shows that the total population of the district, which included what is now the Counties of Victoria, Haliburton, the City and County of Peterborough, was 22,062 souls. Regret is expressed that the population had grown during the year 1848 by only 683.

Strong resolutions were passed looking to abandonment of what was known as the clergy reserves, and that the rectories should be abolished. The adoption of the elective principle in the Legislative Council, municipal councils to grant tavern licenses and collect dues thereon, abolition of the Courts of Chancery and Commons Pleas, the exemption of a portion of personal property from liability under execution, tools of a trade, household and cooking utensils and, as stated, "all provisions within possession within a three months' supply and enough household furniture to enable each member of the family to sit down to his or her meals and retire to sleep in accustomed manner." For be it remembered, imprisonment for debt was still the practice. This is shown by anorder that a sum not to exceed £10 be expended for firewood to warm the Council Chamber, the Treasurer's office and the debtor's prison. In many things and changes suggested the Council was ahead of the times. Changes have been carried out, but after the lapse of many years.

The Sheriff.

As a sidelight on municipal expense, the sheriff was authorized to expend a sum not exceeding one shilling per week for each prisoner confined in gaol on a criminal charge to provide board, in addition to the allowance already granted. Clearly the high cost of living did not trouble.

But the sheriff came and kicked at his meagre salary, and said things that seemed to have effect, for his stipend was immediately raised to £75 per year. But he was admonished that in consequence of such increase of salary increased attention on his part to the wants and convenience of the Council and other public offices was expected from him, which shows that the council proposed to get value received.

Troubles never come singly. Following the raise to the sheriff the warden reported that repairs would be necessary to the lower floor of the gaol to ensure the safe keeping of prisoners, "as in the present condition of the floor it afforded opportunity of escape to the prisoners." Reluctantly, the engineer was directed to have repairs made, and hang the expense. These were careful men, in some things. The minutes of council were ordered to be printed in the local newspaper, the Despatch, "if it did not cost anything." A frugal way of attaining publicity.

Wanted a Railway.

The one thing to be desired was a railway. The lumber industry was just struggling along on the basis of teaming the cut lumber to Port Hope. So the district was willing to do anything to get a railway. The Grand Trunk had just laid along Lake Ontario and "The Front" was booming. So in 1853 various and able gentlemen called on the town and presented propositions. It was decided to take stock to the extent of £100,000 in construction of a railway from Crow River to Georgian Bay, provided that the road ran through Peterborough and Metcalfe (now Omemee), to the Bay. A good lump of bonus was appropriated to the Grand Junction Railway, to be built, and Peterborough, in their minds, was already a railway centre. Fortunately these propositions, and many others, never realized or the district would have been bankrupt. Afterwards the city and county derived the benefit from these two railways, and never put one cent into the proposition, now the C.P.R. and the Belleville branch of the G.T.R.

It has been noted that the members of Council were stern economists. Unlike any other public bodies, since in office, the Council practised what it preached. It struck the sheriff, one day, that it would be most seemly if the "dias" or platform on which seated the chair of the warden was covered with a carpet. So in an excess of enterprise he got him a piece and laid it down. On presenting the bill to the council, of £3, 10s 6p spent by him he was severely reprimanded for his highfalutin ideas and payment was refused on the ground that the council had not authorized the expenditure. Nothing daunted (as the carpet remained and was appreciated) he afterwards asked permission to procure carpet to be used to cover the floor of the court room, instead of sawdust as had been the rule to use. This was voted down, on the ground that the finances did not permit of going to such expense. As it seemed to be a prerogative of the sheriff not to let the council put one over on him, he came back with a demand for increased rations for the prisoners in the gaol, and was authorized to apportion half a pound of bread and three pence each week for each prisoner. Such is life.

Hunter Street Bridge.

Just at this time an assessment was made of all rateable property in the district, (the united counties and town) showing for the counties £736,788.14s. and £8971.8s. for the town. A pound was taken as equal to four dollars. Item, the sheriff was by formal resolution ordered to procure a lamp for use of the court house hall, and the town came to the rescue of the counties in some financial emergency and loaned to the county treasurer £190 at 6 p.c. interest. The treasurer again reported that the treasury was empty, principally upon account of several money by-laws having been quashed by the courts.

At the session of council of 1853 a deputation waited on the council and proffered a request. The Hunter street bridge was then, just as it is now, a perplexing matter. This bridge had been erected by a joint action of the town and county, each paying one-half. The bridge was of wooden construction, quite an important affair built on the "Howe Truss" principle, the most advanced idea in bridge building at that time. The long trusses were sheeted in with boards and the tops of the trusses shingled, all to ward off the weather. Consequently, on a dark night passing over the bridge was like going through a dark tunnel. The deputation included Mr. A. H. Peck, of the East City, then known as the "Scotch Village," and quite a number of ladies. The ladies averred and told the council that they had much diffidence in crossing the bridge after dark and without escorts. It was asked that a sidewalk be constructed, outside the bridge, on the south side, leaving the bridge proper for use of vehicles. The deputation was heard, ladies advocated the proposition volubly and with much earnestness, and claimed for the sex consideration. The Council considered, and in most courteous language admitted the view of the ladies believed that such a walk was really indispensible, but regretted that the state of the county funds did not permit, otherwise the council would have had much pleasure. The walk was afterwards built at the expense of the town.

Good Roads.

At this session the council was obliged to turn down many applications for assistance to construct roads, but it passed an appropriation of £44.5s. to plough a track across Rice Lake, the following winter to allow of access from the south shore to about near where the village of Hiawatha is located. Council also passed an amount for the payment of wolf bounties, covering payment of a sum for each wolf killed in the district, £25.10s.

As late as 1856 the clerk was authorized to advertise for tenders for the fencing in of the Catholic and Protestant burying grounds (now Central Park.) This was afterwards done as a matter of joint expense. Previously the grounds had been open to the public. A drastic resolution was passed denying to the town of Peterborough the use of the county gaol as a lock-up for prisoners. The town had to construct one in the market hall, adjoining the meat market. Prisoners of a jocular turn of mind would entreat the people using the market to come along and let them out.

History Repeats Itself.

Showing how history repeats itself; at the special session of 1855, the report of the committee on the Warden's address contained the following clause: "That this Council cheerfully respond to the call made upon them for aid to the Patriotic Fund, and deeply sympathizes with the widows and orphans of those brave men who have so nobly sacrificed their lives in their country's cause, and recommend that this council do grant the sum of £200 for that purpose." The war referred to was the Crimean War. Based on the then assessment of the counties and town the amount subscribed was nobly in advance of what we have done to-day in this Great War.

Taken by and large the Counties' Council was alive to its duties and opportunities. Man for man it measured well up against the best we have to-day. In some respects more enterprising, certainly more venturesome, in public activities. If members foresaw the future of the district they acted wisely. If not they builded better than they knew.

Easy Way to Remove Freckles and Eruptions

Some women have a skin of such texture they occasionally are annoyed by the sudden appearance of freckles, slight eruptions or fine lines. March winds usually play havoc with skins of that kind. In such cases if one will procure an ounce of common mercolized wax at any drug-store, apply a little of it before retiring, like cold cream, and can easily overcome the trouble. When the wax is washed off the next morning, flaky skin particles come with it. The entire outer cuticle is removed in this way in a week or so with all its defects. No bleach could so effectually remove freckles or blemishes. The new surface is smooth, clear, fresh looking. No harm or inconvenience accompanies this simple treatment. For deep wrinkles or crowsfeet a solution of powdered saxolite, one ounce dissolved in a half pint of witch hazel, makes a face bath which is wonderfully effective.

Brightest and Best

SALE OF TOILET SOAP AT THE TOILET COUNTER, TO-DAY

The Better Bedding Exhibition at TURNBULL'S, which commences Monday at 2.30 p.m., promises to be an event of unusual interest.

It is a long way from the Bedding of even a few years ago to that used in the modern Bed-room to-day.

Within the memory of the writer, Straw-ticking was one of the staple everyday sellers in a dry goods store, and the straw filled tick had its place in many homes.

The old-fashioned feather tick had always the place of honor in the spare room, which was considered incomplete without its fluffy feather bed.

To-day there are so many kinds of Matresses and Bed-springs that one really finds it hard to decide which is best. Manufacturers vie with each other in providing those that are conducive to restful invigorating sleep. They are to be congratulated on their efforts in this direction, when we remember that nature demands one-third of one's life to be spent in sleep.

Because they believe in "Better Bedding" and are striving to better sleeping conditions, manufacturers are co-operating with us in celebrating the opening of our new Bedding Department on the Fifth Floor, with a "Better Bedding" Exhibition, which commences Monday, March 10th, at 2.30 p.m.

ASK YOURSELF THESE QUESTIONS:

Are my Bed-springs and Matress conducive to vigor renewing rest? Are they everything they should be on which to spend one-third of my time?

Whether you think they are or not, accept this Advertisement as a cordial invitation to you to be present at this Exhibition, any or every day next week.

There will be first-class music by an Orchestra from the Local Federation of Musicians, led by Prof. Gleeson, and prizes have been donated which will be given away during the Exhibition.

Full particulars regarding this feature on Monday's paper.

Monday and Tuesday will be "Ideal" Days, during which the products of the Ideal Manufacturing Co., will be strongly featured and an expert from the factory will be in attendance.

Affairs of Peace Invite the Women's Patriotic Associations

In the readjustment of the activities and interests of the people from the demands and obligations of war to the commonplaces of peace, the women's patriotic associations must decide whether they shall close up their books and disband or seek new occupations that will offer them fresh opportunities for service. They should not find it difficult to make a decision. They have just come through five years of travail, during which they have devoted themselves without reserve to the gigantic task of winning the war, and as a corollary, that was gradually perceived in the inner conflict of irreconcilable ideals of making the world safe for democracy. Translated further, the women of Peterborough have contributed their share in the great defensive enterprise of making the world a better and a happier place to live in.

They should not hesitate in their determination that they must carry on for the obvious reason that this ideal has not been attained, nor must they admit the discouraging suggestion that it is unattainable. By their accomplishments in the various works of the Red Cross and other patriotic endeavours, the women have given splendid proof of their sincerity, perseverance and capability, and, having developed their organizations, society will suffer a severe loss if these agencies are not employed in the causes that need and invite their help. The women's associations have long since gained that confidence and efficiency that guarantee success, and although local opportunities may seem limited and prosaic, lacking the compulsion and the glamour of war work, the activities that may be indicated are simply a variation of that phase of the task just completed with the cessation of hostilities. The abstract programme may be restated as making the world a better and a happier place to live in. It is something of a problem to proceed, for women's combined efforts may be directed along many channels. There is, for example, child welfare work. In some cities especially the populous centres with their seemingly unavoidable slums, women have already demonstrated that this field offers them the broadest possible scope. It first enlists their sympathy and then challenges their abilities.

Work Was Begun Here.

It will be remembered that the war crushed a movement of this kind in Peterborough. It had made excellent progress, and gave every promise of expansion. In the midsummer months sickly children were taken from their homes where they could be properly cared for, and in the cool, healing air at Jackson Park, they slept and played under the attention of a sympathetic guardian.

This is an activity that should be revived and securely established. There is no question of its desirability and the urgent need of it. The conditions that bestirred the ladies five years ago have not ameliorated. And it may be added that community welfare work is not confined to this one phase.

There are many girls in Peterborough whose summer holidays each year are simply dream fancies, hopes deferred, with little chance of realization. Girls who work in the shops and factories probably cannot afford the expense of a brief enjoyment of the beauties that are close to Peterborough's doors. They are living within easy reach of a natural paradise of which they are permitted but a passing glance from excursion boats. It is probably unnecessary to recall the work of women in other cities who oragnize and supervise camping parties for girls, where at comparatively small cost they may spend a fortnight at some desirable resort. These holiday hostels are kept open as long during the mid-summer months as there are girls to be received. It is not unlikely that local employers would be more than willing to assist in such a movement, if it was proposed in this city, and women's societies that profess, sincerely no doubt, an interest in the welfare of Peterborough's girls, would gain that personal contact they have failed to secure hitherto, and without which, their solicitude cannot find its fullest expression.

For Civic Improvements.

In the ventures toward civic improvement, women should be able to employ their interest and energies to good effect. The Horticultural Society needs their assistance, the directors of the Industrial Exhibition would doubtless be glad to avail themselves of the co-operation of any group of women that desire to help, for the work simply awaits their doing. It is not estimated that any or all of these departments have been overlooked, but it seems indisputable that the women's patriotic organizations, instead of being scrapped, so to speak, as so much obsolete material for which there is no further use, can now engage themselves in the apparently humdrum affairs of peace with results that are incalculable. An overhauling of the machinery, a re-adjustment of the vision to the fields here at home, a fine-tuning of the womanly and motherly sympathies, together with an inspiration of citizenship, and these associations should soon be accomplishing the community's hopes and ambitions, which men have so long bungled in half-hearted action that they have come to believe them impossible. But they are not impossible. They need a finer idealism than has brought to past initiative, and a sterner resolution that in this new day, bought with priceless treasure, there must be more "light, life and happiness" for the people who paid it. There have been five years of intense sacrifice for an ideal that is only vaguely understood even now, and if there is a conviction that the perfection for which the heart of humanity craves is not of this world, but is simply a mysterious yearning of the spirit for its far-off realm, this impression should not be permitted to deter those who sincerely seek a service that is within their power, offering only as a reward a consciousness of unselfish endeavour for the public good. But this sounds so abstract and altruistic that it may fail to impel and to attract even the mothers of Peterborough, flushed with the concrete accomplishments of five tremendous years and searching for a new outlet for their energies. The objects are so near and so familiar they may suffer the fate of being unperceived. Hence the vision of the women's patriotic organizations should first of all be focussed to the surrounding prospect.

Mr. A. B. Cunningham Sends a Reply to Capt. J. H. Burnham, M.P.

Calls Mr. Burnham's Attention to the Original Resolution—Another Round in the Proceedings.

The following communication has been received from Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. P., enclosing Mr. A. B. Cunningham's reply.

"Mr. Cunningham issues this orders to Mr. Burnham—demands instant obedience—"the drive" for Dominion Prohibition begins."

Peterborough, March, 6, 19.
[illegible] Reid St.,

Capt. J. H. Burnham, M.P.,

Dear Sir,—Your letter of the 3rd received, there was no occasion for you to be annoyed at the reply to your inquiry, as our resolution gave you specific information regarding the action we desired.

Your question was altogether too indicative of either a lawyers quibble or a politicians evasion to be taken seriously, no one would accuse you of not knowing what the Order in Council referred to means.

The day for successful evasion of great questions by means of technical procedure is past and issues must be met squarely your argument about interference with the Deity is merely a repetition in kind of the old pleas for the continuance of slavery.

Your peculiar theological theories are not a matter of public import, you are elected to represent in a legislative capacity a constituency that is overwhelmingly in favor of the prohibition of the liquor traffic and you are expected to represent their reepated verdict on this question.

Yours truly,
(Signed) A. B. CUNNINGHAM

Voice of The People

DOG NUISANCE.

To the Editor:

With reference to letter by "Citizen" in your last night's issue, it is to be hoped that our worthy Council have more important business on hand than bothering with petty by-laws such as the chaining up of dogs.

I wonder if Citizen is the individual that was guilty of spreading poison about a few years ago. If so I would like to give him a dose of his own medicine.

I do not think it is rabies that is worrying him, but his confounded lawn, which in many respects is more trouble than it is worth. I also have some doubts whether he has any children at all.

Let me remind Citizen that there are others in the world besides himself, and also ask him if the poisoning of dogs is the sort of stuff they teach in the many Peterborough churches?

Other towns do not find dogs such a nuisance; why should Peterborough?

LIBERTY.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir: In your issue of Monday last, there appeared a statement from J. H. Burnham, M.P., that a deputation from Lakefield accompanied by Mr. Dickson Davidson, had visited Ottawa and asked the Minister to "hurry up and build the new concrete dam at Lakefield," and it developed during the interview that this new concrete dam would add tremendously to the value of the present holdings of the water privileges at the dam.

Now, sir, the people of Lakefield and vicinity owe a deep debt of gratitude to Mr. Burnham for calling their attention to this matter in the way he has done, and it now remains to be seen whether they will bestir themselves and work together in their own best interests or continue to play into the hands of the present private owners of those water privileges to the detriment of the municipality.

Many of us believe that instead of paying the expenses of deputations to visit Ottawa to urge the Minister to "hurry up and build the new concrete dam at Lakefield," we ought to thank the government that they had not already done so, and thus to have sealed our fate for all time.

There is certainly an important and valuable waterpower in our municipality and the building of a new concrete dam cannot be long delayed in the interests of navigation, but why should the people of Lakefield sit supinely by and see an outsider come in and for a moiety of its real value secure and hold to our disadvantage our valuable natural heritage.

No matter what they paid for those water power privileges, whether thirty or forty thousand dollars or some other amount, they have no right to anything but their present undeveloped value. The natural value of the water privileges located in our municipality by right belongs to Lakefield, and the enhanced value created by the expenditure of anywhere from one hundred thousand to two hundred thousand dollars of public money—depending on whether they shall build the new concrete dam on the site of the present dam or down opposite the locks, where they can get a greater head and perhaps 75 to 100 additional horse power, belongs to the public.

It would not seem to be right that the government should build the new dam while the power privileges are in the hands of the present owners, and thus as Mr. Burnham says, add tremendously to the value of the present holdings of a private company, at the public expense. But the government must take action soon.

Therefore, Lakefield should at once get Hydro and the Government to expropriate the power privileges here at their present value, and then the public, as they should, will get the benefit of all public expenditures within the municipality.

Yours truly,
Ratepayers.

Total Prohibition is impractical as Intoxicating liquor is cheaply and easily made, says our correspondent. Shall the fanatic Rule?

What would be the effect if all our Parliaments united in passing an act forbidding the manufacture sale and importation of intoxicating liquor?

The Rich Man would say—That it would not affect him, because he had the means to fill his cellar full of intoxicating liquor and could afford to make the experiment.

But while the experiment is being made, this same selfish Rich Man should be made to empty his cellar of every ounce of intoxicating liquor.

If it is bad for the workingman, it is equally bad for the Rich Man, even though he enjoys filling the choicest pew in the Sanctuary.

Assume therefore that this most drastic prohibition law is passed. What then?

The answer is, that there would be more intoxicating liquor drank than even before. Why?

Because it can be so cheaply and so easily made in every household. It requires less skill to make, than it does, to bake a cake or make a pie.

By simple fermentation, every water tight farmer's silo has a few barrels of intoxicating liquor. It may be a little dirty, but the liquor can be strained. It may then be still dirty, but if it is boiled and the steam is condensed, then the condensed liquor will either make the condensator drunk or get him into trouble or perhaps both.

If old cider is run through a cream separator (as many are doing now), a very intoxicating liquor is produced. The process is simple. Press the button, the motor starts, the separator runs and out comes intoxicating liquor.

If grains, or vegetables, or fruits are allowed to ferment for a few days the product is intoxicating and to make it palatable it must be purified and matured.

Of what earthly use is the fanatic's prohibition law?

It will do an immense amount of harm to have intoxicating liquor made in many many homes, as it surely will be. If that is done, then there will be a problem on hand which the fanatic cannot solve, but will have to be solved by saner and wiser men.

Intoxicating liquor can be made for from one cent to 50 cents per gallon according to quality. When good pure liquor can be obtained at reasonable prices no one would ever think of defrauding the poor Inland Revenue Officer but when it comes to the point that no Revenue is expected, then the sink is drained, the cream separator is put agoing, the small potatoes, the corn, the rye, etc., and the fruit are allowed to foment and ferment a few days; on the fifth, the maker "bottles" and on the sixth day he slumbers and sleeps.

The trouble with the fanatic is this. He knows little of humanity and still less of chemistry. He has burnt those, who do not worship at his altar. He has imprisoned those who walked more than five miles on the Lord's Day. He is to-day sending men to prison for so called offences against this witch-craft-prohibition law. Men were hanged for stealing sheep and still they went on stealing sheep.

Moral reform is obtained in another way, than by imposing fines and penalties.

Such being the case: Who is going to, rule? The Fanatic or plain liberty loving people.

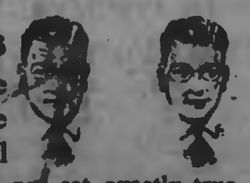
The Mountings of your glasses require as careful fitting as the lenses require careful grinding. If the lenses do not set exactly true they are likely to do more harm than good. Make it a point to drop in and see us from time to time and let us "straighten" your glasses for you. No charge of course.



No one should attempt to "straighten" their own glasses

Large Bedding Exhibition Opens at Turnbull's Store

Biggest Demonstration of its Kind Ever Held Outside of Toronto— Do Not Fail to See It.

The biggest bedding exhibition in the province of Ontario, outside of Toronto, will open at Turnbull's Departmental Store, on Monday, March 10th, at 2.30 p.m. The whole top story of the building is being devoted exclusively to the showing of beds and bedding. Experts from all the large factories of bedding, including the well known Ideal Bed Company, will be present to give information to the public regarding modern sanitary bedding. It will not only be instructive but it will show what a revolution has been made in the last few years as regards beds and sanitary methods. The music alone is worth the trouble to visit the exhibition. An orchestra under the direction of Prof. R. Gliddon, and composed of members of the local musical association will give fine programmes.

The section to the right of the elevator will be devoted to the display of cribs, baby beds, carriages and nursery furniture. The rest of the floor will have arrays of beds and bedding that are almost infinite in their number.

A Feature.

One prominent feature of the campaign is the fact that a number of manufacturers have made contributions of articles which they wish to have given away in connection with the Exhibition. For example:

The Ideal Bedding Co., have donated a brass bed, which will be given away to some person attending the Exhibition on Monday and Tuesday "Ideal Day."

The largest and most noted Canadian manufacturers are co-operating with us for this "Better Bedding Exhibition," and wish to show the people of Peterboro and the surrounding country the manufactured articles, with the progress already made along sanitary lines.

The Exhibition is not confined to high priced Bedding alone but is to show that sanitation is for the lower priced articles as well, and the user of the less expensive articles can rely on it being as clean and pure as modern manufacturers can make it.

The most reliable makes of Bedding will be shown, many of the displays representing the goods in the various stages of the manufacture.

TALKED IN HIS SLEEP

Husband's Crime.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Things that Frederick Burgwart talked about in his sleep and overheard by his bride of two months led to his indictment charged with holding up a subway passenger and robbing him of $2,100. The robbery occurred on December 11th, and Burgwart's wedding on December 16th, when he gave his bride a present of $1,000. A few days ago Mrs. Burkwart sought out the district attorney and told him her husband had talked of the subway hold-up in his sleep. A detective was put on the case, and Burgwart and another man were arrested charged with the crime.

CLUB MEMBERS HELD A BANQUET

Interesting Address by Mr. W. R Breyfogle.

The members of the Anti-Can't Club of George Street Methodist Church held their annual class banquet last evening in the Empress Hotel.

About thirty members, bedecked in their class colours, and making things lively with song and parody, partook of the usual good things that the Empress service supplies. A menu and toast list, printed on a neat card, reflected credit to the ingenuity of the committee who compiled it, and added dignity to the occasion. Mr. Jock Renwick and Mr. C. Carruthers rendered mandolin duets. Mr. Herman Hunter, chairman of the Social Committee, acted as toast-master, and did himself proud. The different toasts were proposed by Mr. Freemond Doan (president of the club), Mr. Earl Barrie, Mr. Fred. Rutherford, Mr. Chas. Elliott, and were replied to by the pastor, Rev. A. J. Thomas, Mr. C. C. Parsons (superintendent), Dr. J. E. Middleton (Mentor), and Mr. W. R. Breyfogle, who had been asked to give the address of the evening. The young men will not soon forget this interesting and able address on "Bricks and Mortar," which was replete in that advice so helpful to men in the character building stage. As pronounced the evening a most profitable and entertaining one.

A telegram was received from Mr. G. G. Galley, of Toronto, former Mentor of the class, regretting his inability to be present.

MAKE WAY FOR VETERANS.

Shingle Manufacturers in B.C., Will Do Away With Orientals.

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 7.—With the decision of 1,100 Oriental workmen to cease work following the action of the shingle manufacturers of the Province in making a cut of practically ten per cent. in wages, nearly all the mills have closed down. Nearly all the manufacturers have decided to institute an instruction school for white labour to supersede the Orientals, giving preference to returned soldiers.

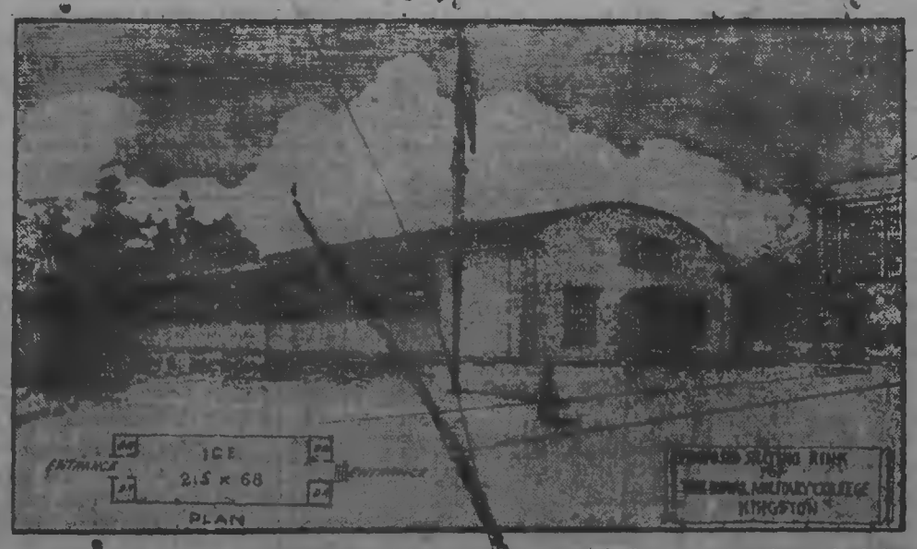
NEW USE FOR AVIATION SHEDS



AFTER many years of waiting a covered skating rink has been secured for the Gentlemen Cadets at the Royal Military College at Kingston, and the acquisition of this building will give a great impulse to our national game — "hockey." Hitherto the Royal Military College hockey teams have had to get along the best they could, using the open ice on the lake and occasionally the city rink at Kingston. These limitations interfered materially with the quality of the game. On the demobilization of the Royal Air Force in Canada and the abandonment of the aviation camps at different points some suitable buildings, originally designed for and used as flight sheds (or aeroplane hangars) became available, and through the kindness of Sir Joseph Flavelle, Bart., Chairman of the Imperial Munitions Board, under whose direction these aviation camps were originally established, two of the flight sheds, each 120 feet long by 68 feet wide, were secured to form the basis of the new covered skating rink. The many friends of the Royal Military College were not slow in taking advantage of this opportunity nor in coming forward to assist in carrying out the idea. The Canadian National Railways, through the courtesy of Mr. D. B. Hanna, its president, and the Grand Trunk Railway System, through the courtesy of its president, Mr. Howard G. Kelley, have undertaken to free-freight the material of the sheds from Camp Mohawk to the point nearest to the Royal Military College, to Kingston. Sir Herbert S. Holt, who is deeply in everything that makes for the welfare of the Royal Military College, has generously financed the undertaking, and a contract for the removal and reerection of the flight sheds above referred to, has been let to the Kingston Construction Company, who now have the work in hand. The Minister of Militia and Defence has approved of a site within the college grounds on which the covered rink will be erected. Mr. F. L. Wanklyn, General Executive Assistant of the Canadian Pacific, who is also deeply interested in the welfare of the college, has taken charge of all the work in connection with the carrying out of the scheme. The rink, when completed, will be substantially as shown in the above illustration. The main building will be 240 feet by 68 feet wide, and the height from the underside of the roof trusses to the ice level will be 18 feet. Commodious dressing and locker rooms, 25 feet square, will be provided at each end, over which a gallery for spectators, capable of seating 300 persons, will be provided. The main sheet of ice will be 215 feet by 68 feet wide and this will, in the opinion of well known hockey experts (Messrs. "Riley" Hern and Col. Walter Maughan) make a most satisfactory hockey rink. The building will be well lighted by windows all round and with electric lights for the evenings. The outside will be neatly finished in cement rough-cast and present a generally attractive appearance. The originators of this project have received many congratulations from a host of friends interested in the Royal Military College.

The Fair Wage Clause for Local Workers

This May Increase Cost of Hunter Street Bridge.

The fair wage clause which was inserted in the bridge by-law by Ald. H. Gainey at Monday's regular meeting of the City Council, together with the clause that all labour, skilled or unskilled, shall be engaged in the city as far as possible, by the successful tendered will, according to one of the aldermen, produce a boomerang which will re-act on the union wage earners for whose benefit the clause was inserted.

The scale of wages put into effect by the local Trades and Labour Council by which an unskilled labourer will receive 50c an hour and skilled mechanics accordingly may, in the opinion of this alderman be higher than wages paid in other centres to union men. Then the new tenders are received for the bridge is is quite possible that they will be found to be higher rather than lower, "because," explained this representative of the city, "when the contractors find that the cost of labour in Peterborough is higher than that in other places they will raise their price accordingly." It may in that case be impossible to build the bridge at the most that was approved of by the people. The whole thing would then collapse, and instead of the union men receiving 50c. an hour they would not even get a job. "A little is better than nothing at all."

LIEUT. W. O. BOSWELL REPORTED DEAD

Was Brother of Late Pte. E. P. Boswell, Formerly of Peterboro

TORONTO, March 7.—The death occurred in London, England, from pneumonia, of Lieut. Walter Osler Boswell, of the Motor Boat Patrol. late Lieut. Boswell was in his 29th year and was the son of J. E. Boswell, of 25 Roxborough avenue, Toronto. A brother, Flight-Lieut. Henry George Boswell, was decorated for dropping bombs on a German submarine near the English Channel. Flight-Lieutenant Boswell went overseas with the original Princess Pats regiment, and returned home after many months of fighting as unfit. He then took an aviation course and returned overseas. Another brother, Pte. Ernest B. Boswell of Peterboro, was killed at Langemarck, while a fourth brother, Sub-Lieut. C. Boswell, is also in the service.

Riots Break Out In Camp

Kinmel Military Camp at Rhyl, Wales, according to Liverpool despatches received to-day. Great property damage was caused, the despatch adds. According to latest reports from Liverpool, the riot was started by about 200 malcontents. There were twenty-five thousand Canadians in the camp awaiting demobilization and embarkation. The men who caused the trouble were war casualties, who had served for three years or more in France. They complained that their embarkation had been postponed, while other men who had seen less service were being sent home. After the destruction of stores of all kinds on Tuesday by discontented men, the situation took a more serious turn on Wednesday, when cavalry was called out, but was forbidden to use its arms. Troops from Chester intercepted the rioters in their march upon Abergele, near Rhyl, and also prevented a threatened raid on the latter place. Five men were killed and forty injured in the course of this fighting, it is reported. There was further promiscuous shooting early Thursday morning, but at no time was there organized firing by any armed party. Most of the deaths were due to crushing, it is said. An unnamed Major, holding the Victoria Cross, and believed to be from New Brunswick, is reported to have been virtually trampled to death while attempting to defend the officers' quarters against great odds.

ORDER RESTORED BY THE CANADIAN AUTHORITIES.

The Daily Mail says that the Canadian authorities restored order without the assistance of British troops, and declared that the matter is solely one for Canadian disciplinary actions. The Canadian officials have informed the War Office that they do not desire any increase in shipping facilities as a consequence of the outbreak, as they do not intend to be coerced by the action of the rioters.

OBITUARY

JAMES HUMPHRIES.

BOBCAYGEON, March 4. — The death of Mr. James Humphries, on Saturday, March 1st, removes a familiar figure from this community. Mr. Humphries was born in Ireland, removing to Canada with his parents when a child, settling first in North Monaghan, and later coming to Verulam, where he lived for the most of his life on the farm now owned by Mr. Andrew Lambert. He later bought the property on the south shore of Sturgeon Lake from Mr. E. D. Orde, commonly known then as the Jones property, and where he was when the railway went through in 1904. For the past twelve years he was a resident of Bobcaygeon. He was exceedingly fond of horses, and was at one time an active member of Verulam Agricultural Society, and a director of the Cemetery Company at his death. He was ill for about two weeks from pneumonia, and was aged 70 years and 11 months at his death. He leaves beside his widow one son Alfred and two daughters, Mrs. J. A. Fallis and Mrs. George Wairam.

MRS. JOSEPH C. CHRISTIE

The death took place last night at midnight, of Mrs. Joseph C. Christie, at her home, Lot 20, Concession, Asphodel. The late Mrs. Christie, who was only 30 years of age leaves besides a sorrowing husband, one brother, Edward at home, her father, Mr. Patrick Hogan of the Albion Hotel and four sisters at home, Lottie, Irene, Kate and Geraldine and one sister of Dummer township, Mrs. H. Kelly. The funeral takes place from her late residence in Asphodel on Monday morning to Immaculate Conception Church and at St Peter's Cemetery, Peterboro.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

In St. Andrew's Church to-morrow the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered at the morning service.

In the evening the Rev. Mr. Rowand will deliver his third discourse in the David series on "David and Jonathan." The friendship of these two brave soldiers is of perpetual interest. The experiences of life that make friendship necessary are as old as the hills, and as new as the morning.

Special music will be furnished by the choir, and the public are cordially invited.

IS YOUR NAME ON THE LIST?

Chuck full of new ideas in Minstrelsy, the Y.M.C.A. Minstrels with cast of 100 people are putting on their show in the Grand Opera House, March 20 and 21, under direction of Mr. Asa Huycke. The boys are confident that they have the best amateur Minstrel Show ever produced in Peterboro. One boy has sold over 100 tickets and all report a heavy advance sale. Several of Mr. Huycke's latest song and Minstrel numbers will be heard for the first time here, some of these are "'Way Down E. Caroline," and "You'll Go to Heaven When You Die," and "Navigating Home."

TABERNACLE CONVENTION NOTICE

There will be no afternoon service at Bethany to-day, but at 8 o'clock this evening a short business session open to all members of the congregation will be held by a special session of prayer.

On Sunday, at 10 a.m., Mr Garrison, of India, will address the Sunday School.

At 11 a.m., Mr. Armstrong, of Newark, will preach.

At 3 p.m., Mr. Garrison will preach.

In the evening at 7, both Mr. Garrison and Mr. Armstrong will speak and in connection with both morning and evening services, pledges and contributions for the Annual Missionary Offering will be received.

Motion Pictures Shown To-night

To-night's exhibition at the new Duffus garage will embrace a series of motion pictures appropriate for the occasion. This will be the last night for this unique demonstration which all week has attracted large crowds. The quality of the pictures are excellent and are very instructive. This opening exhibition should result in a larger and more concrete understanding of the Ford product and other lines handled by the Duffus garage.

MEMBERS ARE CONCERNED

Legislation Was Not Advanced in the the House of Commons This Week.

Special to the Examiner:

OTTAWA, March 8. — Legislation was not advanced in the House of Commons this week, but nevertheless Ottawa has been a significant place.

The work has seen a decided increase of pressure on Western members from their constituents and the organized farmers' organizations as well as from the Legislature of Manitoba. The flood of telegrams is in full course, and neither by day nor by night, can the Prairie members forget the demands of their people for tariff reductions.

The Portage La Prairie grain growers, by threatening Meighen with the loss of his seat unless he supports their views, have set a precedent which would be uncomfortable if it should spread.

Western Views.

The Western view is not going uncontested. Many private members declare their demands are quite unreasonable, and are still urging a postponement of any radical change owing to financial difficulties. The Montreal Gazette is strong in its denunciation of what it considers their unreasoned viewpoint, and makes a plea for "common sense" and a regard for financial responsibilities.

The week has seen a distinct list towards the formation of a permanent union party. The success or failure of this move will have far-reaching effects on the political aspect of the next few years.

Prohibition Question.

Prohibition is still one of the things in the distant mists of the session, but meanwhile the situation is being complicated by the wine and beer referendum arranged for next month in the province of Quebec, and by the unsettlement growing more apparent in the Ontario Legislature.

Inside the House, the debate on the address has continued all week, and still the end is not in sight. The flexibility of this debate is shown by the ever changing nature of the subjects discussed. The quiet lapping of the waves has frequently been disturbed by a rush of breakers that has thrown up all sorts of flotsam and jetsam, some of it significant, the rest sensational rather than important.

Trade discrimination was again alleged in opposition documents and in the present, but the Government still has no official confirmation or any conclusive denial.

The Pensions Committee, under the chairmanship of Hon. N. W. Rowell, has organized again for the session, and the routine committees are also now ready for action.

The Bankruptcy Act, of interest to commercial and mercantile men, has been introduced but not advanced beyond its formal first reading.

Mr. Moses Schriff Addressed the Local Hebrews

Fifty Acres of Land Sold in Peterboro

Mr. Moses Schriff of Jappa, Palestine, lectured before the local Hebrew Colony on Thursday evening in the W. O. W. Hall, after which a sumptuous banquet was given at the home of Mr. M. Finn, 202 Margaret Avenue, in honour of their distinguished compatriot.

Mr. Schriff, who speaks eight languages and who once practised law in Russia is touring the United States in the interest of the movement to repopulate Palestine by Jews. His plan is to sell the land which is bought by a company from the Arabs to the Jews in all parts of the earth. In this way it is hoped that the whole of Palestine will soon be owned by the Jewish race. In this city 50 acres were sold and Mr. Schriff expressed himself as being well pleased.

In his address he spoke of the wonderful change that had come over Palestine since the British had occupied it. Reading letters from his wife in Jappa, he told of how the very air seemed to be changed since the unspeakable Turk had been driven out. Disease which under Ottoman domination had been rampant had almost been wiped out.

"Truly we owe a great debt to the British Empire," said Mr. Schriff.

He said that the Jews feel as if they had just awakened from a dream. Their ambition for centuries had been realized and ever since the proclamation of Arthur Balfour, the British Foreign Minister the work of reconstruction in Palestine had gone on apace.

Mr. Schriff left for Toronto yesterday after which he will lecture in the west.

Flowers By Telegraph

Flowers Delivered Everywhere Through the Florists Telegraph Delivery System and How it is Done.

For instance, you have a friend who is ill in a Hospital or at home, a mother, father, sister or sweetheart who has a birthday or wedding anniversary, or any other occasion where you desire to express your good wishes, appreciation or sentiment and "Say it with Flowers".

Anywhere in Canada or United States, all you have to do is to step into a flower shop that is connected with the above association. The florist will immediately relay the order to one of our members in the section where the delivery has to be made, either by special delivery, mail, or telegraph. The F. T. D. florist on the other end will make as reliable and fine a delivery as the man who takes your order would in his locality.

The following are the reasons why you will get a guaranteed delivery from all F. T. D. members:

The florist making the delivery cannot afford to send out anything that would not be a credit to his shop. He is under bond to make the best delivery possible or lose his membership as well as his guarantee money. His reputation is at stake, and that forces him to see that your order is taken best care of.

If delivery made in another city was not satisfactory he would make trouble for four parties:—the customer ordering the flowers, the F.T.D. florist taking the order, the recipients of the gift, as well as himself. The four parties mentioned above are sufficient to make any F. T. D. florist be on his guard and give the best and most desirable delivery.

The main object of this association is and always has been to give the public a more efficient floral service than any other country in the world can offer in order to show that Canadian and American florists are at all times on the lookout for the interests of their patrons

It is praiseworthy to note that The Peterborough Floral Co. are local members of this association and are constantly in touch with the larger centres in carrying out this up-to-date method of handling out of town floral orders. 1d

Improvements to All Saints' Church

Will Provide Increased Sunday School Accommodation.

To provide accommodation for the increased attendance at All Saints' Sunday School, where the membership has grown to such an extent that the present quarters in the Parish Hall are insufficient to hold all the classes, alterations to the extent of $900 are being made to the basement of the church, where the primary department will be opened soon.

Two Permits.

Outside of the permit for the alterations on All Saints' Church, only two permits have been issued by the City Hall this week; these to Grafton and Co., 381 George street, for alterations to the interior of the store, and to Forsyth Bros., 381 Hunter Street, for $50 for a wood shop.

FOURTEEN NEW MEMBERS FOR KNOX CHURCH

Fourteen new members were received into Knox Church last evening at the preparatory service. A very able address was given by Rev. A. H. McConnochie of Centreville, who used as his text "Without the Shedding of Blood there can be no remission of Sins." At the meeting of the session which was also held routine business only was attended to.

"BLISTERS" SAVED SHIPS FROM TORPEDO ATTACK

Many Wonderful Inventions Increased Efficiency of the British Fleet.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—One of the most successful devices invented by British naval experts in the war time was one known as a "blister," which served to protect ships against torpedoes. It is an outer steel casing fitting to the sides of the ships. The Germans torpedoed several "blister ships," but in every case, it is asserted, the vessels were able to reach port and be repaired. Sir E. H. T. d'Eyncourt, Director of Naval Construction, invented the device, which stuck out from the ship's side about fifteen feet and exploded the torpedo.

A self-propelling projectile charged with 500 pounds of T.N.T. was perfected by the naval experts only a short time before the armistice was signed. It is believed to have strengthened materially the power and effectiveness of the British fleet.

Another invention is a gun to fire signals from submerged submarines. It sends a star shell 200 feet in the air.

Mixtures which are raised with eggs alone should have the whites and the yolks separately beaten.

Soldiers Were Forced to Fight With Faulty Weapon

Major J. E. L. Streight Tells How Ross Rifle Jammed at Battle of St. Julien—Compares Ross Rifles With the Lee-Enfield.

TORONTO, March 10. — "I can tell you right away that as we faced the oncoming hordes of the Huns, the boys struck at their rifles with their entrenching tools in an attempt to open them, and threw them away in disgust. The ammunition was good but the rifles were unfit to put in the hands of any soldier."

This is the statement of Major J. E. L. Streight, of the gallant 33rd Battalion, who was captured at the battle of St. Julien when the Canadians plugged the line and saved the army, in reply to the statement made by General Sir Sam Hughes that not the Ross rifle but the ammunition was at fault.

Major Streight is a musketry enthusiast and a soldier of many years' experience, having fought in the Zulu war and in the South African war, and as he spoke he produced the ne plus ultra of rifles, the British Royal Enfield of the latest pattern which was presented to him in England, and with which he illustrated his remarks on the shortcomings of the Ross rifle which he declares is not a soldiers' weapon although useful to the sportsman.

"If anyone ever had a chance of testing the rifles we surely had," he explained, "and if the Germans had attacked us on this occasion as we would have attacked them under similar circumstances, the line would never have been held with the Ross rifles."

The occasion was the twenty-four hours between April 23 and 24, in 1915, when the 3rd Battalion was moved forward under the command of Major Kirkpatrick, to the trenches at Ypres, from which the French had been smoked out by the German poison gas, and the story of the failure of the rifles to stand up to the crucial test was explained by Major Streight as being in the make of the weapon, which is bound to jam whenever it heats up.

Where the Fault Lies.

"The fault in the rifle to use technical language, is that there is no primary extraction and the empty shell is ejected with a straight pull. It is not like the British rifle when the first motion of the bolt extracts the shell one-eighth of an inch, and the result is that when the rifle gets a little hot it simply jams.

"It was then while the Huns were rushing forward that men fought with their rifles and smashed at the bolts with their entrenching tools. We did keep the Huns down but that was because they attacked in close order and one bullet might go through half a dozen of them and because we had a surplus of rifles.

"We collected several rifles from the dead and the men fired until their rifles jammed and grabbed that of a fallen comrade, to use until it too froze up," he said.

Continuing Major Streight said he desired to be as fair as possible in the discussion. There was one particular issue of cartridges which did not fit the Ross rifle, "Mark 4, I think they were," and it was found out that they did not fit and the men were told not to use them. All the other issues of ammunition were all right, and the fault was with the rifle and not with the shells," he went on.

Compares with Lee Enfield.

"I am a musketry man, and I will say that as a sniper's weapon or a target rifle the Ross is all right. That is because only one shot is fired at one time, and it has time to cool before being used again. In fact the British snipers tried to get hold of a Ross, but it was not the rifle to stop the rush of the Huns," he said. "One rifle for one man was no use at all," he said, "and we just kept a surplus. I have used the Lee-Enfield in the Zulu war and in South Africa and I never saw one jam unless of course it was badly treated by the soldier.

"Look this rifle over," he said, holding up the Royal Enfield. "Look at the workmanship on it and observe how the sights and every working part are protected.

"Our orders were to hold the gap at all costs and because the Germans attacked as they did we were able to do so until we were completely surrounded and outflanked. Then we had to surrender."

Speaking of the entrenching tool which was used by the tried soldiery to force back the bolts of the Ross rifles, Major Streight remarked they were not the entrenching tools which were reputed to be the invention of a stenographer in Sir Sam Hughes' office, and which were issued to the Canadian contingent. "The British authorities drew the line there. These tools were left piled up in a heap in England rusting on Salisbury Plains, and so far as I know they are there yet. We were supplied with the British tools. I don't know what would have happened had we been forced to take the other."

"I knew at Valcartier and also at Salisbury Plains that the Ross was not a soldier's rifle, and it was pretty thoroughly tested out, and we knew that it could not compare with the Lee-Enfield before we went over, but we were forced to take it with us."

"What do you think of Sir Sam Hughes' remarks that Canadian soldiery were sent to their deaths for the glorification of certain Canadian generals?" he was asked, to which he replied with a smile: "I wonder who the generals could be. Do you think that it was his own son who won such rapid promotion, who was referred to? He certainly was a Canadian general."

Praises General Turner.

Major Streight declined to tell again the story of the surrender of the gallant remnant of the 3rd Battalion whose share during the critical hours of the battle of Ypres did so much to save the day, beyond saying that even had they been supplied with the British rifle they would have had to surrender eventually.

"We killed them in hordes but we could have done more execution with a better weapon," so as far as he is prepared to go in regard to speculation on the results if the engagement had the better rifle been in the hands of the Canadians.

Major Streight declares that in his opinion the greatest Canadian general is Lieut.-Gen. Sir R. E. W. Turner, V.C., and in saying this he does not wish to detract from the glory won by other

REGARDING CHILDREN.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children had a New York father brought into court to answer charges of whipping his ten-year-old son recently.

The boy had been discovered by an agent of the society. His body was covered with welts which had been caused by a whip in the hands of his father.

When the clerk of the court called the case the father stepped to the judge. The case was entered in the books. The welts were counted. The father was called upon for an explanation and stated that his boy had run away from home and did not return until very late at night. The boy was called on and said simply that he had disobeyed his father and that in return for it he had been beaten until he had fallen down and fainted.

And then the judge made his decision. He rebuked the society which had caused the father's arrest, rebuked the boy for disobeying his father, and dismissed the defendant with the statement, "The boy should have received ten times more punishment than he did."

All of which shows little except that there are some fathers who respect their boys no more than they respect cattle; and that there are some judges who know as much of boydom as the Kaiser knows about real Christianity.

No boy who has the proper kind of home care and home training commits petty offences which merit his being beaten by a whip until he falls over unconscious. Fathers who do most of their correcting with a strap or a willow switch are merely attempting in a futile manner to correct mistakes which they themselves made when they did not bring their boy up properly. Fathers who are companions for their sons do not have to be weapon wielders against their sons. And parents who use care and consideration and exercise real attention and interest in their children are never forced to use Hun tricks in making their boys behave.

"Spare the rod and spoil the child," may be all right—in some isolated cases. But even then the old slogan said nothing about continuous lashings having any virtue.

If anybody deserves to be lashed until he falls out it is the father who mistreats his child—or the judge who releases a child-beater without even a reprimand.

FRENCH FARMS AMAZE AMERICAN SOLDIERS

WASHINGTON, D.C.,— The trend toward better agricultural education is nowhere reflected more clearly than in the work of the federal board for vocational education among the disabled soldiers, seamen and marines. The number of boys who have been raised on farms of the non-progressive type is considerable, and a large proportion of them now desire to receive specialized education in order that they go back to the old home place and pull it out of the haphazard rut and put it on a paying basis.

The sights these boys have seen in France, where the thrifty French farmer has brought intensive agriculture to a science and where almost unbelievable amounts are raised on small acreage, have undoubtedly made a strong impression upon our returned soldiers. They have decided that after all, scientific agriculture and management but which the average farmer is often inclined to scoff, really is something of actual value.

Many of these men are badly disabled and will never again be able to rely upon brute strength, which before the war was their chief and only asset. They have now become convinced that mere strength does not amount to much, but it is the expert knowledge and ability to direct which does count most greatly. This education is given them absolutely free by the United States government. They are sent to the best agricultural schools in the country, paid a support allowance of $65 a month while pursuing their studies, and all other expenses are defrayed by the federal board.

The board is specially anxious to get in touch with farm boys who have returned and have found themselves unable to make progress without special training, and all letters of inquiry are welcomed by the board, the address of which is Washington, D.C. It has been designated by Congress to have entire charge of the vocational re-education and placement of disabled soldiers, sailors and marines.

WHAT ABOUT YOUR INCOME?

The elements comprising the body are constantly wearing out and must be renewed daily, else the outgo of strength exceeds the income.

Why I Chose

The Times

1785

LONDON - ENGLAND

History of the War

I KNEW that I wanted some history of the war. I knew that if I wanted to talk intelligently, or understand the great changes that the war had brought about, I must have some book of reference. But the war was so gigantic, it covered so much ground, it affected so many nations and people, that I was somewhat doubtful if a complete history would ever be available.

Then I investigated The London Times History of the War, published by The Times, London, England. I was astonished at the magnitude and completeness of their work. I found that they had collected from every corner of the earth the full, authentic progress of the war from beginning to end. I found that the staff of The Times, their editors and their expert writers, had worked in co-operation with their correspondents on all quarters of the globe—on land and sea—and had made a record of the war which will stand for all time as the source of information on these stirring years.

I found that they had artists, photographers, map-makers, working in conjunction with Government officials, and that these had provided the most marvellous collection of pictures, all actual and authentic. I found that every phase of the war was dealt with in word and picture, by this—the greatest news-gathering organization in the world.

Now, when I want any information on the Gallipoli expedition, for instance, I can find it all there. If I want to know what battles the Canadian Army figured in, it is easy to find out. If I want to know how much beef or wheat the armies of the world consumed, it's all there. The development of medicine or surgery — international law — war finances — the wonders of aerial navigation—in fact everything pertaining to the war is fully told and illustrated in The London Times History of the War.

I also found that The London Times History deals not only with British or Allied Armies and Navies, but with the operations of all the combatants—including the enemy.

When I had fully inspected The London Times History of the War, I was satisfied that no other history of the war could approach it in wealth of written detail or in the variety and interest of its illustrations. I satisfied myself that in buying The London Times History of the War I was securing the most complete, interesting and authentic history of the war that will ever be published. That's why I bought The London Times History of the War — that's why you should buy it!

Joppa Since Earliest History Has Been Mere or Less the Plaything of Conquerors.

In the tribute lists of Thothmes III, king of Egypt, who held his court on the banks of the Nile, some 1500 years before the Christian era, there figured the town of Joppa. Thothmes III was a mighty warrior. He fought no fewer than seventeen successful campaigns in Syria, twice captured Kadesh and was one of the greatest builders and administrators Egypt had ever known. So, although nothing is certain about the matter, he probably captured Joppa and laid tribute on the inhabitants, who then, as today, built their houses over the "rounded hillock" which, from the sea, forms a gracious landmark. That was 3,400 years ago, and every now and again during all those centuries, the old city, which looks out over the Mediterranean toward the coast of Africa, away beyond Egypt, has stepped into and out of the history of the world.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

BRIAN RETURNS. HE IS WOUNDED.

CHAPTER CXXXIX.

During those days of waiting, days that at times seemed endless because of her desire to see Brian, and then seemed all too short for the preparations she wanted to make for him, Ruth was so restless, so absorbed in the one great fact that her husband was coming home, that even Mr. Mandel could see she was unfitted for work, and told her to remain at home until after Brian came.

"But can you spare me?" Ruth asked.

"I will; and you are not to worry about the business. Things are very quiet just now, we'll get along nicely. And"—he hesitated just a moment, then held out his hand with a smile and said:

"I rejoice in your happiness. I know of no one more deserving of it."

"Thank you," replied Ruth simply, but the look she gave him showed her appreciation, more than words.

Mrs. Clayborne was delighted that Ruth was to remain at home until Brian came. She had been fearful her niece would become ill, so excited and nervous was she. They spent much of the time out of doors, driving or walking in the park. Gradually Ruth became less excited, more quietly happy. The weather was unusually warm and the change from her inside work at the shop was beneficial in every way.

Naturally both she and her aunt had seen the notice of belated casualty lists in the papers, yet Ruth had no thought that Brian might be wounded again. He had written just a few days before the armistice was signed, and had said he was in splendid shape.

His ship was in. Ruth and her aunt had gone down to meet it, and although they were not allowed to go very near, they joined in the cheering, while trying to disentangle Brian's form from the thousands swarming on the decks and leaning over the rail.

Then came the news that he was wounded and had been taken to a base-hospital. Ruth and her aunt immediately set about getting permission to have him taken home where they could nurse him.

On the very last day but one, of the fighting he had been again hit by a piece of shrapnel, this time injuring his leg so badly it would be some time before he would be able to use it, still longer before he could discard crutches.

There was much red tape, as is always the case; but finally Brian was home. Ruth and her aunt listened while the soldier told them stories of the war. Almost spell-bound were they, when he occasionally, in a modest way, mentioned his own part in it. Ruth had asked permission to remain away from the shop until Brian was able to get about, and Mandel had quietly and kindly told her to stay at home as long as necessary; but not to desert him altogether. Ruth laughed at the idea. Her work was part of her life, a very big part.

Kenyon and Claire Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Curtiss, and other friends of Brian were constant visitors, and interested listeners to stories of the war told so graphically by the young lawyer. It was quite different from reading the newspapers, this getting all the facts first hand.

Mr. Mandel called one evening. He congratulated Brian on his advancement, was his most courteous, kindly self. Yet Ruth breathed more freely after he left. Brian had met his advances stiffly. It had been the first time he had shown any of the old resentment, and it made Ruth unhappy for a moment.

In those days of his convalescence Brian and Ruth grew nearer together in spirit than perhaps they had ever been before. She let him see more of her feeling toward him, showed her love more plainly. The baby, too, Brian Jr., did his share toward making the wounded soldier whole again. Brian seemed never to tire of talking of him, of petting his boy. Often when he was lying on the couch with his tiny son in the crook of his arm, Ruth would feel such a surge of love and happiness fill her heart that it seemed more than she could bear. Brian never died without knowing he had a son! How terrible it would have been.

As he grew better she told him of her work among the wives of men who, like him, never had seen their children, born after they had answered the call of country. He was intensely interested, and promised to help her do for them when he was able to get around.

So, in happy planning and mutual confidences, the time passed until the day came when Brian was walking about on crutches, and Ruth was making ready to return to the shop.

To-morrow—Ruth Tells Brian She Is Going Back to Work.

SWITZERS MUST WORK.

There Is No Place For the Loafer In the Little Republic.

Switzerland is a country that has a short and easy method of dealing with the lazy man who is work-shy. The Swiss act upon the theory that a man who is unemployed is, if left to himself, prone to become unemployable, and that for a community to allow any one of its members who is capable of work to remain unemployed is a public waste. In industrial Switzerland there is no place for the idle. It is considered the duty of the authorities to assist in every way possible persons honestly seeking employment, and it is also held to be their duty to punish the work shirker and to force him to earn his bread before he may eat it. No toleration is shown to the loafer, begging is prohibited by law, and vagrancy is classified as a crime in the legal code of the Confederation.

In Switzerland a man may not deliberately join the army of the unemployed and remain indefinitely in the ranks without even making an effort to secure employment and in the interval be constantly deteriorating into an unemployable. There is no resorting to charitable institutions as hotels, no wandering about the country extorting alms from honest people while pretending to be in search of employment.

An unemployed person must make a serious effort to find work. If he does not the authorities will find it for him, and of a kind that may not be to his liking, and he is compelled to perform the work assigned to him. If he refuses he is placed in the workhouse, where military discipline is maintained and where every inmate is required to work to the full capacity of his strength, for which he receives no compensation his board and lodging, with wages ranging from three to ten cents per day. His stay in the institution depends upon his conduct, and during his forced employment the state make a profit on his labor, as most of the institutions of this character are so well managed that they are sources of income instead of expense to the cantons to which they belong.

Mending Celluloid Articles.

The great variety of articles made of celluloid for domestic and personal use give value to a simple recipe for mending such articles when broken. This consists in dissolving fragments of celluloid in acetone, applying the resulting solution to the broken edges like glue, and then pressing them together. The solution is made in a few minutes and "dries" or hardens within a quarter of an hour. If carefully done it is almost impossible to detect the location of the break. The same method may be used for making small objects, such as boxes, trays, picture frames, etc., from sheets of celluloid. The solution may easily be twisted to any desired shape.

Heart Palpitated

Could Count Every Beat

When the heart begins to palpitate, it will beat fast for several seconds, then slow, then start to flutter, and a feeling of utter depression will come over your whole system, accompanied by weak, fainting and dizzy spells.

When the heart gets into this condition, you become weak, worn and miserable, and are unable to attend to either social, business or household duties.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will give prompt and permanent relief to all sufferers from any heart weakness or nerve derangements.

Mrs. Walter Greiver, Apsley, Ont., writes:—"I had been run down, and doctors told me I was anaemic, but did not help me with their medicines. I could not sleep nights, my heart palpitated so, and I could count every beat.

I used to have such dizzy spells I would have to go to bed. I was not able to do any work for eight months. A friend of mine had taken Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and told me what they had done for her. I took eight boxes of them, and now I am able to help every day with the work. I am so thankful to tell others what they have done for me, so that they may try this great and wonderful remedy. I hope this may prove good to some one who is suffering the way I did."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

PROGRESS IN AVIATION.

Europe Is Far Ahead of America In Getting Practical Results.

Two German aviators, flying with the wind, have made 160 miles an hour. If that speed could be maintained in continuous flight it would be possible, for instance, to leave New York after a 6 o'clock breakfast and arrive in Chicago for lunch.

Perhaps Americans are not, as a rule, aware of the progress being made abroad in aviation under the spur of military competition and necessity. So far America has treated the dirigible more as a toy than as a possibility in air transportation on a large scale. The announcement that Count Zeppelin will visit America next year and bring with him his largest dirigible is interesting.

As regards aeroplanes also, Europe seems at present to be in the lead in developing an invention whose credit belongs to Americans—the Wright brothers. M. Sikorsky's great biplane has made repeated flights over St. Petersburg and its environs, carrying from eight to sixteen persons and remaining in the air from one and a half hours to two hours. Its passengers were able to move about comfortably in a roomy cabin warmed by the exhaust of the motors and look down from the glass windows, lighted at night by electricity, upon the metropolis below. It carries four motors of 100 horsepower, and a fifth is to be added to increase its speed. There is also an observation deck on the roof of the cabin, but it will probably be little used until aerial flights become more common and passengers have a secure feeling of safety. The great Russian biplane, in fact, almost completely realizes a ship in air.—New York World.

HOUSES OF PORCELAIN.

Erected In a Few Hours Without Mortar, Plaster or Nails.

A home of porcelain that can be erected with a screwdriver and wrench in a few hours is the plan of W. H. Turner, who calls himself "the pioneer of porcelain."

"In the construction of the porcelain house," he said, "there is a complete absence of all absorbent materials, such as bricks and mortar, plaster, whitewash, concrete, woodwork and paper. The complete porcelain house is constructed as follows: Framework, preferably of light rust proof metal. In this framework are fitted the huge porcelain panels, half an inch thick, six feet long and three feet wide, weighing five pounds to the superficial foot, decorated and glazed on both sides to resist wind, storm and weather, with steam tight joints made of copper coated asbestos tape.

"Porcelain is nonabsorbent, insect and germproof, and fireproof and washable, and it makes possible for all a perfectly hygienic home. As for warmth an inch thick wall of pure porcelain glazed both sides is better able to keep out cold than an eighteen inch brick wall. With bricks and mortar it takes months to erect a house of, say, five rooms. A porcelain house of the same size can be put up in a few hours."—London Mirror.

New French Slang.

The language of the Poilu is as double Dutch, to the uninitiated. Anyone familiar with the slang of the Quartier Latin would probably feel more at home than most. But there are many other ingredients—some patois, some picked up in Morocco, and some are survivals of the soldier slang of the First empire. Such a word is "cleber," which apparently means to eat after one has been on the point of starving. An explanation given of the origin of the word is that it is a corruption of "kleba," the Russian for bread. It is said that the French soldiers on the great retreat from Moscow called out "Papa, kleba," to Napoleon.

Blue Mushrooms.

A blue mushroom, known as the Tricholoma Nudum, has just been added to the list of edible fungi. It has been produced from a wild wood fungus, which in its natural state appears only in the late autumn. Professor Matruchot planted a specimen in the cellar of the Paris observatory, whereby careful cultivation he succeeded in evolving a mushroom which will grow all the year round. The purple-blue of the wild specimen has faded into a light blue shade. This new mushroom Professor Matruchot declares, will be hailed with delight by chefs and gourmets on account of its exquisite flavor, which is faintly reminiscent of aniseed.—London Opinion.

Canadians in Captured Territory - - - Two Good Samaritans

(1) The entry of the first army commander into Mons, which was captured by the Canadians. The mayor addressing the army commander in the square.

(2) A Belgian lady returns to her home after the Germans had taken her to Germany to work on the land. She was imprisoned because she would not work in the munition factory. She is wearing her pack in which she carried her belongings in the camp.

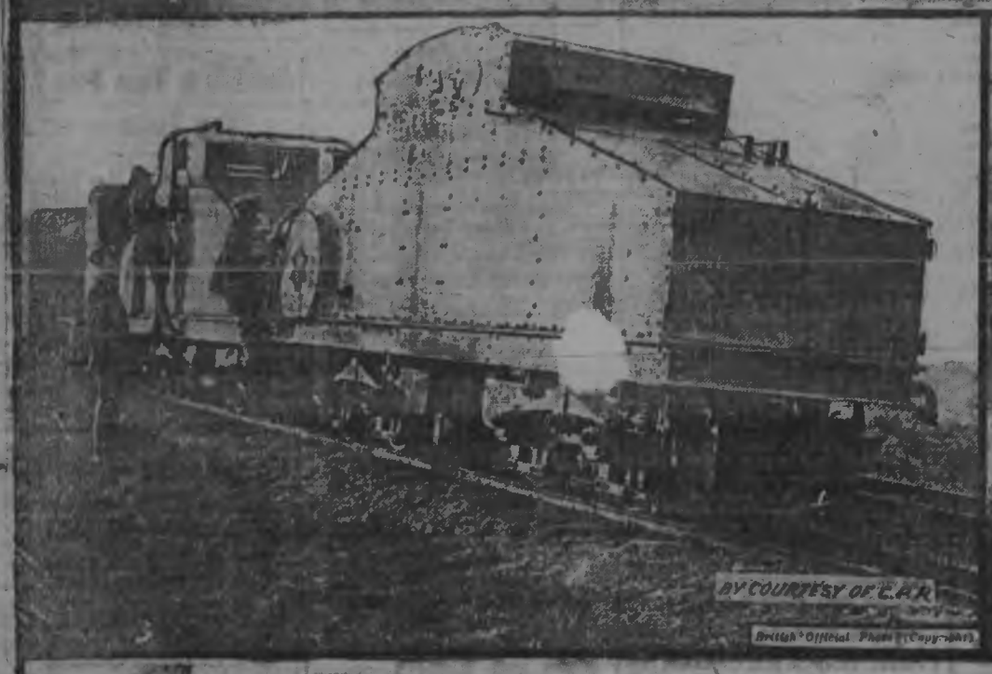
(3) Among the booty captured by the Irish Guards was an armored train (made in England).

(4) Wounded U. S. soldiers transported to New York by the Canadian Pacific "Empress of Britain."

(5) A German aeroplane which nose-dived outside a Zeppelin shed near Namur. When the Canadians arrived they found that the big gas bag had flown.

(6) Taking U. S. wounded soldiers from "Empress of Britain."

(7) The entrance to one of the forts of Namur. The Canadians now occupy this territory.



A LITTLE DISPLAY OF TEMPER

Mountain Sheep in the Canadian Pacific Rockies.

ONE hears of the affection of wild creatures and their devotion to one another, even unto death. This is undoubtedly true in many instances, but to my mind more wild animals die through displaying bad temper than through gentler sensations. I have seen a grand ten-point black-tailed deer brought down while bullying a game little spike buck; I have lain on the edge of deep pools and watched a surly pike ram his head into a net while attempting to intimidate a big bull trout. Moreover I once saw a grizzly that died because he had lost his temper when a man approached as the bear was eating, and I was once an active participator in the death of a lynx that would have escaped unscathed had it not stopped to claw up a dog that it could have outrun on three legs.

On the other hand, there are many stories of affection. Once I was an interested observer of a she-bear putting a fast-climbing Dane up a tree and keeping him there while her twin offspring climbed neighboring saplings, and were, in her opinion safe. I have been told of devoted trout that committed deliberate suicide because their mates had taken the hook. I know of enormous bull walruses off the coast of British Columbia who personally see to it that even the smallest pup is driven into the safety of the black waters when danger threatens. Then there are the tales of the male salmon guarding the spawning beds from buccaneering trout while the female salmon deposit eggs; and sailing men have told me of mother whales sheltering calves under their great flukes while the harpoons were reaching deep for the mother's vitals. All these are worth telling, and may be told, but at present the subject is temper leading up to the demise of the mountain sheep whose eighteen-inch horns had been the ambition of hunters for three long seasons.

He ranged the peaks a score of miles below Palliser where, from the highest pinnacles of his range he could look down the fair sweep of the valley and see C. P. R. trains toiling up or roaring down the grades. He did not know what they were nor did they bother his mind much. To him they may have been crawling flies. His simple life did not include them, his chief annoyances were the self-imposed duties of whipping young and ambitious bucks, keeping his band of ewes in proper subjection, and avoiding the two-legged creatures who crawled so clumsily about the rocks and frightened one with sharp noises followed by high-pitched whines. Once, when he had heard the sharp sound and did not hear the whine, his side had hurt for a long time and the blood had flowed as it does when an eagle or a mountain lion rips the hide, and he did not want to repeat that experience. So he was very watchful.

One day he stood on a wind-swept steep and gazed, high-headed, over the broad valley. Nearby his band browsed placidly. A youthful and injudicious male edged over to a charming young female and butted her playfully. She too displayed frivolity, she considered him away invitingly. The king of the band saw these carryings on and gave a stern warning. The young beau and the silly ewe sprang apart with keen appreciation of what followed outbursts of temper by the lord and master. A small stone, loosened by the hasty feet of the young buck rolled and clattered down the rocky grade.

Around behind a distant shoulder of rocks a man who had been fruitlessly hunting all afternoon had turned toward his valley camp, wagged by the lengthening shadows of late afternoon. He heard a distant clatter of a rolling stone on loose shale and paused a moment before dropping to his knees and creeping noiselessly toward the point from whence the clatter came. The big buck, high-headed and watchful, but raging and roaring with anger, was just stepping down toward the impudent young male with every intention of inflicting merited chastisement when the rifle cracked. The animal turned and fled, blindly and fast, half stunned by the blow that smote his shoulder and burned his interiors. He ran instinctively upward while his band also scattered to the heights by other routes and the white man, breathless and panting, followed the blood drops that marked the path of his prize. He followed to the snow line and beyond, his hunter's soul gladdened by the crimson dashes on the white mantle. And at last, a half mile from where he had raised the [illegible] and a thousand feet above the [illegible] he came upon the bighorn chief's [illegible] half buried in the pure white [illegible] heaven-climbing slide. OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Motor Lady

By ROSALIE FAVIER

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Thompson crawled from under the car, his face, hands and clothes streaked with a combination of perspiration, tar, gravel and grease that bespoke doom for the light gray trousers, and a visit to the manicure for the hands. And worst of all, the automobile still refused to budge.

"I give up," groaned Thompson, sinking despondently on the grass. "The blame thing won't go, and that's all there is to it."

"Never say die," cautioned a voice at his elbow. "Faint heart never won over a stubborn motorcar."

"My dear young lady" Thompson hurriedly dried his grimy handkerchief over his face and tried anxiously to find the part in his tousled hair—"just at present I haven't any heart at all, after all I have been through."

"Well," he began, "I looked to see if I had any gasoline."

"That was clever of you," smiled the girl. "So many men would knock an engine to pieces first, and discover an empty gasoline can later. Is there water in the radiator?"

"Yup!"

"Car well oiled?"

"Certainly."

"How are the spark plugs? A cracked one will cause no end of trouble, you know."

The man grinned. Evidently she did know a little about motors. "No," he said, "the plugs are all right. Besides, if one of them was broken the engine would have given warning: it wouldn't have stopped dead."

"It's your ignition!" Beth squinted her eyes, deep in thought. "There is a wire loose somewhere."

"There is not!" Thompson cried emphatically. "I've followed every blame wire up, and they are all O. K."

"Then I know just what the trouble is. Your timer is dirty."

"Just wipe it over and the car will run with ease," taunted Beth, her eyes twinkling merrily. "And, so long."

On the way to the village, for he started a few minutes later, Thompson speculated on who the "Motor Lady" might be, and why she had hurried away so quickly. He was thinking of her when he stowed the car away in the hotel garage, and engaged his room for the night. He even sat on the veranda to watch all the women that passed, hoping that she would pass, too.

When night came hope fled. He was in town for the one night only, to sell tires to the E. B. Sterns Garage company, and would leave for the next big town directly after breakfast.

He strode up and down the long corridor puffing thoughtfully at his cigar, waiting for the manager of the garage, who had arranged to meet him that evening. At eight o'clock on the minute the call boy motioned to the restless man. "E. B. Sterns is out on the veranda waiting for you, sir."

Thompson threw away his cigar. His mind was wandering and he needed to concentrate, for the Sterns people were customers he wanted to secure. He hurried out. A slender figure rose from a rocker to meet him.

"Good morning, Mr. Thompson."

"Yes," Thompson hesitated. "Sorry I can't stop, but I have a pressing engagement just now."

"I know—with me," laughed the girl. "I am E. B. Sterns. You wish to interest me in a certain make of tire. I have a full stock of shees on hand just now, so you will have to do some talking to make me buy."

Thompson thought of his afternoon's plight; he noticed the twinkle in Beth's eyes; he made up his mind to win or die! So he talked. Fabric, endurability, strength, flexibility, reliability, mileage. Never before had any tire been so lauded to the skies. He talked till his throat was sore, and continued till his voice was husky and he panted for breath; and he did not cease until she lifted her hand in protest. Instead of saying, "I'll take a hundred on trial," she asked: "Mr. Thompson, what is your salary?"

Thompson was too surprised to say anything but the truth—"Thirty per."

"I'll give you forty, if you care to work for my garage."

"You mean that? Why, you don't know me from Adam."

"I know that you are a good salesman, and also a gentleman. There's nobody in town that can help me in the garage, and since my brothers went to war I can't handle the place alone. I need help, and I have liked your manner towards me ever since we met. Will you accept?"

It was some 12 months later when a large touring car came to a halt along the roadside, and an athletic young man turned to the woman beside him. "Now what's the matter? Going to play tricks on us, just as we are starting off on our honeymoon, is it? I call this tough."

"So do I for your information. What do you think is wrong?"

"I don't know. I paid special attention to every blame part of the car this morning. Honest I did, Beth," he exclaimed, as the girl laughed merrily.

"Except to the oil which you poured everywhere in your excitement. I suppose a man is liable to lose his head on his wedding day, Sweetheart." Beth leaned over and kissed the wrinkled brow. "Cheer up, it's only that your timer is dirty."

DRESS WARM AND KEEP FEET DRY

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts and Get Rid of Uric Acid.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts, put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. It is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

"I ADVISE EVERY SICK WOMAN

To Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

"I advise every suffering woman to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for it has done me so much good. I had female weakness, inflammation, pains in my sides and painful periods. I suffered for six years and tried many remedies without benefit. The doctor said I must have an operation. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers, and since taking it I am cured and have a nice baby four months old. I feel like a new woman, and have recommended your medicine to my friends. I would be glad to have everybody know what your medicine did for me, and if any write to me I will answer all letters."—Mrs. MARY CALIGURE, 117 South Main St., Herkimer, N.Y.

Every woman at some period of her life may suffer from just such distances as Mrs. Caligure, and if there is any interested friend to advise, let this be a reminder that this famous root and herb remedy has been overcoming these ailments of women for more than 40 years.

If any complications exist, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of many years' experience is at your service.

Stomach So Bad

THOUGHT HE WOULD DIE.

CAN EAT ANYTHING NOW.

But for indigestion and dyspepsia, many a life might be a pleasant one.

The misery which stomach troubles cause the sufferer knows only too well and any one who has suffered knows what joy it would give to be able to eat three good meals a day and not be punished for it after.

Nearly everything that enters a weak stomach acts as an irritant, and even the little that is eaten causes such torture and is digested so imperfectly that it does little good.

Before you can eat heartily, and not pick and choose your food, you must put your stomach right so that it will manufacture its own digestive ferments.

For forty years now Burdock Blood Bitters has been making weak stomachs strong, and permanently curing severe cases of indigestion and dyspepsia that other remedies were powerless to reach.

Mrs. H. L. Fairweather, Cumberland Bay, N. B., writes:—"I was troubled with my stomach for two years, and sometimes was so bad I thought I would die. I tried everything I ever heard tell of, and had medicine from three doctors, but continued to grow worse. One day I read of some wonderful cures made with Burdock Blood Bitters. After taking two bottles I could eat any kind of food without any bad effects and by the time I had taken four I was in perfet health."

Burdock Blood Bitters is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Biliousness.

Coffee does not, as a rule, tend to cause indigestion or affect the nerves. Its ill effects are due to the fact of its causing biliousness. Persons of what is known as a "livery" type had better avoid it altogether if they have found it to have this result. Yet they might as well ascertain first as to whether it was the coffee or the milk which they took with it which accounted for their discomfort.

It is a mystery as to why persons who cannot on their own assertion take hot milk without upsetting their livers should drink it when its taste is disguised by that of coffee. The milk is there just the same, and the after effects are bound to be as bad as if taken by itself.

Let such persons take their coffee thin, making it with water and adding only as much milk as they would put into their tea, and it probably will turn out that they can take it without any bad after effects.

Why Men's Hats Have a Bow.

A bow is always to be found on the left side of a man's hat. This is a survival of the old days when hats were costly articles. In order to provide against the hat being blown away in stormy weather a cord or ribbon was fastened around the crown, with ends hanging so that they could be fastened to part of the attire or could be grasped by the hand. The ends fell on the left side, of course, as the left hand is more often disengaged than the right. When not required it was usual for the ends to be tied in a bow. The bow became smaller and smaller, but it still remains and is likely to do so as long as men wear hats.

W. U. Supervisor States the Facts

Brooks Says Tanlac Has Overcome His Troubles—Feels Like a New Man.

"My wife obtained such satisfactory results from Tanlac that I tried it myself and I have gained ten pounds and feel like a new man," said J. W. Brooks, traffic superintendent for the Western Union Telegraph Co., at Dallas, Tex., and living at 1732 Hickory Street, that city.

When I began taking Tanlac," he continued, "I was suffering from a stubborn case of stomach trouble, the result of an attack of acute indigestion I had several years ago. I had an awful pain across my back, and was so nervous and worried about my kidneys that I could hardly sleep at all. I suffered from rheumatism in my legs, my feet would swell and I was tired and languid all the time. I was badly run down, lost weight, strength and energy and none of the medicine I took did me any good.

"After using Tanlac for a short time I began to pick up and kept improving till now my rheumatism is all gone, the pains have disappeared from my back and my kidneys don't worry me like they did. I have a fine appetite and can eat anything I want without suffering at all from indigestion, my sleep is sound and restful and I get up in the morning feeling fine."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co. Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd., in Bridgenorth Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

KING'S TITLES.

Some of Europe's Sovereigns Make Remarkable Claims.

Quite amusing is King Alfonso's claim to territories which have long since passed from under the Spanish domination. For instance, he is, along toward the last of his fictitious titles, "King of the East Indies," "King of the West Indies," "King of Gibraltar," "King of India," and, with a bombast and sweeping magnificence, "King of Oceania." Such pretensions lend an almost opera-bouffe flavor to the resonant terms such as "King of Castile," "King of Arragon," "King of Navarre," and "King of Galicia."

To the Spanish icon this pomp and show appeals with unction. Nor is it peculiar to the Romance nations, this worship of grandeur. The Emperor of Austria boasts sixty-one extra titles, and the Sultan of Turkey eighty-two.

The Sultan has by far the most laughable list of names. He starts out by being High Prince and Lord of Lords. Then he specifies in great detail practically all of the states and cities and even districts of the Orient, and explaining after each of the various names that he is ruler of "all the forts, citadels, purlieus, and neighborhood thereof." Nothing is presumed to belong to anyone else. A land may have never belonged to Turkey, except in some transient raid or invasion, but that matters not to the Sultan; he adds it to his string, calm and indifferent to the progress of other nations. He loves to proclaim his religious prominence. "Head of the Faithful," "Supreme Lord of All the Followers of the Prophet," "Direct and Only Lieutenant on Earth of Mohammed" are some of his most extravagant phrases. His more nearly valid title of "King of Jerusalem" is also claimed by his more civilized brother rulers. The Emperor of Austria, the Pope, and the Kings of Spain and Portugal all announce in their titles that they have under their thumbs the Holy Land.

The Kaiser, with his love of publicity, has seventy-two. Most of the states of Germany are included in the list of the Prussian King, and have been ever since the Union of the States.

King George has a very modest outlay in comparison. It merely reads: "George V., by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions Beyond the Seas, King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India." Some of the lesser nobles in Britain boast of long lists, the Duke of Argyll leading with twenty-seven titles.

Wives and Mothers Need Not Have Sore Backaches

Constantly on their feet, attending to the wants of a large and exacting family, women often break down with nervous exhaustion.

In the stores, factories, and on a farm are weak, ailing women, dragged down with torturing backache and bearing down pains.

Such suffering isn't natural but it's dangerous, because due to diseased kidneys.

The dizziness, insomnia, and other symptoms of Kidney complaint can't cure themselves, they require the assistance of Dr. Hamilton's Pills which go direct to the seat of the trouble.

To give vitality and power to the kidneys, to lend aid to the bladder and liver, to free the blood of poisons, probably there is no remedy so successful as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. For all womanly irregularities their merit is well known.

Because of their mild soothing and healing effect, Dr. Hamilton's Pills are safe, and are recommended for girls and women of all ages. 25c. per box at all dealers. Refuse any substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

Getting Too Fat?
Try This—Reduce

People who don't grow too fat are the fortunate exception. But if you find the fat accumulating on already commodious, you will be wise to follow this suggestion, which is endorsed by thousands of people who know. Ask your druggist (or if you prefer write to the Marmola Co., 864 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.) for a large case of Marmola Prescription Tablets. 75c. is the price in the world over. By doing this you will be safe from harmful drugs and be able to reduce two, three or four pounds a week without dieting or exercise.

The Economic Blockade Will Be Partly Removed

Enemy Merchant Fleet to be Used in Repatriating American and Australian Soldiers—The Conditions.

FOOD SUPPLIES

By Fred S. Ferguson.
(United Press.)

PARIS, March 10. — The Supreme Economic Commission is expected to resume the conference with the Germans at Brussels immediately. The new programme mapped out by the Supreme War Council will, it is believed, be readily accepted by the enemy. This provides:

First—Partial removal of the economic blockade, permitting Germany to export such commodities as coal and potash.

Second—Establishment of neutral credits by Germany.

Third—Use of Germany's gold resource if money raised by other means falls short of the amount required.

This programme, accurately forecast by the United Press, constitutes no backdown by the Allies. It fits in completely with additional terms included in the armistice during January. Increasingly serious conditions in Germany, threatening the present government, merely made immediate Allied decisions on details imperative.

In return for the enactment of this programme, which will enable the Germans to purchase enough food to last until the next harvest is available in August, the enemy will be required to turn over practically its entire merchant fleet. These ships, which will be used largely in repatriating American and Australian soldiers, will bring back food supplies on their return trips.

Veterans Let Contracts For Their New Club

The contracts for the general alterations to the old Murray Street Baptist church which the Great War Veterans have acquired for club rooms has been let to Mr. Harold Graham, a returned soldier and Mr. R. G. Sturgeon's tender for the plumbing and heating has been accepted.

Funeral Was Largely Attended

Many Returned Soldiers Followed Remains of Bandsman Grange to Last Resting Place.

The funeral of Bandsman Preston Grange, formerly of the Band of the 93rd Battalion C.E.F. and son of Fire Chief Grange took place yesterday afternoon from the family residence, Charlotte St., to Little Lake Cemetery under the auspices of the Great War Veterans' Association, and was very largely attended in spite of the most disagreeable weather conditions! Bandsman Grange passed away in England, following an attack of pneumonia, and his body was brought to Canada on the Melita.

The attendance at the funeral indicated the esteem in which the deceased was held. The turnout of War Veterans was probably the largest in the history of the Association, while the combined bands of the G.W.V.A. and the Salvation Army had fifty-two men in attendance, a number of them being former comrades of Bandsman Grange. The firing party was headed the cortege was in charge of Sergt. James Hawthorne, while the pall-bearers were members of the G.W.V.A. A number of the City Council and members of the Fire Brigade were among those who followed the remains to their last last resting place. At the cemetery the firing party fired the customary three volleys over the grave and the "Last Post" was sounded. A very large number of citizens lined the streets to watch the passing of the impressive cortege. The funeral services were conducted by Adjutant Buntin of the Salvation Army.

Granted Demands of the Workmen

(United Press.)

BASLE, March 10. — Chancellor Scheidemann, during a debate in the German National Assembly, regarding socialization of industries, declared the government partially granted the demands of the workmen, not because of the menace of the general strike, but because the workmen were right.

"I energetically deny that the government acted under popular pressure," said Scheidemann.

STRIKE SITUATION IS IMPROVING

Canadian Press:

BERLIN, March 10. — Advices from Munich indicate that the situation there is quieter and that the Majority Socialists in Bavaria are in the ascendancy. The Soviet Congress has voted to release hostages seized at the time that Kurt Eisner, the Bavarian Premier, was assassinated. The strike situation in Central Germany is reported to be improving.

Clashed With the Police

Canadians, Americans, Australians and London Police Stage a Donnybrook.

(United Press.)

LONDON, March 10.—American and British military officials were co-operating with civil authorities to-day in investigating the riot which occurred near the Y.M.C.A. Eagle Hut yesterday, in which several hundred American soldiers and sailors, aided by Canadians and Australians, clashed with London policemen.

There was a disposition to feel that both the police and the soldiers were at fault, the former in exceeding their authority and the latter in taking matters into their own hands. The trouble started when policemen interrupted a craps game and arrested several spectators. The players themselves were said to have escaped. A great crowd of soldiers and sailors marched to the Bow street jail and demanded the prisoners be released. Policemen charged into the demonstrators, clubs were wielded and several on both sides were injured. American military police were called out after two hours' intermittent fighting and order was restored.

In the Hospital.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, March 10.— Cyril C. R. Zimmerman and Private L. N. Wilson, American military policemen, who were injured during the fighting to-day between London police and soldiers and sailors, are resting quietly at a hospital to-night. It is not known how seriously they are hurt. The trouble began when Zimmerman and Wilson demanded that the civil police turnover to them two American sailors who had been arrested in the vicinity of Eagle Hut on a charge of playing craps. It is expected that a joint army and navy board will conduct an investigation of the incident.

A Free For All.

(United Press.)

LONDON, March 10.—The rioting on the Strand Saturday resulted primarily from the London civil police attacking American policemen, according to information obtained to-day.

When civil officers arrested two Americans near the Y.M.C.A. Eagle Hut on a charge of gambling and started for Bow Street jail, several military police followed and asked that the prisoners be handed over to them for military trial, it was said. An argument resulted, which turned into a fight. The military policemen were clubbed and placed under arrest.

The news spread to the Eagle Hut. Several hundred American soldiers and sailors, together with a few Canadian and Australian soldiers, started for the jail. Police recruits charged into their midst swinging clubs. A free for all fight ensued, in which four American soldiers and sailors were severely injured and five policemen and several scores of Americans. Canadians and Australians were slightly hurt.

Americans Incensed.

Mounted police then were called out but the fighting continued for two hours. Order was finally restored through the intervention of additional military policemen who persuaded the soldiers and sailors to disperse. About fifteen Americans who had been arrested were later turned over to the American military authorities.

The Americans are greatly incensed, charging that London policemen were over hasty in using their clubs against the military policemen, who really were trying to quiet the disturbance. The civil authorities make the counter charge that the soldiers were attempting to storm the jail.

All military policemen, soldiers and sailors were ordered to report immediately to their posts. Army, navy and police officials were co-operating in an investigation.

Major Campbell, of the American military police, placed most of the blame for the riot on the British policemen, who attacked the military police. He said, however, it was "probably due to a misunderstanding, the British police having neglected to ascertain the status of the American police."

The British police declare that the Americans were arrested under the law of prohibiting gambling in the streets.

Col. Mitchell, Chief of Staff at American headquarters, said: "I greatly deplore the fact that there should be the slightest faction. Every effort will be made to maintain order among the Americans."

At Canadian headquarters it was denied that the Canadian soldiers had participated in the riots.

ONE MAN WAS SHOT

Conditions at Kimnel Camp Have Returned to Normal—Little Evidences of Trouble.

THE ENQUIRY

(By Thomas Champion, C. A. P. Correspondent.)

LONDON, March 10.— My visit to Kimnel Camp Saturday showed that the holiday afternoon was being spent in the usual fashion there with football and baseball games proceeding. For seventy hours previously the camp had been normal, and a newcomer would have difficulty in discovering that it had recently been otherwise.

There is no desire in any part of England to magnify last week's regrettable incidents at Kimnel beyond their true perspective. Utmost cordiality is still shown to Canadian troops everywhere.

People generally are awaiting a report of the full inquiry with great interest and concern. It may be added that there have been demonstrations among English troops during the last few months that received just as much publicity in proportion as that given to the present matter.

One Man Shot.

LONDON, March 10.—Gen. Colquhoun, who was in command of the camp, in the course of a statement on the rioting of Canadian soldiers at Kimnel, said that no attack was made on the officers, who were treated with courtesy.

"I myself went in and out among the men freely," he added, "and some of them actually put down loot in order to salute me—then they picked up the loot again.

"The reports of the damage to the camp are greatly exaggerated. Some 50 or 60 men got out of hand and attacked some canteens. The men in one camp, anticipating danger, armed themselves, and, contrary to express orders, fired. That was on Wednesday, when the fatalities occurred.

"The girls' camp was not attacked. As a matter of fact the girls were treated with the utmost chivalry. No men entered the girls' rooms while they were occupied.

"One man raised the red flag in an attempt to introduce Bolshevism. He was shot."

"The Unbeliever" At the Empire

This Picture Has Created a Great Sensation Wherever Shown.

A picture which is creating a tremendous sensation and great enthusiasm throughout the entire country is the unique war film "The Unbeliever," presented by George Kleine.

The story is highly interesting and holds the audience in intense excitement until the last foot of film is screened. Philip Landicutt, a wealthy young American, is obsessed with class price, race prejudice, and atheism. His mother strives in vain to overcome his three settled ideas. A chance meeting with "Lefty," a former chauffeur, now a United States Marine, leads Phil to enlist in the corps and go abroad to fight the Germans. Life in the trenches changes his viewpoint somewhat. He sees men die beside him and with his comrades faces danger in many forms. On the opposing sector, the Prussians shoot to death Madame Harbrook and her six-year-old boy, Belgians accused of helping the enemy. Madame Harbrook's daughter, Virginie, is spared by the commandant, Von Schniedig, who is attracted by her beauty. The Marines "go over the top." Phil is wounded and saved by Lefty, who sacrifices himself for his pal's sake. Philip meets Virginie in a Belgium village about to be taken by the Germans. A pretty love story follows which makes the picture interesting to the end.

It is being shown at the Empire Theatre to-day and to-morrow and no one should miss it.

Five Hundred Persons Were Killed and Over One Thousand Wounded in Berlin Fighting

The General Strike Was Officially Called Off Yesterday—Fighting Still Going On in Several Parts of the City—Revolution Appears to Have Got Beyond Control of its Leaders.

(By FRANK J. TAYLOR, United Press.)

Berlin, March 10.—The revolution appeared last night to have bot be yond control of its leaders.

Although the general strike was officially called off yesterday afternoon, following a compromise agreement with the Government, fighting was still going on in several parts of the city.

A strong majority, accusing strike leaders of treacherously playing into the hands of the Government, was demanding the complete overthrow of the Cabinet and turning the country over to the control of Soviets. This sentiment was fostered by fear and hunger as well as money and propaganda alleged to be furnished by Russia.

FIVE HUNDRED PERSONS REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN KILLED

Labor leaders are now trying to separate the workmen's political demands from Spartacan terrorism and violence with which radical element of workmen is closely connected. It was sympathy with workers, rather than a formal alliance which led sailors and soldiers of Republican Guard to break with the Government. These men never had been dependable supporters of the Cabinet, but were assigned to patrol the region around Alexander Platz last Sunday. Meanwhile the Government brought in additional volunteer troops from the environs. This provoked jealousy and ill feeling among the guards, who sought trouble. Rival detachments met while patrolling, abusive words led to shooting. This was a signal for six thousand Guards to revolt and begin a warfare which wrecked an important business district and caused the heavies casualties which Berlin has experienced so far. It is unofficially estimated that 500 persons have been killed and over one thousand wounded including many women and children.

War Minister Noske's iron hand was really the detaining factor in causing the strike leaders to accept a compromise with the Government, as they feared terrorism by Radical elements, which had not been invited into the strike, would lead the Cabinet to declare a military dictatorship. The Spartacans among workmen, however, refused to recognize the authority of more Conservative leaders, whose conference with the Cabinet at Weimer led to a compromise. The Government gave in to extent of granting Soviets constitutional recognition as directors, but the radicals want the Soviets to be supreme, and apparently are determined to fight until this is accomplished or they are completely crushed.

RADICALS ARE PREACHING A NEW REVOLUTION

With Radicals preaching a new revolution people are pessimistically anticipating a new calamity. There is common talk that food will give out completely in May and that everyone will starve unless peace comes and the blockade is lifted. Discouragement and bitterness are increasing. The general lack of confidence is provoking a startling irresponsibility and disregard for human life. The public goes about its business dejectedly ignoring danger on all sides.

While fighting was at its height with airplanes of both sides battling overhead, minenwerfers and cannon battering down buildings, and machine guns and rifle bullets sweeping the streets, men and women a block from the scene of the battle appeared to be unaware of anything out of the ordinary. The fighting last night was limited to a species of Guerilla warfare, with radicals resisting in isolated streets and buildings. But rebellion seems to be in the very atmosphere and it is feared that continued fighting might again set the whole city seething with revolution. Berlin seems ripe for Bolshevism, unless the Government is strengthened by the Allies.

Balfour May Retire

Will Remain in Office Until Close of the Peace Conference.

A SUCCESSOR

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, March 10.—Arthur J. Balfour, Secretary for Foreign Affairs in the Lloyd George Ministry, will retire at the close of the Peace Conference, the Standard says to-day. Secretary Balfour, adds the newspaper, will be succeeded by Earl Curson, President of the Council and Government leader in the House of Lords.

Sinn Feiners Released

Countess Markievicz May Claim Seat in House of Commons.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, March 10.—Sinn Feiners who have been interned in England, have been released in batches during the last few days. A score returned to Dublin on Sunday. Among those recently released from Holoway prison, was Countess Georgina Markievics, who, according to the "Daily Sketch," is likely to attend meetings of the House of Commons on Monday and claim a seat for the St. Patrick's division of Dublin, to which she was elected at the recent general elections. It is pointed out that the question of her eligibility to the seat will arise, as her husband was a Polish count who was never naturalized. She, therefore, is said to be legally a Pole.

General Strike Is Called Off

Berlin Council, After Stormy Session, Makes Decision.

(Canadian Press.)

AMSTERDAM, March 10.—The Berlin Workmen's Council had decided to issue an order officially calling off the general strike in the German capital, says a Berlin message, presumably filed on Sunday night, which says the decision was taken "late to-day." The decision, says the message, followed a stormy session of the Council.

Spartacans Murder Sixty Police Officers

Capture Police Station in Suburb of Berlin—Was a Centre of Government Forces.

(Canadian Press.)

AMSTERDAM, March 10.—Spartacan forces Sunday occupied the Berlin suburb of Lichtenberg, and murdered sixty officers and soldiers in the police station there, according to the Vossische Am Mittag. The Lichtenberg police station held withstood the Spartacan attacks since Tuesday.

HIGH PRICE FOR WHEAT

Price May Go Up to $3.50 a Bushel —Europe's Needs Large.

PARIS, March 10.—Herbert Hoover, United States Food Administrator, asked here whether the United States Government would lose the billion dollars appropriated to support the guarantee for next year's wheat crop, said:

"The question of Government loss, if any, will involve around several different factors. First, whether we or the world will have any surplus from the 1918 crop to carry over into next year: second, what the supply and demand will be for the 1919 crop, and, third, whether the Government should deliberately decide to take a loss in order to lower the price of bread.

"As to the supply and demand for the 1918 crop, changes in the world demand during the last month, shown by widespread investigation of the food needs of Europe, indicate that there will be no surplus to carry over into the 1919 crop.

Asia and Europe.

"The Indian famine has proved so serious that a large part of the Australian wheat must go there at once. In addition a considerable proportion of the Australian supply, which has been piling up for years, has spoiled.

"The needs of Europe are larger than our previous estimates. Altogether the balance of the supply and demand for our present wheat now looks as though we might see wheat at $3.50 a bushel, as it was in the spring of 1918, if there is a free market in wheat and uncontrolled prices. So much for the 1918 crop. There can be no free market of 90 per cent of the world's exports. Wheat is controlled by the Wheat Executive in London.

"To all present appearances it should be possible to market the whole of next year's crop without loss to the Government."

MRS. COURTICE TO GIVE ADDRESS

Will Speak on School Work Under Auspices of Queen Mary's School Parent Circle.

The Parent Circle of Queen Mary School are bringing Mrs. Courtice of Toronto, to address a public meeting in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute. It is to be hoped that a large number of parents and teachers will attend as Mrs. Courtice will speak on the results that may be accomplished by parents and teachers co-operating in the interest of the children and their school life. Mrs. Courtice is very competent to explain this work, being president of the Council of Home and School Clubs of the city of Toronto as well as being a highly esteemed member of the Board of Education of Toronto, for the last four years. The circle of Queen Mary School is making this effort in the hope that these societies may be formed in other schools."

Arsenal Will Be Reorganized

LINDSAY, March 10.—A notice has been posted in the Lindsay arsenal to the effect that hostilities having ceased, the demand for ammunition for war purposes is over. Consequently the output would have to be reduced to post-war conditions, and as the war production amounted to something like $30,000,000 there would of necessity have to be a reduction of employees. In other words there will be reorganization and readjustment at the Arsenal to meet post-war conditions, which re-organization will take place on March 31st. In the meantime employees have been advised to keep an eye open for other employment if they happen to be thrown out of employment.

MRS. FAIRBANKS GETS DIVORCE

NEW YORK, — Supreme Court Justice J. Addison Young, of New Rochelle, yesterday filed at White Plains a final decree of divorce in favor of Mrs. Beth H. Fairbanks from her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, noted screen actor. Mrs. Fairbanks, who is given the exclusive custody of their son, Douglas Fairbanks, jr., is allowed to resume her maiden name and reports say that she will get married soon.

SINN FEINERS ARE HOPEFUL

Expect Wilson to Bring Up the Irish Question at the Peace Conference.

THE NATIONALISTS

(United Press.)

DUBLIN, March 10.—"Will Wilson do anything about Ireland?" is the question uppermost in the minds of Irish politicians, particularly the Sinn Feiners, to-day.

Thus far the Republicans have been bitterly disappointed at President Wilson's silence to their appeals. On the other hand, the few surviving Irish Nationalist politicians of any importance see in the President's action some hope of the revival of their party. John Dillon, leader of the Nationalists said: "The day is not far distant when the country will awaken to the great mistake made by the majority of the Nationalists at the recent elections in voting for the Republicans and it will fall back on the old parliamentary or constitutional policy pursued so long before the late John Redmond."

The Sinn Feiners, however, have not yet lost hope of Wilson intervening, according to Jerry Boland, M.P., acting head of the Sinn Fein during the imprisonment of the leaders.

"We realize the very difficult position President Wilson is in," Borland declared, "but we cannot believe he will turn down Ireland's claim at the Peace Conference. We are satisfied that American opinion is behind us."

Charles Pink Collided With a Street Car

Victim Was Knocked Under a Passing Automobile—Now in Hospital.

Charles Pink, 290 Wolfe-street, was severly injured about his head on Saturday evening at 6 o'clock when a passing street car hurled him under an automobile.

Pink, who was on the south side of Charlotte street, attempted to cross towards Webber's drug store when a delivery waggon driven by Wm. Rutherford, who sounded the horn of the automobile and startled him, and in stepping back he stepped in front of the east-bound street car, No. 18, which was driven by Motoman Redmond. The street car, which fortunately had slowed down, knocked him under the automobile, inflicting a severe scalp wound on the back of Pink's head, rendering him unconscious. He was carried by John Barnes, of Byersville into Webber's Drug Store, where first aid was administered by Dr. Greer, and later taken to the Nicholls Hospital in Comstock's ambulance. He is still in the hospital, where he is making fair progress towards recovery.

A REFERENDUM.

Reading between the lines, the speech made by the Hon. T. W. McGarry, Provincial Treasurer, in Toronto, the other night, seems to show an inclination on the part of the government to stand from in under the prohibition measure and to indicate that a general election may not be very far away. Mr. McGarry was careful to emphasize the fact that the Ontario Temperance Act had been passed purely and simply as a war measure. He was not a prohibitionist himself, he admitted, but had supported the Act as being necessary during the period of the war. As to the future of prohibition the government, judging from Mr. McGarry's remarks, intends to be neutral. If the people want prohibition they can vote for it, when the referendum is submitted to them; if not, they can vote against it. The Provincial Treasurer seemed to be anxious to absolve the Government from being committed to a prohibition platform, his remarks in that regard evidently being an echo of the discussion on the subject which took place at the recent government caucus.

THE KINMEL PARK RIOTS

Although the casualties were fortunately not as great as the first reports stated, the news of the riots among Canadian troops at Kinmel Park, Wales, has caused much concern throughout the country. It is agreed that the fundamental cause of the trouble was the desire on the part of the soldiers to get home, together with the impression that prevailed throughout the camp that men who have seen comparatively short service were being sent to Canada ahead of others, who had been away from home for two, three and four years. It is unfortunate that the bigger liners, notably the Olympic, Aquitania and Mauretania could not have been kept in the Canadian transport service. These monster ships, each capable of carrying thousands of soldiers in comfort have been diverted from the task of bringing home the Canadians and have been used to transport American troops from France. There has been much resentment among the Canadian soldiers on this account, the Maple Leaf troops, feeling that their much longer service in France should have entitled them to priority in being brought home. The system used in arranging for the departure of Canadian troops from the demobilization camp in Wales has been another cause of the discontent, according to Peterboro soldiers who have recently arrived from overseas. It seems that when a draft is selected for Canada, its members are placed in a sailing company destined for a particular ship. If anything happens to prevent the steamer to which they have been assigned—and delays have been frequent on account of the strikes in the old country and for other reasons as well—from sailing, the draft is left over sometimes for weeks. In the meantime men who have only recently arrived in camp may have sailed for home because the steamer to which they were assigned has been able to get away on time. It is a matter of luck and as it generally works out against the men who have been waiting longest for a chance there has been constantly growing discontent which had fattened on the indignation felt by long service men at the sending home of many draftees ahead of volunteer soldiers with many months in France to their credit.

It is distressing to think that the conditions should have become so bad that Canadian soldiers who have come safely through the dangers of active warfare should kill each other in a riot. It is said that the ring-leaders among the disturbers were soldiers of foreign extraction among the Canadian troops and it is certain that as is always the case with such occurrences many of the men joined in the riot out of the sheer love of excitement. However this may be the disturbances have not caused any surprise among the Peterboro soldiers who recently left the camp. One officer informed the Examiner that he was heartily glad to get away because there had been trouble in the air and other returned men have made similar remarks in regard to the conditions.

AN ANGLO-SAXON ALLIANCE FOR PEACE.

At the preliminary Peace Conference the constitution of the League of Nations, or the League of Peace, as it has been called, was drawn up and approved by the representatives of the nations concerned. This is a great step in the right direction, a step which will do much to preserve the peace of the world for generations to come.

But the people of the world must not expect too much from it. The league is not an absolute cure for war. So long as the contracting nations agree among themselves, it will be effective, but there can be no guarantee that nations, with ideals and instincts entirely different, will be bound in perpetually by the articles of its constitution. The league will be effective only so long as every nation within it considers itself bound by its terms. Other treaties have been made, but, as the world has seen, when the time came when one of the high contracting parties found that treaty a stumbling block, it became a scrap of paper. So, without appearing to cast a wet blanket on the aspirations of those who are managing the affairs of the world, it must be pointed out that we should not expect too much from the League of Nations.

The greatest possible hope for the preservation of world peace, and for the prevention of such a catastrophe as that through which we have just passed, lies, not in the League of Nations, but in an alliance of the entire English-speaking race throughout the world. The Anglo-Saxon race to-day is the most powerful of all the races. It embraces the entire British America and the United States of America. These two great peoples, bound together by ties not only of language but also of blood, are alike in many respects. They have the same ideals, the same love of freedom, the same literature, the same high standards of honour, and the same common interests. Bound together, not essentially by treaty, but by the ties of a close relationship, they hold in their hands the future peace of the world and the betterment of the world's civilization. This relationship, then, is one which should be fostered and encouraged, until the two peoples become, in policy and interests, as one, having as their aim the preservation of peace on earth.

At the present time the relations of the United States and Britain are better than at any time since the days of the American revolution. The sons of these two countries have fought shoulder to shoulder on a common battlefield for the cause of right and justice, and these ideals have the first place in the constitution of both nations. The ties of a common speech renders easier the cementing of the bonds of friendship and closer relations, and the world's greatest hope for the future is that these bonds should be drawn still closer.

We in Canada have a splendid opportunity to bring about this happy condition. We serve as the immediate connecting link between Britain and the United States, and can do more than any other part of the empire to form the great alliance of the Anglo-Saxon race for peace. It is Canada's privilege and opportunity to serve the world by establishing firmly, and increasing whenever possible, the present good relations which exist. Even though the two nations have fought side by side, there is much that can be done to bring them closer to each other, and the people of Canada must be ever ready and eager to do their share to draw firmly together the two nations which can do more to ensure the peace of the world than any other human agency.—Kingston Whig.

HE KNEW HIS SON,

Father of ex-Kaiser Saw Danger In His Conceit.

The Berlin Tageblatt of December 11 published, on the authority of Herr Ernst Goetz of Leipsic, a letter sent to Bismarck in 1886 by the then Crown Prince Frederick, father of the recent Kaiser. The letter was dated at Portofino, September 28. In less than two years both he and his father were dead and his son, as Emperor William II, a year and a half later had dismissed Bismarck as his official adviser.

"My son, Prince William, without my knowing it, has expressed to his Majesty (the Emperor William I), a desire during the coming winter to make closer acquaintance with the activity of our ministries. Consequently, as I hear, the plan has already been contemplated at Gastein of employing him in the Foreign Office.

"As I have not yet received official information about it from any quarter, I consider it necessary in the first place to address myself confidently to you, in order to learn what has already been settled, and also in order to say that, although I agree in principle with the initiation of my eldest son into questions of higher administration, I am decidedly opposed to his beginning in the Foreign Office. For, in view of the importance of the duties which will fall to the prince, I consider it necessary above all things that he shall obtain knowledge of the internal conditions in his own country, and feel himself fully informed about them, before he concerns himself, even in a minor degree, with politics, especially as he is inclined to exaggeration, and arrives at very rapid conclusions.

"His real knowledge is still defective and he lacks the necessary foundations; for this reason it is extremely necessary that his knowledge should be raised to a higher plane and made more complete. This purpose would be met by giving him a civilian instructor, while at the same time, or later on, he might be employed in one of the administration ministries.

"In view of the immaturity of my eldest son, combined with his tendency to conceit, I must describe it as positively dangerous to bring him at once in contact with foreign questions.

"While I beg you to regard this letter as for yourself alone and as strictly confidential, I count upon your support in this matter, which is a very serious concern to me."

The Turkish Question.

There are at least two courses open for the solution of the Turkish question. The first would not entail the actual disintegration of the Ottoman Empire, though it would carry with it the practical termination of Turkish misrule. The whole of Turkey in Asia, together with the Straits, would be placed under foreign control, which I feel very strongly should be American control, the Ottoman flag and sovereignty being maintained as mere forms. The various nationalities or areas would be given full measures of autonomy and self government under the influence and protection of the Great Power or Allied country the most closely interested—influence and protection which might be subject to the supervision of the central American authority. This authority would have the direct control of the Straits and of Armenia, in which areas it would act in place of the power the most closely interested, and not merely as a supervisory force, and it would have the right and the obligation to enforce good government in districts which, owing to the nature of their population, will probably remain Turkish. The second alternative would carry with it the disappearance of Turkey as a Great Power. Though certain parts of Asiatic Turkey might remain Turkish, there would come into being a number of new states or autonomous regions all entirely independent of Turkey and each probably under some form of direct or indirect foreign supervision. This supervision might be international as a whole or it might separate for the different areas. If the former case it should be provided over by an American, and in the latter, the United States should be the controlling factor in the Straits and in Armenia. The situation in other localities would have to be supervised by the various countries most closely interested.—Asia Magazine.

Uses for Dead Leaves.

Experiments have been recently made in France with a view to utilizing dead leaves in the manufacture of paper. The leaves are crushed, then the powdered portion is carefully separated and the fibrous ribs and veins turned into pulp. These are made ready for use by simply treating with lye, washing, and bleaching. For cattle food purposes the leaf-powder may be mixed with molasses and made into cakes. For use as fuel, the powder may be compressed into briquets, or it may be converted into comparatively pure porous carbon by destructive distillation.—Farmers' Herald.

A Result of the War.

Women's work in war has taught the strength of united effort, and the worth of community service, the beauty and the duty of labor for the public weal. The valuable lessons in food conservation, in the avoidance of waste, in general economy, ought to bear fruit in a less prodigal use of material, money and time. The business lessons of war to women are incalculable, if used in the new values of activity which open before them in the present.

Danish Pigs.

At one time the slaughter of Danish pigs numbered 2,600,000 yearly, most of which supplied bacon for England. The number has steadily declined for the want of feeding stuffs, and one week recently only 1,220 pigs were slaughtered, not enough for home consumption, which requires at least 5,677 pigs. A further decline is expected and several slaughter houses may have to close.

American Travellers Want Private Ownership

The Traffic Club of New York, with a membership of eleven hundred, of which the majority consists of users of the transportation systems of the country, has adopted the following resolution:

That Government ownership, management or operation of railroads is not conducive to economic efficiency, and that private initiative, enterprise and responsibility in the creation, extension, improvement and operation of the American railroads should as a matter of national policy be fostered and conserved.

That the extension of the present system of Federal control for a period of five years, or any extension beyond the limitation now prescribed by law of one year and nine months after the proclamation of peace, is earnestly opposed as prejudicial to the public interest.

That the recognized impracticability of continuing the Government operation of the railroads for twenty-one months after peace under the present law is a conclusive reason why the properties should be relinquished, and, that in view of the termination of hostilities, it should be the policy of the Railroad Administration to restore the integrity of individual properties and prepare for their return to the respective owners.

That the principle of reasonable, responsible and adequate Governmental regulation of transportation facilities is recognized and accepted, but that such regulation should provide for the encouragement, protection and development of the railroads.

That the Congress should promptly enact such revised legislation as will provide a uniform system of regulation in essential matters, safeguard the public interest, ensure adequate revenue to provide for equitable treatment of all questions affecting wages and working conditions of employes and attract sufficient capital to maintain and develop transportation facilities which shall meet the necessities of the commercial manufacturing and agricultural interest of the country.

That energetic efforts should be exerted to accomplish the early return of the transportation systems of the country to the control and management of their owners, and the enactment of suitable legislation for the protection of the shipping and traveling public, the carriers and their employes.

MAN'S ATTITUDE TO NATURE

An Essay on Nature by Mr. Frank Morris, Classics Master at the Peterboro Collegiate Institute.

"But we are neither children nor savages," you retort; "the race has outgrown this primitive habit, and as for us—we have put away childish things." I am sorry for you if a love of Nature is one of the childish things you have put away; it means you have lost touch with a great part of the world you were born into, are out of sympathy with your fellow-creatures, the rest of creation:

I heard a thousand blended notes,
While in a grove I sat reclined,
In that sweet mood when pleasant thoughts
Bring sad thoughts to the mind.

To her fair works did Nature link
The human soul that through me ran;
And much it grieved my heart to think
What man has made of man.

Through primrose tufts in that green bower,
The periwinkle trailed its wreathes;
And 'tis my faith that every flower
Enjoys the air it breathes.

The birds around me hopped and played,
Their thoughts I cannot measure,—
But the least motion which they made,
It seemed a thrill of pleasure.
The budding twigs spread out their fan
To catch the breezy air;
And I must think, do all I can,
That there was pleasure there.

If this belief from heaven be sent,
If such be Nature's holy plan,
Have I not reason to lament
What man has made of man?

It is, I am afraid, true that many of us cease to take an interest in the world of Nature after we grow up, and there seems no doubt that the conditions of modern life are in many ways antagonistic to such a love:—

The world is too much with us: late and soon,
Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers;
Little we see in Nature that is ours;
We have given our hearts away, a sordid boon!
This sea that bares her bosom to the moon;
The winds that will be howling at all hours,
And are upgathered now like sleeping flowers;
For this, for everything we are out of tune;
It moves us not.—Great God! I'd rather be
A pagan suckled in a creed outworn,
So might I, standing on this pleasant lea,
Have glimpses that would make me less forlorn;
Have sight of Proteus rising from the sea;
Or hear old Triton blow his wreathed horn.

However, I do not believe it inevitable or even normal for the adult to lose his childish love of living things; the sense of their freshness doubtless fades unless we have some sort of stimulus to revive our interest from time to time; but I am convinced that the love of Nature is too deep-rooted to be dead, and a little effort on our part, some patient endeavour, will re-awaken it.

Is it worth making the effort, you say? May I answer by using a Scotchman's privilege of asking another question? Isn't it our duty to learn all we can about God's creatures throughout the world into which we have been born? Nature Study, on one side, is a branch of knowledge, and should like virtue be regarded as its own reward. I hold very strongly the view that knowledge is an end in itself quite apart from any advantage, material or other, that may accrue in the pursuit of it.

Such a view of knowledge is altogether too much neglected in these days, and should be an article of faith in every civilized nation as in all educated circles. I believe when the historian or philosopher of the future comes to estimate the achievements of our day—especially of the English-speaking nations—it will be more clearly seen how harmful to growth and progress, individual and national alike, has been the overwhelming importance we attach to wealth and material prosperity. Napoleon is said to have sneered at the English as a nation of shopkeepers, but what will be said of their descendants, with our apotheosis of millionaires? To become rich is not a worthy ambition either for a man or for a race; wealth is far from being the highest aim in life and should never be more than a means to an end. What makes the history of ancient Greece a living force to-day is the grandeur of thought and nobility of purpose—the lifelong search for truth, and truth for its own sake—among its great men; even in the middle ages it has been constancy of purpose in the pursuit of knowledge that has made individual names and personalities shine forth from the darkness of night. In our own day the neglect of Nature in education has been deplored by Herbert Spencer; and Huxley in a powerful essay, under the similitude of a chess-match, has arraigned our modern education before the bar of common sense. A few years ago, Sir Wm. Ramsay, speaking to a London audience of some 4,000 persons on the nature and properties of radium, closed his experimental demonstrations with some such words as these:—"What is the use of it all, you may ask; how far it may prove useful in the healing of certain diseases is not yet certain; but it is surely something to learn the laws of Nature and, as it were, to think the thoughts of God."

For us who have deliberately chosen the path of guiding the younger generation towards good citizenship, who are trying to make them cheerful and contented as well as self-reliant and intelligent, conscientious as well as efficient, it is peculiarly the duty to set before ourselves as before them some more distant goal, some higher ideal than mere material prosperity.

You may be sure we were not brought into a world of such wonderful beauty, made forms of a creation infinite in variety, unless God meant us to learn something about the creatures that share with us the mysterious heritage of life. I believe it to be nothing short of a religious duty for us all to find out something about our natural surroundings; no one can say how tremendous is the influence upon us of the world of Nature, an influence that has been moulding us physically for untold ages by atmosphere and light, by countless conditions of soil and climate, and that presses in on the individual life constantly and on all sides from the hour of our birth to the day of our death; at no point is it absent, we find it at every step we take between the cradle and the grave.

You may think it nothing but a Poet's beautiful fancy, yet I firmly believe there is far more truth than the world has ever learned to admit in Wordsworth's Education of Nature; surely the poet's own life and heart have gone far to prove its truth to the English nation, as Archibald Lampman's have to us in Canada; Dame Nature herself is speaking:

Myself will to my darling be
Both law and impulse; and with me
The Girl, in rock and plain,
In earth and heaven, in glade and bower,
Shall feel an overseeing power
To kindle or restrain.

She shall be sportive as the fawn
That wild with glee across the lawn
Or up the mountain springs;
And hers shall be the breathing balm
And hers the silence and the calm
Of mute insensate things.

The floating clouds their state shall lend
To her; for her the willow bend;
Nor shall she fail to see
Even in the motions of the Storm
Grace that shall mould the Maiden's form
By silent sympathy.

The stars of midnight shall be dear
To her; and she shall lean her ear
In many a secret place
Where rivulets dance their wayward round,
And beauty born of murmuring sound
Shall pass into her face.

Science tells us that every living thing adapts itself to its surroundings, and what is true of things lower in the scale than ourselves is equally true of human beings, but with one remarkable difference. Among other creatures the circumstances that lead to modification and adaptation are wholly physical and external; change the habitat of any plant or animal and if it is to survive it must and does undergo change of form and habits till it meets the requirements of its altered conditions, but as soon as that point is reached all change ceases; with man it is very different, there is no point in life where the individual is forced to cease from progress and development. One of the great boons of self-consciousness is this that it enables us to advance almost without limit in any desired direction, simply by applying to ourselves (through an exercise of will) an artificial stimulus or goad. And that is what I meant some time ago by insisting that the most valuable part of each one's education was self-acquired, that we were self-taught. It does not mean, of course, that man has ceased to obey the great law of adaptation to environment—that law is of endless application; what it does mean is that the physical circumstances which among other animals are of supreme importance, are of only secondary import to man, while a new set of circumstances that play little or no part in the development of the lower animals has become to us of overwhelming force—the moral, intellectual, and spiritual atmosphere in which we live and move and have our being. These conditions of human life it is that urge us onward and upward, inspiring each of us (often from within) to continual effort, and stimulating mind and will afresh even when weariest and most dejected. This is self-education.

That we are still none the less animals is unhappily abundantly evident (to take but a single illustration) in the tendency with every one of us to cease all effort in life when once we have hollowed out for ourselves a comfortable groove in which to nestle down and go to sleep. But we have no right to stagnate, and though history shows us that the vast majority of races in the world have been unprogressive, though it were to be proved that the vast majority of individuals in every nation are unprogressive, it would still be wrong for us to stagnate. If all living things on earth are one in origin, as the Theory of Evolution teaches, how but by continual effort have we fought our way (to speak in a figure) from the slime of the river-bed through swamp and jungle and forest, where all other creatures are still blindly groping, and why have we been allowed to win to the vantage-ground we stand on, from which we, and we alone, can survey the course we have traversed, if we were not intended to use the gift of self-conscious reasoning and learn all we can of the world in which we live and of the phases through which we have passed in our upward struggle?

I am afraid my hobby-horse has been running away with me. Suppose we return to the highway.—Nature Study is not only a Science and as such a perfectly proper object of enquiry; it is also a recreation and a pastime. Let me piece out some of the pleasures and benefits that have come into my life through this pursuit of Natural History:

It has quickened the sense of observation and made every path in God's out-of-doors alive with beauty and interest.

It has enabled me to do work along the lines of original research and make several independent discoveries in the flora and fauna of the Dominion of Canada.

It has given me a wealth of material through eye and ear for reflection and meditation, inference and deduction, the perception of relations in Nature, systems of classification, whole processes of scientific thought.

Through the study of Beasts, Birds, Insects, and Plants, it has helped me to approach with interest and understanding the masterpieces of Biological Theory associated with such names as Darwin, Wallace, Huxley, Lubbock, Romanes, Grant Allen, Morgan, Weismann, De Vries and Bergson.

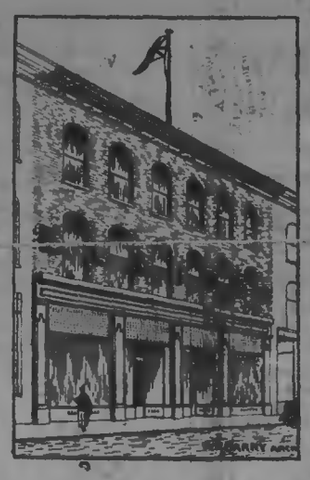
Elliot's Store Has Adopted a Profit-Sharing Plan

Where both Customers and Salesforce share alike, making a most complete and a mutually happy job of the everyday purchase.



THE customer is the most important consideration in any business. She should have every possible bit of service it is possible to obtain for her. And yet, without a competent salesforce there would be no customers. So the management have been thinking and planning for months to round up a scheme that would be obvious, with no frills and would have immediate advantages for both—resulting in a natural and steady growth of business.

THE Salesforce will be paid henceforth on the percentage plan which will mean in the course of an average years business about 35 per cent increase in salaries, nobody at any time getting less than they are at present drawing weekly. In other words it is a bonus plan of semi-yearly payments with 35 per cent increase and extra according to the amount of the drawings. That is the inside Profit-Sharing end of it.

NOW regarding the outside or customer's Profit-Sharing. We have accepted for this district one of the most elaborate and complete plans of Profit-Sharing for our customers. It is known as the Cash Sales System of Profit-Sharing. Every customer spending a Dollar in our store will receive a Profit Sharing Card which will be the 5 per cent you will share of the profits. Every ticket has a fixed value redeemable at any time. The silver is all Rogers ware thoroughly dependable and guaranteed. Through this greater increase in business which we will obtain we can from time to time greatly increase the profits we will share with our customers. Drop in and see the merchandise. It is in a Glass Case just inside the door. We will be glad to explain anything you might wish to know.

POISON GAS IN THE SEA

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 10.—The first lot of poison gas which the American Army developed and manufactured for use in killing Germans in the great spring drive that was scheduled for 1919, but halted by the signing of the armistice, has been disposed of by dumping it at sea.

It consisted of 200,000 poison gas shells and some large drums, or containers, of poison gas which have just been taken to sea from Baltimore and dropped into "Davy Jones' Locker."

The gas disposed of consisted of mustard gas and chlorpicrin gas, both of which are very dangerous and could not be used commercially.

DAMAGES TO DOMINION CAFE

Barrister O'Connor Asks Town to Look Into Matter

At the last Council meeting, Barrister O'Connor submitted a letter regarding damages to the property of Mr. Chas. Lane, of the Dominion Cafe, by rioters. Besides the damage to the premises, the rioters helped themselves to his merchandise including cigars and guns, also his knives forks, spoons and other articles, even in the cellar. They also went to the watch and stole some clothing and gas in cash.

Barrister O'Connor asked that the Council look into and attend to the matter at once.—Lindsay Warder.

Advertising Talks
By P. E. Haydon

Advertising Benefits Both the Merchant And the Public.

When a Merchant advertises he virtually says: "Buy my Merchandise and see that my claims for it are genuine. I'm behind it because I know it's right. I'm linking my name with it so you'll see how much confidence I have in it."

And when a merchant does that you know what it means. It means that from the moment that stand is made to the moment that the goods are delivered to the purchaser there is nothing left undone that would in any way cause dissatisfaction. The merchant who advertises is always striving to make his service more complete. The great fact of his advertising enables a service to be done in the mind of the public—a result of which both the merchant and the public benefit.

CANNOT WATCH EUROPE STARVE AND FEED OURSELVES TO THE FULL

Food Controller Roberts Says That Rumania, Serbia, Austria and Germany are Starving.

LONDON, March 10.—Food Controller Roberts, speaking at Newcastle, discussed the question of removing certain commodities from the controlled list. He said:

"We are decontrolling margarine and are about to decontrol tea because, owing to the foresight of the Ministry the supplies of those articles are now so abundant that, on decontrol taking place we are as certain as we can be that prices will tend to fall."

Reviewing the general food situation, Mr. Roberts said:

"We must think of the needs of Europe as a whole. From information which reached us from absolutely unimpeachable authority, the situation in great tracts of Europe is nothing less than tragic. It is not too much to say that Rumania is starving and that Serbia is starving, that Austria is starving and that Germany is starving. Ever since the armistice was signed the allies have been doing all they could for all these countries. But it is not enough, and the question now arises whether we shall be able to get sufficient food to these countries in time to prevent a catastrophe. The Supreme Economic Council in Paris of which I have just been made a member, is straining every nerve to meet the situation. I am going to Paris on Monday to attend meetings of this council and I pray it may be possible for us to concoct such emergency measures as may stave off impending disaster. Clearly, we cannot complacently watch Europe starving and feed ourselves to the full. That is not the spirit of the nation, which through unselfishness has won the war. We are going to help and if helping means that the situation here does not improve as rapidly as it otherwise would this country, I am sure will not grumble. As soon as the people here realize the appaling seriousness of the situation which is developing in Europe they will be the first to call upon the Government to intervene."

ECONOMY IN THE LINDSAY FIRE DEPARTMENT

Fire Chief Beadle appeared before the council and asked for the following additional equipment for the fire hall: Two new suits, a new jack, and paint to cover all outside doors. The engine of the truck also needs overhauling. It does not run accurately. The cost of the requisites tabulated by the Chief will not require any money from the town treasury, for that amount will be saved between January 1st and April 1st, 1919. This is how the amount will be saved: By waiting for a former fireman, who is overseas, his wages and 'phone expenses are saved. There are two firemen on the force at present who dwell in the same house, so that the expense of the 'phone is thus saved. The Chief informed the council that no new hose is needed this year.—Lindsay Post.

International Cast Supports May Allison

What might be termed an international cast is seen in support of May Allison, the beautiful Metro star of "The Testing of Mildred Vane," which will be shown at the Grand theatre to-day for a three-day engagement.

Miss Allison is of the south's most aristocratic blood and a thoroughgoing American. Darrell Foss, her leading man is also an American but the rest of the noted cast are from lands across the seas. Fred Goodwin is an Englishman, and although he is well known on the American stage and has spent many years in this country, is still a subject of King George. Nigel De Brullier, who plays the father is a Frenchman, while George Field, born in Spain, has the role of the Spaniard of the play, Miguel Hernandez. To make the touts ensemble more complete Belgian, Swiss and Italian girls were among those who played small bits in the production.

NEW YORK'S HOUSING PROBLEM SERIOUS.

City is Facing the Worst Crisis in its History.

NEW YORK. — New York city is facing the worst housing crisis in its history. Apartments are virtually unobtainable. Three hundred thousand persons, enough to fill 75,000 more apartments than are available, are crowded into the city to swell its normal number of home renters. The causes are:

The building of new apartments to keep pace with the growing population has been virtually suspended for two or three years.

Sixty thousand families, or about 200,000 persons, have moved here, some to await the return of soldiers.

Fifty thousand are kept here on government work or as agents of foreign interests. Another 150,000 have come through the usual channels of migration.

[illegible] is filled before the [illegible] are through.

[illegible] are about as scarce as are apartments but the question of house renting is not an important. Two-thirds of the more than a million New Yorkers, live in tenements.

A Sad Accident Occurred Friday

Young Farmer in Monaghan Loses Both Thumbs and a Forefinger.

Mr. Percy Moncrief, of North Monaghan, son of Mr. Richard Moncrief, was the victim of a very sad accident on Friday last. He was adjusting a piece of the machinery of a circular saw which he was operating, and in some manner both hands slipped, coming in contact with the saw, which was running, cutting off the forefinger and thumb on the right hand and the thumb on the left hand.

He was taken to the hospital, and is doing as well as could be expected. Mr. Moncrief's friends will sincerely regret his unfortunate accident.

Annual Meeting Board of Trade

New Rooms Are Not Ready for Occupation.

The annual meeting of the Board of Trade usually held the second Tuesday in March, will be postponed until a later date on account of the new rooms not being ready for occupation at the present time. These rooms, now being decorated and furnished, are to become the common meeting place of the several sections and of various conferences relating to the city's social and material welfare.

As soon as everything is in readiness announcement will be made of the date of the annual meeting for the election of officers and such other business as is usually transacted.

LIST OF BOOKS ON LABOUR SUBJECTS AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

In accordance with the wish expressed by the Examiner that the public should be made cognizant of what the Library has to offer in the matter of works dealing with Labour, I am sending you the subjoined list of books, all of which are, of course, at the service of the patrons of the Library. It is not a very extensive one, but in addition thereto, we can provide many other sources of information in the way of pamphlets, and articles in the magazines. It is scarcely necessary to add that information asked for on this or any other subject will be cheerfully provided by the members of our staff. If there are books needed on any other subject it will be easy to provide you with a list of them.

The books on the Labour question are the following:

Housing of the Working Classes and the Poor—Kaufman M.

Servile State—Belloc, Hilaire.

Dangerous Tendencies in American Life.

Big Wages and How to Earn Them—Foreman, A.

Christianity and the Working Classes—Haw, George.

Wealth Creation—Montgredien, Augustus.

Distributing Co-operative Societies—Pizzamiglio, Luigi.

How the Labourer Lives—Rowntree, R. S.

Bitter Cry of the Children—Spargo, John.

Woman Who Toils—Van Vorst, Mrs. John.

Workers; an Experiment in Reality—Wyckoff, Walter A.

Socialism, Labour and Capital—Kaufman, M.

Trades-Unions of England—Paris, M. le Comte de.

Woman and Labour — Schreiner, Olive.

Secret History of the International Workingmen's Association—Yorke, O.

Labour Organization in Canada—Acland, Fred.

Our Library committee always welcomes suggestions from anyone in regard to the acquisitions of fresh books, and for the benefit of such as would like to offer suggestions, I may add that there is a book always at the desk for the express purpose of placing such suggestions on record.

Yours, etc.,
F. M. LA FOSSE.

Voice of The People

PROPERTY QUALIFICATION FOR MUNICIPAL OFFICE

To the Editor,

Sir:—Alderman Hamilton (from the Review report on this matter) says he cannot see why local labor aldermen favored such a proposition as the abolition of the property qualification for the Aldermanic Office.

This, Sir, is one of the planks in the platform and that is why the labor members stood true to their cause, and it is inserted in the labor platform, because, Democracy is our watchword, Government for the people by the people. If the electors are restricted to a certain class from which to select their candidates then it is autocracy on the part of that particular class. If the candidate by reason of not having property, is not suitable for that particular office, the electors will certainly say so at the poll on election day; this is democracy.

Mr. Mayor, there are other contestants besides money interests, that concern a city's welfare, also I wish to state that the non-property owner does pay the property tax collector, they may not hand it to the tax collector, but they pay it all the same, and therefore have an interest at stake. I personally do say that they should not pay it, perhaps. That the present form of municipal taxation, may be unjust in many ways to the non-property owner, by not having direct non-property owner representation on the Council. Therefore, I suggest that the taxes for the city be paid by a municipal income tax to be collected from all whose income exceeds seven hundred dollars a year. I see no objection to this if the worker does not pay the taxes, and has no interest in the city's affairs. Why were four labor aldermen elected? Because the worker has an interest in our city's affairs, and we do not want a cheap Hunter Street Bridge at the expense of the workers' wages, thanks to the fair wage scale.

Yours, Thos. Toobms...

To the Editor of the Examiner

In reference to Citizen's letter in last Thursday's Examiner the poor man evidently suffers considerably by the annoyance of dogs. What a martyr he must be! Of course dogs should be chained up all the year round. Any dog would appreciate being chained up outside the house all day when the temperature is below zero. It would be a shame to see a dog's paw prints on Citizen's lawn when it is so nicely levelled off by a foot of snow. It would be a splendid action if the city fathers were to drop such trivial matters as the Hunter Street Bridge question and turn their attention to more vital subjects such as the elimination of dogs. They should also place one of the old 93rd sentry boxes outside Citizen's house with Jimmy Gates on sentry. There is one great consolation to this kind-hearted citizen in the knowledge that there will be no dogs to annoy anyne either in Heaven or the other place.

Humane Citizen.

To the Editor of the Examiner,

I have read with interest as with as much disgust at a number of letters regarding the dog question and my only regret is that I am not a man or could vote in the City at certain times especially when the Council is being selected from what is supposed to be our worthy citizens. In the second place I feel pleased to hear the dogs have some friends who are not afraid to speak out; who can find a more faithful friend than a dog or many other dumb animals. In my opinion a man stoops low when he cannot find a more elevating position to fill and is not fit to look in a decent dogs face. Who wants to live in a Dogless city and there are just as nice lawns where Doggie is welcome to live as in the City of Peterboro and who can deny it.

We know there are some poor unfortunate dogs, who will wander in search of food and are better dead, but not so of a family pet who is cared for and kept within its own limits till some of our mean contemptible neighbours gets it the fatal dose of perhaps "Rough on Rats" which they know they do not have to sign their name at the druggist for.

One thing certain is it is safer by far for our young people to meet on our streets at night a fur footed friend, than lots of the two footed curs with their white collars and fine clothes who are lying in wait for the ruin of our fairest.

By all means cut out Dog-Catcher give him an axe and see if he is as good at a wood pile. There is many a widow of limited means who would be glad of a little help at cutting wood, yes and some women who are encumbered with a man could give him a job.

Yours sincerely,
"A Lover of All Dumb Animals"

What County Road System Means to Peterboro County

ace System is Adopted it Cannot Be Abandoned for Three Years— Mr. Elliott Says the Automobile is Here to Stay.

To the Editor:

What follows the adoption of a county road system? In the first place all local municipal control ceases, then the 200 miles designated by the County Council, must be approved by the Government. The superintendent must also be approved by the Government. The superintendent appoints all overseers or foremen, and the Act provides that no local or county councillor shall take any part in the conduct of the work, consequently all that remains for the County Council to do, is strike rates to cover the expenditure and the ratepayers will have nothing to do but provide to pay over such taxes.

The Act provides that where a county system is adopted it cannot be abandoned until three years after the completion of the system with the consent of a majority of the ratepayers.

The consent of the ratepayers is not asked before the adoption of the system, but rather it is railroaded through County Councils or a small representation of the ratepayers.

The wealthy motorist then knows that the farmer is in for it, until the 200 miles are constructed and he also knows that 75 per cent. of the farmers will not be directly benefitted by such roads although he will have to pay 60 per cent. of construction and 80 per cent. of maintenance, and in so doing he will have to pay considerable tax before he can have all of the auto fees applied to such road where such fees (less cost of collection) should go, without any rider being inflicted on the farmer.

The Expenditures.

Expending an amount sufficient to earn back our own auto fees will not be the total of the expenditure, judging by the estimates of the few counties really in it, for the majority have not got properly started. Estimates from $100,000 up is the amount and the farmers of this county, in the event of the adoption of the system, may be prepared for the inevitable.

Although the ratepayers had no voice in the adoption of the scheme they will have a voice in amendents to the Act.

Majority in this country rules, and when the majority of the farmers realize that they are not directly benefitted and paying tax they will certainly assert themselves. The Government is now being memorialized by some of the few counties that are endeavouring to carry out this scheme and they are asking the Good Roads Association and other counties to join them in their demand to have the government provide that where county roads are designated, all farms be taxed at least one and one half cents a foot frontage on such roads.

Permit me to sound this note of warning to all who may own farms on what is likely to be county roads in case of adoption, for when the majority realise the heavy burden, they will certainly be heard from with no uncertain sound

Crop in the Barn.

To-day our politicians are assisting the Hearst-Proudfoot Government to load the farmers with the upkeep of smooth speedways for the influential, wealthy motorist, and Hoover is assisting President Wilson and succeeding admirably, in having millions of tons of agricultural products shipped to Europe, at the same time our millers are not grinding or manufacturing but very little, until such times as they will have disposed of their stock on hand in anticipation of then buying at normal prices or probably lower.

At the same time some of our farmers have had to take their hogs home, and the elevators and barns con' n the greater part of the 1918 wheat crop.

The auto is here to stay, and the heavy auto is responsible for the cut-up condition of the main roads, and the Ontario government has just declared a surplus of $1,800,719, which is mostly auto fees. I would again suggest the following under county supervision subject to government inspection with regulations that would ensure proper supervision in order to utilize proper road machinery and proper surface material. Apply the automobile fees locally collected, with 60 per cent. from the county and 40 per cent. from the government on county roads on both construction and maintenance, also 40 per cent from the government and 30 per cent in each case from the city and county on suburban areas which, as stated before, would provide $90,000, then in the near future frontage tax would provide about $30,000 more, making $120,000, providing employment for the returned soldier to that extent.

Respectfully yours,
E. M. ELLIOTT.

Funeral Was Held Saturday

Representative Body of Citizens at Funeral of J. C. Shook.

The remains of the late J. C. Shook 176 McDonnell street were laid at rest in the Little Lake Cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 3:30. Family service was held at Mr. Shook's late residence at 2 o'clock after which a service conducted by Rev. Robert Pogue was held at St. Paul's Church where a representative body of sorrowing citizens paid their last tribute to the man who had meant so much to the good of the community during his fourteen years residence in the city.

The pall-bearers were Messrs H. Rush, E. L. Goodwill, J. D. Collins, H. B. Cowan, W. H. Hill, and Wm. Madill.

The Sermon.

Rev. Mr. Pogue took for his text the following Scriptural passage:

"Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright; for the end of that man is peace."

Ps. 37:37.

I have already held a brief service for the relations and the more immediate friends of the deceased at his home, said Mr. Pogue. As he occupied a large part in the life of our city and in the church of which he was an honored elder and member, I have decided to avail myself of the opportunity afforded by this service of paying a tribute to his memory, his work and his worth, and of drawing such lessons from his life as may serve as an inspiration to the citizens who knew him and are gathered here to do him honour.

The words which I have taken for my text are singularly appropriate to the life and death of our departed brother. He was a perfect man, he was an upright man, and hence his end was peace. We can give no higher praise to a man than to say that he was perfect. Of course the word cannot be used in the absolute sense of any man. The only absolutely perfect being who ever lived was the man Christ Jesus.

The perfection therefore of a little child, or the perfection of a young Christian, or of an old saint, is a very different thing to the perfection of God.

Made for God.

A man may be perfect in his faith. We read, "Ye are complete in Him." In Christ Jesus ye are complete, filled full perfect. It is only in Christ that any man's life can be complete. The soul was made for God and it reaches perfection only as it is united to God. Separated from Him it is like a building without a foundation. This is the meaning of the coming of God into the world and into the life in the person of His Son. As the human life is the complement of mother, as in the union of husband and wife, so the union of the divine with the human completes, perfects, the human.

J. C. Shook's life was perect in Christ Jesus. In early manhood he prided himself on his morality, his integrity. He was not then a church member. He would frequently compare his life with those who were, and often (as he thought) to his own advantage. But the day came when he felt his need of Jesus Christ and of His saving grace. His experience then was the experience of McCheyne when he wrote:

"When free grace awoke me, by light from on high,
Then legal fears shook me, I trembled to die;
No refuge, no safety in self could I see,—
'Jehovah Tsidkenu,' my Saviour must be."

Clear Grasp.

He saw himself then as without hope. All his morality and superior goodness seemed to count for nothing. He saw that in Jesus Christ and Him alone, was salvation to be found. He came to Jesus as he was, cast himself upon His mercy, and entered into the peace of His pardoning, redeeming love. From that moment he was a new man. Never again did he pride himself on his own attainments. Never again did he put any confidence in the flesh. A favorite Scripture of his was "We glory in Christ Jesus and have no confidence in the flesh."

He had a very clear grasp of the doctrines of Grace. He was endowed with unusual mentality and strength of intellect. He brought these fine gifts to the study of his Bible—for he was pre-eminently a man of one Book—and, aided by the Spirit of God, who inspired the Sacred Scriptures, he arrived at a knowledge of the great doctrines of Redemption possessed by few. Especially precious to him was the doctrine of the Blessed Hope of our Lord's Return, for whose advent and revelation he was looking with a new ardour during the closing years of his life.

But a man may be perfect in his service as well as in his faith. A life is complete when it has accomplished its appointed time and its allotted task. Our Lord's life was complete at thirty-three. From the first he saw clearly the task which His Father had given Him. "I must be about my Father's business." He said as a boy of twelve. In that thought his life continued. "I must work the works of Him that sent me while it is to-day." In that thought He laid down his life. "I have finished the work thou gavest me to do." In the garden he said, "The Hour is come." On the cross He said, "It is finished." Because His life was complete and His task done, He could bow His head and yield up His Spirit to God who gave it. He was immortal till His work was done.

True Friend.

So may we think of the life that is just closed. He was not an old man—only 66. Some men have done their greatest work after that age. But though he had not lived the allotted span of three score and ten we must not think that his life was a failure or that his work was not complete. Death does not break God's plans for us, or snatch away a precious redeemed life before God has need of it in another and brighter world.

A life that is spent in doing the will of God is always complete. Few men sought to know and do that will as did J. C. Shook. I am sure there are those here to-day to whom he has spoken more than once about their personal interest in the saving work of Christ. Nothing seemed to please him more than when he heard of souls being won to Christ through the preaching of the Cross. He was a true friend of his minister. No minister ever had a truer one. He was a member of the committee that invited me to become minister of St. Paul's church. He has been my constant friend and counsellor ever since. Before his sickness he always spent a half hour with me in the vestry before each service in conversation about the work of the church and in prayer for the power of God on the message about to be preached. He was deeply interested in the work of evangelism, it mattered not by what church or preached advocated. The Laymen's Missionary Movement had in him a warm friend and supporter. He was for years a director of the Y.M.C.A. It was just since his death that I was in a home where I was told that he paid the annual fees of the boys of the home who belonged to the Association.

Firmer Faith.

I should like to have referred to the place that he occupied in our civic life, to his interest in the future development of the city, to the strong force which he was for civic righteousness, and to the part which he took, as a member of the Committee of One Hundred that supported the Hearst Government in the splendid Temperance legislation which prohibited the traffic in strong drink during the period of the war. Time forbids me to do more than mention these things. No finer tribute could be paid to him as a citizen than the brief article in the Review of yesterday, written by his friend, Mr. McGregor, the editor, in which he says:

"Even had the late James C. Shook been spared twenty years longer he would not really have grown older, for the spirit of such a man always remains young and his eyes are kept upon the future instead of dwelling upon the past, and is the vision of so many whose usefulness and interest in life have departed. No man had higher civic ideals; no man was a more beneficent source of inspiration to his associates, no man was readier with sane counsel, no man had a firmer faith in the future greatness of his city and nation, and none were more optimistic as to the final triumph of right, than the man whose passing is mourned by so many sincere friends."

It is just because his life was lived in the will of God and devoted to the service of God that we can speak of it as perfect. Any life whether young or old, whether lived in comparative obscurity or under the gaze of the Empire or of a world, if lived in the will of God, is a complete life, a perfect life, whenever the call of death may come. It is this fact that enables us to comfort those who lose their splendid boys in the recent war just when their lives were ripening out into the joy and beauty of young manhood. There was an appointed service for them on earth, an appointed time, just as there was for our friend whose loss we mourn to-day. They played their part; they performed the tasks assigned to them; then, their life complete, God called them to Himself, just as He called the one of maturer years to Himself. "Our times are in His Hands."

"I know not where God's islands lift
Their fronded palms in air;
I only know I cannot drift,
Beyond His loving care."

Tennyson puts the same thought in slightly different form:

"For though from out are bourne of time and place,
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face,
When I have crossed the bar."

Passing Message.

James C. Shook has already seen his Pilot face to face. The end of such a man as he my text says, is peace.

"Now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace," said the aged Simeon. That is the prayer of all the righteous. And it is thus all the righteous depart. "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his." I saw his last conscious moments. One of the last words he spoke to me was: 'It is a solemn thing to live, and it is a solemn thing to die, but Jesus died for me." I quoted for him the hymn, "Just as I am," and he seemed to find special comfort in its message. That hymn embodied his whole creed in a nutshell. His hope and trust were in the shed blood of the Lamb of God. Being justified by faith in Christ, he had peace as a constant and permanent possession, and his end was peace, and he now knows the peace of God which here must ever pass all understanding. And so we say—

"Sleep on, beloved, sleep and take thy rest;
Lay down thy head upon the Saviour's breast;
We love thee well, but Jesus loves thee best—
Good-night! Good-night!
Good-night!

Calm is thy slumber as an infant's sleep,
But thou shalt wake no more to toil and weep;
Thine is a perfect rest, secure and deep,
Good-night!

Until the shadows from the earth are cast,
Until He gathers in His sheaves at last;
Until the twilight gloom be overpast;
Good-night!

Until the Easter glory lights the skies,
Until the dead in Jesus shall arise;
And He shall come, but not in lowly guise,
Good-night!

Until made beautiful by love divine,
Thou in the likeness of thy Lord shall shine,
And he shall bring that golden crown of thine—
Good-night!

Only 'Good-night," beloved, not farewell—
A little while and all His saints shall dwell
In hallowed union indivisible—
Good-night!

Until we meet again before His throne,
Clothed in the spotless robe He gives His own,
Until we know even as we are known
Good-night!

Some children taking piano lessons are naturally timid. To the parents of such a well-known musician says: "Keep music as an individual delight for the children and do not pester them with the terrifying thought of playing for others."

To-day and To-Morrow Are "Ideal Days" at Turnbull's "Better Bedding Exhibition"

THESE ARE THE DAYS IN WHICH "BETTER BEDDING" PRODUCTS OF THE IDEAL MANUFACTURING COMPANY WILL BE PROMINENTLY FEATURED AT THE "BETTER BEDDING EXHIBITION," WHICH OPENED THIS AFTERNOON at 2.30.

A representative from the Factory who is thoroughly posted in the strong points of the "IDEAL" Line is here to explain the many advantages of their various makes of Sanitary Bedding, and we feel sure that a visit to this unique exhibit on our Fifth Floor, either to-day or to-morrow, will prove most interesting.

This Is An Exhibition

Again we want to emphasize the fact that this is an Exhibition. You are under no obligation whatever to buy one cent's worth and there will be no solicitation whatever on the part of the Salesmen.

The manufacturers are co-operating with us to demonstrate just what Modern Sanitary Bedding actually is and what it means in more sleep-comfort and better health.

"Ideal Prizes"

There will be two prizes given away on Tuesday night. The names of the winners will appear in Wednesday's paper.

The First Prize is a handsome Brass Bed, donated by the Ideal Manufacturing Company.

The Second Prize for "Ideal Days" is a splendid Sanitary Felt Mattress.

These prizes will be given away to the persons estimating nearest to the number of people who will visit the Exhibition on Monday and Tuesday, "Ideal Days."

As you enter the Exhibition you will be given a card on which to record your estimate if you wish to compete for the prize. This you will drop in a box which will not be opened until the store closes Tuesday night.

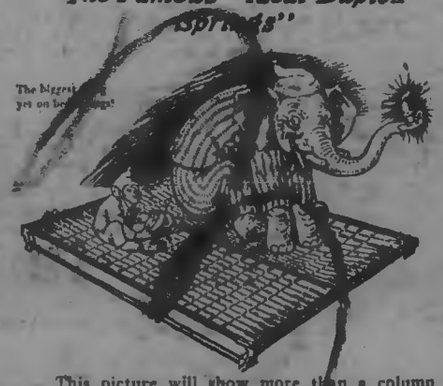
Prizes are absolutely free and you are not required to make any purchase in order to obtain a vote.

If you do not wish to compete for the prize it is not necessary to record a vote if you visit the exhibition.

Two Prominent "Ideal Lines"

Here are two of the "IDEAL MANUFACTURING CO'S" prominent lines which will be strongly featured at the Exhibition.

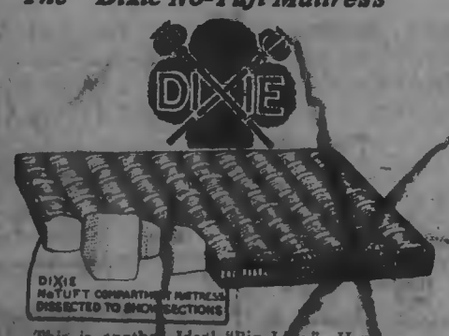
The Famous "Ideal Duplex Springs"



This picture will show more than a column of reading matter the great advantage of this great Duplex Spring.

The strong point about it is the fact that it is absolutely impossible for it to sag in the middle. If you have had a sagging bed spring, you will appreciate this. Come and see it at the "Better Bedding Exhibition."

The "Dixie No-Tuft Mattress"



This is another Ideal "Big Line." Here are some of its good points.

This Mattress will not spread. It has no tufts to weaken and move away. You are sure of a "Handsome Bed Insurance" when you use the DIXIE NOTUFT COMPARTMENT MATTRESS.

TUFTING takes up 25% of the elasticity of ordinary mattresses. The Dixie NoTuft retains 100% resiliency because it has no tufts. ALWAYS comfortable.

Come in and investigate the Dixie NoTuft Compartment Mattress. It offers the very features you have been looking for—and at the very price you want to pay.

SEE THE DIXIE MATTRESS AT THE BETTER BEDDING EXHIBITION.

Cabbage Stumps, Lice Powders and Salts Used to Make Hens Lay

A Contributor Indulges in a Little Satire at the Expense of "Greater Production" and "Economy."

With reference to the poultry reports recently submitted by "Greater Production," and "Economy," as rank outsiders we cannot let this opportunity pass without some comment.

Before making our report we must criticize the base price of 68 1-3c. per dozen eggs taken by the above experts. Perhaps this is a fair average in England, but not in Canada.

We are taking as a base price 51 1-10 cents per dozen eggs, and in comparing our report with that of Greater Production and Economy, the only possible conclusion we can come to is that they are wasting their time in raising hens as egg producers.

The report: Total number of eggs laid, December, January, February, 1918 and 1919, by a pen of 18 mongrels was 1259, which, at 51 9-10c. per dozen would bring $54.45 1 1-0.

Cost of feed as follows:

Rolled oats	$ 2.15
Cracked corn	1.40
Cabbage stump	.47
Potatoes	1.10
Lice powders	7.00
Ashes-a-la-hix	.10
Epsom salts	.10
Total cost	$12.32
Cost per hen	.68 4-9c
Value of eggs laid	$54.45 1-10
Cost of feed	12.32
Net profit 3 months	$2.13 1-10
Net profit 3 months per hen.	$2.34 1-16

Alleged Defaulters Were Remanded

One Comes From Minden and the Other From Haliburton.

Two alleged defaulters, John Albert McKnight of Minden Township, who, it was said, had failed to report to a medical board on August 7, 1918 and Thomas Watson of Haliburton, who, it is claimed, failed to respond to a call on May 14, 1918, were arraigned in police court this morning with Justices of the Peace H. Rush and V. Eastwood on the bench. Mr. V. J. McElderry appeared for Watson and Mr. C. R. Widdifield was present in McKnight's interests.

On the suggestion of the defence the case was remanded until Friday, March 14.

BAIL REFUSED

Bail was refused both prisoners and they will remain in custody. Watson is a fine specimen of manhood and would stand well over six feet. McKnight is fondly called the "Teddy Bear" by the military police, because of his wolf-skin coat and cap. The military police were driving in the vicinity of McKnight's farm one day last week, when they saw what appeared to be a bear walking on its hind feet leading a cow from the house. The police were at first deceived but soon found out after shedding McKnight's "skin" that they had their man. Neither men are optimistic over one week's internment in Governor Nesbitt's home on the hill.

Ex-Mayor Yelland's 87th Birthday

Hale and hearty as most men at seventy years of age ex-Mayor William Yelland, 29 Murray street today celebrated his eight-seventh birthday by a large family reunion of his sons and daughters who gathered at his residence to wish him many more years with them.

Ex-Mayor Yelland came to the city in 1851 when a young man of 19 years of age from England and has resided in Peterboro ever since. He has always been an active worker in municipal affairs and for fourteen consecutive years ran and was elected as alderman of the city. For two years he was Mayor of the city. Although he has already outstayed man's allotted three score years and ten by sixteen years Mr. Yelland is as actively interested in the welfare of the city as any man in Peterboro and remembers perfectly the different steps which have been taken to build the city up from the hamlet he found it to the present flourishing city. He is pleased to relate graphic accounts of his municipal contests in which he always came out at the head.

Press Agents Still Active

Canadian Delegation Headed by Borden is Making a Big Hit.

Canadian Press:

NEW YORK, March 10.—The Herald this morning publishes the following special correspondence from Paris, dated February :

Sir Robert Laird Borden, Premier of Canada, and one of the great leaders of the Peace Conference, is flatly opposed to secret treaties, and just as strongly in favour of complete co-operation on the part of the United States and Canada in working out problems and policies. The importance of both these statements can only be appreciated by those who grasp one outstanding fact that, peeled of its purposely bewildering bark, the Paris Conference is a contest between secret schemers seeking special advantages at the expense of the world at large,, and men have really learned the lesson of war and who are bent upon setting up really sane and just "government of the world under law." "Every grain of gossip that I have heard has been favourable to the Canadian delegation. Once or twice it was Sir Robert Borden who intervened to keep the consideration of far eastern matters along safe, smooth and satisfactory channels. He has a remarkably complete knowledge of many details that are not understood by all of our own delegates. I am quite sure that he has the full confidence of President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George."

How Dominion Friction Surface Belting Helps to Increase Production

The greatest single factor in increasing and maintaining your production at the maximum is efficient equipment—this depends not only on your machinery, but to a greater extent than you realize on your power transmission equipment.

We are ready to demonstrate to you that Dominion Friction Surface Belting is the most economical and efficient transmission equipment made.

It is more than water-proofed fabric—the rubber used is a special friction compound that practically eliminates slipping and transmits all the power that any belt can transmit.

Its uniformity and dependability insure long and continuous service which saves time wasted in making replacements and repairs and prevents idle employees and machines.

Our special free advisory service, in charge of belting experts, is maintained to help manufacturers increase production through efficient equipment.

Phone, wire or write our nearest Service Branch when you are ready to have one of our experts help you "speed up" production just as they have helped many others.

MARRY IN HASTE

A little stouter in body and perhaps a little thinner in voice but still the same old favorite, Fiske O'Hara, the Irish singing comedian and his capable company delighted two large audiences at the Grand on Saturday. The annual visit of Mr. O'Hara is an event that is looked forward to by many theatregoers and the attendance on Saturday showed that he has lost none of his popularity. His new vehicle "Marry in Haste" proved an amusing farce, with a leading part that thoroughly suited Mr. O'Hara and giving him opportunity to display his ability as a comedian, as well as a singer. His song numbers were as usual, dignified. Probably the most tuneful was the waltz song: "The Kind of a Girl I Mean," which was most effectively rendered, while "There's a Charm of Dear Old Ireland in Your Eyes" also scored. At the evening performance, between the second and third acts, Mr. O'Hara sang "My Little Irish Girl," a song written for him by an officer in the British army, who made the supreme sacrifice in France.

Mr. O'Hara was surrounded by many of his old company, Mr. J. P. Sullivan, who for eleven years has been in support of Mr. O'Hara was seen in his usual role as an Irish steward, a part that he fills to perfection, Miss Patricia Clary was as roguish and pretty as ever and scored heavily as Lady Peggy McVey, while Miss Gertrude Ritchie was charming as Lady Evelyn O'Connor. Two favorites who for years have been members of Mr. O'Hara's company, Messrs. J. K. Miller and W. T. Sheehan, both added to the enjoyment of the performance by good work in their respective roles and the other parts were in capable hands and well looked after.

Chief Taxing Master at Osgoode Passes

John H. Thom Dies at his Home in Eighty-Second Year.

TORONTO, March 10.—John H. Thom, for 40 years Chief Taxing Master at Osgoode Hall, died at his residence, 54 South drive on Saturday, in his 82nd year. Mr. Thom continued as Chief Taxing Master right up to within a few months of his death when an Acting Taxing Master was appointed, and his title was changed to Consulting Taxing Master.

Mr. Thom was born in Scarboro' township in 1837, and was educated at Toronto Academy and Upper Canada College. He graduated in arts from the University of Toronto and later studied for the Presbyterian ministry, graduating from Knox College. For a time he lectured at Moran College, Quebec, and then decided to enter law. After being called to the Ontario bar Mr. Thom became a partner with the firm of Bethune Osler Moss, and continued with them until he was appointed to the position of Chief Taxing Master at Osgoode Hall.

He is survived by his wife, and one daughter, Mrs. Robert F. Scott of 5 Rosedale road. Mr. Thom was a chastered member and for a time an elder of Old St. Andrew's Church.

Royal Theatre Is Not Sold

But a Very Important Announcement Will Be Made in a Few Days.

In connection with the item in Saturday's Examiner, which stated that the Allen's of Toronto had secured the Royal Theatre, Mr. Pappas desires to make the statement that while Messrs J. and J. Allen were negotiating for the Royal, he did not close with them, but Mr. Pappas has completed an agreement with the Paramount Theatres, Limited, who will make an announcement to-morrow.

This company is one of the strongest moving picture corporations on the continent and control the Regent and the Strand of Toronto, and numbers of others in the province.

Influenza Is Still Prevalent

Fresh Outbreak is Reported in Northern Ontario.

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO, March 10.—The Provincial health authorities have received no confirmation as yet of a fresh outbreak of influenza in Northern Ontario, and Lieut.-Col. McCullough, Provincial Officer of Health, stated this morning that he did not believe there was any danger of a recurrence of the epidemic. The disease has not yet entirely disappeared from the northern districts of the Province, Col. McCullough stated, but he believes that it can be kept thoroughly under control.

Questioned as to the effect the cold weather was likely to have on the spread of the disease, Col. McCullough replied that the weather itself has no direct effect beyond the fact that it tends to keep people indoors, and thus to keep them from getting the necessary amount of fresh air.

After Wildcatters.

The Ontario Government will in all probability appoint a special commission to pass upon all stock sale propositions which come under the scope of "blue sky legislation," Hon. I. B. Lucas, Attorney-General, announced this morning. This legislation is destined to protect private investors amongst "wild cat" stock schemes. The Attorney-General states that it is not likely to come before the House before next month, although it will not be overlooked in the legislation of the present year.

COPENHAGEN, March 10.— Four more Russian Grand Dukes have been executed at Petrograd by the Bolsheviki during the past fortnight on a charge of being involved in a Monarchist plot.

DO YOU READ?

Of course you do! And you read more than your forefathers did. Once scholars did most of the reading—now, all of us read. Reading puts a strain upon the eyes Nature never intended it to sustain. We must help Nature—assist the eye—adjust it to new conditions. Very few may need glasses. Almost every civilized person needs them. If you neglect your eye welfare now, the time will come when your eyes will neglect your welfare. We can furnish you with glasses—before it is too late.

ALEX KAY WINS THE SCHEDULE FINALS

Defeated R. Hicks in the Last of the Inter Rink Games.

The last of the winter's scheduled games was the Saturday night feature at the Curling, Alex. Kay winning the first prizes from Bob Hicks by the score of 27-8. The game was something of a disappointment, lacking the interest that is usually expected from a deciding game. Kay hung up an unbroken string of counters for ten ends before Hicks "touched the chalk."

The rinks were as follows:

F. Bartlett	George Hall
A. L. Killaly	B. McNeeley
A. Moore	W. H. Taylor
R. Hicks	A. C. Kay
Skip—8	Skip—27

Kay's rink carried off the first prizes and the seconds go to Hicks. The third and fourth will be decided to-night when the runner-up Ray Best and W. D. Campbell meet. These two skips have played together in the District Cup and open bonspiel, but to-night they will be opponents with the following support:—

B. M. Freeman	W. M. Gruthers
L. A. Potvin	E. L. Payne
R. Dobbin	S. J. Graham
W. D. Campbell sk	R. P. Best sk

The Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the curling club will be held on Monday March 17th beginning at 8 o'clock, when the prizes will be presented and officers elected.

Efforts are being made to arrange the annual games with Orillia and the final games with Lindsay. In the meantime R. M. Waddell has offered a prize for a points competition in which the skill of the curlers is tested in the fine shots such as chap and lie, wick and curl in, and the other difficult shots.

Oshawa Will Enter League

Word has been received from Oshawa to the effect that the baseball enthusiasts of the town are planning to enter the Midland Baseball League, which is in process of formation. A meeting is being held in Oshawa on Wednesday evening, when plans will be revealed for the inclusion of the Oshawa baseball interests.

RIOTERS KILLED WHEN SOLDIERS FIRED INTO THE ADVANCING MOB

LONDON, March 9.—Writing of the most serious part of the outbreak on Wednesday afternoon, the Llandudno correspondent of the Canadian Associated Press says: "It was at this stage that the casualties occurred. A detachment with loaded rifles grimly stood their ground, an officer warning the rebellious mob of the gravity of the situation. This did not appear to be fully grasped by a number of the men. Still there was no room for misapprehension as the mob still came onward. The order was given to fire, and the ranks of the mischief-makers were forthwith broken. Besides an officer, four of the rank and file lost their lives, and about 20 others were more or less seriously wounded. Many arrests followed. This was practically the last incident of the outbreak."

Inquest Opened.

An inquest on the bodies of the victims of the Canadian outbreak at Kimmel Park was formally opened to-day and adjourned until Thursday next, the coroner for Flintshire merely taking evidence of identification. Lieut. Edward Small, 5th Battalion, identified the bodies as Pte. David Gillem, aged 20, 85th Battalion, home at Florence, N.S.; Gunner Jack Hickman, artillery, who came from France as a casualty, having served in the 50th Howitzer Battery, and belonged to Dorchester, N. B.; Corp. Joseph Young, aged 38, 52nd Battalion, next-of-kin, sister living at Pacific Avenue, Rhode Island; William Haney, 20, artillery, of Talbot, Alta.; and William Taraslawich, nationality unknown, real name believed to be Taranke.

Addressed The Ministers

"A Layman's View of his Minister," by Mr. G. N. Gordon.

Mr. G. N. Gordon gave an address to the Ministerial Association this morning at their regular monthly meeting at the Y. M. C. A. on the subject of "A Layman's View of his Minister."

Mr. Gordon dwelt upon the peculiar position of the Minister in the community as one of the leaders of thought and as the spiritual adviser of the members of his congregation.

During the medieval ages, Mr. Gordon, went on to show how the minister stood in a unique position of being a member of the clergy, a teacher physician and one who administered the laws, and who maintained the traditions of the people as a historian keeper of records, and whose home was open to the travellers and wayfarers passing from community to community.

Relationship

Mr. Gordon emphasized the necessity of an intimate relationship between the layman and his minister in order that the minister's influence in the community could be at it's greatest, and that it was necessary for the minister to take a definite position on great moral questions even if it did at times infringe upon what were known as political issues.

The speaker paid a tribute to the self sacrifice of the clergy which had always been one of the virtues by which the clergy were known. He said that if the ministers were practicing law, medicine, and engaging in other professions they would be earning twice and thrice their present incomes without any greater effort, and without as much responsibility, and yet they had sacrificed this for the privilege of ministering to the spiritual needs of the people.

Mr. Gordon suggested that there should be a more intimate relationship between the laymen of the congregation and their Minister in order that the laymen might give more of their effort towards assisting the ministers in their labors, and to the same degree reducing the responsibility of the ministers, while the clergy in turn would be benefited by closer relationship with their laymen, and be given the advantage of their ideas and business experiences.

In conclusion Mr. Gordon stated that the reason why people had such a deep regard and high respect for the clergy was by reason of their self sacrifice, their high ideals, and their desire to improve the moral condition of the people at large and their efforts in that respect.

At the conclusion of Mr. Gordon's address he was extended a vote of thanks by the Ministerial Association

Met With Painful Accident

Young Farmer Met With Almost Fatal Accident.

MANILLA, March 10.—Mr. Harold Saville, a young man living on the 10th concession of Mariposa, met with a distressing and almost fatal accident. He was helping his neighbour Mr. Parliament, to move some live stock, and the roads being in a very icy condition the sleigh slewed and threw Mr. Saville and the cattle out on the icy ground and when found he was lying under the horses unconscious. He was conveyed to Mr. D. Varcoe's and medical aid called. There are very slight hopes entertained for his recovery. He is suffering from concussion.

Damage Caused by Saturday Fire

Three Automobiles Were Badly Damaged—The Insurance.

The fire which broke out in Evans and Appleby's garage on Charlotte street on Saturday at noon was caused by a lighted match accidentally dropped into a pan of oil which was on the floor. The pan immediately leaped into flames and spread along the floor and walls. Three cars were badly damaged. Dr. D. C. King's to the extent of $800, with no insurance. Mr. Fred Hall's new car at $1,300, with insurance, and Mr. George Schueider's car to the extent of $600 with insurance.

Mr. Appleby's tools, valued at $300 were also destroyed, and the generator and re-charging plant of Mr. A. Fisher on the second story was damaged to the extent of $200. The flames went through a second-storey window in the Charlebois apartments, doing damage to about $25.

Using three lines of hose, the fire brigade extinguished the fire in ten minutes and succeeded in keeping the flames from reaching the White Rose garage, which is in the same building.

CALLS WILSON A DICTATOR

Idaho Legislature Accuses him of a Defiance Toward U.S.

BOISE, Idaho, March 10. — By a vote of 42 to 16, the Lower House of the Idaho Legislature adopted a memorial to Congress assailing President Wilson for his defiant and dictatorial attitude in which he has attempted to force his personal views and opinions on the people of the United States,' and calling upon the United States senate to reject any treaty of peace which includes the present charter for a League of Nations.

The Government Takes Over the Grand Trunk Pacific

Grand Trunk Railway Will Meet a Similar Fate Unless it Meets Obligations.

THE TWO SYSTEMS

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, March 10.—If the Grand Trunk Railway desires to "carry on" as a private enterprise it must be prepared to pay interest charges on the Grand Trunk Pacific, which will approximate from five to seven million dollars a year, and which in the past it has not paid without government assistance. Not only that, but it must be prepared to pay the principal of bond issues of the Grand Trunk Pacific, which the Grand Trunk has guaranteed, as they fall due. It is not yet clear whether, under the form of receivership adopted by the government, the principal of such issues becomes due and payable at once. Whether it does or not there are certain issues which in the course of time must be paid as to principle. From the Government's viewpoint, patience has ceased to be a virtue.

Joint Agreement.

The Grand Trunk Pacific and the National Transcontinental were built on a joint agreement between the government and the Grand Trunk Railway, and Rivers Wilson came to Canada and approved the scheme. It was a sort of part ownership, since the two systems were built. However, the partnership has been a one-sided one. First of all the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Grand Trunk repudiated its obligation in connection with the leasing of the National Transcontinental Then the government had to take over on lease the Superior section from Superior Junction to Winnipeg. Since then the Grand Trunk has been doing everything in its power to shoulder off on to the government the burden of the Grand Trunk Pacific from Winnipeg to Prince Rupert. In the negotiations between members of the government and the directors in England the latter have refused to recognise their liability in connection with the G.T.P. as a fact or in connection with the question of rental. Since the original legislation of 1903, under which the government and the Grand Trunk jointly undertook to construct the G.T.P. the following government advances have been made:

Government Advances.

In 1909 ten million dollars, guaranteed by the Grand Trunk.

In 1913, fifteen million dollars, guaranteed by the Grand Trunk.

In 1914 sixteen millions unguaranteed.

In 1916 under the Appropriation Act, eight millions to meet deficits in operation and fixed charges.

In 1917, seven and a half millions for the same purpose, five millions of which were required.

In 1918, seven and a half millions for the same purpose, all of which was required.

For the current year eight millions would have been required to meet operating deficits and fixed charges. It will be noticed that only the first two advances were guaranteed by the Grand Trunk. In other words, during all these years the government which was only one party in the partnership, has been assuming all the liablities of the partnership, and getting nothing out of it. The government has been advancing money to pay the interest on G.T.P. securities guaranteed by the G.T. and the G.T. has stood aside and watched the government do it. And at the same time the Grand Trunk has been paying certain dividends on its preferred stock, though none on its common. According to the Drayton Acworth report the Grand Trunk has guaranteed issues of G.T.P. approximating 97 million dollars and has made advances to the G.T.P. companies amounting to 24 millions. According to the same report the annual interest liability of the G. T. in respect of the G.T.P. is over five million dollars, and will be seven millions by 1923.

A Legal Fight.

It is the obligation which the government asked the G. T. to take into account when negotiating with the directors regarding the taking over of the road. The government has never insisted upon its pound of flesh, but it cannot see the force of relieving the G. T. of the burden of the unproductive lines without also taking the productive. The G.T.P. has, during the past three years, about broken even on operation, but during the past year had a deficit of about a million dollars.

The attitude of the G. T. appears to be a refusal to consider its liabilities in connection with the G.T.P. and it is rumoured that the matter will be fought out in the courts.

SUCCESSOR TO HEARST.

Hon. T. W. McGarry is Spoken of as a Likely Candidate For the Office of Premier of Ontario.

SOME BIG TREES IN MANVERS TP.

Mr. Jos. Hickson, one of the leading farmers of Manvers, has a 50-acre bush which he feels justly proud of, and for which he has at different times been offered a good price. It is a comparatively young bush, but there are many trees of large proportions. For instance the other day he cut down one mammoth pine, which measured almost four feet across, the main part of the trunk. He had it taken to the mill at Janetville and cut down into lumber.

THE THOMFORD REVIVAL.

Evangelist T. D. Kennedy, of Peterborough recently closed a month's campaign at Thedford, Ont., where a large number professed conversion. The people of the town said they never saw such conviction on the community and such manifestation of God's power in revival meetings. There was considerable opposition from the outside toward the work, but even a public dance which had been extensively advertised, did not in any way affect the attendance, as the evangelist had his best meeting that night and biggest crowd. At present Mr. Kennedy is in the midst of a gracious work at Oshawa. The first Friday afternoon he had fully 300 boys and girls out at a children's meeting, and during the night meetings the last two nights of the first week, fifty persons sought the Lord. About the last week in May Mr. Kennedy intends to open a campaign in Peterborough. The meetings will be held in a ladies tent and will continue

Bedding Display Well Attended

Orchestra Was In Attendance—Do Not Fail to See It.

Large crowds attended the "Better Bedding" Exhibition which opened at J. C. Turnbulls departmental store this afternoon at 2.30. Prof. Gliddon, with his orchestra, was in attendance, and the people were courteously shown the different styles of beds and bedding by the several experts.

The entire floor, with the exception of the stock room, is used for the display and sale of bedding of all kinds. The department is unique, for very few stores, even in the larger centres, carry a department confined to bedding alone, as a rule, it being combined with other lines.

In devoting this much floor space to the sale of bedding, the Turnbull Co. is following the example of the larger American stores, which all the time are giving a more prominent place to bedding in all its branches.

The question of sleep comfort has always taken a prominent place among the problems that have confronted the human race for solution. This is only natural when practically one-third of life is spent in repose necessary to replenish the vital forces used up daily in waking hours.

For the human body may be aptly likened to the storage battery in a modern automobile. Each day a great store of energy units are used up, which must be replenished by restful sleep. Anything before, that interferes in the slightest degree with deep, dreamless sleep causes a total or partial halt in the process of recharging the vital energies. Such interference, if continued for long, must result in depletion of nerve force and finally in general physical deterioration.

To come back again to the storage battery comparison, the vital powers of the "human battery" reach a more or less discharged condition, with ultimate disastrous results.

In the light of the above remarks, therefore, the importance of a really comfortable bed will be at once realized. A sagging bedspring, a hard matted-down, lumpy mattress—or a combination of the two—makes deep, restful sleep almost impossible. The hours spent in vainly wooing sleep on such a bed, plus the fitful sleep that finally comes, leaves anyone unfit to solve the daily problems of life.

Couple Had Narrow Escape

Broke Through the Ice on the Goose Pond.

On Saturday afternoon, while skating at Geo. Reed at the end of Dublin Street, Miss Allen, a pupil of the Normal School, had a narrow escape from drowning. With her companion, a young man, she skated out to a place where the ice was bending, when suddenly, with a cry for help, she and her companion broke through the ice and disappeared. A number of boys who were playing hockey at the pond, attracted by the cries for help, hurried to the place where the young people were clinging to the ice, and with the aid of hockey sticks, rescued them from the icy waters. The greatest credit is due to the boys for the presence of mind displayed and the disregard for their personal safety, as they practically risked their lives in saving the couple. Mr. Cyril Powers led the band of rescuers.

Will Move Into New Quarters

Mr. S. Middleton, proprietor of the Middleton Livery Barn, Water Street, has rented the livery barn lately occupied by A. T. Fontaine, 193 Hunter Street, and will move into his new quarters in about two weeks, to carry on his business in the same way as in his Water Street stand. On the 22nd of the month he plans to dispose of any surplus stock by public auction.

It is understood that Mr. Andrew Brown has taken over the present quarters of the Middleton Livery Barn, and will install an up-to-date garage immediately.

EXECUTORS SEEK TO PROVE WILL THAT HAS BECOME LOST

The last will and testament made by the late Russell Wood, who died of influenza during the local epidemic, has become lost, and the executors, Mrs. Russel Wood and Mr. Gerald Wood, brother of the deceased, have instituted an action before Judge Hughes, in the Surrogate Court, to prove the lost will. It has been brought out that Mr. Wood made the will at the home of Mr. Basil Hall, with Mr. and Mrs. Hall as witnesses. He took it away with him, but it has since become lost. It is presumed that when Mr. Wood directed that certain papers be placed in his mother's safety deposit box that the will was among them and in the transposition became lost. It seems that no person has seen the will since the night that it was drawn up at Mr. Hall's home, and taken away by Mr. Wood.

The proceedings in the Surrogate Court are to prove in solemn form this lost will and its contents, which from the evidence of the witnesses made the wife of the deceased the sole beneficiary, and appointed her and Mr. Gerald Wood executors of the deceased's estate.

In the case of a lost will the presumption of law is that the will (if it is neither found nor produced)) was revoked in some way by the testator. This trial and the proceedings are to establish the validity of the lost will. Mr. O. A. Langley is the counsel for the plaintiffs, the executors, and Mr. E. A. Peck for the infant defendants, representing the official guardian. The case has been adjourned to receive further evidence from Mrs. James Wood, mother of the deceased, on her return from Edmonton.

It may be pointed out for the guidance of persons in making their wills that the law has provided a means of depositing a will of a living person for safe keeping and beyond the reach of any person other than the testator during his life. This is in the office of the Registrar of the Surrogate Court. This means is very rarely used, and it would seem to be generally unknown.

WEDDING BELLS

SPAFFORD—ARMSTRONG

A quiet wedding took place at the George Street Methodist parsonage on Wednesday, March 5th when Clifford Wallace Spafford of Rockcroft and May Armstrong of Hall's Bridge were united in marriage by Rev. Amos J. Thomas. The happy couple will reside in the Township of Harvey.

McEWEN-HOPE

The marriage of Mr. Allan McEwen, Riverhurst, Sask, and Miss Jeannie Hope, took place on Wednesday, March 5th, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hope, Indian River, the Rev. Mr. McEachern officiating. The bride was becomingly attired in a gown of white crepe-de-chene, trimmed with satin and pearls. Little Miss Mabel Graham, niece of the bride made a pretty flower girl, dressed in white silk and carrying a basket of flowers. Miss Edith Hope sister of the bride played the wedding march.

About forty guests partook of the wedding regast. The large number of presents received showed the esteem in which the couple were held.

The bride's travelling suit was of navy blue serge with hat to match. The young couple will reside in Riverhurst, Sask. Their many friends wish them every success. Mrs McEwen will be greatly missed in this district.

IF NOT, WHY NOT?

Stand up, stand up for our fair city,
To buy elsewhere seems a great pity,
Similar words we have found in ditty.
Live the slogan and show you're gritty.
Some will a glad hand knowingly extend,
"I'll try, my patronage to you, gladly send;"
Even these words make things brighter,
So come along for that other typewriter.

GUELPH, March 10. — The police left here for new Hamburg to-day to arrest Mr. and Mrs. Berbiuch and two sons, who are accused of firing on the police while resisting arrest as absentees under the M.S.A. Four men arrested last night on this charge were arraigned this morning and remanded.

NEW BICYCLE SHOP.

A new bicycle shop is being fitted up at No. 174 Hunter Street, in the Murty Block, and is expected to be opened for business next week. Bicycles, motor cycles, repairs and repair work are the lines to be specialized in. The brothers Oliver and Frank White will be partners in the business, which is to be carried on under the firm name of White Bros. Mr. Oliver White, after returning from France, was appointed shell inspector for the Hope Co., and Mr. Frank White comes from the Riverside Garage, Toronto, where he has been engaged since leaving the Banks' Garage, Chatham Street.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad and loving memory of my dear husband Elvin Harper, died March 10, 1918.
The happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a vacant place
The world can never fill.

A bitter grief a shock severe
To part with him we loved so dear.
Our loss is great, we'll not complain
But trust in God to meet again.
—From His Wife and Children.

IN MEMORIAM.

HARPER. — In loving memory of my dear son Elven Harper, who passed away, March 10th, 1918.
Gone one year, our hearts are sore,
From day to day we miss him more,
His cheerful smile, his loving face,
No one on earth can fill his place.
We loved him, yes, no tongue can tell,
How much we loved him, and how well,
God loved him, too, and thought it best,
To take him to his home of rest.
The blow was bitter, the loss severe
To part with one we loved so dear;
Our loss is great, we'll not complain,
But hope in heaven to meet again.
—His Mother.

London Criticises New York.

The little differences between life in London and New York are by no means all to the credit of the latter. Our letter post crosses London in a couple of hours; theirs often takes a couple of days to cross New York. In London the goods you purchase in the morning may be sent home before the evening; in New York you are lucky if they arrive next day. The parcel post, too, is quite a new thing in America, and the telegraph department has not yet advanced to the stage of allowing prepayment. Add to this such facts as the absence of "boots" in the hotels, the guests having to resort to the street corner "shiners," and the display of dustbins, even in fashionable streets, along after midday, and it will be seen that the "smart" and "slow" of which the American is so fond when comparing himself with us are not always to be applied as he applies them.—London Chronicle.

OPPORTUNITY TO ALL DEALERS TO HANDLE GOVERNMENT'S FISH

Tenders for the market tolls will be received by the Property committee up to March 26th, it was decided at last night's meeting.

Ald. Edgar objected to the designation of three or four dealers as distributors of the Ontario government's fish supplies. He contended that the business should be thrown open to any dealers who desired to take advantage of it.

The committee adopted his suggestion, and advertisements will be published in the local newspapers notifying those dealers who wish to handle the Government's fish that they must make their applications to the City Clerk on or before Monday, March 17th.

$100 For Dog Catching.

Last year the committee set aside $600 for the dog catching campaign, but spent only $199.95, and there are many citizens who are satisfied that this was money well expended. This year, apparently, the dogs are due for a share in the larger bounty than mankind has fought for. Only $200 was appropriated, which may provide some solace for the perfervid lovers of dogs, who have already forgotten or chose to ignore the fact that last summer a wandering mongrel or thoroughbred bit and infected with the rabies a local boy who died in the agonies of hydrophobia.

ALL SHOE FACTORIES IN SWEDEN CLOSE

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Seventy thousand Swedish shoe workers will be thrown out of employment April 15 by suspension of operations in all shoe factories of the country. Despatches to the State Department said the manufacturers had decided to close their plants because of over-production during the war and "unsound speculations" since the cessation of hostilities.

GRAIN MARKET

Grain markets were strong and higher yesterday, cash and options all scoring substantial advances. The cash corn markets were again a strong bull factor in forcing up the options. Then the international situation is regarded as very favourable to the bull side, as it is believed there must soon be a strong export movement to European countries. In the local market cash oats and barley continue strong, the demand for barley for export being particularly strong.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards—Receipts were 208 cars, with 4,021 cattle, 316 calves, 7,267 hogs, and 501 sheep and lambs.

Contrary to earlier reports received on Saturday, it was learned yesterday that the strike at New Jersey is not yet settled. The consequence here was that there was no buying for export for the New York market to-day, the demand outside of one or two small transactions for Buffalo account being confined to purely local requirements. With a heavy run and a large proportion of very poor quality cattle offering, the market was very slow and about 25 cents lower on butcher cattle.

Lambs, good quality, were steady.

Fine Stone to Own.

The Colonial Diamond Mining company of German Southwest Africa is probably the world's biggest dividend payer. It "reduced" its 1913 dividend by 1,300 to 2,500 per cent. having paid 2,800 for 1912. In 1910 2,400 was paid and 2,500 in 1911. The company's capital is only $2,500. Its managing director and chief shareholder was once a humble railway official named Ernest Batsch. Now he is a multimillionaire. He will soon be made chairman of the German imperial diamond administration.

Canada's Deficit Piling Up at the Rate of Twenty Million Dollars Monthly

Ottawa Reports Heavy Revenues Continue to Roll In—They Fell $27,184,740 Short of Expenditures in February.

Canada's expenditure for
11 months, less war	$194,096,214
War expenditure, 11 mths	276,096,239
Total 11 months	$470,192,453
11 months revenue	272,756,984
Deficit, 11 months	$197,435,469
Canada's net debt	$1,389,759,300
Canada's debt increased in February	$27,184,740

OTTAWA, March 11.—Heavy revenues continue to roll into the finance department. For the eleven months concluding with the end of February current revenue totalled $272,756,984, an increase over the corresponding period of the previous fiscal year of $42,990,356. With another month's revenue to come, the budget estimate of $270,000,000 has already been exceeded. Revenue for February 1919, totalled $23,684,326, an increase of $5,458,453 over February, 1918. Total expenditure, less war, for the eleven months was; Ordinary, $180,043,856 capital expenditure (less war), $14,052,358. Total, $194,096,214.

There is, therefore, a surplus of current revenue over ordinary and capital expenditure (less war) of $78,663,769, viz.:

Current revenue $272,756,984; total expenditure (less war), $194,096,214. Surplus, $78,663,769.

War expenditure for the eleven months was $276,276,239. In February alone it was $31,494,703 as compared with $19,494,711 in February, 1918. The apparent increase being due largely to the passing of overseas accounts for previous expenditures.

In spite of prohibition, customs and excise revenues are keeping well ahead. Last month customs realized $10,520,000, as compared with $8,720,653 in February, 1918; excise, $2,358,235, as compared with $2,048,698.

The Dominions net debt now totals $1,389,756,300, an increase during the months of $27,184,740.

Where a Motion Was Just as Good.

In the woods just west of Thiaucourt a lieutenant in the sanitary corps went out to test the water in a near-by spring. While he was on this job he looked up just in time to see two Boches advancing. Although armed with nothing deadlier than a first-aid pouch, he made a motion toward his right hip. Immediately both Boches, catching the motion, lifted their hands in surrender.

Other Boches soon came forward from the woods, and each, coming suddenly upon the officer still making threatening motions toward his pistolless hip, surrendered in turn.

By the time a sergeant and five Yankee privates came along the lieutenant had a bag of 19 German prisoners to turn over to them.—Stars and Stripes.

THE GENIE AND THE MAGIC BOX

"AND THE GENIE FILLED THE BOX WITH THE MAGIC BALM."
Eastern Tale.

You don't believe in genii and fairies and magic boxes? Of course not! That is, not as they are told of in "Arabian Nights". But in other forms aren't they all around us? Isn't the aeroplane the Magic Flying Carpet? Isn't the wireless the genie who could speak all over the world? Hasn't science given you, in Zam-Buk, a veritable "Magic Box of healing"? Listen to this! Writes a lady from the West:

"From just one box of Zam-Buk we have had a wonderful amount of benefit. My husband's finger was crushed at work—Zam-Buk dressings healed it. My daughter burned her arm—Zam-Buk stopped the pain. My little son cut his head on rusty nail—Zam-Buk prevented festering and healed it. My sister had a sore heel, caused by ill-fitting shoe—Zam-Buk cured it. I have chapped hands—Zam-Buk healed them."

Isn't it truly marvellous that from one box of Zam-Buk so much benefit can be derived? This is only possible because Zam-Buk is all medicine, and is so highly concentrated that a small quantity of it is more effective than many times that quantity of ordinary ointment.

Radium and Mesothorium.

A short time ago we were told authoritatively that radium has no value in the treatment of cancer. Now we learn that the German authorities are buying the whole available supply for this very purpose, and German medical practice is of the severely conservative kind. Over a million dollars has been voted by various German municipalities for the purchase of radium, and this is about the value of the whole existing supply. It seems that there is another product similar to radium and with the same medical use. It is called mesothorium, a price is only $50.00 per gram. said that the Austrian government a practical monopoly of both radium and mesothorium.

"Yuuzhyual" Looks Funny.

The English Spelling Reform association has no use for the system suggested by Mr. Carnegie, but advocates a system based upon the doubling or doubling of letters. Sir William Ramsay told the British association recently that any one who looked at the system could learn to spell in five minutes; though he admitted that some of the words looked strange when spelled in the new way. "Usual," for instance, would be spelled "yuuzhyual."—New York World.

Overcrowding in Berlin.

Statistics published show the appalling scarcity of lodgings for the poor in Berlin. One house in the Ackerstrasse, in North Berlin, shelters over 3,000 people. The papers are warning people in the provinces against coming to look for work in Berlin. London Express.

Horseback Wrestling.

A new sport which became very popular among the soldiers in a Canadian training camp is horseback wrestling, says Popular Mechanics Magazine in an illustrated article. Two teams of ten men are mounted bareback at opposite sides of the field. At a given signal they charge toward each other, the object of each team being to dismount all of its opponents.

Dandruff Soon Ruins The Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

Ruth Tells Brian She is Going Back to Work

CHAPTER CXL

Strangely, during all this time neither Ruth nor Brian had discussed her working, neither had business affairs been mentioned. Ruth had not given up her plan of furnishing the office she had looked at for Brian, but he was still in no condition to work, perhaps would not be for several weeks. So while she still had the refusal of the place, she would surprise him when he was able to work.

Brian may have thought, because of her aunt's presence in their home—because of her kindness to him, that Ruth had given up her position permanently. Or having her with him constantly, he may not have thought of it at all. It was Brian's way to dismiss unpleasant subjects from his mind. And Ruth's work had always been an unpleasant subject.

So it was with a certain sense of shock that he heard Ruth say one morning:

"You are so well now, Brian, I will go back to the shop to-morrow. Mr. Mandel has been more than kind to let me off so long. Most employers would have filled the place with someone else, and I should have been out."

"You mean—you—are going back?"

"Why yes, of course."

Ruth spoke brightly, pretending not to notice his hesitancy, altho she had been acutely conscious of it.

"You didn't expect me to be idle always, did you? You do not need me now; my work certainly must have suffered while I have been away. Don't look like that, Brian! You knew I was going back, didn't you?"

"I hadn't thought about it," the answer was slowly given.

"I thought—because—your aunt"—

"You imagined I had given up my position because aunt was here! why Brian, I wouldn't have done that. You see I have been planning great things. She hasn't let me spend hardly any money for the house, and I have saved a lot. And"—

"I have also saved some, Ruth. I have saved a good half of it. I thought"—

"You didn't think we could live on what you earned, did you?"

Ruth didn't mean to be cruel. The question had slipped out unthinkingly. But Brian winced.

"I don't blame you for thinking I can't support you, Ruth. But perhaps"—

"It isn't only that, Brian. I am so much happier working." Ruth saw she had distressed him by her question and hastened to make amends.

"I know I never made you very happy, Ruth, but I told Mollie before I left that I was going to, after I got home. That I was coming back to hustle for you and the kid."

So he had talked his plans over with Mollie King! That was the one thing that had impressed Ruth.

Mollie's name had been mentioned but once or twice since he returned—only when he told of the work the nurses were doing "over there" or when he had answered some questions put by Mollie's friend, Mrs. Curtiss. Now the mention of the girl who had been the cause of much of Ruth's unhappiness affected her perhaps more than was either sensible or reasonable.

"We must not get into a discussion over my work." Ruth said as she bit her lip to keep back words she longed to say about Mollie King. Bitter words that she knew would only estrange them.

"No—evidently it is to go on just as before I went away. I had hoped"—

"Don't be a silly, Brian! My work won't interfere in any way with you or what you can do. I am earning a great deal—for a woman. More than many men. We can have many pleasures as well as comforts that we couldn't otherwise. You get well and get down to an office. You won't mind then."

"I shall always mind, Ruth."

"Nonsense!"

"Perhaps I am foolish, but I can't help it. I almost wish"—

The unfinished sentence conveyed nothing to Ruth, who was not looking at Brian at the time. Had she, she might have been enlightened by his expression, one of such discouragement, such real distress, that it surely would have told her something at least of his disappointment.

To-morrow—Brian Engages His Old Office.

Tobogganed to Matrimony.

The newest elopement trick was recently worked in Switzerland, where the parents of the couple went on a trip to the top of a mountain. While they were there the couple got a bobsled, coasted down the mountain side and were away on an express before the parents could get down the mountain on the railway.

A Man of Method.

Senator Carroll S. Page of Vermont is the most methodical man in public life. He is always the first man at breakfast at the hotel where he lives in Washington, because he is invariably on the threshold at the exact moment the dining room door is opened. Likewise he always enters the senate chamber exactly at the stroke of the hour. He carries his pocket money, so far as possible, in the form of $2.50 gold pieces.—New York Sun.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Sleepless Children.

Indigestion, hunger, excitement, too much home work in their lessons, fear of the dark and loneliness are the principal causes of sleeplessness in children.

Indigestion can generally be cured by giving them a pinch of bicarbonate of soda in a wineglassful of water.

If a child be hungry it should be fed on a glass of warm milk and some biscuits or any other light and easily digested food being given half an hour before going to bed.

No child under twelve or thirteen years of age should be allowed to study between supper and bedtime. It only tires the young brain and produces worry about the following day's work.

When a child is afraid of the dark it cannot help it and must be humored and treated with sympathy. It should be taught how foolish its fears are, but at the same time a light should be left in the room, care being taken that it does not cast dark shadows on walls and ceiling. The door should be left open that the child may hear the voices of others in the house.

Exciting games should not be played and exciting stories should not be told too near bedtime.

MOTHER, YOUR CHILD IS CROSS, FEVERISH FROM CONSTIPATION

IF TONGUE IS COATED, BREATH BAD, STOMACH SOUR, CLEAN LIVER AND BOWELS.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once — a teaspoonful to-day often saves a sick child to-morrow.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally — look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mother can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels, and sweeten the stomach, and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and from grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask the druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

WORDS IN NEW DRESSES.

Making Metagrams Is Now the Brainy Fad in England.

Some British newspapers are playing with a trick of spelling English words, the game being to make up a new spelling, in which none of the letters of the old spelling shall be used—that is, to substitute different letters that, in the positions into which they are put, will suggest the same sounds as the old spelling. The words thus undergo a complete change of costume.

Words so translated may be called "metagrams" or (in analogy with paraphrase) "paragrams." Two examples given are "phya" for fire and "phyoocha" for future. These involve pronunciations that most Americans do not use or would not accept. Another case of this kind would be "syfa" for cipher.

More exact "metagrams" or "paragrams" may be found—"cyphed" for stiff, "kauphy" for coffee, "phycks" for fix, "phychic" for fixed, "kauph" for cough, "kawphi" for coughed, "cy" for sigh, "canoue" for oak, "phanuque" for folk.—From Simplified Spelling Bulletin.

W.S.S.

WE were among the first to put up tea in sealed packages.

We were the first to use automatic electric weighing machines so as to insure accurate weights.

We were the first to make known the qualities of the now world-famous ASSAM teas.

And we are now the first to adopt a new package for the better protection of these fine quality teas.

The lead package has served its purpose well for generations, but it was easily broken or torn, allowing not only a loss of tea from the package but exposing the tea to the air, odors and dust that it was so necessary to protect the tea against.

Our new package—the waxed board carton—is stronger, more secure and more completely air tight; altogether the best container for tea that has yet been devised.

Personal Reasons.

The Liberty bond squad had some interesting experiences. "I am not subscribing for this $50 Liberty bond to please you," explained a woman, as doleful as she is wealthy. "I am doing it to please my own self."

"Make it $100," said the young solicitor, "and give yourself one roaring, rousing good time."

A SLUGGISH LIVER CAUSED SEVERE HEADACHES

The duty of the liver is to prepare and secrete bile and serve as a filter to the blood, cleansing it of all impurities and poisons.

Healthy bile in sufficient quantity is Nature's provision to secure regular action of the bowels, and when the liver is sluggish it is not working properly, and does not manufacture enough bile to thoroughly act on the bowels and carry off the waste products from the system, hence the bowels become clogged up, the bile gets into the blood, constipation sets in, followed by sick and bilious headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, heartburn, water brash, bad taste in the mouth in the morning, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, etc.

Miss Dian Clark, Myer's Cove, Ont., writes:—"I take pleasure in writing you concerning the good I have received by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for a sluggish liver. When my liver got bad I would have severe headaches, but I got better after I had used a couple of vials of your pills."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills gently unlock the secretion, clear away all waste and effete matter by acting directly on the liver, and make the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FRENCH DEVOTED TO HOMES

To a Greater Degree Than Perhaps Any Other People They Love Their Native Places.

In counting the sorrows that have fallen upon France one must remember that her people, for the most part, have no wandering instinct in their blood; various causes, temperamental, economic, have made of them a race that roots stubbornly. A race that plans forward, that builds and saves and stints; that has little careless trust in the future, in the haphazard turn of events; that holds to what it has and improves it unadventurously but steadily; a race, in the provinces especially, of small owners, small landholders, small shopkeepers. With such the roots are driven deep into the soil, are entwined about the house they seldom move from; for which reason the towns in which they and their fathers have dwelt have a lasting individuality unknown with more emigrant races. And for the same reason, I make no doubt that when they are driven forth by the chances of war their suffering is greater than that of a people as instinctively emigrant as ourselves. To the Frenchman, home is in very truth an abiding place, and the unknown and unsettled future a greater dread than with us. Always I shall remember the dulled, tight-lipped faces of the older women of the town; of one, in particular, who stared through the splintered windows of the little shop that was her home, not seeming to hear while I stumbled out my sympathy, resentful and silent in her hopelessness. The little shop and the rooms behind it had been life and the world to herself and her husband for years. . . . None of them was emotional outwardly; but their mouths and their eyes were despairing.—Cicely Hamilton in the North American Review.

Skipper Wringe's Career.

Captain Robert Wringe, who seems likely to command Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, Shamrock IV., when she races for the America's cup a year hence, gained first hand knowledge of the American coast conditions when he was skipper of the Mission for August Belmont in 1903. He also added to his knowledge of the Atlantic coast currents, tides and winds as skipper of the challenge sloop Shamrock II. when he sailed that craft for Sir Thomas Lipton in the international races in 1908. He was in an advisory capacity aboard the Shamrock I.

STOP CATARRH! OPEN NOSTRILS AND HEAD

Sips Cream Applied Into Nostrils Relieves Head-Cold at Once.

If your nostrils are closed and your head is stuffed, and you can't breathe freely because of a cold or catarrh, just get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate the cause; every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the inflamed, swollen mucous membrane and you get instant relief.

Ah! how good it feels. Your nostrils are open, your head is clear, no more hawking, snuffling, blowing; no more headache, dullness or struggling for breath. Ely's Cream Balm is just what sufferers from head colds and catarrh need. It's a delight.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A WEDDING PRESENT

She Simply Had to Have It

By MARTHA M'CULLOCH-WILLIAMS

"I won't! I say it! I mean it! I won't! Not now, never, nor the next day! So there!" Adela cried, her fingers tight in her ears and stamping her foot hard.

"That's a pity! Such a pity!" Billy Bruce murmured, with his most engaging smile. "A pity you say it, I mean, because I know and you know perfectly that you will."

"Who's going to make me, or what? Certainly not you, not the little old scrap of a fortune," Adela retorted, sticking out her chin. Billy laughed softly, hardly more than a chuckle.

"True, we don't amount to much, the fortune and I," he said. "Still, there's rather more to us than you can get any other way."

"Oh, you think so? Your modesty won't kill you, not for a long time yet," Adela broke in, with a wicked toss of the head. Billy made her his best bow, saying half plaintively: "You didn't notice I held up my fingers for quotation marks. I was quoting—from Bob Torrens. He talked you over down at the hotel."

"I don't believe it! How dared you let him? What did he say?" Adela shot at him, a round red spot blazing in either cheek.

"He didn't say much—after I got to him. Benny Driggs was with him. They were going on at a great rate until I came. No; he spoke no harm of—anybody. Indeed, he was more sensible than one might reasonably expect," Billy continued.

"Unless you tell me I shall go straight and ask him—ask him if he said anything at all about me," Adela cried, her lip curling faintly. Billy stood a thought straighter. "You can't do that. He's leaving on the evening train. It's due, just about," he said. "I don't think you can mean to imply that I'm lying. I wouldn't do that if it would make you love me. Torrens said this, as nearly as I can recall his words: 'It is a good thing the little Ware girl has her future all settled for her. She's pretty enough, madcap enough, to make history, lots of it, if she had a free rein. And really Billy Bruce, plus $50,000, ought to console her fairly for losing me.'"

"You—what did you say?" Adela demanded, sparks at the bottom of her eyes. Billy's mouth was set into a grimmish smile. "It didn't seem to me a time for talking," he said. "I said nothing, but Mr. Torrens got off the plazza—and thought he was going to get off the earth about two seconds later—while I explained to the rest that I felt myself insulted by the color of his politics."

"Is that why he's going away?" Adela asked in a faint, small voice. Billy nodded. "I reckon so," he said. "Maybe he'll write and give you another reason. I think he had engaged to call on you tonight."

Adela put both her hands over her face and for a minute cried stormily. Billy watched her with something big and hard in his throat. Suddenly she flung down her hands and faced him, teary and woebegone. She was badly spoiled, impatient withal and selfish with the selfishness of eighteen.

"By all the rules of the game I ought to give in to you at once," she said, snapping out the words, "but I won't do it. Go away! I hate you—almost as much as I hate that," stopping and choking. "I don't want to see you—ever again—not unless my mind changes. I do not want to see—any man at all."

"All right, I'll vanish," Billy said half wistfully. "But, Dell, have you thought of this? If you mope at home, seeing nobody at all, the town will have it you're breaking your heart for Torrens. Now I think of it, my going will help a lot. You can reasonably be supposed to be grieving after me."

"Oh, you'll kill me!" Adela moaned. "But where are you going? Not that it matters—if only you stay away!"

"I shall stay a couple of years. I'll take about that time for leisurely globe trotting," Billy said craftfully. "I've all along had it in mind, though I didn't mention it. I hoped so much we could go together."

Adela stared at him, forgetting in her amazement to cry. "Of all things!" she ejaculated. "Why, Billy! I never thought you'd care to go a hundred miles from home. You—you've been always so careful about money. Not that you were mean, but you didn't"—

"Make a splash," Billy supplemented as she stopped for a word. "No. That always seemed to be foolish and in mighty bad taste. But I shall be able to afford a lot of things now. You see, I began to let the rents of my farm accumulate as soon as grandad's will was read, giving us to each other. Money grows a lot when you leave it for ten years and put more to it every little while. I kept my mouth shut about it, but many a time I've told myself, 'This to give Dell the wedding present she'll like best in the world.'"

"Why didn't you tell me?" Adela said fretfully. Billy smiled, but drew a long breath.

"Telling would have broken the charm," he said. "I wanted to surprise you, and I didn't want to bribe you into taking me. I shouldn't be telling you even now if you hadn't made me see there is no chance of our coming together."

"Then why don't you go away?" Adela said, more than ever fretful. She was on the verge of fresh tears—tears she would not for the world let him see. If life had depended on it she would not have admitted, even to herself, that they were more for the hurt to her pride involved in his going without her than for the crushing out of what but yesterday she had fancied was her one true love.

Torrens had awakened it—Torrens, with his gay elegance, his careless, easy assumption of authority, so unlike Billy's respectful adoration. Billy was the inevitable, the commonplace. Therefore she had resented him even more than she had resented the family disposition of her hand.

Torrens had fascinated her from the beginning. She had felt it would be so finely romantic to fling away a lover and a fortune for his dear sake. And he had asked her to do it—a hundred times at least—as plainly as anything could be asked without words.

And now he had gone at Billy's bidding—gone without a word to her. Sharp across her consciousness had come the whistle of the departing train. In a passion of anger and humiliation she turned again upon Billy, saying in her hardest voice:

"Go tell everybody you threw me over—because of—the other—and don't let me see you ever again."

She was sorry for the speech before the gate shut behind Billy, sorrier still as the days drew it to a week—a week full of idle and wandering over Billy's approaching departure. She had not seen him again even at a distance. Daily he walked a block about rather than pass her gate. He did more—gave up his share in the money, putting the whole of it safely in trust for Adela. When word of it was brought to her she turned away her face, ran upstairs and was invisible until next day.

Torrens had written—a light, graceful, lying letter, pleading imperative business in excuse for his seeming rudeness, and at the very end hinting at wishing her joy with Billy. She tore the letter furiously into small bits and next minute wished she had sent it to Billy instead.

Billy was going that night—upon the same train that had taken Torrens away. All day Adela thought of him. All day she fought with herself.

At 5 o'clock she began furiously to make some small preparations. At 6, cloaked and bonneted, with a traveling bag clutched in her hands, she stole down side streets to the station and shrank into hiding there.

Billy would not come for half an hour. The train came at 7, but she must be in time. She had on a thick veil and had chosen the most muffling of her wraps. Thus nobody recognised her, not even Billy when he came in, the center of a hearty group.

They laughed and jested with him, all talking at once and very fast. They slapped him on the shoulder and poked him in the ribs, but somehow they were not very merry. Billy himself was not merry, though he kept up his part manfully.

Adela, watching from her covert, saw lines in his face unseen before. Otherwise she might have lacked courage for the desperate thing she had to do. It was a desperate thing, considering what had come and gone, to walk out and say in a weak, small voice, but so all could hear: "Billy—I—have changed my mind. I—I want my wedding present after all. Yes, there's time. I—I sent word to the minister to have everything ready, you see. I knew I could depend on you."

The Waste In Storms.

Many scientists and captains of industry must sigh during a thunderstorm at the vast power running to waste in the heavens, and at sundry times attempts have been made to entrap and utilise the energy of lightning. So far, however, all these have been insignificant results. By way of experiment huge rocks have been split asunder by attracting the lightning to them, and in a few isolated cases it has been claimed that paralysis has been cured by shocks administered by lightning, but as yet man's ingenuity has not devised the harness that will turn the wild, free agent of the heavens into tractable "horsepower."—London Spectator.

The Prayer He Didn't Make.

In a certain parish near Dumfries a newly-made elder was summoned to the sick bed of a parishioner. Being naturally a bashful man, he was in great anxiety as to the "prayer he wad ha'e to pit up" and wished to avoid going altogether. At length he was persuaded by his wife and started on his errand. On his return his wife greeted him with the query:

"And how did ye get on, William?"

"Oh, grand! He was deid."—Dundee Advertiser.

Potash in Canada.

The discovery of a large deposit of potash in Saskatchewan is of great national importance to Canada. The only other considerable deposit on this continent, as far as known, is at Searles Lake, in California. This is being developed under the auspices of the American government. The Dominion and Saskatchewan governments should make sure that the new deposits are made productive as soon as possible by the owners.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Don't stay upset! Eat a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin and instantly your stomach feels fine. All the indigestion pain, gases, acidity and misery in the stomach ends.

Pape's Diapepsin tablets cost little at any drug store but there is no surer or quicker stomach relief known.

Drifting Mines.

It is stated that twenty-five mines were sighted by a steamer recently off the Atlantic coast. There will probably be many floating mines for months to come and doubtless some marine accidents will result. Of course, measures will be taken to pick up and destroy these menaces to navigation, but it is almost impossible that all should be found, and ship captains must run a certain degree of risk. After the Russo-Japanese war ships were sunk for a long time after the cessation of hostilities, as mines were carried out into the Pacific, some of them torn from their moorings and others being drifting mines. It is not known how many free mines the Germans set afloat, but it is believed a great number were thus started forth on missions of destruction. Fortunately the trend of the current in the North Sea is into the gulf stream, flowing toward Spitzbergen. There is a return current west of Iceland which might bring mines back by the Labrador current into the navigation zone between the gulf stream and the coasts of Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, and northeastern United States, which is the principal steamer lane. Mines that chance to work their way through the English Channel might get down into the Canaries current, and so flow into the gulf stream from the south. Were the current conditions otherwise than they are the danger from this source would be extremely grave. Mine sweeping must be continued with unremitting diligence until the seas are made safe again.

NO TIME TO WASTE ENERGY

Western Poet Offers Good Advice When He Says, Forget That Said Pate for the Present.

Lives there a man with soul so dead that never to himself he's said, when the hair on his pate once thick, began a-looking thin and sick: "I'll put some dope on that there hair and soon have foliage to spare." Lives there a man who has not spent his last red solitary cent for dope the baldhead druggist said would bring more hair upon his head. Nay. Man seeks the far solitude and rubs his shining pate with crude, or rubs a pint of vaseline each night onto his polished beam, rubs all the dope he can afford on to the thing he calls his gourd then to the druggist doth cavort, and buyeth mange cure by the quart; but all his labor is in vain, he never grows another mane. Man that is born of woman is of few hairs and a funny pate. He thinketh in his bosom he would look young as he used to be if he could on his poll unwurn bare contrive another crop of hair. Oh man! O bifurcated gent! don't chase the hair that long has went. That his is picayunish biz. Use all the energy that is, and all of your hair money for the winning of this dreadful war. In this here war game don't you know you should be in the baldhead row.—Judd Mortimer Lewis, in Houston Post.

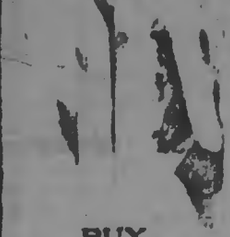
How to Become a Bond Holder

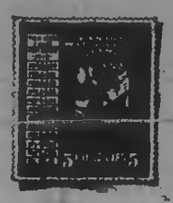
A SIMPLE SUM FOR SHAVERS

A man shaves every other day at a cost of 20 cents per shave. If he buys a Gillette Safety Razor, how many War-Savings Stamps (which are "baby bonds") can he buy with the money he thus saves between March 1st and the end of the year?

And what will those stamps, or "bonds", be worth on Jan. 1st, 1924.



BUY W.S.S. WAR-SAVINGS STAMPS



METHOD—

At 20 cents a shave every other day, the cost per week would be. . . . 20c. x 7 ÷ 2 = 70c.

A man can shave every day in the week with one Gillette blade, which costs 8c. Add for soap, etc, 2c; total, 10c.

Therefore, amount saved per week by shaving with a Gillette Safety Razor equals 60c.

From the first Monday in March to the last Monday in December is 43 weeks, during which the net saving by Gillette shaving is 60c. x 43 = $25.80.

Deduct $5.00, the price of the Gillette Safety Razor, and with the remainder the man buys 5 War-Savings Stamps, at four dollars and a few cents each.

On January 1st, 1924, these 5 W.S.S. will be worth $25.00, representing one year's shaving saving, and the Gillette Safety Razor is paid for and still in daily use.

This shows how systematic saving along only one line mounts up. Naturally, this particular example will not apply to all who should be buying War-Savings Stamps. Men who already use the Gillette Safety Razor, and women and children generally will find other expenses which can be cut down without material loss, or indeed, any loss of comfort.

The man who was paying 20 cents for a shave, should buy a Thrift Stamp every other day, at a cost of 25 cents, so that he would not be tempted to spend needlessly the money saved.

SAVE—and buy War-Savings Stamps.

A COMING MAN.

Andre Tardieu Highly Esteemed by the French.

The coming man of France is Andre Tardieu, just made Minister of French and American Affairs.

Anybody in Paris will tell you that Tardieu will be the next Prime Minister of France.

Clemenceau is 77 years old, eating out his energy as the war ruler of France.

Therefore, next to Clemenceau—Andre Tardieu.

Tardieu is only 41. He was born in Paris. He has served France as diplomat, journalist, professor, soldier and emissary to America. Since last July he has been welding Franco-American friendship closer and closer as chief of the high-commission of Franco-American affairs, a post now made permanent by a portfolio in the French Cabinet.

Tardieu has a well-balanced, comprehensive mind. He's quick on the trigger, as Clemenceau is; he's a man of action, of instant decisions. He's witty and jolly — again like Clemenceau. And he's not at all of the old type of politician; nor is Clemenceau, in spite of his years.

Before the war Tardieu was sent to the United States to lecture at Harvard.

Tardieu volunteered for war service in August, 1914, became second lieutenant. He was with Foch at Fere-Champenoise when the future generalissimo of the allied armies delivered the master stroke of the battle of the Marne, in 1914. He was with Foch at the battle of the Yser.

Quickly Tardieu became a captain. He was given the task of organizing the first photo section of the French army. But that wasn't exciting enough. Next, he appeared in the thick of the fighting as commander of a company of "Blue Devils." He got the Croix de Guerre for gallantry, too.

In 1917 he was appointed high commissioner to America. He wrestled with the problem of France's food supply; he took the ablest French instructors to America to instruct in the art of war, and he guided America's industrial war effort.

Tardieu, in the diplomatic service, served apprenticeship at the French Embassy in Berlin. There he studied and digested that Bismarckian diplomacy against the ascendancy of which he has dedicated his life.

He early saw the Prussian menace, and defended the law which imposed three years of military service on the youth of France.

Tardieu comes of the solid bourgeoise, of a family of physicians and architects.

The Super-Movie.

A quarter of a million sterling is the preliminary fee which is being paid to Edmund Lysle, a young American, for the option on his invention which promises to revolutionize the entire motion-picture industry.

He has perfected a moving picture in which every optical characteristic—line, motion and color—is apparent. A complete record of everything photographed is now obtainable instead of a partial record—for Mr. Lysle's invention has done away with the shutter, and instead of a series of separate pictures this process reveals a continuous motion picture.

The motion picture of to-day only gives a partial record of whatever is photographed. For the presence of the shutter prevents a perfect record, in addition to causing the flicker that is so trying.

The new process is based on more than 50 separate inventions—optical, chemical and mechanical. Not only is an entirely new kind of camera necessary to take pictures by this method, but a specially prepared film sensitized to differentiate between colors must be employed, as well as a new type of projection machine.

The films in use to-day only distinguish between black and white or intermediate tones of grey. For instance, if a red rose is photographed in a blue vase the result will be black. The film used by Mr. Lysle is known as a pan-chromatic film, which means that it is sensitive to all colors.

At first colored pictures will be introduced only in the more important theatres, as their cost will be far greater than those made at present. But their superiority is so great that they will, it is said, gradually supplant the present-day pictures.—Tit-Bits.

GIRLS! MAKE A BEAUTY LOTION WITH LEMONS

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quart (a pint of the most wonderful lemon skin whitener and complexion beautifier by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then the lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove all blemishes as freckles, sallowness or tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smoother and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to whiten, soften, freshen and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin. It is truly marvelous to smoothen rough, red hands.

A National Air.

Regimental bands piped the French into Colmar and Strasbourg to the tune of "Vous n'aurez pas l'Alsace et la Lorraine." It is one of the few airs which have survived from the multiplicity born of that period of storm and stress following upon the Franco-German war. "Vous n'aurez pas" was the result of a flash of inspiration on the part of its author, Ben Tayou, just as was Rouget de l'Isle's "Marseillaise" will be sung long after "Vous n'aurez pas" has been forgotten. Ben Tayou's song will have been the song of stirring and happy days of French history.

Insects and Strangers.

Naturalists for a long time were at a loss to understand how it was that insects were enabled so quickly to recognize an intruder among their family or settlement. It has been determined that in most cases they recognize each other by smell. Among the bees each distinctive class of workers—the guard, the fanner, the pollen carrier, the waxmaker, the architect, etc.—has its own distinctive odor. And besides this each bee has its own separate hive odor, which is its passport into its own particular home.

CONDITIONING HORSES

Must Start Four to Six Weeks Before Spring Work Begins.

Time Now to Build Hotbeds—How to Construct It. Ventilation and Watering Most Difficult Problems, Injure Early Vegetables.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

THE experienced farmer knows the importance of having his horses in the best possible condition to stand the strenuous work of spring. Upon his horse power depends, in no small degree, his success in getting his seed sown early in a well-prepared seed bed in the proper tilth to bring best possible returns, for early seeding and a deep, fine seed-bed mean more bushels in the granary in the fall.

The actual practice of conditioning for spring work should commence from four to six weeks before the land is likely to be ready for the plough or cultivator. All changes in feeding should be made gradually. Straw in the roughage ration should gradually be replaced by hay until finally nothing but good quality hay is being fed. Careful feeders generally save their best hay for the spring work. The horse that has been getting little or no grain must not be immediately put on a full ration. Commence with a small feed, say half a gallon of rolled oats or, at most, twice per day and gradually increase this as spring draws near until the horse is approaching full feed. While the horse is still idle the percentage of roughage fed to the whole ration may be continued large. That is, a full feed of concentrates is not necessary until work begins but something approaching a full feed should be reached just before seeding opens. Once hard work has begun the grain or concentrate ration must be gradually increased and the roughage proportionately decreased. The more severe the labor the smaller the proportion of roughage and the larger the proportion of concentrates should be fed. From eight to fourteen pounds of oats per day, according to weight of animal, should be enough for the average farm horse just before seeding starts and something in the neighborhood of one pound to one and one-half pounds of roughage per 100 pounds of the animal's weight should be fair feeding. Regular cleaning is important as it aids shedding and improves the coat of the animal. As the feed is increased so should the exercise increase.

Farm teams should be hitched daily during the "conditioning" period that their muscles become hardened and that their shoulders gain the power of resistance to prevent galls and sore later on. Preparation for the spring work should be a fleshing and hardening process, and it cannot be accomplished without good feeding, grooming and regular light work in harness. When heavy work begins, gradually increase the grain feed up to from ten to eighteen pounds daily according to the weight of the horse, and the hay to such an extent that the animal is getting a total ration of grain and roughage of from two to three pounds per hundred pounds of horse, this depending on condition and amount of work done. Always give plenty of pure water, mostly before feeding grain if possible.—Prof. Wade Toole, O. A. College, Guelph, Ont.

Starting Early Plants.

Growers desire to have vegetables as early as possible, and for this reason it is necessary to start plants like cabbage, cauliflower and beets in hotbeds. Others like tomatoes and peppers have too long a season of growth to ripen a sufficient amount of the crop to make it pay. This method gives us from four to six weeks start.

Hot beds should be on the south side of a fence or building. Obtain good fresh manure, turn twice to get fermentation well started. Put it in a pile about eighteen inches to two feet in height, and a foot larger each way than the frame, being careful to tramp it thoroughly. To do this put it up in layers of six inches. Then put on the frame, which should be eighteen inches at the back and twelve inches at the front, facing south. Put in four to six inches of soil and put on the glass. Air every days for the first four days to get rid of the gases generated by the fermentation. The soil is then raked and made ready for seed sowing.

The seed is generally sown in rows three inches apart, about 10 seeds to the inch. When the seedlings are showing the first true leaf they are transplanted to other beds, the plants being set two inches apart each way. With cabbage, cauliflower, beets and lettuce, this one transplanting is all that is necessary. Tomatoes, egg plants, pepper and such plants require two transplantings, the last one four inches apart each way, or into four inch clay pots or quart berry baskets.

Ventilation and watering are the two most difficult problems in hot-bed management. Ventilation should be given whenever possible. Even on stormy days the sash should be lifted even if it is only the thickness of a lath that is placed under it. Many growers use a piece of lath three inches long. This gives them three different distances of ventilation, and it may be laid on the glass when not in use, and will be always ready. Always have the opening away from the wind. You should also ventilate after watering to prevent scalding.

Water carefully, only give what the plant requires, especially in the early season, and only in bright days, in the morning. The plants must be dried off by night. As the plants grow the watering will, of necessity, be oftener, but care and thought should be used at all time.—H. MacLennan, Vegetable specialist.

Unfashionable to Owe Your Tailor.

I was told some time ago that the millionaires have actually made it fashionable for young men to pay their tailors. This was a reform indeed, and the west end gasped with surprise. Only the most obstinate of the most impecunious of our gilded youth are holding out against this innovation as monstrously bourgeois. The tailors of course are delighted. They say that the reason the millionaires have started this idea is that they get discount for ready money, so you see that, like many another reform, the present one originates in no very exalted motive.—London Gentlewoman.

Had Hacking Cough

Couldn't Sleep Nights.

Hacking coughs are very wearing on the system. The constant coughing disturbs the rest, and keeps the lungs and bronchial tubes in an irritated and inflamed conditions.

Don't neglect the hacking cough. You can get rid of it with a few doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup; the most prompt, pleasant tated and inflamed condition.

Miss Catherine M. McLean, Craik, Sask., writes:—"Last winter I caught a heavy cold and was laid up for some time. I had such a hacking cough I couldn't sleep at night. I didn't think I would get over it. One day a friend dropped in to see me and was surprised to see how bad my cough was. She advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. The next day I sent for a bottle, and I soon got relief, and by the time I had taken two bottles, my cough was all gone, and now I am able to do my work again. I don't think there is anything to equal it."

There are plenty of "pine" preparations on the market trying to live on the reputation of "Dr. Wood's." The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, price 25c and 50c a bottle. Put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Veiled the Portrait.

This concerns a portrait in Portugal. There was in the salon of honor of the Congregation of the Faculty of Medicine at Lisbon a portrait of the former king, Dom Carlos I. The permanent retention of this portrait troubled the slumber of the minister of instruction of the republic of Portugal, who, however, had no power to demand that it be removed. So he expressed to some members of the faculty the desire that this reminder of sovereignty should be covered with a veil, and this has been done.—Gazeta de Noticias of Rio de Janeiro.

SAYS HOT WATER WASHES POISONS FROM THE LIVER

Everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it, before breakfast.

To feel as fine as the proverbial fiddle, we must keep the liver washed clean, almost every morning, to prevent its sponge-like pores from clogging with indigestible material, sour bile and poisonous toxins, says a noted physician.

If you get headaches, it's your liver unclean-liness. Your liver is the your liver. If you wake up with a bad taste, furred tongue, nasty breath or stomach becomes rancid, it's your liver. Sallow skin, muddy complexion, watery eyes all denote liver uncleanliness. Your liver is the most important, also the most abused and neglected organ of the body. Few know its function, how to release the clogged-up body waste, bile and toxins. Most folks resort to violent calomel, which is dangerous salivating chemical which can only be used occasionally because it accumulates in the tissues, also attacks the bones.

Every man and woman, sick or well, should drink each morning before breakfast, a glass hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, to wash from the liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, the poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Limestone phosphate does not restrict the diet like calomel, because it can not salivate, for it is harmless and you can eat anything afterwards. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, and any pharmacist will sell you a quarter pound which is sufficient for a demonstration of how hot water and limestone phosphate cleans, stimulates and freshens the liver, keeping Must Spell Incorrectly.

Beware of correct spelling, that is to say, beware of it in Russia, that land of topsyturvydom. Understand that correct spelling is an unmistakable proof of a bourgeois education, hence anathema to the Bolsheviki. A Bolshevist newspaper recently published advice warning its correspondents that correctly spelled manuscripts would not be published, nor even considered, "because only bourgeois write in accordance with the rules of syntax." A printer who had shown distaste for simplified spelling was fined 5,000 roubles, and another was imprisoned for a similar offence. Even a Swiss subject was made to pay a 5,000-rouble fine because, in a publication printed for the German Consulate, he had dared to be—bourgeois.

Opposition Prepares to Investigate Sale of Several Timber Limits

All Documentary Evidence is Asked For—Not Satisfied With Reply of Howard Ferguson.

NON-DEVELOPMENT

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, March 11.—The Opposition has taken the sale of the Carrick timber lands under its wing with a vengeance and demands the sifting to the bottom of the transaction involving the sale and non-development of pulp wood limits in the Black Sturgeon and Pic River districts. The Liberals are determined to draw from the government all the information possible in connection with the alienation from the Crown of these particular limits. The reply last Friday by Hon. Howard Ferguson, Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines, to questions proposed by Mr. Proudfoot at the opening of the session failed to convince the Opposition leader that there is not a "nigger in the wood-pile," and so Mr. Proudfoot has made a motion in the Legislature for the return on Wednesday of copies of all documents covering the original sale to J. J. Carrick, of Port Arthur, of certain pulp wood limits in the Pic River and Black Sturgeon River districts of Thunder Bay, and copies of all agreements connected with the manner or supplementary thereto.

The Liberal leader also asks for copies of all letters and telegrams which passed between the government or any members or official of it, and Mr. Carrick or any one in his behalf, in reference to the above limits.

Strong Campaign.

These notices of motion presage a strong campaign in the matter by the Opposition forces in view of the fact that Mr. Proudfoot on Friday asked if the government did not dispose of these limits to Carrick, and had he complied with the conditions of the sale. This was followed up with the question if any returns had been made to the government from the pulpwood cut.

Hon. Howard Ferguson has answered the Liberals in the following terms: "The Pic River limit was sold by tender to J. J. Carrick, Dec. 1, 1916. The Black Sturgeon limit was sold by tender to S. A. Marks, Feb. 1, 1917. This limit was subsequently transferred by Marks to Carrick. The plant to be erected is dependent upon power development at Nipigon. On account of war conditions this development was deferred, but the work in connection with both power and industrial development is now under way. For the above reasons no cutting operations have been carried on, and therefore no returns have been sent in."

MUNICIPALITIES TO CONTROL SALE OF ALL FRESH MEATS

This is Purpose of Measure Introduced in the Provincial House.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, March 11.—The possibility of cities having municipal abbatoirs, being able to control the sale of all fresh meats other than those slaughtered in abbatoirs under Dominion government inspection, as well as carcasses slaughtered by farmers and offered for sale in the city will become a reality if the measure introduced by George C. Hurdman, of Ottawa, Liberal whip in the Legislature, this afternoon, is incorporated in the laws of the province.

A similar bill to this was introduced last session, but the fact that it did come down until the legislative programme was nearly completed, compelled the government to refuse its second reading. Assurance has been given, however, that the measure will be sent on to the municipal committee, where it can receive the fullest consideration. It is stated that the principle involved has now received the endorsation of the Federal government, and it is believed that the municipalities generally will give it their support. Since the bill will practically force small slaughter houses to have all their cattle inspected in the municipal abbatoir, and will place all farmers under the necessity of civic inspection before they can offer any meat for sale within the municipality which has an abbatoir, it is certain that warm opposition to the project will develop among the farmer members of the House.

Sale of Farm Stock and Implements on 19th

A sale of implements and stock will be held on Mr. John Harper's farm, North Monaghan, on Wednesday, March 19th, beginning at 1 p.m., and not at 10 o'clock as announced on posters. Mr. Harper has sold his farm to Mr. Henry Adamson. The Harper farm is about half a mile west of May's school house.

NOTHING OFFICIAL ON THE SITUATION

(United Press.)

ALBANY, N.Y., March 11.—As yet no state troops have been ordered mobilized in anticipation of trouble in Buffalo, it was said at the office of the Adjutant General to-day. Inquiries at the office were met with the reply "There's nothing official on the situation yet." Adjutant General Berry has returned from Buffalo, where he has been making a survey of conditions, and says there is no unusual situation there.

Speeding Up Demobilization

Siberian Force to Return Home Soon—Serious Charge of Sir Sam Hughes.

GREAT EGOTIST

OTTAWA, March 11.— Steps which the Government has taken to facilitate the demobilization of the Canadian Expeditionary Force and the reabsorption of its members into civil life were dealt with by Hon. S. C. Mewburn during the debate on the speech from the Throne in the Commons yesterday.

Lack of ocean tonnage and the fact that the railways declared they were unable to handle more than 30,000 men a month during the winter had so far limited the rate at which the soldiers were being repatriated. Gen. Mewburn hoped that in the summer when the ports of Quebec and Montreal could be utilized the rate would be increased to 50,000 a month.

The Siberian Expedition.

General Mewburn devoted some time to a justification of the course of the Dominion Government in sending a military force to Siberia. He pointed to the military situation a year ago which made it desirable to assist the Czecho-Slovaks in Russia, to help the Russian people throw off the German yoke, to prevent Germany from exploiting Russian resources and from concentrating all her attention upon the front in Belgium and France. Great Britain had urged Canada to contribute men for a Siberian expedition, in which all the allied nations were represented. To this request the Dominion Government could not refuse to accede. The men who had gone to Siberia, however, General Mewburn announced, would be returned to Canada at an early date.

Arm Chair Soldiers.

Colonel R. G. Cooper, M.P. for South Victoria, and a veteran of the First Canadian Division, which saved the situation at St. Julien, launched a smashing attack on Lieut.-General Sir Sam Hughes. With rich sarcasm and withering expressions of contempt for "the arm chair critic who did not fight." Colonel Cooper disposed of the ghastly charge of the ex-Minister of Militia that thousands of brave young Canadians were slaughtered wholesale with the sole object of winning glory for their Commanding Officer.

Honorary General v. Sergeant.

Colonel Cooper maintained that General Hughes did not know what he was talking about. "General Hughes," he said, "has some claim to distinction in regard to winning the South African war. He is now an Honorary Lieutenant-General, and for this reason should at least be as au fait with matters of a military nature as a Sergeant. But a Sergeant would not have made such a foolish statement as that of General Hughes.

Challenges the Great Egotist.

"The egotism and dogmatism of General Hughes are absolutely inimitable," he said. "But Canadian brothers-in-arms will not stand for one moment any reflection being cast upon their fellow-soldiers of Britain. I know the Durham Light Infantry. I saw them fight. General Hughes says they ran away. It is not true. They retired in perfect order—too perfect order. They retired in platoons, and I saw them cut to pieces, leaving their dead in swaths. Free speech is all very well, but free speech of the Hughes variety is very bad."

PLUNKETT RETURNING

Speeches in the United States Were Not Approved by the Sinn Feiners.

IRISH QUESTION

(United Press.)

BOSTON, Mass, March 11th. — Sir Horace Plunkett, the Irish statesman, left here to-day after a brief visit, during which he made several addresses that brought forth sharp criticism from Irish leaders here.

Plunkett's statement against severing the ties between England and Ireland was met by a storm of disproval from many quarters, particularly the Sinn Fein Society, and the friends of Irish freedom.

Matthew Cummins, a former head of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, declared

"Sir Horace Plunkett should come out in his true colors, namely as an agent of the British government. His mission is English propaganda, pure and simple. The few nice things he has said regarding Ireland have been mere camouflage."

Investigation Still Under Way

Admit the Police were Legally Justified in Stopping the Gambling Game.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, March 11th. — Investigation of Sunday's riot in the Strand in which American soldiers and sailors and Canadian and Australian soldiers clashed with the London civil police, was continued to-day. It was expected to clear up such disputed points as to whether an American military policeman attempted to draw a revolver and whether the English policemen were unduly rough.

The American army officials admit that the police were legally justified in stopping gambling but suggested that the trouble would have been avoided if the Y.M.C.A. authorities had asked the American military policemen, instead of the London police to stop the crap game, over which the disturbance originated.

"Unless and until the men involved are condemned by a court of inquiry, the public should withhold condemnation," the News said to-day. "The affair is distinctly less serious that at first appeared."

THE DOOR IS NOW OPEN

Peterboro Firms Should Benefit as a Result of New Ruling.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, March 11 —"This is the brightest day since the armistice," was the cheerful comment of a high administration official to-day, referring to the lifting of trade restrictions by Great Britain. He felt the action of the British government was an encouragement to the industrial interests of Canada, and an opening for greatly improved business.

From a position of being discriminated against Canada now finds she has a preference as compared with the United States. This feature is not overly emphasized for it may be only a temporary condition. The principal fact is that certain Canadian goods can now go to Great Britain, helping both the country that receives and the country that sends.

Shipping Facilities.

The change does not necessarily mean an immediate and complete boom in trade. Shipping facilities are still difficult, and in some cases, doubt is expressed as to the ability of Canadian firms to supply the goods required for export trade. Now that the door is open, however, minor difficulties should be overcome, and export trade take on a definite development.

Over 900 representatives of Canadian firms are now overseas, and they should be able to obtain orders. Then it is up to these firms to fill the orders with a class of goods that will win a prominent place in the British market. Among other things for which demands have already been made and which have been held back only because of restrictions are bottles, tires, wall paper, cotton cloths, boots and shoes and woollen ware, timber, leather, wire nails, cultivators, lawn mowers and condensed milk.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE

Yesterday's Session Was Attended by Premiers of England and France.

WAITING FOR WILSON

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, March 11.—The presence of Premier Lloyd George in Paris is permitting of daily conferences of Premiers of Powers as a sort of steering committee to direct the course of the main work of the conference.

The session yesterday was attended by Premiers Clemenceau, Lloyd George and Colonel E. M. House, representing President Wilson. Premier Orlando of Italy will join the other Premier to-day, and when President Wilson arrives it is expected that these conferences of government heads will gradually take the place of Council of Great Powers, which experience has shown to give too much time to speeches.

Conferences of Premiers, on the other hand, are providing an effective organization for rapid discharge of business. The rapidity measures drafting of peace within limits fixed a week from next Thursday.

Prizes Presented to the Children

One Pupil Has Won Fourteen First Prizes.

The annual presentation of Sunday School prizes for 1918 took place at the Salvation Army Temple last evening to which a very large and happy crowd of children and grown-ups gathered; the children mainly to receive prizes and certificates for last year's attendance and the grown-ups to participate in the children's pleasure and also to enjoy the short entertainment provided by a number of scholars. Mr. Walter Stocker presided over the gathering and made a very able chairman.

One Hundred and Twenty Prizes

About 120 prizes were given out, a great number of these being first prizes.

A feature of the prize giving was the display of about sixty books, all of which had been gained by the children of Mr. and Mrs. Schweiers at different times for regular attendance at the Sunday School. One member of the family has gained fourteen first prizes for fourteen consecutive years and another ten first prizes. This is a record which would be hard to beat in the city.

Other Features.

Another interesting feature was the presentation of nine third year certificates, six second and three third year certificates for attendance at the morning Directory Class. This is a class dealing with the fundamental principles of Christianity and the Salvation Army, and a class to which any child is welcome.

The evening, taken altogether, was a time of pleasure and enjoyment to all, and great credit is due to Sergt. Major Braund for his efforts on behalf of the children.

Opposition Held Second Caucus

Unionist Liberals Probably Vote Against Tariff Measure.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, March 11. — The opposition held its second caucus this morning. While a variety of subjects were discussed the main question under debate was that of amendments to the address, especially with regard to the tariff. There has been a considerable diversity of opinion among the opposition members in the latter regard. Some have held that the Opposition should at once, and without awaiting for the government to give any intimation of what its intentions are on the subject, nail its tariff policy to the mast, and keep it there.

These believe that specific tariff reforms contained in the resolution passed at the convention held here in January, should be embodied in the resolution. Others have believed that such a resolution would only serve to consolidate the Unionist ranks, inasmuch as even Unionist leaders will from very uncertainty, if for nothing else, be for what the government intends to do, vote against it to a man.

Germany Will Be Impotent Even Before Switzerland Once Peace is Concluded

Allies Have Provided for a Twelve Year Enlistment Requirement for Germany's Army, Which it is Understood Will Be Reduced to 100,000 Men for the Entire Period.

SCALING DOWN THE ARMIES

By Fred S. Ferguson.
(United Press.)

PARIS, March 11.— With the military terms adopted and rapid progress being made toward the completion of the other provisions, it is learned today that the preliminary peace treaty may be ready to present to the Germans by March 20th.

From the greatest war maker in the world Germany will be reduced to a military status lower than that of her smallest neighbour. She will be impotent even before Switzerland.

Conscription Eliminated.

The conscription system will be knocked out by a twelve year enlistment requirement for the army, which, it is understood, will be reduced to 100,000 men. What army she has, consequently, will be purely professional. The danger of Germany having four or five million trained men within the next ten years, which would have been possible through conscription, will be abolished. All guns, munitions and equipment in excess of the amount necessary for her reduced army will be surrendered. It is understood also that the notorious general staff will be wiped out.

If any attempt is made to carry out the threat to refuse acceptance of the peace treaty and throw the country into chaos if the terms are too harsh, Germany will find the Allies presenting a firm front. The choice in such a case probably lies between occupation of Germany and continuation of the blockade, letting the enemy starve until they are ready to sign. Considering the comparative contentment in the present occupied portions of Germany, the latter course is considered more likely.

Present Plans.

Under present plans the treaty will be handed to the Germans at Versailles immediately after their arrival there. The enemy delegates will then be allowed to return to Berlin or Weimar for consultation with their government, afterwards coming back to Versailles for the formal signing. That Count Von Bernstorff will not be a member of the German delegation appeared certain to-day, as the Allies have taken action to make clear that he would not be welcome.

The move of the Supreme Council in abolishing conscription in Germany was accepted as probably meaning the death blow to that system throughout the world. Under present political conditions in other European countries, it was believed this was the only interpretation which could be applied to the Council's action.

Reducing Armies.

Although other nations, such as France and Italy, may retain conscription for the present, it appeared likely that the future will bring general changes. The difficulty attending the conscription question in Great Britain was made obvious by the trouble encountered by Premier Lloyd George since the extension of the conscription law. France at present has a three year conscription service term, but with the German menace removed and no big potential army threatening or likely to be able to threaten her, the action of the War Council was expected to influence her as well as other countries, on the principle that compulsory service, never being welcome, would be even less attractive with no incentive.

Such a principle, it is accepted, will permit rapid scaling down of armies under the League of Nations plan and will mean a long step toward international disarmament.

Silver Cross of Sacrifice to Mothers and Widows

Canadian Government Proposes to Bestow Such Decorations in Memory of Those Who Have Fallen.

THE DESIGNS

OTTAWA, March 11—A "Silver Cross of Sacrifice" will be issued by the Canadian Government to the widows and mothers of soldiers who gave their lives in the war, Hon. S. C. Mewburn, Minister of Militia, in his speech in the Commons announced that the Government proposed to confer such decorations in memory of the men who had fallen and in recognition of the heroic part of Canadian women in the great conflict. The preliminaries to the issue of the cross are, in fact, being worked out. Designs have been prepared and are now being considered with a view to the selection of the most suitable and it is hoped that before long arrangements will be completed for the manufacture and distribution of the emblem. In addition the next of kin of soldiers who have lost their lives will receive a memorial placque of bronze being issued by the British Government.

Gen. Mewburn spoke of the proposal that the Canadian Government should strike a special service medal for the soldiers of the Dominion who had fought in the war. He suggested that consideration of this might well be postponed until the men returned to Canada. Canadian soldiers, in common with the soldiers of other countries allied against Germany would receive an "international medal" which would have clasps commemorative of engagements or years of the great conflict. Furthermore, Canadians would receive the British war medals and the King's discharge certificate.

SIEGE RAISED.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LISBON, March 11. —The state of siege has been raised in Portugal, it was officially announced to-day.

Huns Should Be Barred

President of League of Nations Union Would Give French the Saar Valley.

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, March 11.— Germany should be barred from the League of Nations, and the covenant should not interfere with the infliction of justly severe penalties upon the country, Theodore E. Burton, former U. S. senator from Ohio, and President of the League of Nations Union, declared in an address before the Canadian Club here.

The League of Nations pact is certain to introduce a new era among the nations of the world, Burton said. He also declared France was entitled to the Valley of the Saar, with its coal mines, in reparation for Germany's destruction of French mines.

Five Years to Complete Tunnel

Cost Will Be Nearly One Hundred Million.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, March 11.— Five years would be required to complete the proposed tunnel under the English channel, according to an authoritative estimate. It is said that in ordinary times the cost of the work would be about eighty million dollars, but in view of the increased cost of labour and materials, the expense would, under present conditions, be nearly one hundred millions.

The Government's Trade Policy

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, March 11.—Sir Auckland C. Geddes, Minister of National Service and Reconstruction, in speaking on the Government's trade policy yesterday in answer to Sir Donald MacLean, Liberal leader in the House of Commons, said that one reason for limiting imports to Great Britain was the necessity of preventing an increase of the British debt.

A SIMPLE CEREMONY

Rioters Who Were Killed in Kinmel Camp Affair Were Buried To-day in Church Yard.

A TRAGIC LESSON

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

LONDON, March 11.—Three rioters killed in the Kinmel Camp affair, were buried in Beleiwydden church yard, with simple ceremony, and few soldiers present. The remains of the two other victims killed in riots, while on duty, were buried yesterday with full military honours. All the wounded are doing well.

Sir Rider Haggard, in a letter to the Times, said these riots, with their tragic results, were a lesson for the whole Empire, including the British Isles. He says:

'However great may be needs of dominions for population to admit Russian Bolshevists such as the man who seems to have begun the trouble at Kinmel Camp, or other foreign stirrers-up of strife, that they may mature their plots under the shadow of our flag, is suicidal madness. This glorious heritage of our people should be kept for our own children, not for those of revolutionary Russia and certain other alien nations. To such our doors should be shut once and for all."

Situation Is Quieter

Buffalo Was Threatened With a Labour Demonstration.

(United Press.)

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 11.— No more labour demonstrations or signs of unrest are apparent among the unemployed here to-day. Mayor Buck believes the situation can be handled by the local authorities.

"I decided that the police department was fully able to cope with the situation and that it was not necessary to employ State troops," said the Mayor to-day.

Adjutant General Berry said that in case it was necessary to call on the State troops he could "mobilize and have 16,000 troops in Buffalo within twenty-four hours." Several arrests have been made of youths who have been distributing hand bills without a permit. The bills, it is alleged, were Russian Soviet propaganda, with a sentence reading "The red flag flies over Central Europe for universal brotherhood."

Martin B. Heiber, Socialist organiser and others who had planned to have a parade of unemployed yesterday, would make no statement to-day.

Union leaders to-day placed the number of unemployed in Buffalo at upwards of 30,000. H. T. Avery, head of the United States' Employment Bureau, estimates the number at between 3,500 and 4,600. Some of these, he says, were forced into idleness by the closing of munition plants, while others are lake and canal workers, who usually are idle the greater part of the winter months.

Morrison Hotel Damaged by Fire

Several Hundred Employees Escape by Fire Escape Route.

(Canadian Press.)

CHICAGO, March 11.—Half a dozen women fainted, as many others were overcome by smoke, and these, with nearly 225 men and women employees of the Morrison Hotel, were assisted down fire escapes early to-day, when fire broke out in a five-storey brick annex to the hotel, which is used as a dormitory for the employees. Those overcome by smoke were carried into the hotel drug store and were soon revived. The damage was $50,000.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

TUESDAY, MARCH 11TH, 1919.

THE ANTIS ACTIVE.

Hon. T. W. McGarry, provincial treasurer, announced the other night that there would be a referendum on the prohibition question in September, or perhaps earlier, and intimated that the plebiscite would be "wide open." This was generally interpreted as meaning that the people would not only have an opportunity to vote for or against total prohibition, but would also be given a chance to show whether or not they approved of wine and beer licenses. Next day Premier Hearst announced that there had been no decision arrived at as to when the referendum would be held or as to what form it should take. And now comes the rumour that Hon. Mr. McGarry may succeed Sir Wm. Hearst as leader of the government.

The developments of the past few days leave no doubt as to the dissension that is at present existing in the Ontario government over the prohibition question. The very fact that Hon. Mr. McGarry, who frankly announced that he was not a prohibitionist, is being mentioned as a possible successor to Premier Hearst, shows that the anti-prohibition tide in the government is running strong and that the Premier may be swept off his feet. It is clear that the cabinet is divided on the question and those members opposed to total prohibition are making their influence felt. Hon. Mr. McGarry showed the hand of the antis in his recent speech by practically denouncing the Committee of One Hundred and the temperance organizations of Ontario generally as Prussians. They had had nothing to do with introducing the Ontario Temperance Act, according to the Provincial Treasurer, and would not be, as far as the Government was concerned, any factor in determining the issue of permanent prohibition.

Mr. McGarry knew what he was about when he talked like this. He created the impression to go out that the Hearst government had passed the Temperance Act merely as a war measure and now that the war is over are prepared to abandon it—if they are politic enough that way when the plebiscite is taken.

CANADA'S NEW LINE.

The acquisition of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway system by the Dominion Government is a sudden development, the significance of which has probably not yet been completely realised. It means that the Canadian Government Railways will be increased by 1,964 miles of main road and 1,000 miles of branch lines, and it should mean an early taking over of the Grand Trunk system by the Government, adding 3,866 miles to the Canadian National Railways. This step is regarded as almost inevitable, as it would be a fatal mistake to allow the Grand Trunk, which is the parent company of the Grand Trunk Pacific, to get rid of this unprofitable part and still retain the rest of its system. The government should have learned a lesson from its Canadian Northern policy and be careful not to make the same mistake on this occasion. As the Toronto Globe points out, "The acquisition of the Canadian Northern was inevitable after the company's default, but the Government should have nationalized the profitable as well as the unprofitable railways in order to carry the burden. To take over the Grand Trunk Pacific without the Grand Trunk would be a second blunder, which would wreck any prospects of success that the Canadian National Railways may have under existing conditions."

MR. W. H. DENHAM

The news of the death, in Chicago, of Mr. W. H. Denham, head of the local plant of the Quaker Oats Company will come as a shock to the citizens of Peterboro. The passing of Mr. Denham leaves a gap in many circles in the city's life that will be difficult to fill. Since coming to Peterboro he had won a place in the affection and esteem of the community such as has been given to few men even of much longer residence here to enjoy. He was a man of many sided activity, whose influence and energies were devoted to many movements that had as their aim the betterment of Peterboro. He was an enthusiastic member of the Board of Trade, giving freely of his time and talent to assist in the work of that organization. To his interest in athletics, Peterboro owes the fact that for a number of years this city was represented in the Canadian Baseball League. Busy man as he was, Mr. Denham found time to act as president of the local club and it was undoubtedly due to his efforts that Peterboro was able to have a team in that organization. He was an ardent member of the local Golf and Curling Clubs and will be missed by the members of both these associations, as well as by the members of the Peterboro Club. In his relations with the employees of the huge plant over which he presided, Mr. Denham was able to all times to enjoy the liking and respect of those under him. He had the welfare of the employees constantly in his mind in his management of the concern of which he was the head and the generous treatment accorded them at the time of the terrible fire is still fresh in the memory of the citizens.

Although he came to Peterboro from another land, Mr. Denham did not remain aloof. He was a citizen of Peterboro in every sense of the word from the first day he lived here and the interest he displayed in the affairs of the city that had become his home was an example to others who had been residents here long before Mr. Denham's advent. Peterboro can ill afford to lose such public-spirited men and his death is a distinct loss to the community. The sympathy of the citizens go out to Mrs. Denham who within the course of a few months has had to sustain a double bereavement, the loss of her only son Donald, being closely followed by the death of her husband.

CO-OPERATION AND PROGRESS.

The Canadian Labour Press, the official organ of the Allied Trades and Labour Council of Ottawa, gives, in a recent issue, sound advice to its associates as well as to the employers of Canada.

"During the crucial period of reconstruction there must be no disastrous difference between Labour and Capital—no rending of our national industrial fabric," it says. "On harmony between employers and employees depends the solution of most of the problems coincident with transition from war-time to peace-time conditions. Co-operation there must be—and it must be genuine and whole-hearted. On real co-operation depends the present and future of Canadian Industry. For the good of the country as a whole there must be a meeting ground, a point where both Labour and Capital can meet each other half way. Both sides must be ready to make some sacrifices to achieve a great good later. There can be no quibbling or hair-splitting on either side; the issue is too big."

This is sterling patriotic commonsense. Labour and Capital are the opposite ears in the one boat. If they pull against each other, both suffer. And never was Canada's industrial sea in a more uncertain state than now; never was it more necessary for the lookout to watch carefully for squalls. Only with skill at the helm and co-operation at the oars can we be sure of avoiding disaster.

Unquestionably our social system operates unjustly in many instances. But it is improving and will improve at a continually more rapid rate. And it has at least this advantage over a class autocracy or a dead-level communism, in that it is constantly fluid. Class and class are interwoven and constantly changing. The labourer of to-day is the industrial king of to-morrow.

As a matter of fact it is impossible to define our boundary between Labour and Capital. Almost without exception the so-called capitalists are workmen and the workmen in the vast majority are capitalists. Only the man who has no stake in the country, no money in the bank, no Victory bonds, no ownership of land, dwellings, household goods or tools, of whom there are few indeed in the blessed country, can join with any enthusiasm in the socialistic slogan "Strike! We have nothing to lose!"—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Canadian soldiers overseas claim that Sir Edward Kemp and Sir George Perley are so busy furthering their own aspirations that they have little time for the consideration of the rank and file. That is a charge that does not reflect much credit upon the administration of Canadian affairs overseas.

SECRET OF SUCCESS.

Go to it, Young Man; but, Beware, I May Not Work Every Time.

"Now, tell me," he said, "what are your prospects?"

"My prospects," I replied, "are excellent."

"That may be, but if you wish me to sanction your engagement to my daughter I must ask you to be a little more specific. At present all I know is that you are at the bar. What exactly are your prospects there?"

"Prospects," and I leaned back to his armchair, "are, in essence, nothing more than a state of mind. The word is derived from the Latin 'prospicion.' I look forward, and what I see when I look forward constitutes my prospects. Now that, of course, varies from day to day. When I am blessed with a good digestion, bounding pulse and high spirits I see a great and glorious future before me. When my liver is out of order I know I shall never succeed. At the present moment your excellent wine and cigars have induced the most hopeful condition of mind in me. My prospects just now are excellent."

He rose and extended his hand. "Young man," he said, "take her and blessings on you both. I believe you have a great career before you. A man who can confuse ideas so dexterously, a man who can avoid a plain and simple question with such agility, a man who has the tremendous impertinence to talk to his betters as you have had the assurance to address me is destined to acquire a lasting fame as a barrister. Your prospects—I believe you—are excellent."—Weekly Telegraph.

Apprehensive.

A customer had ordered lunch in a restaurant at 2 o'clock. He waited half an hour without result.

"Waiter!" he called out. "What time do you close?"

"Half past 6, sir."

With deep concern in his voice the customer said, "You are not going to lock me in, are you?"—Brooklyn Eagle.

Making Hedgehog Useful.

If a scarcity of metals were to result in a scarcity of gramophone needles an excellent substitute can be found in the spines on the back of a hedgehog. This discovery is due to an officer of the Argyll and Sutherlands. The spines allow one to hear even the words of the singer and every note of the song in the softest of renderings.

Cutworm Killing.

Cutworms which pass the winter as partially-grown larvae are generally starved out by fall plowing, as their food is turned under. White grubs are destroyed more easily by deep, fall plowing because this insect burrows nearly to the plow-depth line during October, and being turned up at that time cannot hibernate again before winter sets in.

Liners Tied Up By the Strike

Threats Made to Extend the Strike Movement.

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, March 11.—With many of the great trans-Atlantic steamship lines here tied up by a strike of Longshoremen, which was called yesterday in support of the striking harbour workers, threats were made to-day by the marine workers' affiliation to renew the strike against the railroad administration. Officials of the Longshoremen's Union, who claimed that 20,000 of their members already are on strike, said to-day that the strike might eventually spread to include 50,000. A number of large liners ready to sail for Europe were still in port today, unable to proceed for lack of coal. These were the Cunard lines, Carona and Mauretania, the White Star steamer Lapland, and the French Line steamer Niagara.

MAN'S ATTITUDE TO NATURE

An Essay on Nature by Mr. Frank Morris, Classics Master at the Peterboro Collegiate Institute.

It has transformed whole shelves of popular books on Natural History into a series of thrilling romances, from White's Natural History of Selborne and the works of Rev. J. G. Wood and Richard Jeffries, to Thoreau, Lowell, and John Burroughs, or the fatest animal stories of Kipling, Thompson Seton, Roberts and Long.

It has helped me to throw off the cares and worries of a most wearing profession, and by outdoor recreation of a thoroughly healing and wholesome kind to repair the ravages of the schoolroom. By drawing the mind outward through the bodily senses, it has made morbid introspection a physical impossibility, and — like the fleas in David Harum's scheme of canine creation—it has kept me from brooding over the fact that I am a mere dog of a teacher.

Immeasurably more than all this, it has enabled me to know and love the inspired verses of the greatest Nature poet in the world—William Wordsworth. How often and often have I found in his poetry a language for my thought and even for those inarticulate cries of the spirit, the vague feelings and elusive fancies that break through language and escape. More and more, as the seasons come round, has the influence of natural objects become a power in my soul. Nature still remains all in all to me and her manifestations are a passion and an ecstasy; the sense of mystery and magic will not pass; only what in youth were simple sense impressions have now become bound up with my very being, the human soul that through me runs is linked with all created things, so that to me the meanest flower that blows can give thoughts that do often lie too deep for tears.

of Spring and the pageant of Summer have come to haunt me like a passion far beyond words of mine to express:—

A little sun, a little rain,
A soft wind blowing from the west,
And woods and fields are sweet again,
And warmth within the mountain's breast.

So simple is the earth we tread,
So quick with love and life her frame,
Ten thousand years have dawned and fled,
And still her magic is the same.
A little love, a little trust,
A soft impulse, a sudden dream—
And life as dry as desert dust
Is fresher than a mountain stream.
So simple is the heart of man;
So ready for new hope and joy;
Ten thousand years since it began
Have left it younger than a boy.

And lastly, it has set up in my life a wonderful web of curiously interwoven threads of association and memory, that touch on a thousand points of time and space, and draw from all directions to a centre of inner consciousness where they merge in quiet harmony. I will give you a single illustration.—

When I was a very little boy, I was taken out one day to a drive to Glen Almond in Perthshire (the scene of Ian MacLaren's "Drumtochty"). Growing in the spongy bog moss among the heather, I noticed a beautiful flower (several of them here and there in a scattered group), a flower like a white buttercup or a large anemone, erect and graceful, a solitary bloom on each slender stalk, springing from a tuft of leaves in the sphagnum. I had never seen such flowers before and gathered a bunch to take home; when I looked closely into the flower I found it a wide open saucer of white petals delicately veined with a tracery of green; at its heart was a tiny ring of golden knobs. It proved a plant of the moisture-loving a habit that the flowers had drooped and faded long before I got them home; there, no one could tell me what they were. In later years I found them once or twice in similar haunts on Sherramuir just back of Wallace's Monument, so that they grew to be like old friends of sweet memories; but I knew no botany and none of my companions could tell me their name; I well remember about 25 years ago, when I was making a last visit to my old home in Scotland, before coming to Canada, how I tramped alone to Glen Almond for a day among the hills; while crossing a stretch of moss by a tributary of the Almond I was suddenly halted by the the sight once more of these old friends, the mysterious white flowers of my childhood; what a flood of memories they overwhelmed me with, you may well imagine, but still I was as helpless as the child of 15 years before to place them in Nature or give them a name.

When I came out to Canada, I found myself indeed a stranger in a strange land; the beasts of the field, the fowls of the air, the flowers of the wayside, and even the insects, were all different; and I realized for the first time with crushing force what Nature had come to mean in my life: I must recreate for myself a world of nature in which all was familiar, and loved because familiar, or starve in the midst of plenty. At 25 I had to begin life all over again. I set to work at once and got a botanical key, which very soon I found myself able to use. In three years I was on nodding terms with nearly all the flowers of Ontario and could identify any stranger by the use of my key.

More than 15 years ago now, while roaming along the cliffs overlooking Lake Ontario, just west of Port Hope, I came upon a little spring in the grassy bank; and there, among Fringed Gentians and the Large Blue Lobelia, in the spongy turf at the other side of the little runnel, like a band of travellers waiting to drink at a wayside well, stood grouped a little colony of my old friends of the Scotch hills; a score of years seemed to fall from my back like a burden, 3,000 miles of ocean shrank to a little stream of living water; a single step and I was a boy in Scotland once again; then I took out my botany and the mystery was solved—it was the Grass of Parnassus, and I tell you that's only one of a hundred visions that, so long as I tread this earth of ours, can never fade into the light of common day.

"For I have learned
To look on Nature, not as in the hour
Of thoughtless youth; but hearing oftentimes
The still sad music of humanity,
Nor harsh nor grating, though of ample power
To chasten and subdue. And I have felt
A presence that disturbs me with the joy
Of elevated thoughts: a sense sublime
Of something far more deeply interfused,
Whose dwelling is the light of setting suns,
And the round ocean and the living air,
And the blue sky, and in the mind of man:
A motion and a spirit, that impels
All thinking things, all objects of all thought,
And rolls through all things."

Not only has it prevented me from growing up—into a vicious money-grubber, perhaps, or a speculator, but it has made it impossible for me ever to grow old; it is well-known that naturalists never age, because, though they have a keen sense for the seasons, they are not conscious of the passage of time; I have known a dozen or more in a single society—of which I happen to be a member—over 80 years of age, and they still forget to take breakfast or put their hats and coats on when they go out for a day's tramp—just like a troop of little boys.

Without fear of detection and almost without reproach, it has enabled me, for more than 40 years to lead a double life: 24 months full of activity in every 12 of the calendar; first, a year from January to December when I read books, work at my profession, and engage in friendly intercourse with my fellow-men; second, from Spring to Winter, a procession of seasons in which New Year's day is at Eastertide, when all Nature rises from the dead and we behold as it were a new earth and a new heaven bodied forth before our eyes, a season in which our forbears' myth of Balder the Beautiful, and the Eastern mysteries of Adonis and Osiris find their origin and explanation; till at last the coming of the birds and the springing of the flowers, the miracle

A CAPITAL WAY TO AVOID "FLU"

Well Worth Trying.

Of all the suggestions made for preventing the "Flu", none seems to be more worthy of trial than the use of Dominion C. B. Q.

Dominion C. B. Q. (Cascara Bromide Quinine Tablets) immediately attacks the germs and, increasing the secretions of the stomach and liver, clears the system with certainty yet without weakening effects. There are none of the buzzing sensations peculiar to the Sulphate of Quinine.

Made by that old and reliable firm, The National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada Limited. At all druggists, in the Red Boxes. 10

A New Blood-Food Called Ferrozone Sure to Restore You Quickly.

Every day comes the good news of wonderful cures with Ferrozone.

In Peterborough it worked marvels for Louis Meehan—put him right on his feet—made him entirely well.

"About three years ago," says Mr. Meehan, "I had the Grippe which left me in a very run-down condition that finally developed into Dyspepsia. I was unable to eat but a few things and had a craving for acid. I gave up treating with the doctor because they did not help me and on the advice of a friend used Ferrozone. It not only cured me of Dyspepsia and Biliousness, but has built up my strength to what it was before I had the Grippe. I can recommend Ferrozone as an ideal restorative."

Ferrozone gives you force, energy, vim.

It strengthens the stomach; cures indigestion, prevents headaches — guarantees good health.

Thousands use Ferrozone—they all feel better; try it yourself—sold in 50c. boxes, six for $2.50 at all dealers or direct from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

SAMPLE OF RED CROSS WORK

Wounded English Soldier's Mother Made Glad by News of Son in American Hospital.

He sat a little apart from the other men who crowded the receiving station for American Base Hospitals Nos. 23 and 26. There was a cigarette in his mouth and a peaceful smile on his face that brought the American Red Cross searchers to his side with a query.

"You look as if you're glad to be here; are you really?" she asked. The wounded man grinned joyously.

"You're jolly well right, miss, I've only just come from back of the German lines. This is heaven."

His name was G. Tully, and he belonged to the British Royal Field artillery. Three months previously he had been taken prisoner by the Germans and had been held just back of the lines to work on the railroads and ammunition trains.

When the Americans started their offensive near Fismes, he and two other comrades made a dash for the American lines. The Tommies with him fell, mortally wounded by bullets that were meant for Boches. Tully escaped with only a slight wound in the wrist and was sent back to the base with a trainload of American wounded.

The Red Cross searcher at once sent word to the wounded man's mother, in England, that he was safe in an American hospital, and a short time afterward this acknowledgment came back from the British Red Cross:

"We have today forwarded your kind information re Gunner G. Tully to his mother, who had inquired about him of us for three months without success. We cannot say how grateful we are to you for having taken so much trouble in his case and for being of such material assistance to our inquiry."—From a Red Cross Scrapbook.

Best Tea in the World.

The best tea in all China and therefore in all the world grows on top of a small mountain in western Szechuan, called Ming Shan, and is cultivated by the priests of the Buddhist temple on its summit. Tradition says that a Chinese pilgrim brought the seeds from India centuries ago. There are only a few pounds in each crop, and these have always gone as tribute to Peking for the use of the imperial household. Who will get the precious tea now? Will it be reserved for the family of the president of the republic or will it be scattered among those who are willing to pay a big price for such a luxury?—Youth's Companion.

On Marrying Aviators.

It is noticed that the dear girls are marrying aviation lieutenants more than any other class of soldiers. This is not because so many of them are killed, but because the service is the most romantic, and if there is anything a well-balanced girl likes more than anything else it is romance. And to have a husband who sails the blue skies and goes hiding in the clouds makes a girl very proud. She has a right to be. He is looked upon as a superman who gets beyond the domain of gravitation and wanders in the regions where the angels are supposed to fly. When such a one gets back to earth and sits with his wife before the cordial fireplace and talks to her of stars, sunsets and dreams, could there be more delightful company? Who would not be an aviator and face all the perils of aviation for such an experience? No wonder the government has more aviators than it wants.—Ohio State Journal.

How Germans Obtained Fat.

No method of obtaining fats has been neglected in Germany. A Charlottenburg chemist has patented a process of obtaining fat from growth of microscopic animal forms which are cultivated on suitable waste materials such as decaying mushrooms and non edible fungi, putrefying meat, gutter refuse and stale yeast. On triturating the cultures with water and heating, the fat may be skimmed off, or may be separated by a centrifuge.

Applying This Paste Actually Removes Hairs

(Beauty Notes.)

Merely applying an inexpensive paste to a hairy surface, say beauty specialists, will dissolve the hairs. This paste is made by mixing a little water with some powdered delatone; after about 2 minutes it is rubbed off and the skin washed. This simple method not only removes every trace of hair, but leaves the skin free from blemish. To insure success with this treatment, be careful to get real delatone.

Three Government Soldiers Were Shot in Retaliation.

(United Press.)

BASLE, March 11.—War Minister Noske issued a proclamation to the effect that anyone then carrying arms, except government troops, would be shot immediately, according to a Berlin despatch received to-day. As a result of this order it was said, three Spartacans were shot by Government troops. In retaliation the Spartacans shot three loyal soldiers.

Dan Spence Ambulance is Outworn and Out of Date

Property Committee is Half Inclined to Scrap it, or at Least Consign it to Permanent Disuse—Its Charitable Object is Objectionable Too.

AN UNSETTLED QUESTION

In preparing its estimates last night the property committee once more faced the temptation of relegating the Dan Spence memorial ambulance to the scrap heap. The rivalry its obtainment and use excited between two local undertakers some years ago ceased with the incoming of motor ambulances. The Council would let it out yearly for the convenance, free of charge, of persons who required its service. Latterly, however, it has seldom been used by Messrs. A. Comstock, who have had charge of it. In most cases they used their own ambulance and accepted the $200, which they received annually from the city, for this work. Their report to the committee showed that from October 5th to December 31st, 1918, they carried under their contract with the city 69 patients. This was a statement for only the last quarter of the year and was evidently abnormally large due to the epidemic of influenza. With the exception of a few cases, Messrs. Comstock used their own ambulances, in very urgent cases the motor ambulance being sent out.

The committee realizes that the Dan Spence ambulance is obsolete. It belongs to the past and has had its day of usefulness, but certain memories and sentiment that cling to it have restrained the Council every time this question has required of late. It recalls the South African war, and particularly the soldier who gave his life in that campaign. But is almost worn out, and has fallen behind the motor pace of the present age. Moreover, Ald. Garside stated that many persons who cannot afford the regular ambulances for their removal to and from the hospitals object to the Dan Spence because it announces the public charity that maintains it. They don't want to see it come to their doors, he said.

Mayor Duncan stated that to motorize it would cost too much. "I would cut it out," said His Worship, "and let it lie there for a year."

Ald. Edgar expressed the opinion that the city should not pay for any ambulance calls except when the Dan Spence was used.

It was pointed out that the regular charge for an ambulance trip is three dollars, and at that rate the city's appropriation of $200 would not have paid for the public calls made during the last three months of 1918.

The committee showed its intention of continuing the service it provides, by adopting a motion by Ald. Phelan, seconded by Ald. Edgar, that Ald. Hamilton and Mayor Duncan interview Comstock & Sons with regard to the maintenance of the Dan Spence ambulance, and also that $200 be placed in this year's estimates.

Economy Urged For Funerals

Peterboro Ministerial Association Endorse Important Resolution.

The appended resolution was passed at a meeting of the Peterboro Ministerial Association held yesterday.

Resolved—That this Association regrets a marked tendency to increasing and extravagant expenditure in connection with the burial of our dead. The showy, luxurious and massive caskets (too often considered necessary) would seem to savour of human pride and are inconsistent with prudence, reason, and Christian principles. If simplicity is a virtue to be cultivated in life, surely it is even more strongly called for in connection with death. One indication of this unhealthy development we notice is an expensive metallic outside case, suggestive of an effort to prevent the remains from disintegrating and mingling with their kindred elements which it would seem is the Divine intention.

We call upon the wealthy as well as the poor, upon those whose business calls them to our assistance in times of bereavement and upon all whose influence must mean much to the community to use that influence in the direction of a healthy and reasonable economy. We feel sure that this free showing of less expensive goods on the part of those in our country who serve us under these trying circumstances, would result in a saving department on the part of those who are quite able to pay for whatever they order, and fewer depressing debts on the part of those who involve themselves in seeking to do as well for their beloved dead as do those of larger means.

We would express ourselves as confident that we may depend upon our local undertakers to co-operate with us in this as they do so cheerfully in other matters in which we are associated with them.

DENIES ATTEMPT ON LIFE OF KING ALBERT OF BELGIUM

PARIS, March 10.—While King Albert of Belgium was visiting Louvain, a man trying to pass the cordon of troops was stopped by a military policeman, says a Brussels despatch to the Havas Agency. The man drew a revolver and both he and the policeman were slightly wounded. The man was arrested and sent to a Brussels prison. This, despatch declares, was the sole foundation for a report current in Brussels that an attempt had been made to assassinate the King.

Eight Towns Voted "Wet"

(Canadian Press.)

BOSTON, March 11.—Returns from eleven towns that voted yesterday on the question of issuing liquor licenses show that eight changed from 'dry' to 'wet.' Liquors advocates maintained that the result was protested against the national prohibition amendment, while anti-saloon leaders assert that it was mainly due to apathy on the part of the voters.

Discusses the "Western Bulwark"

(United Press.)

PARIS, March 11.—An article in the Temps signed by M. Lindenlaud, discussing the "western bulwark," says: "A Rhenish state having nothing in common with Prussia, is necessary. German military domain can only begin on the Ems or Weser. Up to those rivers there can be no garrison or fortresses of the "Empire Republic." The German State on this side of the Rhine should be self-governed under the League of Nations."

PETERBORO MAN'S EXPERIENCE WHILE PRISONER OF WAR

Was Forced to Work in a Salt Mine—A Living Death

Pte. E. W. [illegible], son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Hopkins, [illegible] street, arrived in the city on [illegible] on the early morning train from [illegible].

He enlisted with the 48th Highlanders of Toronto in 1914 and was taken Prisoner in [illegible] 1915 in the first battle of Ypres. He was interned at Gottingen Camp [illegible] was removed to [illegible] where he worked in the salt mines. He has a wonderful story to tell of his three years and eight months of suffering and starvation in Germany and [illegible] Holland.

[illegible] with Mrs. Hopkins [illegible] both enlisted together and considering the circumstances both are feeling very well.

"The treatment meted out to allied prisoners in the Salt Mines was inhuman," said Pte. O'Calligan. "We would be awakened at 4 a.m. and commence the day's work immediately. After several hours at back-breaking labor we would stop work for a few minutes and be served with a quart of tasteless coffee. As a day's work each prisoner was allotted 30 waggons of salt to fill and was forced to keep on the job until this was done. At noon we were given a quart of soup, at night another quart, and also with a quarter of a pound of bread completed the entire rations for 24 hours. No meat was given to the prisoners and but for the parcels received from the Red Cross none of us would be alive to-day.

Brutal Treatment.

"A typical instance of the inhuman treatment given us was the case of a young Frenchman named LeClaire. Driven, to desperation by the lack of nourishing food, he went without leave one night to the adjacent town, where the Red Cross had a canteen. He procured some biscuits, but was apprehended and given fourteen days' imprisonment. This punishment should have been adequate, but when he returned to the mines he was brutally beaten with a dog-whip, and when in an almost unconscious condition forced to get to work. He filled his allotted thirty waggons, and when they urged him to do more, refused. The dog-whip was applied again, and he was brutally beaten until he fell over unconscious and was carried out. We never saw him again, and a rumor was current that he had died."

$500 Grant For Bathing Places

Property Committee Recommends This Sum for Expenditure by Playgrounds Association.

Urged by the agitation that has been clamouring these last three or four years for adequate public bathing facilities, the Property Committee, last night recommended to the Council that they [illegible] the estimates as a special grant [illegible] given to the Playgrounds Association, to be expended by them on whatever permanent bathing places they might decide to furnish. Ald. Hamilton, presiding, read a letter from Ald. Turner, who suggested that a concrete basin 40 feet by 80 feet might be built at Inverlea Park, gradually inclined and extending into the water, which would be continuously freshened by the current of the river.

The committee casually mentioned prospective sites, the Vermont Marble beach in Ashburnham and the foot of Lake street, in addition to Inverlea Park. This trend of the discussion was cut short by Ald. Edgar's motion, which would transfer the various responsibilities to the Playgrounds Association. Ald. Phelan had proposed that a special committee survey the whole question of locations, costs and details of buildings, but the committee was satisfied that the work would be in capable hands when the Playgrounds Association assumed it.

Heavy Fighting Still Continues

Government Troops Prepare for Final Effort Against Spartacans.

(Canadian Press.)

BERLIN, March 11.— Government troops were busy to-day in driving Spartacan bands from various sections of Berlin and in preparing for determined effort against the Spartacan stronghold of Lichtenberg, a suburb to the east of the city. Spartacans are reported to have large depots of weapons and ammunition in Lichtenberg. Government troops sent to Lichtenberg on Sunday to protect the post office and police station, were annihilated by the Spartacans.

Archives Burned.

All soldiers and police officials who were not killed during the fighting for the post office and police station or who did not escape from the buildings were murdered by the Spartacans. Many were tortured and killed in the streets. At least one woman was among the victims of the Spartacans. The police archives in Lichtenberg were burned and 80,000 marks were stolen from the post office. No attempt has yet been made to ascertain the number of persons killed in the present uprising, but the number is believed to exceed 150.

Reports of Spartacan atrocities continue to pour in and resulted to-day in the issuance of an order by Herr Noske, the Minister of Defence, that all found opposing government troops with weapons shall be shot at once. Many Spartacans were taken prisoners during the forenoon and summary executions began at once, the order of Herr Noske being welcomed by the embittered government troops.

Engineers Club to Hold Meeting

Mr. E. V. Moore Will give an Address on Peat and its Manufacture.

A regular meeting of the Club will be held on Thursday, March 13th., in the Empress Hotel, at 7:30 p.m., when Mr. E. V. Moore will give an address on "Peat and its Manufacture." Mr. Moore is a son of Mr. D. H. Moore, and is an old Peterboro boy and is well known to many citizens. Shortly after his graduation from McGill in 1899 he became interested in peat fuel manufacture and for the past sixteen years has given almost his whole time to the study of problems connected with it. During that time he has designed plants at Welland, Victoria Road, Farnham and Alfred. While none of these plants were a commercial success much progress has been made and the plant at Alfred in 1914 made fuel on a profitable basis and only the financial situation at the start of the war prevented the continuation of operations.

Mr. Moore is now recognized as the foremost practical peat fuel authority on the continent and has been retained by the Peat Committee of the Canadian and Ontario Governments as consulting engineer in their preset experiments. He has many interesting lantern slides showing development in peat manufacture and in view of the fuel situation the address will be full of interest.

Any citizen who is interested in this subject will be welcome to attend the meeting.

The individual who talks about himself invites complaints more often than envy.

Wm. H. Denham Died in Chicago Last Evening

Was Superintendent of the Peterboro Plant of the Quaker Oats Company.

William H. Denham, Superintendent of the Peterboro branch of the Quaker Oats Co., since its establishment in 1904, died last night in the Presbyterian Hospital, Chicago, after an illness that seems traceable to the epidemic of influenza. The news of his passing reached the city this morning, and although it had been foreshadowed by recent reports that he had not made the recovery that was expected of his rest and stay in Florida, the sad announcement deeply affected the citizens, particularly his local business associates who had been his closest friends. The death of Mr. Denham casts a gloom upon the entire city, for his personality, his position and his interest in the affairs of Peterboro, had made him generally known and highly respected. His passing will be profoundly felt by the employees of the Quaker Oats Company to whom he had proved his loyalty and sympathy by liberal and material aid when the old plant was destroyed, and families were stricken by loss of life or employment. It was this side of Mr. Denham's character that was revealed to the public, but to the employees his personal interest had been an every day phase of the factory relations and contracts.

Outstanding Ability.

Peterboro mourns the death of not only one of its foremost business men whose outstanding ability was manifested in the successful management of the immense plant of the Quaker Oats Company, and in the conduct of a great industry, but also of a citizen who had shown a warm and active interest in the welfare and progress of the city. The feelings of sadness are heightened by his bereavement a few months ago of his only son, the late Donald Denham, in whom the abilities of the father were strikingly reflected. Mr. Denham was seriously ill of influenza when his son died, and it is believed the effects of the disease were intensified by the great sorrow he could only repress, but not conceal.

Born in Akron.

William H. Denham was born in Akron, Ohio, 53 years ago, and before coming to Peterboro was accountant and office manager of the company's head office in Chicago. He was a member of the Peterboro Club, of which he had been president for several terms; and also of the Golf and Curling Clubs. He was also a member of Corinthian Lodge, A.F. and A.M., also of the Chapter, Moore Preceptory, and the Mystic Shrine.

The Funeral.

Mr. Denham is survived by his wife to whom the deepest sympathies of the citizens will be extended, and by two sisters in Chicago. The funeral will take place in Akron on Thursday afternoon, and will be attended by a number of Peterboro men, including Mr. George P. Edwards, the present superintendent of the Quaker Oats factory here, Mr. Geo. McDonald, Sales Manager, Mr. George Carruthers and Mr. M. Kirn, also of the plant, and Mr. W. H. Bradburn, Mr. E. G. Patterson, Mr. J. G. M. Wilson, Mr. Roland Denne, and His Worship Mayor Duncan.

For the past two or three months the late Mr. Denham has been in Jacksonville, Florida, but on Friday last he was removed to Chicago, where his condition rapidly became worse.

A Masonic funeral will be held to-morrow in Chicago and on Thursday a funeral service will be held in Akron Ohio, the home of the deceased where interment will take place. Mrs. Denham was with Mr. Denham when he died.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY INVITED TO MEET IN PETERBORO

Peterboro Presbytery Met This Morning—Omemee Minister Resigns.

At the regular meeting of the Presbytery, held this morning in St. Paul's church, Rev. J. A. MacKenzie and Mr. H. B. Cowan were appointed to invite the General Assembly to meet in Peterborough in 1920. The commissioners appointed this morning to attend the meeting of the General Assembly to be held in Hamilton in June were Rev. Mr. McEachern, Keene, Rev. Mr. McLeod, Rev. J. A. MacKenzie, Peterborough, and Rev. Mr. Wolland, of Norwood, with Elders Cowan, Rose, Lees and another member to be appointed.

Resignations Accepted.

The resignation of Rev. J. P. McInnis, of Omemee, which was tendered this morning, was accepted, to take place in May. Rev. Dr. Lee was appointed Moderator in charge.

Hopeful Reports.

Some reports, all of which were hopeful and encouraging, were presented.

The report on Statistics, read by the Clerk, Rev. H. A. Thompson, Hastings, showed great progress and was warmly received by the members. Rev. Dr. Lee, of Millbrook, Moderator pro tem, presided at the meeting this morning.

SENT A CHEQUE TO FIRE DEPARTMENT

In recognition of the splendid services rendered by the Fire Department at the fire at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Morrow on Saturday, March the 1st, Mr. Morrow sent a cheque for a substantial sum to the Chief, which money Chief Grange turned over to the Firemen's Benevolent Association.

Negotiations Have Ceased

Grand Trunk Will Have to Hop Through Or Go Under.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, March 11.—Negotiations between the government and the Grand Trunk would appear to have ceased, and it would seem that the battle has been joined. This is indicated by the last curt message sent by Sir Thomas White to Chairman Smithers. For the future the Grand Trunk must, unassisted, meet its liabilities in connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific, or go under.

It is stated that in the negotiations with the movement the Grand Trunk asked a rental for its system, which took no regard for their liabilities in connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific. Further than that they asked that the Government pay them twenty-four million dollars in advance.

A Factor.

The government, on the other hand, insisted that the liability of the Grand Trunk in this matter of the Grand Trunk Pacific should be considered as a factor in fixing the cost of rental.

The Drayton-Ackworth report advocated that the Grand Trunk Company as well as the Grand Trunk Pacific should be incorporated into the Canadian National Railway System.

There is no disposition on the part of the legislators at the capital to entertain any question of the government assuming the liabilities of the Grand Trunk. However, it is probable that the company will claim, in the receivership the right to stand as a creditor of the Grand Trunk Pacific in the matter of the twenty-four millions of cash advances and that the company may demand that these advances be balanced off against other liabilities. Should such a contention be upheld then conceivably the value of the Grand Trunk would be enhanced by its being relieved of the burden.

Liberal Caucus Opened To-day

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, March 11. — The Liberal caucus opened early this morning and continued until after one p.m., when it was stated that the opposition had named a number of committees to study and deal with various matters to be brought up in the House by the government as well as the opposition. It was stated that there was considerable criticism regarding the Grand Trunk Pacific developments.

Wednesday and Thursday Are "Alaska Days" at Turnbull's "Better Bedding Exhibition"

A full line of these famous makers of Ostermoor Mattresses will be featured Wednesday and Thursday. See the special Window Display, also the three splendid Prizes set aside for these days.

Guaranteed "Alaska" Bedding Makes Bedtime Welcome

The bed is the outstanding feature—the keynote—of every bed-room. It must be dignified in design, beautiful in appearance and solid in construction; otherwise, the whole furnishing scheme falls flat, no matter how handsome the other furniture may be.

From the comprehensive line of Alaska Brass and Steel Beds one can select a bed that will harmonize with the furnishings of any bed-room, luxurious or plain, and at a price that will fit any purse.

Even more essential is the unique and lasting comfort derived from a buoyant, non-sagging Alaska Bed-spring, plus Alaska Mattress, made from only new, clean, sanitary materials. "Canada has no pure bedding laws; we have."

Excellent Attraction Was Given at the Conservatory of Music

The Montague Light Opera Singers Present a Well Selected Programme.

WELL ATTENDED

While it would be difficult to discriminate between the splendid attractions already offered by the Lyceum Course at the Conservatory of Music this season there is no exaggeration in saying that the fourth number, The Montague Light Opera Singers, outdistanced anything of a similar kind presented in the city for some time and the performance was greatly appreciated by the large audience in the Conservatory last evening.

While grand opera is apt to be regarded as high brow, something that appeals to the few rather than the many, light opera appeals to all classes therefore the Montague players with their excellent selections come into a very desirable and appropriative field. It is the hope of all that attended that the artists of last night may return at some not too distant date.

The Programme

The programme was divided into two parts each distinctly different from the other. Part one opened with the members of the quartette grouped about the piano in quartette selections both with and without piano accompaniment. In all the selections given supreme refinement and perfection of intonation was displayed and clever accompaniment in each was sincerely appreciated. Perhaps the outstanding feature among the quartette selections was the sacred selection "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," which was sung in an appealing reverential fashion all the voices bledig perfectly in the exquisite number. Part one also included trios, duets, solos and readings by Miss Altha Montague. Each of the solos revealed the fact that each member of the company was an artist in the true sense of the word. The Churning scene from, Robin Hood, was delightfully presented in the first part.

An Operetta

The second half of the programme consisted of an operetta "A Jap Romance" which was especially written for the Montague Opera Company and embodied some of the gems from such Japanese operas as the Geisha, and Madam Butterfly. In the little opera which provided splendid scope for the magnificient voices of the members of the company a pleasing little romance lent a charming variation to the programme. In the Bass solos Mr. Hadyn Thomas, Miss Edna Reynolds in the soprano, Mr. John Eichenberger, the tenor and Miss Montague, the contralto, captivated the audience.

Admitted Pupils

To encourage the pupils of the Conservatory into an appreciation of high class music Mr. Gliddon admitted about one hundred of the Conservatory complimentarily and the little folks scattered amongst the audience heartily appreciated the performance.

The concluding number of the course, which is to be a lecture by Judge Alden, a descendant of John Alden, will be presented on April 25th

Annual Meeting Girls' Auxiliary

Officers Elected for the Year—A Presentation to the Retiring President.

At the Annual meeting of the Girls Auxiliary of St. John's Church held last night, the officers elected for the ensuing year were:

Hon. Pres.—Mrs. W. E. Conway.
Pres.—Miss Ruby Quartermaine.
Vice Pres.—Mrs. Bain.
Sec.—Miss Dorothy Renwick.
Treas.—Miss Florence Corcoran.
Dorcas Sec.—Miss Victoria Bell.
Leaflet Sec.—Miss Tinworth.
E.C.D. Fund Sec.—Miss Park.
Sec. Treas.—of Literature—Miss E. Wood.

A PRESENTATION

A pleasing feature of the program was the presentation to Mrs. W. E. Conway, the retiring president of the Auxiliary, of a life membership to the Auxiliary, accompanied by beautifully engraved illuminated address the work of Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine.

ENCOURAGING REPORTS

In spite of the great and many difficulties the past year has presented the work of the Auxiliary has been kept practically up to standard and the reports presented were encouraging, all showing progress in every line of work undertaken by the girls. The meeting last evening was most successful nearly every member being present.

German War Gardens.

In the German army, as in the American, garden patches supplemented the food ration. German military gardens in the reclaimed salient, however, were so numerous and of such size that the impression the Americans got was that the German soldiers in this sector depended largely for food upon what they themselves produced and upon what was grown by the French natives forced to work in the fields for three sous an hour.

Our captures include several thousand acres of gardens, and, although it is rather late in the season, the pickings will be far from poor for many resourceful mess sergeants.—Stars and Stripes.

Reduction In Coal Prices

The City Council has decided to reduce the price of Coal, and until further notice, will sell as follows:

Buckwheat..... $9.00 per ton
Pea and Nut (mixed) $11 per ton
Mine Run and Pea ..$10 per ton

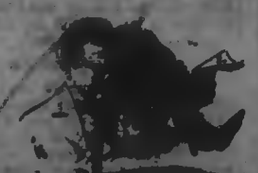
DO YOU READ?



Of course you do! And you read more than your forefathers did. Once scholars did most of the reading—now, all of us read. Reading puts a strain upon the eyes Nature never intended it to sustain. We must help Nature—assist the eyes to meet it to new conditions. Very few savages need glasses. Almost every civilized person needs them. If you neglect your eye welfare now, the time will come when your eyes will neglect your welfare. We can furnish you with glasses—before it is too late.

Campbell's Rink Defeated Best

In Consolation Games of the Scheduled Finals.

By the score of 17 to 11, W. D. Campbell defeated his business and curling partner in the runners-up consolation game in the scheduled series last night. Best opened a big lead of six shots in the first two ends, and it was anybody's game until the tenth when Campbell counted on seven consecutive ends and sewed it up. The rinks were as follows:

E. M. Freeman	M. Cruthers.
L. A. Potvin	E. L. Payne.
R. L. Dobbin	S. J. Graham.
W. D. Campbell, sk-17	R. P. Best-11

In the absence of Mr. Graham during the first part of the game Angus McIntosh vice-skipped for Best.

Grocers Won From Printers

Last night in the Business Men's Ten Pin League at the Water street Alleys, the Grocers took two from the Printers. For the Grocers, Webber was high with 526. Dawson second with 525. Gillespie also topped the 500 mark. For the Printers, Henderson 518, Cairns 510.

De Laval Won Two Games

Last night at Water Street Alleys in the Five Pin League the De Laval took two from the Packers. Matthews-Blackwell won the five by a grand score of 954 while the De Laval put up a record score in the B. League on their last game with 991. For the De Laval Barrett was high with 632 and high single of 202. Richea was next with 545. For the Packers Everett was high with 567.

Woodstock is Four to Good

Industrial City Sextette Win First of O.H.A. Junior Finals.

WOODSTOCK, March 11.—When University of Toronto Schools and Woodstock meet in the second game of the O.H.A. junior finals at Toronto on Saturday night the Industrial City "kids" will start the contest with a lead of four goals, secured here last night in the first game of the finals, which resulted in a score of 5 to 1.

Last night's game was played in sloppy going, which militated against the speed and combination for which the locals have become noted. The players of both teams found it difficult to control the puck because of the condition of the ice. The superior speed of the locals, even in the heavy going, enabled them to break up the attacks of the U.T.S. team by means of tenacious back-checking. The Toronto team, which has specialized in combination play, was given a distinct surprise by Coach Billy Breen's ponies, who displayed a systematic attack that foiled the Blue and White defense time and again.

Property Committee's Appropriations

The Property Committee of the City Council last night compiled its estimates for this year making a total of $4,255.85, as compared with $3,553.02 spent last year, the increase provided for being $702.83. The items were listed as follows:—
